At a session of the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, held in the city of Raleigh, and begun on Monday, the 17th day of November, 1873, it being the day appointed for the meeting of the General Assembly, Lieutenant Governor, Curtis H. Brogden, took the Chair at 12 m., and called the Senate to order.

The roll of Senators having been called and a quorum being present the President addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators: You have met in compliance with your constitutional duties, for the transaction of the important business of legislation, and I indulge the sincere hope that the labors of the session which has just commenced, will, under the guidance of a spirit no less prudent than patriotic, issue in measures conducive to the best interests of the State and the prosperity of the people.

Numerous as are the providential blessings which demand our grateful acknowledgements, our devout gratitude is due to the Supreme Being for having graciously continued to the people of our State, through the vicissitudes of another year, the invaluable blessings of health, peace and plenty. Seldom have our people been so generously exempted from the ravages of any contagious sickness, or the labors of the husbandman more amply rewarded. We have not been visited with the alarming pestilence which has so fatally afflicted our brethren in some other sections of our Union.

Peace reigns within our borders, and individual happiness rewards the private virtue, industry and enterprise of our citizens, showing the most gratifying state of affairs, and testifying an advance in the improvements of social, and the securities of political life.

The eight amendments to our State Constitution, which were passed at the last session of the Legislature, were accepted by the people of the State at the polls on the first Thursday of August last, it is believed, although no official information of the fact has been received as yet.

This shows with what ease and facility the people can quietly and safely alter and amend their fundamental and organic law, according to their own will and pleasure, without creating any confusion or derangement in any department of the government.

Our Constitution belongs to the people, and it is the work of their hands. It was formed by the people, and for the people, and it provides for equal and impartial liberty and justice to all. Each individual has absolute rights which the State itself should respect.

The will of the majority, legally expressed, yields the destiny of the State, subject to the constitutional and fundamental limitations. The State should have for its first object the welfare of the individual, as such, without regard to pecuniary, social, or educational considerations. And it is precisely in proportion to the State's adherence to these great principles of civil liberty that it will be the seat of order, peace and general prosperity.

Our Federal Government is, perhaps, the only government which, in all its parts, was the result of plan, wisdom and sagacity. Most governments have originated from mere accident, and by a concurrence of unforeseen events. But the plan which the framers of our government adopted was dictated by their knowledge of human rights and human liberty, and it is probably the ablest and best plan of government ever formed by man.

As no human government can be perfect, the best ever devised by mortal man must be subject to changes, inconveniences and weakness.

Man himself must fail, and it need not be thought strange that all his works should, in that respect, resemble him. The political tactician can easily demonstrate that no system of laws or form of government can be couched in such language as to be beyond the reach of sophistry. The clearest, most forcible and positive expressions are liable to constructions, coloring and perversion. It is remarkable that some of the greatest and most important political disputes in this country have arisen respecting the intent and meaning of the Constitution. The people have taken different sides and maintained the controversy in the most strenuous manner. No representative republican government can be considered as complete in which there does not exist a plenitude of legislative, executive and judicial powers.

Coming from all parts of the State at this interesting period, you must be possessed of a knowledge of the sentiment and wishes of your constituents.

Among the subjects which will claim your immediate attention and action is that in regard to our financial affairs. Our State Treasury is not free from embarrassment, and if the application which is now pending for an injunction to order and enjoin our Public Treasurer not to pay any money out of the Treasury until certain specific claims against the State shall be first paid should be successful, it will require the exercise of wisdom and statesmanship to relieve the Treasury from the extraordinary difficulties which surround it.

Without the employment of prompt and practical means, the ordinary operations of our State government will be greatly embarrassed, and our charitable institutions and the Penitentiary will soon suffer for necessary support.

The late monetary panic throughout the country was brought about by the operation of events and causes which were not generally foreseen or understood, and therefore it inflicted much injury upon our farming interests, and which, of course, affected other interests, as their prosperity must depend upon that of agriculture.

The present financial embarrassment of a large and respectable portion of our people seems to be such as to need some practical assistance, if any feasible, safe and constitutional remedy can be employed for their relief.

