Pursuant to a call of His Excellency, Governor Luther H. Hodges, the Senate of the General Assembly convenes in Extra Session in its Chamber in the City of Raleigh, this day at 12 o'clock noon, and is called to order by Honorable Luther E. Barnhardt, President of the Senate.

Prayer is offered by Rev. E. C. Durham of the Methodist Church, Raleigh, N. C.

The President lays before the Senate the proclamation of the Governor convening the Extra Session, which is read to the membership as follows:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
Raleigh, North Carolina

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the General Assembly of 1955, by Resolution No. 29, directed the appointment of a committee, known as the Advisory Committee on Education, "to provide counsel and advice to the Governor, the General Assembly, the State Board of Education, and the county and local school boards throughout the State," and

WHEREAS, the Advisory Committee on Education, on April 5, 1956, filed a report with the Governor, and said in its report:

"We recommend that a special session of the General Assembly of North Carolina be called this summer to consider submitting to the people the question of changes in our State Constitution."

"We recommend that this Legislature cause to be submitted to a vote of the people of North Carolina constitutional amendments, or a single amendment to achieve these desirable and, we think, necessary results:

"1. Authority for the General Assembly to provide from public funds financial grants to be paid toward the education of any child assigned against the wishes of his parents to a school in which the races are mixed—such grants to be available for education only in non-sectarian schools and only when such child cannot be conveniently assigned to a non-mixed public school.

"2. Authority for any local unit created pursuant to law and under conditions to be prescribed by the General Assembly, to suspend by majority vote the operation of the public schools in that unit, notwithstanding present constitutional provisions for public schools."

WHEREAS, the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, have created special problems in the State of North Carolina and extraordinary occasions have occurred as a result of said decisions, and it is deemed necessary, in order to provide means for the continuing education of our youth to submit to the people of the State amendments to our State Constitution and to enact legislation in order that our youth may be educated.

Now, therefore, I, Luther H. Hodges, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do, by and with the advice of the Council of State, proclaim that the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina shall meet in Extraordinary Session at Raleigh, North Carolina, at Noon, on Monday, July 23, 1956, for the purpose of considering and acting upon the report of the North Carolina Advisory Committee, created pursuant to Resolution No. 29 of the 1955 General Assembly, and to enact such legislation, including the proposed constitutional amendments, as may be appropriate to give effect to said report and to provide a continuing means of educating the youth of the State of North Carolina. I do hereby call upon, notify and direct all members of the said General Assembly to meet at the Capitol, in the City of Raleigh, at Noon, on July 23, 1956, in such General Assembly as provided by the Constitution.

Done at our capital city of Raleigh, this 19th day of June, in the Year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-six.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and members of the General Assembly:

We face tonight one of the greatest crises which North Carolina has ever experienced and affecting at this moment the lives of more than a million school children.

You have been asked to leave your work and families to assemble here in what might well prove to be one of the most important and historic meetings of our General Assembly. It was with a great deal of concern that your Governor and Council of State felt it necessary to call this extraordinary session of the legislature. All of us wish it could have been avoided, however, since in our judgment it could not, I want to say that I am glad to see all of you and to know that as of today, the high responsibility for protecting our public schools will be shared by an additional 170 able, informed and devoted public servants. I know that you as a group are determined to protect our schools insofar as possible under the law. And that is as it should be!

The people of North Carolina whom we all represent, and in whose interest we are assembled at this special session, do not take lightly the danger in which our schools have been placed. There is a deep and abiding faith in the value of the public schools as we have known them, and the people of North Carolina do not expect us to stand idly by, as some have suggested, while our public schools are ruined in the course of a sociological experiment sought to be carried out at the expense of our children. It is my firm belief that on the contrary, the people of North Carolina expect their General Assembly and their Governor to do everything legally possible to prevent their children from being forced to attend mixed schools against their wishes.

Let us consider for a few minutes the original source of the trouble that has made this special meeting of the General Assembly necessary. I refer, of course, to the Supreme Court of the United States and its school segregation decisions. As you know, the 1854 decision by the Supreme Court overturned an interpretation of some 60 years' standing, placed upon the Fourteenth Amendment by that Court, to the effect that separate but equal facilities did not violate the terms of equal protection contained in that Amendment.

