SIXTH DAY.

Senate Chamber, November 23, 1872.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.
The Journal of yesterday was read.
The President announced the following Senate Standing Committees:

Mr. Norwood asked to be excused from serving upon the Committee on the Judiciary. He was duly sensible of the high honor conferred upon him by being designated as the chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate of North Carolina, but his advanced age and feeble health would, he feared, render it impossible for him to discharge satisfactorily the onerous duties the position would necessarily entail upon him in addition to his other duties as a Senator.

Mr. Grandy said he hoped the request of the Senator from Orange would not be complied with. He was opposed to the political party to which the Senator belonged, but he was none the less unwilling for the Senate and for the State to lose the benefit of the services of the Senator upon that committee, for which his eminent ability and well-known attainments so peculiarly fitted him.

Mr. Welch concurred with the Senator from Pasquotank in resisting the request of the Senator from Orange. It was apparent that legislation of an important character would engage the attention of the Senate, and it was, therefore, especially desirable that the venerable Senator should be at the head of the committee which would play such an important part in giving shape and direction to that legislation. As the Senator had been appointed upon other committees, Mr. Welch urged that he be excused from serving.
upon them, in the hope that he would thereby be enabled to preside over the deliberations of the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Norwood thanked the Senators for their kindly expressions toward himself. He felt obliged, however, to repeat his request to be excused. He was willing to work to the full extent of his ability, but for the reasons already given he feared he would be unequal to the task assigned to him.

The President announced that he fully concurred in what Senators had said, but that as the Senator from Orange insisted upon being excused, he felt obliged to yield to his request, and would thereupon designate Mr. Allen as the chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

The following named bills were introduced, read and passed first time, and were referred or otherwise disposed of, as follows:

Before announcing the result of the vote the President said: Senators before announcing the adjournment of this body, I desire to express my thanks to the Senators for their courteous indulgence and co-operation in the performance of the duties incident to the position of their presiding officer, nor can I refrain from testifying to the patriotic zeal with which Senators have performed their public duties.

It was to have been expected that something of the partisan spirit and prejudice naturally engendered by the political contest of the past Summer and Autumn would have been manifested here, but to the honor and credit of the Senate, be it said that its proceedings have been characterized by a total absence of all political demonstration.

Your strict attention to legislative duties, the very few efforts by Senators to manufacture party capital, and the manifest disposition of all parties to ignore everything tending to divert attention from the legitimate business of legislation, deserves the approbation of the whole people, and if your example shall but be followed by your constituents, the time is not for distant when an era of good feeling of forgetfulness and oblivion of many of the causes which have unhappily divided the people of the Commonwealth will dawn upon our people.
And now wishing each and every Senator a pleasant visit to his home, I declare the Senate adjourned until 12 M., 15th of January, 1873.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Senate Chamber, January 15, 1873.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment at 12 M.

Hon. Curtis H. Brogden, Lieutenant Governor of the State of North Carolina, having taken the chair, proceeded to address the Senate as follows:

Senators: The Constitution of North Carolina declares that the Lieutenant Governor shall preside as President of the Senate. Having been elected to this office by the people of the State on the first Thursday of August, 1872, and having taken and subscribed my oath of office, I appear before you this day at your first meeting since the first day of January, to enter upon the discharge of my official duties.

I deem it due to myself to declare on this occasion, that "with malice towards none and with charity for all," I shall try to act fairly and impartially, knowing no party but what I conscientiously believe to be right, and shall rely upon your kindness and indulgence to cover my errors. My past experience has taught me that it is almost impossible for the presiding officer of a legislative body, composed, of course, of so many different minds and opinions, to give entire satisfaction on all occasions. But it will be my constant aim and desire to act according to parliamentary laws and decisions and the rules of order for the government of the Senate.

As you were in session for about one month before your late recess, you are informed of the situation of our public affairs and the financial condition of the State, and you may rely upon my cordial co-operation in support of all wise and judicious measures tending to promote the happiness and prosperity of the people.

The public institutions of the State should receive the careful attention of the Legislature. The Institutions for the Deaf, and Dumb and the Blind, the Asylum for the Insane, and also the Penitentiary, are all supported by the tax-payers of the State, and it is the duty of the Legislature to properly investigate the management of these institutions, and to allow no injustice or oppression, no favoritism or partiality to be wrongfully practiced by any of their managers or employees.