There is another important subject for your consideration in connection with the financial condition of the State. Her interests and honor have been placed by your constituents for the time being in your care.

I trust I do not deceive myself while I indulge in the persuasion that you may be able to make such an arrangement in regard to our State debt as will be just to our creditors and honorable to the State. It is my sincere desire, and in this I presume I concur with you and your constituents, that some definite action shall be taken upon this subject, so that our position may not be misunderstood. We have reached the utmost limit of utility in the mere study and discussion of it, and the time for decisive action has arrived.

If North Carolina is behind some of her sister States in manufacturing industries and improvements, let it not be truly said of her, that she is behind them all in making any efforts to maintain and preserve bright and untarnished her honor and good name. Let us try to do something to prevent any such humiliation and shame.

The do-nothing policy was condemned by our Saviour in the parable of the man to whom was given one talent, and failed to improve it.

There is no propriety in saying that, because we do not acknowledge the justice and validity of some claims against us, therefore we will not acknowledge those which are just and valid. The individual who would assume such a position in regard to his private debts, might be considered as not strictly honest.

There is another subject of much interest and importance to the people.

Our free public schools need assistance. No system of education can be successful without the necessary support. And whatever multiplies and cheapens the means of education, and elevates its character in any region, enhances the material prosperity of that region. Education is calculated to promote virtue and morality, and it is the surest safeguard against vice, degradation and crime. It elevates and expands the powers of the intellect, and enables the frail children of mortality to fulfill their duties on earth, and read in the book of divine truth of the sublime and marvelous beauty and greatness of all the works of our great Creator. The Christian statesman, who does all he can to spread abroad the immense and invaluable benefits and blessings of necessary education and true Christianity, will merit the richest reward to which he can aspire, true honor on earth, immortal glory in heaven.

Money invested in useful and practical education generally pays better in real enjoyment than any other pecuniary investment. It is a light that shines in darkness, and it is the cheapest and best protection and defense of the people against injustice, oppression and wrong.

Our charitable and penal institutions are all supported by taxes levied from the people, and the management of those institutions should be scrutinized by the Legislature.

Let us faithfully acquit ourselves of the duties and responsibilities imposed upon us, and actuated by pure and virtuous resolutions and intentions, let us go forward to meet the shadowy future with unfaltering steps and with manly hearts. And may that Being who is supreme over all, the Patron of order, the Fountain of justice, and the Protector, in all ages of the world, of virtuous liberty, continue his blessings upon the people of this State, and give them all permanent and perpetual peace and prosperity, consistent with the ends of his providence.

May the State of North Carolina be the residence of virtue and happiness! Here, and throughout our country, may simple manners, pure morals, and true religion, flourish forever!

I shall rely with confidence upon you, Senators, to maintain and preserve proper order and decorum in your deliberations, and to assist me in the performance of my official duties as the Presiding Officer of this honorable body.

The papers shall be left with the conferees of the House assenting to such conference, and they shall present the report of the committee to their House; when such House shall have acted thereon, they shall transmit the same and the papers relating thereto to the other, with a message certifying its action thereon.

6. The Chair announced the following communication from the Attorney General, which was read for the information of the Senate:

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Raleigh, N. C., November 22, 1873.

To the Honorable, the Senate of North Carolina:

Your committee, Senators John T. Cramer and J. W. Ellis, have just called on me, and requested, in behalf of the Senate, an answer in writing to the question whether there is now any restraint upon the Public Treasurer from paying out money from the Treasury by reason of the suit of Alfred Self and others against him in the Federal Court.

In reply, I beg leave to say, that no writ of injunction can be granted by any Judge of the United States" in any case, without reasonable previous notice to the adverse party or his attorney of the time and place of hearing for the same." See Brightly's Digest, Laws of the United States, vol. 1, page 256, title Equity, section 3. Upon an examination of the process served upon the Public Treasurer, it appears that a bill was filed by Alfred Self, a citizen of the State of New York, in the clerk's office for the Eastern District of North Carolina, praying for a subpoena, &c., and an injunction special till the hearing and perpetual thereafter, &c. The usual equity subpoena was issued 13th November, 1873, commanding the defendant to answer the bill and receive and abide the judgment, &c., of the Judge, on pain of judgment by default being taken against him, on or before the first Monday of January next. His Honor Judge Bond, on the 10th of November, made an order that the cause be set for hearing upon the motion for an injunction on Wednesday of the Circuit Court, to be held at Raleigh, provided a copy of this order be served on the defendant within six days from the date of the order.