In overturning the previous interpretation, the Court ignored completely the well-established and often-cited doctrine: that an interpretation of the Constitution when it has been accepted over a long number of years by all branches of government fixes the construction on a point and it cannot thereafter be changed except by an amendment of the Constitution itself. Thus, what the Court actually did in the 1954 segregation decision went far beyond the mere results of the case. What the Court did was to take unto itself the power to amend the Constitution without consulting Congress or the people of the several states. And on what basis did the Court place this unwarranted assumption of power? The Court said this:

"In approaching this problem, we cannot turn the clock back to 1868 when the Amendment was adopted, or even to 1896 when Plessy v. Ferguson was written. We must consider public education in the light of its full development and its present place in American life throughout the nation. Only in this way can it be determined if segregation in public schools deprives these plaintiffs of the equal protection of the laws."

The clear meaning of these words is that the Court has definitely informed the people of the United States that then and henceforth it intends to change the Constitution whenever the members of the Court think it ought to be changed, without regard for what was intended by the Congress and the people, and without regard to previous interpretations of the Supreme Court, no matter how well established.
With deep seriousness, I would say a doctrine more dangerous to the very life of our Government could not, in my humble opinion, be devised. I recommend that this General Assembly, through an appropriate resolution, alert the other states and the entire nation to the perilous pitfalls lurking in such a doctrine. As I said in a speech made in New York last January:

"Eventually, if such a method of making decisions is followed, there will be a decision which conflicts with the customs and beliefs of other parts of the country as seriously as this one does with those of the South. Perhaps then the rest of the United States will realize the extent of the power which nine men assumed when they made their segregation decisions—and perhaps then it may be too late."

Occasionally I am asked why I do not urge our State to defy the Court's decision if I am really sincere in my belief that the decision represents an unlawful seizure of power by the Supreme Court in derogation of the Constitution of the United States. I would like to take this opportunity to answer that question, inasmuch as I definitely do not propose that this State defy the Supreme Court, even though I am convinced that the segregation decisions constitute an unlawful usurpation of power.

North Carolina is one of the United States and North Carolinians are citizens of the United States. We are each and all a part of one indivisible nation and none of us, I am sure, would have it otherwise. When our Nation's Government takes a wrong road, as, in my opinion it is doing by allowing the Supreme Court decision to be enforced as law, we in North Carolina will do everything we can to alert the rest of the nation that a wrong road has been taken and to use our influence in such manner as we can to change the bad state of affairs. But, and this is important, North Carolinians have no desire or intent to defy our country's government, simply because we believe it is making an error. In the first place, a course of defiance would forfeit whatever chance we might have of convincing the rest of the nation that our position in this matter is sincere. In the second place, such a course would get us nowhere. I suppose my feelings on this can be summed up simply by paraphrasing a toast offered by Stephen Decatur many, many years ago:

"Our Country! . . . May She always be in the right; but our country, right or wrong."

No, we are not going to defy the Court, but I'll tell you what we are going to do. We are going to use every legal means we can devise to insure that the effects of what we feel is an erroneous decision by the Supreme Court are not forced on our State in a fashion which could deprive us of one of our dearest possessions, namely—our public schools. It is to that end that we are assembled here in special session.

You will recall, I am sure, that during the primary election of state officers, including members of the General Assembly, very little difference of opinion appeared in this State on the mixing of the races in the public schools. This fact was largely attributable, in my opinion, to wide public acceptance of the recommendations contained in the April 5th Report of the North Carolina Advisory Committee on Education. I know most of you have already read and studied that Report, but since it has not previously been presented to the General Assembly in session, I would like to present it formally to you now by incorporating it into this message by reference. We shall not deal with the Committee’s April 5th Report in detail tonight, but I would like to read to you the two fundamental premises upon which its recommendations are based. They are:

"1. We are of the unanimous opinion that the people of North Carolina will not support mixed schools. This is to say that we believe if the schools were integrated in this State, the General Assembly, representing the people, would withhold support to a degree that the result would certainly be the ruin and eventual abandonment of the public schools. Whether a particular viewpoint finds this conclusion to be good or bad, pleasant or unpleasant, it remains our conclusion and we state it as such.

