REVOLUTIONARY WAR PENSION AND BOUNTY-LAND-WARRANT APPLICATION FILES

On the rolls of this microfilm publication are reproduced an estimated 80,000 pension and bounty-land-warrant application files based on the participation of American military, naval, and marine officers and enlisted men in the Revolutionary War. Most of the records in the files are dated between 1800 and 1900. The files are part of Record Group 15, Records of the Veterans Administration.

Pension and Bounty-Land-Warrant Legislation and Administration Relating to Participation in the Revolutionary War

Pension Legislation

For more than a century before the beginning of the Revolutionary War, British colonies in North America provided pensions for disabled soldiers and sailors. During and after the Revolutionary War, three principal types of pensions were provided by the U.S. Government for servicemen and their dependents. "Disability" or "invalid pensions" were awarded to servicemen for physical disabilities incurred in the line of duty; "service pensions," to veterans who served for specified periods of time; and "widows' pensions," to women whose husbands had been killed in the war or were veterans who had served for specified periods of time.

On August 26, 1776, the first pension legislation for the American colonies as a group was enacted. A resolution of the Continental Congress provided half pay for officers and enlisted men, including those on warships and armed vessels, who were disabled in the service of the United States and who were incapable of earning a living. The half pay was to continue for the duration of the disability.

On May 15, 1778, another resolution provided half pay for 7 years after the conclusion of the war to all military officers who remained in the Continental service to the end of the war. Enlisted men who continued to serve for the duration of the conflict were each to receive a gratuity of $80 after the war under the terms of the same enactment. The first national pension legislation for widows was a Continental Congress resolution of August 24, 1780, which offered the prospect of half pay for 7 years to widows and orphans of officers who met the requirements included in the terms of the resolution of May 15, 1778. On October 21, 1780, the Continental Congress resolution of May 15, 1778, was amended to provide half pay for life to officers after the war; but on March 22, 1783, the half-pay-for-life provision was changed to 5 years' full pay.

Pension legislation during the Revolutionary War was designed to encourage enlistment and acceptance of commissions and to prevent desertion and resignation. After the war, pensions became a form of reward for services rendered. Both during and after the Revolution, the States as well as the U.S. Government awarded pensions based on participation in the conflict. The records reproduced in this microfilm publication pertain only to pensions granted or paid pursuant to public and private acts of the U.S. Government. Public acts, under which the majority of such pensions were authorized, encompassed large classes of veterans or their dependents who met common eligibility requirements. Private acts concerned specific individuals whose special services or circumstances merited consideration, but who could not be awarded pensions under existing public acts.

On September 29, 1789 (1 Stat. 95), the First Congress of the United States passed an act which provided that invalid pensions previously paid by the States, pursuant to resolutions of the Continental Congress, should be continued and paid for 1 year by the newly established Federal Government. Subsequent legislation often extended the time limit. An act of Congress approved March 23, 1792 (1 Stat. 243), permitted veterans not already receiving invalid pensions under resolutions of the Continental Congress to apply for them directly to the Federal Government. On April 10, 1806 (2 Stat. 376), the scope of earlier invalid-pension laws pertaining to Revolutionary War servicemen was extended to make veterans of State troops and militia service eligible for Federal pensions. The act superseded all previous Revolutionary War invalid-pension legislation.

Before 1818 national pension laws concerning veterans of the Revolution (with the exception of the Continental Congress resolution of May 15, 1778, granting half pay to officers for service alone) specified disability or death of a serviceman as the basis for a pension award. Not until March 18, 1818 (3 Stat. 410), did the U.S. Congress grant pensions to Revolutionary War veterans for service from which no disabilities resulted. Officers and enlisted men in need of assistance were eligible under the terms of the 1818 act if they had served in a Continental military organization or in the U.S. naval service (including the Marines) for 9 months or until the end of the war. Pensions granted under this act were to continue for life.

The service-pension act of 1818 resulted in a great number of applications, many of which were approved. Congress had to appropriate greater sums than ever before for Revolutionary War pension payments. Financial difficulties and charges that applicants were feigning poverty to obtain benefits under the terms of the act caused Congress to enact remedial legislation on May 1, 1820 (3 Stat. 569). The new law required every pensioner receiving payments under the 1818 act, and every would-be pensioner, to submit a certified schedule of his estate and income to the Secretary of War. The Secretary was authorized to remove from the pension list the names of those persons who, in his opinion, were not in need of assistance. Within a few years the total of Revolutionary War service pensioners was reduced by several thousand. An act of Congress approved March 1, 1823 (3 Stat. 782), resulted in the restoration of pensions to many whose names had been removed under the terms of the 1820 legislation, but who subsequently proved their need for aid.

Congress passed another service-pension act on May 15, 1828 (4 Stat. 269), which granted full pay for life to surviving officers and enlisted men of the Revolutionary War who were eligible for benefits under the terms of the Continental Congress resolution of May 15, 1778, as amended.

The last and most liberal of the service-pension acts benefiting Revolutionary War veterans was passed on June 7, 1832 (4 Stat. 529), and extended to more persons the provisions of the law of May 15, 1828. The act provided that every officer or enlisted man who had served at least 2 years in the Continental Line or State troops, volunteers or militia, was eligible for a pension of full pay for life. Naval and marine officers and enlisted men were also included. Veterans who had served less than 2 years, but not less than 6 months, were eligible for pensions of less than full pay. Neither the act of 1832 nor the one of 1828 required applicants to demonstrate need. Under the act of 1832 money due from the last payment until the date of death of a pensioner could be collected by his widow or by his children.

The time limit for making claims under the Continental Congress resolution of August 24, 1780, which promised half-pay pensions to widows and orphans of some officers, expired in 1794. For many years thereafter, unless a private act of Congress was introduced on her behalf, a widow of a veteran was limited to receiving only that part of a pension that remained unpaid at the time of her husband's death. By an act of Congress approved July 4, 1836 (5 Stat. 128), some widows of Revolutionary War veterans were again permitted, as a class under public law, to apply for pensions. The act provided that the widow of any veteran who had performed service as specified in the pension act of June 7, 1832, was eligible to receive the pension that might have been allowed the veteran under the terms of that act, if the widow had married the veteran before the expiration of his last period of service. An act of July 7, 1838 (5 Stat. 303), granted 5-year pensions to widows whose marriages had taken place before January 1, 1794. These pensions were continued by acts of March 3, 1843 (5 Stat. 647); June 17, 1844 (5 Stat. 680); and February 2, 1848 (9 Stat. 210).

On July 29, 1848 (9 Stat. 265), Congress provided life pensions for widows of veterans who were married before January 2, 1800. All restrictions pertaining to the date of marriage were removed by acts of February 3, 1853 (10 Stat. 154), and February 28, 1855 (10 Stat. 616). On March 9, 1878 (20 Stat. 29), widows of Revolutionary War soldiers who had served for as few as 14 days, or were in any engagement, were declared eligible for life pensions.

Pension Administration

During the Revolution and in the period between the conclusion of the war and the establishment of the Federal Government, administration of the pension laws enacted by the Continental Congress was left largely to the individual States. The act of Congress approved September 29, 1789 (1 Stat. 95), which provided for the continuance of such pensions by the newly established Federal Government, stipulated only that they should be paid "under such regulations as the President . . . may direct." The act of Congress approved March 23, 1792 (1 Stat. 244), which permitted the addition of new names to the existing list of Revolutionary War pensioners, specified that the Secretary of War was to administer its provisions. For most of the period between 1793 and 1819, Congress reserved to itself the power of final decision with respect to the allowance of claims. Thus an act of February 28, 1793 (1 Stat. 325), required the Secretary of War to send lists of claims to the Congress for action. The service-pension act of March 18, 1818 (3 Stat. 410), gave the Secretary of War the authority to approve applications submitted under that law, and by an act of March 3, 1819 (3 Stat. 528), he was similarly empowered to place invalids on the pension list without prior Congressional approval.

Within the Office of the Secretary of War, pension matters were handled as early as 1810 by a unit called the Office of Military Bounty Lands and Pensions. Between 1810 and 1815 the unit was also referred to as the Section (or Branch) of Military Bounty Lands and Pensions. In 1815 the Branch was divided into two units: a Pension Bureau and a Land Warrant Bureau; after 1816 the Pension Bureau was generally referred to as the Pension Office. Not until March 2, 1833 (4 Stat. 622), did Congress formally provide for the appointment of a Commissioner of Pensions to execute pension laws under the general direction of the Secretary of War. When an act of Congress provided for the establishment of the Department of the Interior on March 3, 1849 (9 Stat. 395), the Pension Office was transferred to it. On July 21, 1930, by Executive Order 5398 the Bureau of Pensions (formerly called the Pension Office) was consolidated with other agencies also serving veterans, and the Veterans Administration, an independent executive agency, was established.