This was simply an order that he would hear and consider the application for the injunction on the third day of the term, provided the notice was given, and at that time grant the injunction, or at that time refuse the injunction.

He certainly did not grant a writ of injunction at the time he made the foregoing order, nor could he have done so, because no notice had been given to the defendant. And further, the idea of an injunction is excluded by fixing a day when he would decide to grant or deny the writ.

If the complainant, Alfred Self, had desired a restraining order before the hearing of the motion for an injunction, it was competent for him to apply for it, and his Honor might, in a proper case, if there appeared to be danger of irreparable injury from delay, have granted "an order" restraining the Public Treasurer until the decision upon the motion for an injunction.

So easy was it for the complainant to have obtained such restraining order, that he could, in the discretion of the Judge, upon a proper case, have had it without security. See Act of Congress, approved June 1st, 1872, chapter 255, section 7, Statutes at large, second session of the 42 Congress, yet having a right upon a proper case to this order, he has not obtained it. No such order has been made, that I am aware of. It may be urged that the prayer for a writ of injunction in the bill, and the service of a copy of the bill and the subpoena, together with the order setting the motion for an injunction for hearing on a certain day, operate as an injunction or order of restraint. Not so. If such restraint had been desired, the complainant had his remedy—his course was marked out by the statute. And when a party has a remedy plainly provided by law, that is the one he must take.

I am of opinion that the Acts of Congress, above alluded to, are decisive of the question, and therefore it is not necessary to cite further authority to sustain this view.

My opinion is that these suits do not now constitute any legal impediment to prevent the Treasurer from paying out money from the Treasury on proper warrants from the Auditor.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

T. L. HARGROVE,
Attorney General.

At 12½ p. m. the Senate resumed the consideration of Senate bill No. 24, a bill to be entitled an act in relation to the duties of the Public Treasurer, it being the special order for that hour. The question recurring on the passage of the bill on its second reading, Mr. Norwood moved the following amendment in the nature of a substitute:

"That, in the judgment of this General Assembly, there exists no injunction or restraining order in the proceedings of the court, in the cases of Alfred Self and others against the Public Treasurer, which forbids him from paying all lawful orders presented to him as Treasurer for payment; and he is hereby required to pay the same, and this General Assembly will maintain him in discharging this duty."

Mr. Flemming moved the following amendment, in the nature of a substitute, for the amendment offered by Mr. Norwood:

"Sec. 1. That it shall be the duty of the Treasurer to pay out any money that may be in the Treasury, in accordance with section 64 of chapter 78 Battle's Revisal, without regard to any injunction, notice of injunction, order or command of any Judge or judicial officer, whether he be of State or Federal jurisdiction.

"Sec. 2. That if the Treasurer shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this act, and the duties prescribed for the Treasurer in chapter 78 of Battle's Revisal, he shall be deemed guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, and subject to impeachment.

"Sec. 3. This act shall be in force from and after its ratification."

of Senators and Representatives in Congress;” beg leave to file our protest against the passage of said resolutions in its present shape, and to explain our reasons for opposition to the same."

The first resolution reads as follows:

"Resolved, That the action of the 42d Congress, in its closing hours, by which the pay of Senators and Representatives was increased twenty-five hundred dollars per annum, and said increase made to relate to the first day of said Congress, was indefensible in principle, and tended to bring our government into disrepute."

No language could more forcibly express our views on the "salary grab" question than the above, and but for the attempt of those in open political hostility to the President of the United States, to hold the Executive equally responsible for the passage of this most odious measure, would have received our hearty support.

The language of the second resolution is, as follows:

"That the Executive of the nation in approving the measure made himself a party to the wrong."