2. The second threshold conclusion, of which we are quite sure, is that the saving of our public schools requires action now. To do nothing would, we believe, destroy our public schools. Those who would insure the preservation of the public schools are those who would act.

The United State Supreme Court has dealt our schools a near fatal blow, and it now requires positive action to save them."

The statements just read are, of course, matters of opinion. They are true in the opinion of the members of the Committee. They are true in the opinion of your Governor and other public officials and private citizens who have endorsed what has come to be known as the Pearsall Plan. But, in the final analysis, you, the members of the General Assembly, are the best judges of the truth of those conclusions. It is my impression that you also believe them to be true.

Convinced then that if we allow the full force of mixing the races to hit our public schools, they will wither and die from lack of support, and, convinced that the time for action is at hand, I am sure you will want to start to get action in this session without delay—as to how long this will take, it is up to you. And that brings us now to the Advisory Committee’s Report of today (July 23rd), which contains the recommended legislation which I approve, and which I hereby transmit to you.

I should like now to read you this July 23rd Report of the Advisory Committee on Education, omitting, of course, the reading of the proposed legislative bills included therein. May I now read:

"The July 23rd (1956) Report of the North Carolina Advisory Committee on Education to the Governor and General Assembly of North Carolina:

"The thinking and recommendations of the North Carolina Advisory Committee on Education in connection with the problems growing out of the segregation decisions of the United States Supreme Court, were stated and made public in the Committee’s Report on April 5. The Committee would like to express its grateful appreciation for the reception given that Report and the support it has received both from officials of the State and the general public of the State.

"We will not repeat here all of the thoughts expressed in that Report, but we do take this opportunity to say that nothing has occurred since its publication which would indicate any need for change in the opinions and recommendations stated therein.

"This present Report is, therefore, largely for the purpose of transmitting officially to the Governor and General Assembly the proposed legislation we believe necessary to implement the recommendations contained in the April 5th Report. This proposed legislation is incorporated in and made a part of this Report."
“In addition to transmitting recommended legislation, the Committee includes herein a brief and summary description of its work since April 5.

“Immediately following publication of the April 5th Report, the Committee and its staff, assisted by personnel from the Governor's Office, the Attorney General's office, and the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, undertook to prepare rules and regulations to be recommended to local school boards for the implementation and the administration of the 1955 Assignment Law. This task consumed several weeks, and during this time, extended conferences were held with representatives from the Superintendents' Division of the North Carolina Education Association and with members of the Policy Board of the North Carolina School Board Association. These representatives furnished a great deal of help to the Committee and those working with it.

“As soon as drafts of rules and regulations had been prepared to the satisfaction of all those mentioned above, conferences were held throughout the State with school superintendents, school board attorneys, and members of local school boards for the purpose of explaining the provisions of the rules and regulations and pointing out how they best could be used. These conferences were, in the opinion of the Committee, highly successful and most of the local school boards in North Carolina immediately thereafter adopted necessary rules and regulations in connection with the 1955 Assignment Act.

“Immediately following completion of that phase of our work having to do with rules and regulations, the Committee and its staff, again with the assistance from the Governor's Office, the Attorney General's Office, and the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, began the task of drafting the proposed legislation, which is included in this Report. As soon as tentative drafts could be prepared, four conferences were scheduled for the purpose of securing the advice and council of members of the General Assembly. These conferences were held at Rocky Mount, Kinston, Lexington, and Waynesville. The Committee is deeply appreciative of the help of the members of the General Assembly in completing the drafts of this legislation. We believe that the conferences were in the public interest and were highly productive. We further believe that the work of the General Assembly in the Special Session, beginning July 23, will be considerably facilitated as the result of those conferences.

“In concluding this present report the Committee believes it advisable, for purposes of emphasis, to repeat here certain paragraphs from its Report of April 5.”

The Report then quotes several paragraphs from the April 5th Report, pointing out that:

1. The Supreme Court has never said that a child must go to a school with children of another race.

2. Although a child cannot be barred from a public school solely because of race, nevertheless, a sympathetic Court could recognize the difference between exclusion solely because of race and exclusion because of local conditions, even if race is one of the causes of the condition.