Two pension acts pertaining to Revolutionary War servicemen were not initially administered by the Pension Office. Responsibility for executing the provisions of the act of May 15, 1828 (4 Stat. 270), was vested in the Secretary of the Treasury until authority was transferred to the War Department on March 3, 1835 (4 Stat. 779). The Secretary of the Treasury was also named to administer the act of June 7, 1832 (4 Stat. 530), but a Congressional resolution on June 28, 1832 (4 Stat. 605), relieved him of that function and transferred it to the Secretary of War.

Application procedures followed by would-be pensioners varied according to the acts under which benefits were sought. Generally the process required an applicant to appear before a court of record in the State of his or her residence to describe under oath the service for which a pension was claimed. A widow of a veteran was required to provide information concerning the date and place of her marriage. The application statement or "declaration," as it was usually called, with such supporting papers as property schedules, marriage records, and affidavits of witnesses, was certified by the court and forwarded to the official, usually the Secretary of War or the Commissioner of Pensions, responsible for administering the specific act under which the claim was being made. An applicant was subsequently notified that his application had been approved, rejected, or put aside pending the submission of additional proof of eligibility. If an applicant was eligible, his name was placed on the pension list. Payments were usually made semiannually through pension agents of the Federal Government in the States. An applicant rejected under the terms of an earlier pension act often reapplied for benefits under later, more liberal laws.

Bounty-Land-Warrant Legislation

Bounty-land warrants—rights to free land in the public domain—were granted under acts of the Continental Congress and of the Federal Government to veterans and to heirs of veterans for Revolutionary War service of specified periods of time. The promise of bounty land during the Revolutionary War was another inducement to enter and remain in service; after the war, bounty-land grants became a form of reward. Most warrants were issued to servicemen or their heirs who met common eligibility standards established by public acts passed between 1776 and 1856. Some warrants were issued to individuals as a result of private acts passed by Congress. States also granted bounty land to Revolutionary War veterans, but the records reproduced in this microfilm publication pertain only to bounty-land warrants made available under acts of the U.S. Government.

On September 16, 1776, the Continental Congress passed a resolution that provided for granting land to officers and soldiers who engaged in military service and continued to serve until the end of the war. Representatives of officers and soldiers who might be slain by the enemy were also entitled to land. The resolution specified that each noncommissioned officer and soldier should be entitled to 100 acres, an ensign to 150 acres, each lieutenant to 200 acres, and other officers to proportionate amounts of land up to 500 acres for a colonel. By a resolution of August 12, 1780, the provision was extended to include generals, and the grant was to be 850 acres for a brigadier general and 1,100 acres for a major general. The resolution of September 16, 1776, was the basic law under which Revolutionary War veterans were granted bounty-land warrants by the Federal Government until 1855, although numerous acts were passed in the interval providing claimants with additional time in which to apply for or to locate warrants.

On March 3, 1855 (10 Stat. 701), the U.S. Congress went beyond merely satisfying the former pledge of the Continental Congress and authorized the issuance of bounty-land warrants for 160 acres to soldiers, irrespective of rank, who had served for as few as 14 days in the Revolution or had taken part in any battle. Widows and minor children of such veterans were also eligible. An individual who had received a warrant under previous bounty-land legislation was limited by the act to receiving a second warrant for only such additional acreage as would total 160 acres. An act of May 14, 1856 (11 Stat. 8), extended the benefits of the 1855 act to include Revolutionary War naval and marine officers, enlisted men, and their widows and minor children.

Bounty-Land-Warrant Administration

On July 9, 1788, a supplement to a Continental Congress land ordinance of May 20, 1785, authorized the Secretary at War to issue bounty-land warrants to eligible veterans of the Revolutionary War or to their assigns or legal representatives. When the First U.S. Congress authorized the establishment of a Department of War in the newly formed Federal Government on August 7, 1789 (1 Stat. 50), the Secretary of War was given the responsibility of issuing bounty-land warrants. By 1810 the Office of Military Bounty Lands and Pensions had been formed within the Office of the Secretary of War to examine claims and to issue warrants. In 1815 the pension and bounty-land duties of the War Department were assigned to separate bureaus, and bounty-land matters were handled thereafter by an administrative unit known successively as the Land Warrant Bureau, the Section of Bounty Lands, and the Bounty Land Office. On November 1, 1841, the Secretary of War placed the bounty-land functions under the direction of the Commissioner of Pensions. This arrangement was formally authorized by an act of Congress approved January 20, 1843 (5 Stat. 597). The laws relating to the granting of bounty-land warrants were administered by the Department of the Interior after the Pension Office was transferred to that Department in 1849.

Depending upon the period in which a claim was made, claimants for bounty-land warrants based on Revolutionary War service sent applications for adjudication to either the Secretary of War, the Commissioner of Pensions, or the Secretary of the Interior. Affidavits of witnesses testifying to service performed, marriage records, and other forms of evidence, were also forwarded by some applicants. Property schedules were unnecessary as indigency was not a requirement for the award of a Revolutionary War bounty-land warrant. A claimant whose application was approved was issued a warrant for a specified number of acres. He could then "locate" his warrant; that is, he could select the portion of the public domain that he wished to have in exchange for his warrant. The Treasury Department, and after 1849 the Interior Department, accepted the warrants and issued patents to the land. Many recipients of Revolutionary War bounty-land warrants did not choose to locate the warrants and to settle on the public domain; instead, they remained in their old homes and sold the warrants.

Pension and Bounty-Land-Warrant Application Files

Types of Files

The term "files," as used in this microfilm publication, denotes 10" x 14" envelopes containing applications or other records pertaining to claims for pensions or bounty-land warrants; 10" x 14" cards summarizing information about claimants for whom no original application papers exist; and 10" x 14" cards that serve as cross-references to envelopes and summary cards. A file can therefore be a single card or it can be an envelope containing from 1 to 200 or more pages of records. The typical file is an envelope containing about 30 pages of records, consisting generally of the application or applications of one or more claimants, other documents submitted as evidence of identity and service, and papers showing actions taken by the Government concerning the claim or claims. Each file pertains to one or more claims by one or more persons for pensions or bounty-land warrants based on the service of a single person, usually in the Revolution, although some files relate to claims based on post-Revolutionary War service.

Before 1910 Revolutionary War pension application papers were folded and placed in numbered paper jackets arranged in three series. One series was reserved for approved applications of "survivors," as Revolutionary War veterans were called. The second series held approved applications of widows, and the third contained rejected applications of both survivors and widows. The series were arranged by file numbers; therefore, in order to withdraw a specific pension claim from a series, index books arranged by the first two letters of the surname of a claimant had to be laboriously examined for the pertinent file number. To eliminate the necessity of using the books and to protect the records from damage caused by frequent unfolding and refolding, the Bureau of Pensions flattened and refiled Revolutionary War pension application papers in a single series of linen-lined envelopes arranged alphabetically by surname of veteran. The project was completed in 1912. As part of the work, pension application papers of a survivor and a widow were consolidated in a single envelope if the claims seemed to be based on the service of the same person. Approved Revolutionary War bounty-land-warrant application papers were also flattened and consolidated with, or interfiled among, pension application papers at this time; previously, they had been maintained apart from the pension claims. The records reproduced in this microfilm publication are from the one large series of Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant application files that resulted from the flat-filing project.

Survivors' pension application files in the series have headings normally consisting of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served; his name; and the letter "S" for survivor, followed by a file number. A file of this type ordinarily contains one or more post-1800 approved applications of a veteran for an invalid or service pension. The file may also contain affidavits by other veterans or persons testifying to the service or disability claimed; documentary evidence of service submitted by the applicant, such as a commission or a discharge certificate; printed briefs summarizing the service claimed; property schedules; paper jackets formerly used to hold application papers before the flat-filing project of 1910-12; certified copies of the veteran's service record provided by State officials; powers of attorney; letters from attorneys, Congressmen, and other interested persons relating to the progress of the claim; letters from genealogists and other researchers seeking information available in pension papers; and copies of replies from the Pension Office, the Bureau of Pensions, or the Veterans Administration concerning such inquiries. A fire in the War Department on November 8, 1800, apparently destroyed all Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant applications and related papers submitted before that date. Applications and related records submitted after 1800 are occasionally missing from survivors' and other types of files because papers were sometimes returned to applicants by the Pension Office.