This we do not believe, and therefore cannot endorse, and we can never become a party to the censure of the National Executive under the circumstances in which this outrageous measure was forced upon him. It is well known, even to Senators upon this floor who are politically opposed to a Republican administration, that the salary grab scheme was tacked on to the general appropriation bill, and there was no other alternative but for the President to give it his signature, otherwise defeat the bill, making the necessary provisions for the administration and carrying on of the general government. We have too much confidence in the honesty and integrity of the President of the United States to place ourselves on a false record, even to the condemnation of a set of hungry vultures of both parties in the Congress of the United States, who are responsible for the nefarious game, by an attempt to contribute in a dishonorable way to their own private gains. Our motto is "honor to whom honor is due."

For the above reasons we were compelled to record our vote against the passage of the resolution.

The last resolution which we endorse, is as follows:

"That the most fitting reparation which can be made by Congress for the injury and wrong complained of is a prompt recognition of that injury, and the immediate repeal of the law."

We therefore respectfully ask leave to submit this explanation of our vote on the passage of said resolution, and ask that the same be placed upon the Journal of to-day.

JOHN W. CRAMER,
JACOB McCOTTER,
GEO. N. HILL,
C. W. GRANDY. Jr.,
R. T. LONG,
J. H. HARRIS,
A. McCABE."

TWENTY-FIRST DAY.

Senate Chamber, Dec. 11th, 1873.

The Journal of yesterday was read.

Mr. Murphy presented a petition for the establishment of the county of Jefferson, which was referred to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances.

Mr. King, in behalf of himself and other Senators, submitted the following protest, which was read and ordered to be spread on the journal:

To the President of the Senate:

In the exercise of our constitutional privilege, the undersigned, Republican members of the Senate, enter the following protest against the action of the majority of the Senate in refusing to strike out of the resolutions in relation to the "back pay" of members of the Forty-second Congress, that portion of said resolutions which included in their denunciation the Executive of the United States, for the reason that the President did not, and could not, receive "back pay," since the Constitution of the "United States," article 1, section 7, provides that the salary of the President shall neither be increased nor diminished during his term of office, and for the further reason that the "back pay" of members of Congress was included in the general appropriation bill, and the President could not have vetoed it without stopping the wheels of government in all its various departments. We having failed to accomplish the striking out the aforesaid portion of the resolutions condemnatory of the President, we voted for the resolutions on their final passage, for the reason that we fully approve of the remainder, there having been no act of the Congress passed for many years which, in our opinion, has been so universally condemned by the people. But we respectfully and earnestly protest against that portion of the aforesaid resolution condemning the President of the United States.

R. W. KING,
E. RANSOM,
G. D. HOLLOMAN,

December 10, 1873.

Resolved, 1. That in consequence of the calamitous results of the late war, and of the subsequent legislation of both the General and State Governments, the people of North Carolina have been deprived of all ability to pay at the present time any part of their public debt.
2. That a new government has been imposed upon the people far more burdensome in its administration than the old one, which is true of all its departments and divisions of counties, townships and towns, that in addition to this heavy burden, as much as our people in their impoverished condition can be reasonably expected to bear, and in addition to an absolutely necessary system of common school instruction towards which only a feeble beginning has been made: Our Constitution requiring in terms which may not be unheeded, if in our power to obey them—and common humanity unites her voice in still louder tones; that the neglected idiots computed in number at 1,000, the still neglected insane (after providing for some of them) computed in numbers at 500, that the large number of the Deaf, Dumb and the Blind, who are still unfriended and forsaken, and the whole multitude of destitute orphans shall all be gathered within the folds of an enlarged State charity, and be properly cared for.

3. That these objects impose a higher obligation, a more imperious necessity upon the people of the State, at the present time, than even the high and solemn obligation to pay the just and honest portion of their public debt, especially when it is remembered that the debt was contracted under circumstances now so changed and depending for its payment upon means now so completely swept away.

4. That upon a review of the whole subject we submit it to the enlightened consideration of Congress if the General Government would not act wisely by assuming the payment of so much of the debt of the State of North Carolina as in justice and equity ought to be paid."