3. The original Governor's Special Advisory Committee, which included three Negroes among its members, unanimously concluded that the effective operation of the schools is impossible except in conformity with community attitudes.

4. The people of North Carolina must be assured of escape possibilities from intolerable situations, before they will give the necessary long-term support to an honest trial of the Assignment Plan passed by the regular session of the 1955 General Assembly.

5. The education expense grant and local option plans will provide the necessary escape possibilities, and these proposals are, therefore, recommended.

The Committee concludes its Report of July 23rd by pledging itself to continued study of the problem and urging in the meantime the adoption of the proposed legislation included in the Report. The Report is signed by all seven members of the Committee.

The bills which are a part of the Report are: First, the bill containing the recommended amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of North Carolina; second, the bill setting up the necessary machinery for holding the election in which the people will vote on the amendment; (the members of the North Carolina Supreme Court have said in an advisory opinion, which was given in answer to an inquiry by the Governor sometime ago, that the proposed constitutional amendment may be voted on by the people at an election held before November, if you so authorize); third, the bill providing for educational expense grants; fourth, the bill setting up the system of local option; fifth, the bill modifying the compulsory school attendance law; sixth, the bill authorizing appropriations from the Contingency and Emergency Fund for education expense grants; seventh, the bill amending the 1955 Assignment Act; and finally, a resolution of condemnation and protest against the usurpation of power by the United States Supreme Court.

We shall not attempt at this time any detailed discussion of this proposed legislation, other than a brief comment on the proposed constitutional amendment on which the people of the State will be asked to vote in September, assuming you authorize it. The two items (or "safety valves") of school attendance grants and local option are joined together in one amendment. This was purposely done because it was felt that it takes both of them to give our people the protection they need.

If there were two amendments as suggested by some, the people might vote "for" the attendance grant and "against" the local option. In such an instance, members of one race could take over a public school building vacated by the other race and the latter have no recourse.

If the people vote "for" local option and "against" attendance grant, a school might be closed by vote but neither race could receive an attendance grant nor could they attend another public school.

So you see, these amendments should stand together.

I should like, however, to emphasize two major points which should be kept in mind when considering these bills. First, they are completely permissive in nature. The proposed constitutional amendment could be adopted, and all of these bills enacted, and there would not necessarily be any change in the school assignment of any child, and no educational expense grants paid, and no votes on suspending schools, and no suspension of schools anywhere. Their provisions will be used only in the event they are necessary; and the only ones who can decide whether and when their use is necessary are the people themselves—the individual citizens and the local communities of this State. That is our answer to those who have expressed doubt that this legislation is really necessary. If it is not needed, it will not be used;
if it is, it will be available ready for use. But we owe it to the people to have it available.

I emphasize again, the legislation recommended to implement the Pearsall Plan is permissive only. It is in truth, as the Committee has described it, "safety valve" legislation.

The second point I want to mention about this legislation is that it does not require either segregation or integration. There are some who have accused the Pearsall Plan of permitting integration. To be kind to them, I suppose their thinking grows out of the fact that the Plan does not forbid integration. The truth of the matter is that the decision of the Supreme Court is what would permit integration, and any plan that attempted to forbid integration as a matter of law would be void on its face and of no protection whatever. No, this legislation does not make mandatory segregation or integration. It simply attempts to provide both the individual and the community the widest possible choice under the law.

So what do we mean when we say that the Pearsall Plan is permissive and not mandatory? We mean that our people will not, under its provisions, be forced to do anything; they will be, on the contrary, permitted to make the important decisions themselves. First, the entire Plan is to be submitted to all the people of the State in a referendum, and, second, no change can be made in the status of the school or schools in any locality without a vote of the people immediately concerned. This is what I like about the Pearsall Plan—its faith in the people, its trust in the democratic process.

Ask yourselves this simple question as you deliberate over this legislation: Is there any plan that you know of which can do a better job for the people of North Carolina?