Widows' pension application files have headings usually consisting of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served; his name; his widow's name; and the letter "W" for widow, followed by a file number. Usually only a widow's given name appears on an envelope, but if she remarried, her second husband's surname is also included, with the notation "Former Widow." A widow's pension application file may contain records normally found in a survivor's file, especially if the widow's file is a consolidation of her papers and those of the pensioned veteran who had been her husband. Whether a widow's file represents such a consolidation or relates only to pension claims made by her, it will generally contain one or more approved post-1800 applications for a pension made by the widow. Incorporated in or attached to some widows' applications is a copy of a marriage record made by a town clerk, a clergyman, or a justice of the peace. Sometimes family-record pages from Bibles and other books were also submitted by a widow as proof of marriage.

Rejected pension application files have headings usually consisting of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served; his name; the name of his widow if the file relates to an application or applications submitted by her; and the letter "R" for rejected, followed by a file number. Each of these files normally contains one or more post-1800 rejected pension applications that were submitted by a veteran, his widow, or an heir, and that were based on the Revolutionary War service of the former serviceman. The "R" symbol on the face of the envelope usually indicates that the latest application in the file was rejected. There may be one or more approved pension applications in the file, however, if they were approved before the last application was rejected.

Pre-1800 disability-pension application files are envelopes that have headings generally consisting of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, his name, and the file symbol "Dis. No Papers." The symbol indicates that a veteran's original disability-pension application and related papers are not extant, presumably as a result of the War Department fire of November 1800. In place of the missing papers, most of the files contain one or more small cards that give information about an invalid pensioner or veteran (former rank, unit, enlistment date, nature of disability, residence, and amount of pension). The data were transcribed by the Bureau of Pensions from the Congressional publication American State Papers, Class 9, Claims (Washington, 1834). The volume contains information from War Department pension reports based on original application papers and submitted to Congress between 1792 and 1795. Some invalid-pension application papers submitted after 1800 were apparently destroyed in another War Department fire in August 1814. For some of these applications, pertinent entries in the 1835 Report From the Secretary of War . . . in Relation to the Pension Establishment of the United States (23d Cong., 1st sess., S. Doc. 514) were copied and placed in files that were also labeled "Dis. No Papers." Copying was done by the Veterans Administration, but it seems this was done only in response to and in the form of replies to inquiries concerning specific veterans.

Bounty-land-warrant application files for approved applications submitted after November 8, 1800, are envelopes that have headings consisting of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, his name, his widow's name if she applied for the warrant, and the symbol "B. L. Wt." for bounty-land warrant. This symbol is followed by two or three numbers, separated by hyphens, which represent the warrant number, the number of acres granted, and the year 1855 (usually written "55") in the case of warrants issued pursuant to the bounty-land act of that year. Records in the files may include applications by veterans, their widows, or heirs; family-record pages from Bibles; copies of marriage records; copies of State records showing the service of a veteran; affidavits of other persons testifying to the length or kind of service claimed; annotated paper jackets used to hold bounty-land-warrant papers before they were flat-filed, which show action taken on claims; commissions, discharges, and other original service papers; and powers of attorney.

Bounty-land-warrant files for approved officers' applications submitted before the War Department fire of November 1800 are mainly 10" x 14" cards that show the name of the State or organization for which an officer served, his name, the symbol "B. L. Wt." followed by the warrant number and the number of acres granted, the officer's rank, the issue date of the warrant, the notation "No Papers," and sometimes the name of a person other than the officer to whom the warrant was delivered or assigned. The original application papers are presumed to have been destroyed in the fire of 1800. About 1917 the cards were compiled by the Bureau of Pensions from entries in a surviving register listing bounty-land warrants issued to officers before November 8, 1800. After the cards were compiled it seems that upon the receipt of an inquiry pertaining to one of the officers, the card relating to that officer, the letter of inquiry, and a copy of the reply were placed in an envelope bearing the same heading as the card. As a result, some bounty-land-warrant application files for approved officers' applications submitted before November 8, 1800, are envelopes. Sometimes the card was discarded after the information it contained was added to the envelope file.

Bounty-land-warrant files for approved applications of enlisted men submitted before the War Department fire of 1800 are 10" x 14" cards headed "BOUNTY LAND WARRANT RECORD CARD." Each card usually gives the name of the soldier, his rank, and the name of the State or organization for which he served; the warrant number; the number of acres granted; the issue date of the warrant; and sometimes the name of a person other than the soldier to whom the warrant was delivered or assigned. The original application papers were apparently destroyed in 1800. The cards were compiled by the National Archives from entries in three registers of bounty-land warrants issued to enlisted men before November 8, 1800. Sometimes a card was placed in an envelope containing pension application papers based on the service of the same soldier. In such a case the warrant number on the card was added to the heading on the envelope.

Bounty-land-warrant applications submitted pursuant to the act of March 3, 1855, and approved were interfiled among or consolidated with pension application papers as part of the Bureau of Pension's flat-filing project of 1910-12. The files in which these approved applications may usually be found have been described in the paragraph concerning approved bounty-land-warrant applications submitted after November 8, 1800. Most bounty-land-warrant applications submitted in accordance with the act of 1855 and rejected are in manila envelopes, the headings of which generally consist of the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, his name, the symbol "B. L. Reg." (or "Rej.") for bounty-land register, the register entry number assigned to the application, and the year 1855 (sometimes written "55"). The face of each envelope also has a section containing military service information. The rejected applications are similar in content to those that were approved, but paper jackets accompanying rejected applications do not show warrant numbers. Some of the rejected bounty-land-warrant applications were placed in envelopes containing pension application papers based on service of the same veteran.

Consolidated files of pension and bounty-land-warrant applications and related papers are numerous, and the contents vary. Almost any combination of two or more pension and bounty-land-warrant files already described may have been consolidated. Frequently, a widow's approved pension application papers, which normally comprise a "W" file, are consolidated with approved bounty-land-warrant application papers relating to a claim made by her under the act of 1855. The resultant consolidated file bears a heading that includes both "W" and "B. L. Wt." symbols and numbers. Approved pension applications of veterans were consolidated with approved bounty-land-warrant applications of veterans or their heirs to form files with headings consisting of "S" and "B. L. Wt." symbols and numbers. Rejected pension application files may also contain approved or rejected bounty-land-warrant application papers.

"Former Widow" cross-reference cards are another type of file unit reproduced in this microfilm publication. The cards normally show the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, his name, the surname his former widow acquired upon remarriage, the symbol and number of the file (usually a "W" file) in which pension or bounty-land-warrant application papers or information can be found, and the notation "Former Widow." These cross-reference cards are arranged by the surname of the former widow's latest husband, not by the surname of the veteran for whose service a pension or bounty-land warrant was claimed.

Cross-reference cards also exist for variant spellings of a veteran's name. A card generally gives the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, the spelling of his name by which that card is arranged, the spelling by which the file containing papers or information relating to his service is arranged, and the symbol and number of the latter file.

There are files with headings different from those already described whose contents reflect such differences. Some files, for instance, are labeled "Not Rev." or "Not Rev. War" and contain pension or bounty-land-warrant application papers based on post-Revolutionary War service. The service period is usually shown on the face of the file. A number of pension files are overprinted with the statement "This Envelope Includes FINAL PAYMENT VOUCHER Received from GAO." Such vouchers, which were removed from a separate series of General Accounting Office records, sometimes give the date and place of death of a pensioner, and names of heirs.

Some pension application files reproduced in this microcopy have headings that include instructions to "See N.A. Acc. No. 874 " followed by a number between 050000 and 050201, the name of the veteran, and the notation "Half Pay" or "Not Half Pay." These instructions refer to a separate series of pension application files that are also in Record Group 15. The records in these files relate mainly to claims made by heirs under an act of Congress approved July 5, 1832 (4 Stat. 563), which provided half-pay pensions for Virginia veterans of the Revolutionary War, and to claims made by heirs for arrears due veterans of Virginia and other States under other pension acts. The files in this separate series were transferred from the Adjutant General's Office of the War Department to the National Archives in 1941 and are not reproduced in this microfilm publication. Abstracts of their contents are in Gaius Marcus Brumbaugh, Revolutionary War Records, Volume I: Virginia (Washington, 1936).