Mr. Waring gave notice that he would hereafter move to amend by inserting after the word "dollar" in line 11, section 4, the words "Internal Improvement Bonds issued during the war, under an act passed before the war, thirty cents on the dollar."

Thereupon the President addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators:—As we are now about to separate as a legislative body until after the Christmas holidays, it only remains for me to wish you the enjoyment of good health and a happy Christmas at home with your families and friends. Christmas is said to be the day of the nativity of our Saviour, and therefore its annual return is singularly welcomed as a day of unusual joy and happiness. It is a day hallowed by our traditions on account of that most glorious and wonderful event when the morning stars sang together and the children of God shouted for joy.

In the temperate and delightful climate, in Bethlehem of Judea, about one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three years ago, according to our computation of time, while the shepherds were keeping watch over their flocks by night, the angel of the Lord shone round about them, and said unto them, “Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people;” and suddenly there appeared a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, “On earth peace, good will toward men.”

It seems to be peculiarly appropriate at this eventful season, when the fruits and products of the earth have been garnered, to cultivate and cherish a spirit of friendship, good will and charity for all.

Let us forgive and forget the unworthy bickerings of the past, and indulge and cherish patriotic and laudable hopes and aspirations for the common good of our common country.

Your legislative acts, Senators, may be somewhat likened to the parable of the sower, who went out to sow seed; and some fell by the wayside, and were devoured by the fowls of the air; some fell on stony ground, and were scorched by the sun, and withered away; some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up and choked them, and they yielded no fruit. But the seed which fell on good ground sprang up and increased and brought fourth abundantly. So may it be with your legislation.

Senators, I again wish you a safe return to your respective homes.

This Senate stands adjourned until 12 o'clock on the 12th day of January next.
THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

SENATE CHAMBER, January 12, 1874.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment at 12 M., and the President addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators: You have again assembled as a legislative body to attend to the public interests and to enact such laws as you may deem necessary and expedient.

It is a part of your business to make the necessary provision for the support of the Insane Asylum, the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind, and also for the Penitentiary. I believe they are as well managed at present as they ever have been, and that the efficient, polite and accomplished superintendents of these charitable Institutions employ the means at their command to promote the welfare and happiness of those under their control.

In revising our revenue law, you will bear in mind that our Constitution provides that “laws shall be passed taxing, by uniform rule, all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies or otherwise, and also all real and personal property according to its true value in money.”

It provides that “the General Assembly may also tax trades, professions, franchises and incomes,” and that it “shall levy a capitation tax on every male inhabitant of the State over twenty-one and under fifty years of age, which shall be equal on each to the property valued at three hundred dollars in cash.

Our free public school system needs some improvement by which it may be made more beneficial and useful to those for whom free schools are established.

The main impediment to the success and prosperity of our free schools at present is the need of more money for their necessary support.

A due regard to the financial condition of the State would seem to suggest the practice of economy in your legislation.

In my opinion, as a general rule, special and class legislation should be avoided as far as possible. All unjust discriminations against the farming interests should be prevented, and all men should have equal and exact justice. In passing acts creating corporations whose main objects are gain and profit, regulations and provisions should be inserted in them providing that the people may be protected from loss through mismanagement and fraud. It is the paramount purpose of wise legislation to guard and protect the rights and interests of the people. May your legislation, Senators, be just, wise and judicious, and calculated to foster and encourage honest industry and labor, and to promote and protect the agricultural, mechanical, manufacturing and commercial interests of all our people. May you sink and efface party differences in laudable and patriotic efforts to promote the public good and to maintain and preserve the honor and credit of North Carolina.

The difficulties which existed between the United States and Spain, when you assembled here in session in November last, have been honorably settled, and desolations of war avoided; and let us hope that all future national difficulties may be peaceably settled by negotiation.

We have abundant cause for sincere and grateful thanks to Almighty God for His kind and merciful preservation of our health and lives thus far during our present term of service.

And now, Senators, may a spirit of concord and harmony prevail and preside in all your deliberations and may your legislation redound to the prosperity and happiness of the people.