There are those who sincerely insist that it is dangerous to give individual citizens and communities the choices offered by this legislation. There are some, equally sincere, who say that the educational expense grant is acceptable, but insist that no community should be given authority to suspend the operation of its schools.

Our answer is that we believe the overwhelming majority of parents can be relied upon to act in the best interest of their children. Furthermore, if conditions are ever so bad in a community that the people there will vote to suspend the operation of their schools, then conditions are so bad that those schools could not be successfully operated anyhow.

Perhaps, in the final analysis, the best way to evaluate the Pearsall Plan is to compare it with other courses of action that have been suggested at one time or another. One course would be simply to pass a bill automatically closing any school in which any mixing of the races, however slight, occurred. To me there are two things wrong with this suggestion. One, it seems to me that if a State offers to provide schools for one community and denies them to another, the act would not stand up constitutionally. (It will be remembered that under our program, the State, at all times, offers to provide schools to all communities alike, and it is only the community which by popular vote can refuse the offer.) The second thing wrong with the suggestion is that it would deprive the people of any say so in the matter; and, if I am any judge of the character of the people of North Carolina, they are not going to be deprived very long of their right of choice in any public matter, especially in public schools.
Another course of action suggested by some—although, fortunately, they are few—is to pass legislation which would require integrating the schools. I don't have to dwell long on this suggestion, but it can be pointed out that it, too, would deprive the people of North Carolina a choice in the matter.

Then, there are those who would simply do nothing and let the tide of events carry us where it will. The end result of this course of action or inaction could easily be integration with no choice and no relief, with the consequence of our schools being starved to death for lack of legislative and public support. All of us are happy to have these plans suggested, provided, as I have publicly said many times, the proposer or critic makes the suggestion with the idea of preserving the schools and the peace! Those who voice disagreement with the plan being submitted should have an alternate plan or suggestion, but the proposer, representing an individual, a group, or a newspaper should evidence honesty, sincerity and unselfishness. The worst situation I can imagine is one in which someone, of whatever race or affiliation, deliberately tries to create doubt and confusion among members of your distinguished body, well-meaning groups, and of the public in general. These particular critics do not really love their State or its schools.

It is my firm conviction that your Advisory Committee has recommended to you the best possible course of action at this time!

I would like now, and I believe I can speak for most of you in this, to express the State's grateful appreciation to the members of the North Carolina Advisory Committee on Education for the sincere and devoted service they have given their State. The members are: Mr. Thomas J. Pearsall, Chairman; Mr. William T. Joyner, Vice-Chairman; Senator Lunsford Crew; Senator William Medford; Representative Cloyd Philpott; Representative Edward Yarborough; and Mr. Robert O. Huffman. To these fine citizens, I say, "Well done, and thank you."

There are two other gentlemen who particularly deserve the deep appreciation of our State for their tireless efforts in connection with this problem. They are Attorney General, William B. Rodman, Jr., and Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Charles F. Carroll. To them also, I say, "Well done, and thank you."

One other thing needs to be said in connection with what the Advisory Committee has proposed. It is that any real long-term success of North Carolina, in meeting the school problem, is going to depend substantially on voluntary separate school attendance, and that the races work in harmony for the overall good. This means, and I cannot emphasize it too strongly, that every community in this State must see that all school facilities are truly equal. We cannot, and need not, in my judgment, expect Negro parents to be willing to send their children to dilapidated and unsanitary school buildings. Any community allowing such conditions to exist should not be surprised if they find themselves in serious trouble. I urge sincerely that any inequality in school facilities be eliminated without delay.

Incidentally, the Honorable Edwin Gill, our State Treasurer, tells me that we will shortly market the last $25 million of State school bonds, which should aid substantially in the overall program of providing adequate facilities for all the school children of North Carolina.
And now, may I suggest the spirit in which we as North Carolinians should approach the solution of this great crisis?

It seems to me that perhaps the greatest virtue in life is the quality of self-restraint or moderation, if you prefer. I realize only too well my own weaknesses and shortcomings, and I have no desire to question the motives and faults of others.