A few other pension application files in this microcopy have headings that include instructions to "See N.A. Acc. No. 837–Virginia State Navy," followed by the name of the veteran and the notation "YS File Va. Half Pay." The instructions refer to another small series of Revolutionary War pension application files in the same record group. The contents of these additional files relate mainly to half-pay pension claims of heirs of Virginia State Navy officers under the act of July 5, 1832. The "YS" files, so designated by the Department of the Navy in accordance with a Navy classification scheme, were sent to the National Archives in 1941 by the Office of Naval Records and Library. The files have not been microfilmed or abstracted. All files for Revolutionary War claimants in both the "YS" and the Adjutant General's Office series are referred to in the headings of related files reproduced in this microfilm publication.

Records Withdrawn From the Files

Between 1894 and 1913 several types of records were withdrawn from Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant application files and sent by the Bureau of Pensions to other Departments or Agencies of the Federal Government. The records were generally documents of historical value dated 1775-83. Between September 6, 1894, and January 16, 1913, muster rolls, payrolls, returns, orders, and miscellaneous personnel lists and papers were sent to the War Department pursuant to acts of Congress approved July 27, 1892 (27 Stat. 275), and August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 403). On March 22, 1907, some lists of names of seamen taken from the files were sent to the Navy Department in accordance with an act of June 29, 1906 (34 Stat. 579). Diaries, journals, orderly books, account books, and other bound records removed from files were transferred to the Library of Congress on February 9, 1909, under the terms of an act of February 25, 1903 (32 Stat. 865). There are cross-reference slips in the files to describe the records that were transferred and to indicate the Government Department or Agency to which they were sent.

Informational Value of Records in the Files

The records contain both historical and genealogical information. Historical information pertaining to the organization of military units, movement of troops, details of battles and campaigns, and activities of individuals may be obtained from application statements of veterans; from affidavits of witnesses; and from the muster roll, diary, order, or orderly book that was occasionally submitted as proof of service and was not sent by the Bureau of Pensions to another Government Department or Agency. Naval and privateer operations are documented by applications, affidavits, and orders in some files based on service at sea. A few files contain letters written to or by soldiers and sailors during the Revolutionary War, which give firsthand accounts of military, naval, and civil events and conditions. Furloughs, passes, pay receipts, enlistment papers, discharges, commissions, warrants, and other original records of the period 1775-83 are also in some of the files. (See appendix, p. 14.)

Genealogical information is usually available in a file containing original application papers. A veteran's pension application normally gives—in addition to his former rank, unit, and period of service—his age or date of birth, his residence, and sometimes his birthplace. Property schedules often give names and ages of a veteran's wife and children. The application of a widow seeking a pension or a bounty-land warrant may give her age, residence, maiden name, date and place of her marriage, and date and place of death of her husband. A copy of a marriage record made by a town clerk, a clergyman, or a justice of the peace often accompanied the widow's pension application. Application papers submitted by children and other heirs or dependents seeking pensions or bounty-land warrants generally contain information about their ages and residences. Family-record pages from Bibles and other books submitted by pension and bounty-land-warrant applicants give the dates of birth, marriage, and death of family members. In a few pension files are final payment vouchers that sometimes contain information about the date and place of a pensioner's death and names of heirs.

Arrangement and Selection of Files and Records

Each file that is a single 10" x 14" summary or cross-reference card and all envelope files in the series of Revolutionary War Pension and Bounty-Land-Warrant Application Files have been reproduced in this microfilm publication. The files, with the exception of "Former Widow" cross-reference cards, are arranged in alphabetical order by the surname of the veteran. When two or more veterans have the same surname and given name, the further arrangement of the files based on their service is generally alphabetical by the name of the State or organization for which a veteran served, or by the word "Continental," "Navy," or some other service designation placed in the heading of some files above or before the name of a State. "Former Widow" cross-reference cards are arranged by the surname that the former widow acquired upon remarriage.

Within files, the records are unarranged. However, in each envelope file containing more than 10 pages of records, the more significant genealogical documents were filmed first, preceded by a target headed "SELECTED RECORDS." The documents may include pension applications, jackets showing the act under which pension payments were made, bounty-land-warrant applications, jackets showing the warrant numbers of warrants granted, property schedules, family-record pages from Bibles or other books, copies of marriage records, and final payment vouchers. All remaining documents in that file were filmed after a target headed "NONSELECTED RECORDS." No distinction was made between selected and nonselected records in filming the envelope files that contained 10 or fewer pages of records; these files can be recognized by a star next to the veteran's surname in the heading.

The "SELECTED RECORDS" in files containing more than 10 pages of records, except those portions of them having no apparent genealogical value (such as attestations or endorsements), have also been reproduced in another microfilm publication, Selected Records From Revolutionary War Pension and Bounty-Land-Warrant Application Files (Microcopy 805). Records in files containing 10 or fewer pages of records were reproduced in Microcopy 805 in their entirety, as were all files that consist of a single 10" x 14" summary or cross-reference card. Upon request and for a fee, the National Archives can provide reproductions of the genealogical records filmed in whole or in part in Microcopy 805 relating to a specific veteran or other claimant.

Related Records and Sources of Information

Also in Record Group 15 are letterbooks, registers, and other administrative records of the Pension Office and its successors relating to Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant applications. Bounty-land warrants are in Record Group 49, Records of the Bureau of Land Management. Pension payment books and final payment vouchers are in Record Group 217, Records of the United States General Accounting Office. Correspondence of the Secretary of War and of the Secretary of the Interior concerning their supervision of pension and bounty-land-warrant matters is in Record Group 107, Records of the Office of the Secretary of War, and in Record Group 48, Records of the Office of the Secretary of the Interior.

Military service records for Revolutionary War soldiers are in Record Group 93, War Department Collection of Revolutionary War Records. Naval and marine personnel records are in Record Group 45, Naval Records Collection of the Office of Naval Records and Library, and Record Group 127, Records of the United States Marine Corps. For additional records of Revolutionary War service and for records of applications made to individual States for pensions or bounty land, researchers should communicate with State archival agencies.

The names of most of the servicemen for whom there are pension or bounty-land-warrant application files reproduced in this microfilm publication are listed in Max E. Hoyt, et al., Index of Revolutionary War Pension Applications (Washington, 1966). Information of a general historical nature concerning pension and bounty-land-warrant legislation and administration is available in Gustavus A. Weber, The Bureau of Pensions (Baltimore, 1923); Gustavus A. Weber and Laurence F. Schmeckebier, The Veterans' Administration, Its History, Activities and Organization (Washington, 1934); William H. Glasson, History of Military Pension Legislation in the United States (New York, 1900), and Federal Military Pensions in the United States (New York, 1918); and Payson J. Treat, The National Land System, 1785-1820 (New York, 1910). Many of the laws relating to pensions and bounty-land warrants granted for Revolutionary War service, and regulations established by the Secretaries of War, the Treasury, and the Interior for administering them, are compiled in Robert Mayo and Ferdinand Moulton, Army and Navy Pension Laws, and Bounty Land Laws of the United States . . . From 1776 to 1852 (Washington, 1852).

APPENDIX

DESCRIPTIVE LIST OF JOURNALS, DIARIES, AND OTHER CONTEMPORARY RECORD BOOKS IN THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR PENSION AND BOUNTY-LAND-WARRANT APPLICATION FILES

The Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant application files contain many 18th-century documents, including commissions, discharges, deeds, wills, receipts, diaries, journals, military orders, muster rolls, newspaper clippings, letters, and marriage certificates. These contemporary documents are too numerous for the examination and description of all of them; however, the National Archives has examined the approximately 70 journals, diaries, and account books in the records and compiled the detailed descriptive list that follows these introductory remarks.

This list contains the number of pages, date span, file citation, and a brief description of the contents of approximately all journal- or diary-type accounts in the files that are more than one page long. The diversity of the records made it necessary to use several types of descriptive titles. Books listed as "journals" generally deal primarily with military affairs, "diaries" are books concerned mostly with personal civilian matters, "family record books" consist mainly of information about a particular family, "receipt" or "account" books contain financial records, a "statement of service" is an account consisting primarily of a summary of the military service of one veteran, and an "orderly book" contains copies of military orders. There is even one song book in the records, containing the lyrics of contemporary songs. Most of the record books described in the list were written by veterans, although there are a few written by the fathers, wives, daughters, or sons of veterans. The time span covered stretches from 1685 to 1853, although most of the books deal with the period from 1774 to 1781. The descriptions of the books are arranged by State and thereunder alphabetically by the name of the author.