Mr. Morehead of Guilford, from the Joint Select Committee to consult the Attorney General as to the effect of the amendment to the Constitution in reference to sessions of the General Assembly on the present session, presented the following opinion from that officer, which was read and ordered to be printed:
To the Honorable, the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

Your committee, Messrs. Morehead of Guilford, of the Senate, and J. W. H. Paschall, of the House, have handed me a resolution adopted by both the Senate and the House of Representatives, requesting my opinion as to whether the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution providing for regular biennial instead of annual sessions of the General Assembly has the effect to stop the session being held at the time of the adoption of the amendment on the first Monday of December, 1873, and adjourns this General Assembly.

At the time the proclamation of the Governor announced the adoption of this amendment the General Assembly was in session, having met on the third Monday in November, 1873, under the Constitution as it existed prior to the amendment. The comparing of the vote on the amendments took place on the first Monday of December, 1873, as prescribed by the act submitting the proposed amendments to the decision of the people of the State. I think the General Assembly being in session according to the Constitution at that time, the adoption of the amendment did not have the effect to adjourn that body.

My opinion is that the operation of the amendment is prospective, and that the General Assembly may constitutionally continue the session until it adjourns sine die on its own motion, or until the expiration of the term of office of its members.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. L. HARGROVE,
Attorney General.

Mr. Seymour being in the Chair, the following resolutions, introduced by Mr. Norwood, were read and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the members of the Senate of North Carolina of the years 1872-'73 and 1873-'74, desire, before their final adjournment, to give form to their kind feelings and good wishes with regard to their presiding officer, Lieut. Gov. Brogden, who has for two sessions presided over their deliberations with equal good humor, good judgment and impartiality.

Resolved, That we further extend to the Clerks and other officers of this body our cordial appreciation of their prompt and efficient performance of their duties in their respective official positions.

Resolved, That we desire before finally separating, to express what every member of the Senate cannot have failed to feel, our sense of the friendly good-will and forbearance which have prevailed among Senators uniformly, without regard to sections or parties, and the heartfelt hopes which each of us will ever entertain for the well being of every brother Senator.

Thereupon the President having resumed the chair addressed the Senate as follows:

Senators:—This is probably the last time that I shall ever address you as the same body in this Chamber, as your legislation is now closed for your present term of service. I shall call the present Senate to order no more, and in the course of human events it is not probable that you will all ever meet here again as members of the Senate.

If I live to return here to my seat, as President of the Senate, on the third Monday of November next, it would be unreasonable to expect to meet all all the members of the present Senate in the next.

The unceasing and resistless tide of time is hurrying us rapidly onward to that unseen and unknown destiny from whence no traveller returns. Our sojourn here is transitory, and we shall soon pass away and be forgotten. As public servants we shall be held accountable for our stewardship.

Various acts have been passed, and they must necessarily be subjected to the test of criticism and to the judgment of public opinion. If they are decided to be wise and necessary, you can reflect with pleasure in your retirement upon your legislative services. But whatever may be the decision of public opinion in relation to the wisdom and justice of your legislation, it will go before the great tribunal of the people, and it will pass into the history of the times in which we live.

Allow me, Senators, to say in parting with you, in the language of Cardinal Wolsey to Cromwell:

"Be just and fear not. Let all the ends thou aim'st at be thy country's, thy God's and truth's."

And now, Senators, allow me to tender you my sincere thanks for the constant and uniform kindness and respect which you have shown to me as the presiding officer of this honorable body. I know that I have earnestly and faithfully endeavored on all occasions to discharge all my official duties fairly and impartially, and I can enjoy the gratification of believing that in making this acknowledgement I speak in accordance with the conscientious sentiments of each and every Senator.

We now part, and it may be, never to all meet again in this world. May peace be with you, and may continual health and prosperity attend you through life, and when you have served the present age, and fulfilled your destiny on earth, may we all meet in that great “General Assembly and Church of the first born,”

“Where sickness and sorrow, pain and death,
Are felt and feared no more.”

Senators, I bid you all an affectionate farewell. This Senate stands adjourned without day.

C. H. BROGDEN,
President of the Senate.

W. L. SAUNDERS, Clerk.