So let us rather reason together and find, if we can, a common ground for the salvation of our schools. I know there are extremes on this issue; those who would go far to the left, and those who would get equally as far to the right. It is neither fear nor lack of conviction that makes me stay nearer the middle; it is a sincere desire to be the Governor of all the people of whatever belief, of whatever extremes, and to lead as best I can the State in a moderate fashion to help solve this problem pressing down upon us.

The people of North Carolina have been wonderful. I am proud of their restraint, their moderation, their love for our schools. Working together without pride of our own opinion, we may make a contribution of which we and our children can be proud.

I urge the State and each citizen to be calm and have the spirit of moderation. Perhaps my feelings can best be expressed by quoting from one of the nation's most eminent judges, the Honorable Learned Hand:

"What is the spirit of moderation? It is the temper which does not press a partisan advantage to its bitter end, which can understand and will respect the other side, which feels a unity between all citizens . . . which recognizes their common fate and their common aspirations—in a word, which has faith in the sacredness of the individual."

And now, ladies and gentlemen of the General Assembly, those of us who have struggled with this responsibility through these past several months, place the matter in your capable hands. While it is true that the Advisory Committee has taken the initiative in making these proposals, it has been done at your direction, through your Resolution No. 29, adopted during the regular session of the 1955 General Assembly. Furthermore, the proposed bills have been hammered out with your help and advice in two series of legislators' conferences, plus innumerable personal conferences, both within and without the legislative ranks. We have done the best we know how to devise a sensible and acceptable plan for your consideration. Of course, no one contends that this plan is perfect, nor can anyone predict with absolute certainty its ultimate effect—for we must remember that we are sailing uncharted seas. Yours is the power to accept it as is, to modify and change it if you desire, or to discard it completely, if you see fit. I know that you realize the vast amount of thought and work and prayer that have been given to the program we are submitting to you, but you as individual legislators will, of course, vote as your conscience dictates.

I have publicly said on many occasions that the 1955 General Assembly was composed of sincere, devoted and able public servants. Whatever, in your wisdom, you decide to do, will, I am confident, be decided in the public interest.

Good luck and Godspeed!

Upon motion of Senator Moss the following statement by him is ordered spread upon the Journal:

I read in The News and Observer that I had a bill to introduce this morning. I knew the representative of the News and Observer knew of the bill, but the original information did not come from me. I would like to ask that my remarks be placed in the Journal.

I went to the Attorney General's office and it was his opinion, and it was my opinion prior to my visit, that it would be necessary that a bill be introduced to supplement taxes for private schools in the several school districts. In my county of Nash there are eight school districts that cannot supplement without setting up a new organization. Other gentlemen signed the bill before I did. It was concurred in, but in view of the fact that it would necessitate raising taxes and would require five days to pass, I do not wish to do anything that is vain.
Knowing the legislation to be necessary and knowing the type of gentlemen who will be here in 1957, I know it can be taken care of then and I hope that nothing will happen between now and then.

I would like to have incorporated in the Journal also that in my opinion under the provisions of the Pearsall Plan and Article 32 of the school law not more than two or three counties can have private schools. I want to give the Senate and the Presiding Officer the benefit of my opinion so that these matters may be remedied at the next Legislature.

No member of the Pearsall Advisory Committee, no one connected with the Governor, has asked me not to introduce the bill, but I feel that I have intelligence enough to know when something is vain, and I do know that these things will be necessary and will have to be passed on in the future.

Upon motion of Senator Winters, Charlene Grindstaff of Avery County is made an honorary page of the Senate.

Upon motion of Senator Aydlett, the courtesies of the lobby are extended to Representative-elect, Roy Parker of Hertford County.

Mr. President:

Pursuant to S. R. 14, entitled "A Joint Resolution by the Extra Session of the General Assembly of North Carolina of 1956 providing for adjournment on Friday, July 27, 1956", you are respectfully advised that the business of the House of Representatives is concluded and this Body is ready to open the doors of the House immediately upon receipt of information from your Honorable Body that you are ready to open your doors, that the gavels may fall simultaneously and adjournment may be declared sine die.

Respectfully,

ANNIE E. COOPER, Principal Clerk.

Pursuant to the information submitted above, the Senate having completed the business before it, a message is ordered sent to the House of Representatives informing that Honorable Body that the Senate stands ready for final adjournment.