The Revolutionary War pension and bounty-land-warrant application files contain primarily the records of enlisted men rather than officers. Most of the contemporary accounts in this list are noteworthy not so much for the literary value of the writing as for the rare insight they provide into the rank-and-file soldier's perspective on military service in the 18th century.

This list was compiled and written by Marie B. Allen.

CONNECTICUT

1. JOURNAL AND ACCOUNT BOOK OF THOMAS BRADFORD (file of Thomas Bradford, W17351), 15 p., Feb. 1776-Apr. 1786 (roll 315, frames 585-594).

The first eight pages of this book contain Bradford's journal for the period February 1776 to January 1777, when he served with the 20th Continental Regiment under Col. John Durkee in the vicinity of New York City and Philadelphia. Bradford lists the towns and some of the taverns along his march to New York and Trenton and describes briefly his participation in the Battle of Trenton. The final seven pages of this small volume, dated from December 1782 to November 1785, contain receipts for food and clothing and accounts with several persons.

2. JOURNAL AND ACCOUNT BOOK OF AARON HART (file of Aaron Hart, W19707), 8 p., June 9-Nov. 15, 1783 (roll 1207, frames 12-16).

The brief entries in this journal list Hart's daily duties, such as "on fatigue" or "on Brigade Guard," with Col. John Durkee's Regiment. Most of the entries are dated between June 9 and Oct. 3, 1783, in the vicinity of Fort Montgomery and New York City; several receipts for clothing are dated October 15 and November 15, 1783.

3. FAMILY RECORD BOOK OF JANE JACKSON (file of Matthew Jackson, W10142), 21 p., 1763-1853 (roll 1400, frames 534-544).

This small book contains moralistic essays on such subjects as truthfulness and liberty, as well as birth and death dates for members of the Matthew Jackson family. Most of the information in the book was apparently copied from a deteriorating family Bible by Lucinda Jackson in about 1850. The book was submitted by Matthew Jackson's widow, Jane, as proof of her marriage and the date of her husband's death. Matthew Jackson served as a fifer in Massachusetts and Connecticut forces, but there is no information on his military service in the family record book.

4-5. JOURNALS OF SIMEON LYMAN (file of Simeon Lyman, W20548).

The entries in the first journal describe Lyman's service in Col. Philip B. Bradley's Regiment in the New York City and New Jersey areas. Lyman reports seeing "New York in flames" during the Battle of Long Island from his vantage point on Paulus Hook and describes the surrender of Fort Washington and the engagement with the Hessians at Trenton, N.J. The journal also contains several of Lyman's company's accounts with taverns in the area.

The second, smaller, journal describes Lyman's service during a brief tour of duty apparently with a Connecticut Militia company. Lyman describes the march to Danbury, Conn., and then to a camp on the Hudson River at Peekskill, N.Y.; the British capture of Fort Montgomery; and daily camp activities.

6. ACCOUNT BOOK OF EPHRAIM LYON (file of Ephraim Lyon, W17366), 123 p., Apr. 21, 1775-May 2, 1782 (roll 1607, frames 459-529).

A native of Canterbury, Conn., Lyon served as an adjutant first for Maj. Obediah Johnson's Company (Connecticut State Troops) and then for Capt. Sherebiah Butts' Company (Colonel Douglas' Regiment, Militia, and Col. Obediah Johnson's Regiment) in the period from May 8, 1775, to March 31, 1778. These companies served at Cambridge, Mass., and in Rhode Island. The account book contains lists of names, ammunition returns, duty lists, and financial records relating to the soldiers in these companies, as well as Lyon's personal accounts and records relating to his duties as a collector of the school tax in Canterbury.

7. ACCOUNT AND FAMILY RECORD BOOK OF JOHN MCCALL (file of John McCall, R6599), 47 p., 1787-1821 (roll 1663, frame 1917-1941).

This small book contains McCall's personal accounts with various persons for such items as corn, butter, wool, wood, and yarn, as well as the names and birth dates of his children. McCall resided in Bozrak and Lebanon, Conn.

8. JOURNAL OF JAMES MORRIS (file of James Morris, W2035), 20 p., 1776-82 (roll 1771, frames 1033-1052).

This journal is a copy of one written by James Morris soon after the Revolutionary War in which he described his service during the period 1776-82. Morris served as an ensign, lieutenant, and then captain in regiments commanded by Alexander Scammel, Philip Bradley, and Heman Swift. He describes his participation in battles at Long Island, White Plains, Germantown, and Yorktown, and his experiences as a prisoner of war for over 3 years in Philadelphia and Flatbush, Long Island. Morris was a native of Litchfield, Conn., and recruited many members of his company from that town.

9. ACCOUNT BOOK OF THOMAS PIERPOINT (file of Thomas Pierpoint, S3244), 6 p., Dec. 2, 1777-May 8, 1782 (roll 1935, frames 172-177).

The six or seven accounts in this small book are dated mostly in 1777 or 1778 and pertain apparently to Pierpoint's occupation as a blacksmith. A few brief entries relate to his enlistment in a company at New Windsor, N.Y., in 1778 and his march to Providence, R.I. (undated).

10. ACCOUNT BOOK OF WILLIAM STEEVENS (file of William Steevens, S11470), 11 p., Jan. 1777-Dec. 1793 (roll 2279, frames 637-643).

The first part of this account book contains records relating to Steevens' military service: a statement that he voluntarily enlisted in Col. William Douglas' 6th Connecticut Battalion on January 25, 1777; an account of clothing drawn by Steevens in 1779; and an account of arms and accoutrements delivered to him. The last few pages contain records of purchases and disbursements, primarily in the year 1788. There is one entry dated December 1793.

11. ORDERLY BOOK OF LEMUEL STORRS (file of Lemuel Storrs, W25136), 56 p., Aug. 2-18, 1776 (roll 2306, frames 1041-1070).

Lemuel Storrs served as an orderly sergeant in 1776 in Capt. John Isham's Connecticut Milita company. It was his duty to keep a record of the general orders issued each day, and accordingly this small book contains copies of orders issued by General Washington at New York concerning such subjects as public worship, profanity, courts-martial, arrangement of regiments, rescue of soldiers from Fort Washington, newly appointed major generals, and the proper completion of muster rolls. The soldier's son, William L. Storrs, was in later years a U.S. Congressman from Connecticut and chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court.

12. DIARY OF JONATHAN TODD (file of Jonathan Todd, W2197), 22 p., 1756-1819 (roll 2395, frames 425-436).

Jonathan Todd began this autobiographical account in 1779 and added to it at frequent intervals until his death in 1819. He describes his early life and education and notes that he served as a surgeon and surgeon's mate in the Connecticut Militia and in Col. Heman Swift's Regiment, Col. Hezekiah Wyllys' Regiment, and on the privateer Sampson. There is very little description of his military service, other than a listing of the facts mentioned above; the diary primarily contains information about Todd's personal fortunes and the births and deaths in his family. Also contained in Todd's pension file, however, are several lengthy letters written by him during the Revolutionary War that describe the winter encampment at Valley Forge and the Battle of Germantown.

13. JOURNAL OF ROBERT TREAT (file of Robert Treat, R10691), 22 p., Aug. 19-Oct. 1, 1777 (roll 2411, frames 984-996).

Because he was the clerk of Capt. Isaac Treat's Company, Robert Treat's journal contains not only an account of his march to Albany, N.Y., and his involvement in the battles at Saratoga in September 1777, but also several company records, a weekly return of the company dated at Stillwater, N.Y., September 24, 1777, and a company muster roll. Treat describes problems with illness and desertion and complains about the accommodations for soldiers in Stillwater, where "the best of our Loging was in the Continettle yard round a hay Stak nothing to cover us but the Skeys."

MASSACHUSETTS

14. ORDERLY BOOK OF ELIJAH BAKER (file of Elijah Baker, S12111), 3 p., Oct. 31, 1776 (roll 115, frames 659-661).

In the absence of Brig. Gen. Samuel Parsons' regular orderly sergeant, Elijah Baker was sometimes required to take over the sergeant's daily duty of copying general orders. The two pages of orders that make up this small book were copied by Baker on one such occasion. Included are both Brigadier General Parsons' orders and regimental orders, dated at Rye and Sawpits (near White Plains, N.Y.), concerning the proper procedure for completing weekly returns of men and ammunition, times for parading, and a prohibition of plundering.