Let us faithfully attend to the educational interests and necessities of the children of the State. Let us provide necessary and proper means for the cultivation of the intellect and the improvement of the minds and morals of the rising generation. Our Constitution wisely provides "for a general and uniform system of public schools, wherein tuition shall be free of charge to all the children of the State between the ages of six and twenty-one years."

Our present free school law is deficient and needs emendation and improvement. I believe in the truism that "morality and intelligence are the only sure basis of our government." A well educated and Christian people are always prepared and qualified to guard and protect their rights and liberties.

The main object of wise legislation should be to correct the errors of the past, and to pass such laws for the future as experience and the necessities of the times may point out to be judicious, necessary and proper.

In all legislation reckless prodigality and wasteful extravagance are injurious to the best interests of the people and should be avoided as much as possible.

Economy forms one of the prominent virtues and duties of a republican government. It does not consist, however, in withholding from faithful public service a just compensation; neither does it consist in according with parsimonious hands in providing for the public necessities. But it consists in closing every unnecessary drain on the public treasury; and also, for the same purpose, there is strenuously required a judicious application of the appropriations to their objects and a vigorous execution of the laws regarding them.

North Carolina has within her borders all the elements of a great State. But her vast agricultural and mineral resources are not yet fully developed. Her people are chiefly engaged in the cultivation of the soil; that vocation which was truly said by George Washington to be “the most healthful, the most useful and the noblest employment of man.” Agriculture, commerce, manufacture and the mechanic arts are the great sources of our national and State prosperity. They should be properly encouraged by wise and judicious legislation.

It is a fixed principle in our government which cannot be too closely adhered to in practice, nor too often repeated, that it was instituted to promote the welfare of the people; that those who make and those who carry into effect the laws are but their agents, and that to generate any distinct interest between the people and their government is incompatible with this principle, and was never contemplated by the framers of our Constitution.

A perfect tolerance of political opinion and freedom in the exercise of the elective franchise are indispensable; for a government based on public opinion becomes impaired when intolerance and lawless control of the right of suffrage withdraw from it that support; and we should bear in mind that, while under the imperative republican principle the will of the majority is to prevail in all cases, yet that “the minority possess rights, to violate which would be oppression.”

Opposition to political measures should rather be invited than deprecated, for in laudable opposition there may be found security from error; nor should it be forgotten that "every difference of opinion is not a difference of principle;" and that, as citizens of the same republic, we are all equally interested in the honor, welfare and happiness of our common country.

I congratulate you, Senators, and the people of North Carolina, upon an era of good feeling which has dawned upon the country and the calm which has followed our State and national elections of 1872. It shows the wisdom, virtue and efficacy of our republican constitutions and laws, when six millions of voters in the United States can go peaceably to the omnipotent ballot-box, without any force, fear, or intimidation, and cast their votes for the men of their choice.

Differences of opinion in relation to the affairs of government may be condutive in the end to the discovery of truth, and a frank investigation of matters of public importance ought never to be discouraged. But I think that well-meaning and sober-minded men will agree that there has been too much passion and too little reason; too much party and too little regard for principal; and that in examining the acts of our public servants, there has sometimes been a fearful disregard of truth and justice. Let us hope for more generosity and charity hereafter. With no vain regrets for the past, let us look hopefully forward to the rewards of the future. Let us try to promote the further development of our vast and various resources, and improve the credit of our State. Let us try to keep step with the progressive spirit of the times, and the onward march of events, and show to the world that we have not lived entirely in vain in the latter part of the nineteenth century. Let us try to preserve un-tarnished the honor of North Carolina. Let her bright escutcheon never be stained with the foul blot of Punic faith. It has been well and wisely said, that "private credit is wealth—public honor is security. The feather that adorns the royal bird supports his flight; strip him of his plumage, and you fix him to the earth." May our State continue to advance and improve in all respects until it may be truly said of her, "her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace." Let us try to serve her according to the measure of our abilities and the best lights of our understanding. Let us remember that we have a country to serve instead of a party to obey.

"Let names and sects and parties fall,
And public good be all in all."

SENATE CHAMBER, Raleigh, February 22, 1872.