The doors of the House of Representatives and Senate are thrown open, the Speaker of the House of Representatives is perceived standing ready to let fall the gavel. The hour for adjournment fixed by joint resolution passed by the two Houses having arrived, the President of the Senate declares the Senate of the General Assembly of the Extra Session of 1956 adjourned, sine die.

LUTHER E. BARNHARDT,
President of the Senate.

S. Ray Byerly,
Principal Clerk of the Senate.
A RESOLUTION HONORING THE MEMORY OF THE LATE DR. H. B. PERRY, FORMER SENATOR FROM WATAUGA COUNTY.

WHEREAS, Dr. H. B. Perry, who died November 20, 1955, during his second term as a member of the North Carolina State Senate, had practiced medicine in Boone and in rural Watauga County for more than fifty years. On horseback sometimes even on foot, by buggy and by automobile, Dr. Perry ministered to the needs of the people of the mountains through summer's heat and winter's snow and ice. He was the typical general medical practitioner—zealous for his patients' welfare and often unmindful of his own well-being as he pursued his healing mission, often performing surgical operations by lantern-light in isolated mountain homes. No man has lived a more useful life or served his fellow man with more assiduous concern, and

WHEREAS, in public life Dr. Perry contributed a full measure of his time and talents to the public good. He served as a member of the Board of Aldermen of the Town of Boone for many years, was in the thick of the fight in county political campaigns and had twice been elected to the State Senate, where he served with dignity, ability and courage: Now, THEREFORE,

Be it resolved by the Senate:

Section 1. That in the death of Dr. H. B. Perry, Boone and Watauga Counties have lost a faithful medical practitioner, that the Democratic party has been bereft of a tower of strength, that the State Senate has lost the counsel and leadership of one of its most able members, and that a leader in business and educational circles has been taken from our midst.

Sec. 2. That the deepest sympathy of the Senate is extended to his family, and a copy of this resolution be sent to them by the Principal Clerk of the Senate.

Sec. 3. This resolution shall become effective upon its adoption.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Once every four years the people of North Carolina select by ballot a Chief Executive to administer the affairs of their state government. Once every four years there is held this solemn and impressive ceremony of inauguration for the new Governor and other elected state officials who have been given the responsibility of office. It is a moving experience to find myself as the man chosen to take the oath of office as Governor.

As the ninety-second individual to serve as Governor of North Carolina, I am aware that no greater honor can be given to any citizen of our State. I should like to express my profound appreciation to the thousands of people in every walk of life, and from every section of our State, who have given me their support and expressed their confidence in me and in what I have been trying to do to help our State and our economy move forward. The people of North Carolina have been very generous to me. To the members of the several General Assemblies with which I have been privileged to work, I wish to express my gratitude for a cooperative and constructive approach to the problems facing state government and to express my appreciation for the assistance which has been given me in so many ways.
And, may I now say to the members of this General Assembly that I am looking forward eagerly to working with you. You come as I do, directly from a mandate of the people, and we will together do our best to help this State as it faces great problems and great opportunities.

I fear that too few people really understand the responsibilities and activities of the General Assembly of North Carolina. There is often much unfair and unwarranted criticism of the General Assembly because of this lack of understanding. We have been fortunate over the years to have men of great ability, dedication and patriotism to serve and lead the affairs of our legislative bodies. I have often pointed to this outstanding record of service on the part of our legislators because I know from first-hand experience that this is true. I am proud to be associated with you!

We have about 75,000 people employed by the State to serve our departments and agencies, including our great public schools. These employees, their supervisors and our agency and department heads have demonstrated high character, loyalty, ability and a willingness to improve not only the job at hand, but the work of the State as a whole. I wish to express sincere appreciation for the work of our state employees, and to thank them for their cooperation and for their assistance to me.

I should also like to express my appreciation to many good friends and associates who have cheerfully given their cooperation, their talents, and their unselfish assistance, and my deepest thanks go to my office staff and to my family, for their understanding, their patience, and their unfailing devotion during these past two years.