15. JOURNAL OF PHINEHAS BEMIS (file of Phinehas Bemis, W14278), 21 p., Sept. 10-Nov. 25, 1775 (roll 210, frames 664-675).

Phinehas Bemis served from April to December 1775 with Capt. Abner Cranston's Company in the vicinity of Boston. This small journal describes everyday camp activities in September and November of that year, including references to mutinies, whippings, desertions, and privateers.

17. JOURNAL OF REUBEN CHILDS (file of Reuben Childs, S29068), 1 p., Dec. 25, 1776-Jan. 10, 1777 (roll 536, frame 253).

This one-page journal in the form of a chart is a copy by Reuben Childs of an original journal that he kept on a march from Deerfield, Mass., to Ticonderoga with a Massachusetts Militia company. The chart lists the towns and taverns along the march, the number of miles traveled each day, and such incidental observations as "tories committed to gaol."

18. JOURNAL OF ISAIAH EATON (file of Isaiah Eaton, S18388), 12 p., Mar. 24-June 17, 1776 (roll 891, frames 27-32).

Isaiah Eaton's journal describes his long trip by land and by water from Cambridge, Mass., to New York City, Albany, Ft. Edward, Ticonderoga, Ft. Chambly, and finally St. John's, Canada. Eaton lists the towns and taverns where he lodged on the trip, the names of the ships on which he traveled, the names of the men of his company who were on the journey, and describes briefly some of the difficulties with inadequate lodging and smallpox. Eaton served in a company of artificers under Capt. William Bacon, but the march to Canada was made by only a small detachment of that company, apparently under the command of Lt. Ezra Eaton.

19. JOURNAL OF WILLIAM FARNSWORTH (file of William Farnsworth, W24180), 7 p., Dec. 24, 1776-Jan. 12, 1777 (roll 955, frames 761-766).

William Farnsworth lived in Waldoboro, Maine, at the time of the Revolutionary War. Because Maine was at this time still governed by Massachusetts, he joined the Massachusetts Militia during the war although most of his service took place in Maine. This small journal describes Farnsworth's trip home from Machias, Maine, listing the number of miles he traveled each day, his place of lodging at night, and mode of travel.

20. JOURNAL OF HEZEKIAH FAY (file of Hezekiah Fay, W21101), 23 p., Aug. 11-Oct. 11, 1780 (roll 960, frames 557-580)

Hezekiah Fay's journal consists of an 18-page description of his military service in the vicinity of New York City and West Point from August 11 to October 11, 1780; four pages of tabular returns of Capt. Timothy Boutelle's Company, in the vicinity of New York City and West Point from August 11 to October 11, 1780; four pages of tabular returns of Capt. Timothy Boutelle's Company, in Col. Eleazer Weld's Detachment; and one page of poetry. In the descriptive part of the journal, Fay relates the capture of John André and the discovery of the treason of Benedict Arnold and describes marches, casualties, courts-martial, and scarcity of food. The section of tabular reports contains lists of the officers in the company and detachment; company accounts for beef and flour; weekly and daily returns of the number of men present, absent, sick, and deserted; and a list of scouts. The one page of poetry consists of a poem deriding tradesmen and a romantic poem.

21. JOURNAL OF THOMAS GRATON (file of Thomas Graton, W14824), 34 p., Aug. 1, 1767-Sept. 29, 1790 (roll 1110, frames 302-325).

Writing during and after the Revolutionary War, Graton began this autobiographical account with his birth and early years in Spencer and Leichester, Mass., then described his Revolutionary War service at such places as Ticonderoga, 1776; Bennington, Vt., 1777; Rhode Island, 1778; West Point, 1780; and Yorktown, 1781. The last portions of the journal contain information on Graton's business affairs (as a hoop wright), and his visits to nearby towns, several pages of comments on the weather for the period 1785-87, a listing of his tools (saw, hammer, files, etc.), and two pages entitled "some short account of the cost of Building Mr. Prouty's house" enumerating costs of materials and labor.

22. JOURNAL OF ASA HAMILTON (file of William Hamilton, W14868), 19 p., July 18, 1776-Apr. 1, 1795 (roll 1172, frames 1029-1041).

Three Hamilton brothers from Brookfield, Mass., William, Joseph, and Asa, served during the Revolutionary War in Capt. John Woolcot's Company of Col. Jonathan Holman's Regiment. All three made entries in this journal, although most of it appears to be in the handwriting of Asa Hamilton. The journal describes the service of the brothers in the vicinity of New York City from July 18 to November 24, 1776. Included are descriptions of the battles of Harlem Heights and White Plains, lists of casualties in Colonel Holman's Regiment during those battles, and a list of the 94 men in Capt. John Woolcot's Company. The journal also contains several receipts and notes relating to civilian matters that are dated as late as 1795.

23. FAMILY RECORD BOOK OF JONATHAN HOUGHTON (file of Rufus Houghton, R5256), 68 p., 1685-1735 (roll 1335, frames 779-812).

Although there are a few receipts in this small book, most of the entries merely list the births, deaths, and marriages in the family of Jonathan and Thankfull Houghton. Their son, Rufus, served in the Revolutionary War, and his family record book was submitted in support of his wife's pension claim.

24. JOURNAL OF ANDREW KETTELL (file of Andrew Kettell, W13568), 68 p., Apr. 3, 1780-May 20, 1781 (roll 1477, frames 1029-1062).

Andrew Kettell served in Capt. Thomas Hunt's Company of Col. Henry Jackson's 16th Continental Regiment, mostly in the vicinity of New York City and West Point. Most of his journal contains observations on daily weather conditions, but there is also some information on the battle at Springfield, N.J. (June 1780), the execution of John André, the execution of other soldiers for various crimes, troop movements to and from West Point, and the route of Kettell's march home to Marlborough, Mass.

25. STATEMENT OF SERVICE OF JONATHAN LIBBY (file of Jonathan Libby, 24557), 12 p., Mar. 1777-Apr. 1780 (roll 1561, frames 67-73).

Apparently written by Jonathan Libby soon after the end of his Revolutionary War service, this statement of service contains Libby's observations at Valley Forge and Ticonderoga and describes his participation in the Battles of Hubbardton, Saratoga, White Marsh, Monmouth, and Stony Point. Two essays compose the final five pages of this small book: one deals with the glories of serving as a soldier in the American cause, and the other is an imaginary dialogue between a Continental officer and a Quaker concerning the lawfulness of war. Libby was living in Scarborough, Maine, at the time he enlisted in Massachusetts forces.

26. JOURNAL OF BENJAMIN LOCK (file of Benjamin Lock, S18492), 8 p., Oct. 2-Nov. 7, 1777 (roll 1575, frames 117-122).

This brief account consists primarily of a list of the towns through which Lock traveled on the journey from his home in Lexington, Mass., to Cambridge and Saratoga. The return route is also described as well as the amount of money he spent on the trip.

27. SONG BOOK OF GEORGE MASON (file of George Mason, R7003), 62 p., 1776-1803 (roll 1645, frames 705-735).

There are a few accounts for such items as clothing in this small book, but most of it consists of 10 lengthy poems that apparently formed the lyrics for contemporary songs on patriotic and romantic topics. Included is "A New Song of Mountgomery Defat at Qubeck"; a song about fighting tyrants; several songs about courtship and marriage; songs about girls named Polly, Peggy, and Nelly; and what may well be a British song about fighting foes in North America. Mason was a native of Maine, and he fought in Massachusetts forces during the Revolutionary War.

28. RECEIPT BOOK OF JOSHUA NASON (file of Joshua Nason, W24324), 16 p., Apr. 2, 1778-Mar. 26, 1782 (roll 1802, frames 222-230).

Joshua Nason, another Maine resident, kept a receipt book during his service at Winter Hill, Mass., where he was part of the guard for Burgoyne's captured army. The receipts are generally for clothing, food, cash, and military equipment.

29. ACCOUNT BOOK OF DAVID NORTHEY (file of David Northey, R7712), 70 p., 1789-1809 (roll 1827, frames 682-718).

Included in this book are accounts for pork, corn, flax, wood, oats, and labor, as well as two pages of family data, containing the names and birth dates of David Northey's children. The book is almost illegible in many places because of torn pages and water stains.