Mr. President:

Whereas, There has been very great complaint, and great cause for complaint, among the people, about the inordinate delay in the production and distribution of the laws, documents and journals; and

Whereas, It is of the very first importance that these books should be printed, bound and distributed at the earliest possible day after the adjournment of the General Assembly; and

Whereas, The laws, 2,700 copies, are now being printed and stitched, and will all be in the hands of the binder in a few days after the adjournment of the Legislature, and will be delivered to the Secretary of State, under recent legislation, within forty days after the close of the session, for immediate distribution; and

Whereas, The documents, nearly 500 copies are, necessarily, nearly all printed and stitched during the session; and

Whereas, There are only about 500 copies of the journals to be printed, which is the residue of all printing, to be bound; and

Whereas, The binder can stitch and bind in "full sheep" 1,000 volumes in thirty days; and

Whereas, There are less than 1,000 volumes of documents and journals combined; therefore,

I respectfully enter this my Protest against the passage of a resolution of the Senate on yesterday, giving the public printer ninety days after our adjournment—extending the time fifty additional days within which to print, bind and deliver the documents and journals.

Respectfully submitted,

W. L. LOVE.

The Senator from Cumberland being in the chair, Mr. Ellis, of Columbus, offered the following resolution of thanks to the President and other officers of the Senate, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are due and are hereby tendered to President Brogden for the faithful, fair, correct and impartial manner in which he has presided and conducted the business of this body; and the thanks of the Senate are also due and tendered to the Clerks and other officers for the fair, faithful, correct and acceptable manner in which they have discharged the duties of their respective offices.

The President having resumed the chair, thereupon addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators:—The resolution that you have just passed unanimously affords the best assurance that my endeavors, faithful and impartial, I hope they have been, to discharge worthily and properly the duties confided to me, have not been altogether unavailing.

That I am feelingly touched by this voluntary and generous manifestation of approbation and favor, you may believe, but you are not as conscious as I am of the deep impression it leaves upon me. Words are wanting to fully express my appreciation of your uniform kindness to me, and I make the acknowledgement with the deepest sensibility.

Our official intercourse has been pleasant and agreeable, and it will leave its impress and its memories

"On the sands of our wasting years."

In am not so vain as to believe that I have not committed errors as the presiding officer of this honorable body, but if so, they were indeed unintentional, and I think I may safely say, that no presiding officer of the Senate has ever been more unanimously sustained in his decisions than I have been. I know that I have acted fairly and impartially in the performance of my official duties, and you have promptly sustained me on every occasion.

To the public man the approbation of those he has served is his highest reward. For your generous bestowal of that reward, and the indulgence at all times, kindly extended to me, I beg you to accept my grateful acknowledgments.

 Permit me, Senators, as the only return which it is now in my power to make, to tender to you the assurance of my great anxiety to unite with you in any and all measures which may be best calculated to encourage and reward honest industry and labor, to develop the resources of the State, to improve our educational interests and facilities, and to promote the permanent peace, prosperity and happiness of all the people of North Carolina.

Your legislation forms a part of the history of the times. Much business has been brought before the Legislature, some of it has been carried through, and some has failed.

Let us hope that what has been done is for the best, and that it may receive the approbation of the public.

If, in the course of our deliberation, any irritation has been occasioned, or any unkind expressions escaped us, let us, in the spirit of generous friendship, throw over them the mantle of forgetfulness, and recollect only the pleasures arising from association, and the consciousness, which I am sure pervades the bosom of every one, that all have been actuated by a high sense of public duty.

Senators, we must now close our legislative deliberations. The hour for adjournment has arrived. We have met to to-day to part. I wish each and all of you a speedy and safe return to your families and friends, and that you and they may enjoy a long life of peace, health and happiness.

"Our several engagements now call us away,
Our parting is needful and we must obey."
Mr. Troy moved that the Resolution of Thanks, introduced by Mr. Ellis, of Columbus, and adopted by the Senate together with the address of the President, be spread upon the Journal. The motion prevailed.

Thereupon the hour of 1½ P. M. having arrived, the Senate adjourned until 12 M. of the third Monday of November next.

C. H. BROGDEN,
President of the Senate

W. L. SAUNDERS, Clerk.