30-34. JOURNALS OF NAHUM PARKER (file of Nahum Parker, S11200).

(30) 16 p., Apr. 29-July 10, 1777 (roll 1874, frames 370-378).
(31) 32 p., June 24-Oct. 19, 1777 (roll 1874, frames 379-395).
(32) 22 p., Apr. 1-June 31 [sic], 1778 (roll 1874, frames 396-407).
(33) 22 p., Oct. 7-Dec. 25, 1779 (roll 1874, frames 408-420).
(34) 29 p., July 3-Dec. 12, 1780 (roll 1874, frames 421-436).

Nahum Parker, a resident of Shrewsbury, Mass., was only 17 when he first enlisted in Massachusetts forces, and he eventually served about six different short-term enlistments. Parker did not participate in any major battles, so his journals are primarily noteworthy for the view they give of everyday army life and the personal development and attitudes of Parker himself. The first journal describes service in Providence, R.I., and Greenwich, Conn.; the second, Bennington and Stillwater, N.Y.; the third, Boston; the fourth, Providence, R.I.; and the fifth, West Point and Peekskill, N.Y., and Springfield, N.J.

Parker describes the weather, guard duty, marches, army morale, the poor quality of provisions, skirmishes with Tories, illnesses among the soldiers, and his own feelings about being in the army. An entry in the first journal describes his military service as "A Lazzy Mery Life who wod [would] not be A Soldier," but entries in the last journal sound a note: "O that I was whare I should BE, at HOME." Several of the journals contain brief entries concerning civilian affairs that are dated considerably later than the date span indicated above.

35. ORDERLY BOOK OF BENJAMIN POND (file of Benjamin Pond, W2243), 44 p., Oct. 5-21, 1777 (roll 1948, frames 168-190).

During the month of October 1777, Benjamin Pond served as the clerk for Capt. Asa Fairbanks' Company (Col. Benjamin Hawes' Regiment) at Little Compton and Tiverton, R.I. Pond's orderly book contains copies of regimental and brigade orders and a weekly return of Captain Fairbanks' Company, dated October 9, 1777. The orders concern the duties of officers, parading, courts-martial, arrangements for army transportation, the preparation of returns, and the organization of brigades. One unrelated entry in the book concerning civilian affairs is dated January 31, 1782.

36-37 JOURNALS OF JOSEPH ROUNDEY (file of Joseph Roundey, S33584).

(36) 15 p., Mar. 24-Nov. 24, 1776 (roll 2090, frames 273-281).
(37) 16 p., Dec. 31, 1776-Jan. 5, 1777 (roll 2090, frames 282-290)

The first journal describes Roundey's march from Boston to Norwich, Conn., and New York; the second journal relates his journey back to Massachusetts. Both journals contain notations on miles traveled per day and accounts for food, lodging, and various other expenses. There is very little descriptive information on Roundey's actual military service.

38. ORDERLY BOOK AND JOURNAL OF LEVI STEDMAN (file of Levi Stedman, W19108), 42 p., July 4, 1775-Apr. 15, 1776 (roll 2276, frames 957-979).

The first nine pages of this book contain copies of orders issued by General Washington at Cambridge, Mass., in July 1775, and a copy of an estimate by the Continental Congress of the population of North America. The journal of Stedman's military service begins with July 13, 1775. He describes skirmishes with the British at Dorchester, Roxbury, and Boston Neck; the departure of the British from Boston; and ordinary events in camp. Also included are two contemporary poems on patriotic and romantic topics.

39. JOURNAL OF JEHIEL STEWART (file of Jehiel Stewart, W25138), 134 p., Mar. 12, 1775-Oct. 23, 1779 (roll 2290, frames 875-938).

Most of this journal is a description of Stewart's service in the Boston area, March-April 1775, and in Canada, September-December 1776. Stewart describes his march to Roxbury, skirmishes with the British, the destruction of property by both sides, ships arriving and departing from Boston, the march to Canada, scouting duty in New York and Canada, and the Battle of Valcour Island. Also included are approximately 12 pages of receipts for money and food and clothing supplies.

40. JOURNAL OF NATHAN STICKNEY (file of Nathan Stickney, W4824), 18 p., Aug.-Dec. 1778 (roll 2293, frames 521-530).

Stickney's journal deals with his service in Rhode Island under Gen. John Sullivan's command, including brief descriptions of the army's retreat from Newport, casualties, and skirmishes with the British. The journal also includes several receipts for soldiers' pay and one unrelated entry dated August 1785. Several of the pages are almost illegible because of faded ink.

41. JOURNAL OF JOSIAH STONE (file of Josiah Stone, R10211), 4 p., Dec. 13, 1776-Jan. 20, 1777 (roll 2303, frames 129-132).

This brief journal does not describe any major battles, but rather recounts Stone's march from Massachusetts to Peekskill, N.Y., including two pages of accounts with various members of Capt. Elijah Bellows' Company (Nathaniel Sparhawk's Regiment).

42-43. JOURNALS OF ABNER WESTON (file of Abner Weston, W25961).

(42) 33 p., July 27-Oct. 28, 1780 (roll 2539, frames 29-45).

(43) 37 p., Sept. 4-Dec. 18, 1781 (roll 2539, frames 46-66).

Although no major battles are described in either of these accounts, the journals do recount Weston's service in Rhode Island and at West Point. The first journal describes the march to Rhode Island, company problems with illness and desertion, and Weston's duties in camp. The second journal contains descriptions of the march to West Point and Weston's shipwreck on the Hudson River as well as an account of his expenditures.

44. JOURNAL OF AMMI WHITE (file of Ammi White, W18402), 33 p., Apr. 1, 1776-Jan. 7, 1777 (roll 2551, frames 325-343).

White served in Capt. Benjamin Pollard's Company of artificers (artisans) in the vicinity of New York City. His journal describes his work on a fort at Hellgate, platforms on Governor's Island, and various other projects around New York City. Several receipts in this small book are dated earlier and later than the journal account.

45. JOURNAL OF JOSEPH WHITE (file of Joseph White, W11805), 29 p., May 1775-Mar. 1777 (roll 2556, frames 151-167).

This is one of the few printed journals in the pension file series. Published about 1833 in Charlestown, Mass., the journal deals with White's service in artillery companies and contains descriptions of the battles of Trenton, December 1776, and Princeton, January 1777. White describes a personal encounter with General Washington; service in the Boston, New York, and Philadelphia areas; and includes a poem entitled "The Battle of Trenton."

46. JOURNAL OF JOSEPH WILDER (file of Joseph Wilder, S30798), 12 p., July 24-Dec. 31, 1777 (roll 2577, frames 331-338).

During the period covered by this journal, Wilder served with Capt. Seth Stower's Company (Col. John Robinson's Regiment) in the vicinity of Providence and North Kingston, R.I. The journal describes his marches to and from Rhode Island, daily camp routine, and encounters with Tories.

In addition to the journal, Wilder's pension file contains muster rolls, pay abstracts, and receipts for Stower's Company and for James Lincoln's Company, both recruited from Hingham, Mass.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

47-49. JOURNALS OF SAMUEL CHASE (file of Samuel Chase, W22776).

(47) 12 p., Aug. 8-Oct. 18, 1779 (roll 527, frames 563-569).

(48) 19 p., July 18, 1781-Jan. 4, 1782 (roll 527, frames 570-581).

(49) 40 p., May 1782-Apr. 1787 (roll 527, frames 582-603).

A native of Hopkinton, Samuel Chase served several enlistments in the 1st and 2d New Hampshire Regiments. Most of his military service was spent attending Gen. John Stark as a "waiter." The first journal describes Chase's march from New Hampshire to Rhode Island, Albany, and then Saratoga; errands completed for General Stark, such as procuring a barrel of rum; and church services attended. The second journal describes Chase's marches through Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and New York attending General Stark. The third journal describes frequent trips between Hopkinton and Derryfield, N.H.; church meetings attended; books purchased; and finally Chase's discharge and subsequent employment as a teacher in Hopkinton.

50. JOURNAL OF DANIEL KIMBALL (file of Daniel Kimball, W15001), 27 p., Feb. 8-May 27, 1776 (roll 1483, frames 543-559).

This journal describes Kimball's march to Quebec and his difficulties with small pox and lack of provisions. Also included are several pages of receipts dated as late as 1778. In the back of the journal, Kimball wrote the French equivalents for numbers 1-20.

51. JOURNAL OF ENOCH LONG (file of Enoch Long, Mass. W16138), 30 p., July 29, 1779-Dec. 22, 1780 (roll 1580, frames 375-395).

Another resident of Hopkinton, Enoch Long describes in his journal the mileage and route from Hopkinton to Fort Edward and Newport, R.I. He also lists the names of the men in Capt. Samuel Runnels' Company of Col. Hercules Mooney's Regiment at Rhode Island and in "Capt. Hales' party of volunteers to Ft. Edward." The latter participated in the taking of Burgoyne. The journal is unusual in that a large part of it is apparently written in Greek.

52. JOURNAL OF JOHN SPAFFORD (file of John Spafford, S14565), 8 p., Feb. 1-Apr. 10, 1776 (roll 2249, frames 545-549).

This journal describes the route of Spafford's march with Capt. Samuel Wetherbee's Company from Charlestown, N.H., to Quebec. The journal also contains brief entries concerning sickness in the army and several receipts.

NEW JERSEY

53. JOURNAL OF ANTHONY SWAIN (file of Anthony Swain, S7668), 4 p., Mar. 5-Dec. 15, 1776 (roll 2326, frames 192-194).

Anthony Swain served as an artificer in the vicinity of New York City. This journal describes his march to Long Island and his participation in the building of forts there.

NEW YORK

54. DIARY OF MARGARET LIVINGSTON (file of Henry Beekman Livingston, W3145), 22 p., May 8, 1825-Nov. 30, 1831 (roll 1573, frames 742-754).

Margaret Livingston's diary was submitted to the Pension Office as proof of the date of death of her father, Henry B. Livingston. Her diary was written in Rhinebeck, N.Y., and contains notes concerning the deaths and marriages in the community, topics of local sermons, her father's travels and illnesses, and other local events.

55. DIARY OF HESTER MOXHAM (file of Samuel Millington, W17145), 14 p., May 1826-Jan. 1837 (roll 1733, frames 590-597).

Hester Moxham's diary was submitted to the Pension Office by Samuel Millington's heirs because it recorded the date of Millington's widow's death. The brief entries in the diary record Hester Moxham's everyday activities, such as sewing, shopping, and attending schoolhouse meetings, as well as the illnesses, marriages, and other special events in the town of Johnsburgh, N.Y. In an affidavit that is also in the file, Hester Moxham stated that she kept a diary for nearly 30 years. The few pages in this pension file are only a small segment of that diary.

NORTH CAROLINA

56. JOURNAL OF DANIEL TEACHEY (file of Daniel Teachey, W4082), 18 p., 1773-85 (roll 2354, frames 67-77).

Several pages of this small book describe Teachey's march to camp in March 1779 and his march home the following July. The remaining pages contain miscellaneous receipts and a note of the date of his marriage.

PENNSYLVANIA

57. JOURNAL OF DANIEL DEALL (file of Daniel Deall, W6999), 52 p., 1776-1810 (roll 776, frames 584-612).

Fourteen pages of this journal relate to Deall's service, primarily at Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn., from September 20 to November 14, 1776. Deall noted the ships and cargoes in the harbor and described his duties at the fort. The remainder of the journal is a collection of miscellaneous entries, dated as late as 1810, containing receipts, shopping lists, accounts with various persons, directions on the making of looms, list of steps in presenting arms, and a list of the French equivalents of certain common English words.

58. DIARY OF DAVID DENNY (file of David Denny, W9834), 9 p., Apr. 1811-Feb. 1820 (roll 797, frames 714-722).

David Denny practiced medicine in Chester County, Pa., and it is not surprising, therefore, that his diary contains such entries as a listing of 64 persons vaccinated and frequent mention of illnesses and deaths in the neighborhood. The diary also includes references to neighborhood land purchases, horse sales, elections, and marriages. Perhaps the most unusual marriage listed is that of Denny himself, at the age of 71, to a Miss Patty McClure, aged 24.

59. JOURNAL OF ABNER EVERETT (file of Abner Everett, W6087), 18 p., July 9, 1776-May 12, 1780 (roll 943, frames 289-299).

This copy of Abner Everett's journal recounts his service during several enlistments with Bucks County and Northampton County units in the vicinity of New York City. He describes the retreat from Long Island, his efforts to secure the company's overdue pay from the Continental Paymaster General, his capture by the British at Fort Washington, and his subsequent experiences as a prisoner of war. Everett remained a prisoner of war from November 16, 1776, to January 26, 1781.

60. JOURNAL OF JACOB RITTER (file of Jacob Ritter, S9080), 118 p., 1757-1844 (roll 2052, frames 227-284).

One of the few published volumes in the pension files, this journal is entitled Memoirs of Jacob Ritter, A Faithful Minister in the Society of Friends. It was edited by Joseph Foulke and published in Philadelphia in 1844 by T. E. Chapman, E. Weaver, Baker, and Crane. Forty-one pages of the volume contain the journal of Jacob Ritter, a militiaman from Bucks County, Pa., during the Revolutionary War. Ritter describes his family history, early life, service at the Battle of the Brandywine, capture and imprisonment in Philadelphia, and subsequent activities as a Quaker in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. Ritter's conversion to the Society of Friends came about partly as a result of his military experiences. The remaining pages of the volume contain stories about Jacob Ritter and his activities as a Quaker.

RHODE ISLAND

61. JOURNAL OF JABEZ WHIPPLE (file of Jabez Whipple, R21572), 4 p., Sept. 29-Oct. 19, 1777 (roll 2548, frames 630-633).

This brief journal describes Jabez Whipple's march to Tiverton and Newport, R.I., and the expenses he incurred on the journey. Also included is a list of the colonels whose units in Rhode Island were "Below Howland's Ferry" and those "Northward of the Ferry."

SOUTH CAROLINA

62. JOURNAL OF ARTHUR FAIRIES (file of Peter Clinton, W9390), 72 p., July 8-Oct. 11, 1776 (roll 580, frames 721/1-721/38).

Arthur Fairies' journal describes his participation with Capt. Peter Clinton's Company of Col. Thomas Neil's Regiment in an expedition against the Cherokee Indians in western South Carolina. Col. Andrew Williamson commanded the expedition. Colonel Neil's Regiment was instructed to burn and destroy towns and provisions of the Cherokees on the headwaters of the Keowee River. Fairies' journal describes the route taken by the regiment, skirmishes with the Indians, casualties and prisoners taken, and towns and crops burned. The last several pages of the journal contain miscellaneous receipts and recipes for such things as a snake bite remedy.

VIRGINIA

63. RECEIPT BOOK OF ZACHARIAH MILLS (file of Zachariah Mills, W9195), 15 p., Jan. 10-Aug. 7, 1781 (roll 1736, frames 771-781).

Zachariah Mills, a Virginia militiaman from Albemarle County, describes briefly his march to Richmond and Yorktown in this small volume. Most of the book, however, consists of notes and receipts for military supplies and food and clothing. Also included are several rough sketches, apparently of a mill.

64. JOURNAL OF ALVIN MOUNTJOY (file of Alvin Mont joy, W8471), 4 p., Sept. 15-Oct. 20, 1776 (roll 1784, frames 621-624).

These four pages contain a journal account of Mountjoy's service for a 1-month period in the vicinity of New York City. Included is a description of an engagement with the British on September 15, 1776 (probably the Battle at Kip's Bay), and a description of Mountjoy's company's movements prior to the Battle of White Plains.

65. JOURNAL OF ROBERT SCOTT (file of Robert Scott, W4455), 15 p., Feb. 19, 1776-Oct. 15, 1785 (roll 2138, frames 783-794).

The journal contains brief entries noting that Scott served as an artillery gunner and bombardier from 1777 through 1779. Included is a copy of his discharge, dated October 11, 1779, as well as later miscellaneous receipts and a listing of the dates of his children's births.

66. FAMILY HISTORY BOOK OF ANTHONY TINSLEY (file of William Tinsley, W8789), 11 p., 1794-1841 (roll 2393, frames 278-284).

This small book, apparently once belonging to William Tinsley's son, Anthony, contains birth, death, and marriage dates for William and Anthony Tinsley's families.

67. RECEIPT BOOK OF GEORGE TOOMBS (file of George Toombs, W3177), 23 p., 1783-1806 (roll 2400, frames 38-67).

The receipts in this book are for such items as feathers, cloth, brandy, cider, corn, sugar, and cotton. Also included is family information: the date of George Toombs' marriage and the names and birth and death dates of his children.