In January four years ago, my predecessor, Governor William B. Umstead of Durham, stood on this stage and delivered his inaugural address. Little did we who were present realize what momentous events were about to happen. Following his sudden illness which occurred two days after he stood here, Governor Umstead rallied and demonstrated great courage and determination in carrying on the duties of his office, and in seeking and winning the support of the 1953 General Assembly for his legislative program. The State rejoiced when Governor Umstead returned to his office after more than four months in bed and plunged into the arduous full-time responsibilities of the Governorship. He served with distinction and to the fullest of his strength and abilities until his sudden and untimely death on November 7, 1954. It was my duty and responsibility to take the oath of office formally on November 9, and to carry forward the work of the Umstead administration. Today, I pay tribute to Governor Umstead, his integrity, his courage, and his devotion to North Carolina.

I am acutely aware of the outstanding and dedicated service rendered by my predecessors in this office for the past half century. The men and their achievements are well known to all—Umstead—mental hospitals and schools: Scott—rural roads and capital improvements: Cherry—sound administration and conservation of war-time gains and revenues: Broughton—war-time leader and promoter of good hospitals: Hoey—oration and spokesman for good government: Ehringhaus—courageous leadership in the face of a national economic crisis: Gardner—able administrator who brought about numerous reforms in our State government: McLean—sound fiscal controls: Morrison—the first state-wide road system: Bickett—eloquent World War I leader: Craig—advocate of good schools, mental care: Kitchen—aggressive defender of the peoples’ rights; Glenn—staunch conservative; and the great Aycock—evangel of the public schools. Think of these men and you think of leaders who have given the history of North Carolina “a forward thrust, and sense of direction, and infusion of important knowledge,” not to mention ideas, programs, deeds and accomplishments beyond immediate recall. Each of these men represented principles and causes followed by thousands of North Carolinians devoted to the welfare and future of the State.

This is the first time in modern times that inauguration ceremonies have been held in February instead of January. Following the amendment of the Constitution in the September 8, 1956 election changing the date for the convening of the General Assembly, it was my responsibility to decide whether or not to be inaugurated in January or February. I decided to continue the custom of having the Governor take the oath of office in the presence of the Joint Session of the General Assembly.

The inaugural address of a Governor has traditionally been the time when he outlined in some detail his legislative program for the State. Although I respect this tradition I should like to take a somewhat different approach in that my remarks today will present a broad look at North Carolina, our government, our people, our heritage and our future. Subject to the approval of the General Assembly, I should like to present my legislative program in the form of a Biennial Message to a Joint Session of the General Assembly on next Monday night.

Let us look now at North Carolina. The history of North Carolina and its settlement reaches back through the misty corridors of time to 1524, when the first of various French, Spanish and English explorers touched this region. The first English Colony in the new world was founded on Roanoke Island in 1585, and Ralph Lane of Surry, England, served as the first Governor of that Colony, which failed. William Drummond of Virginia, as the first Chief Executive under the Proprietors began a period of colonial government which reached from 1663 to 1728. Richard Everard served as the first Governor under the Crown in 1728, and Josiah Martin became the last Governor under this arrangement in 1775. There was a brief period in which leadership was carried by the presidents of the Provincial Council beginning with Cornelius Harnett in 1775 and ending with Willie Jones in 1776. Then began the election of Governors by the Legislature, with Richard Caswell serving as the first Governor under that system. This era ended with the term of R. D. Speight, Jr., in 1836. E. B. Dudley became the first Governor elected by vote of the people in December 1836 and since that time 35 different men have held this office until today. Governor Daniel G. Fowle of Wake was the last Governor before Governor Umstead to die in office, Governor Fowle succumbed in 1893 and was succeeded by Thomas M. Holt of Alamance, the Lieutenant Governor, who did not seek election as Governor.

In its beginnings, North Carolina was one of the thirteen colonies strung out along the Atlantic Coast of a mighty and unconquered continent. She was settled by hardy, industrious and independent English, Scotch Irish and German settlers looking for land, freedom and opportunity. Hardship and adversity were every-day problems of existence. In April, 1776, when growing differences between the American Colonies and the British Crown had reached serious proportions, the Fourth Provincial Congress of North Carolina met at Halifax and unanimously adopted the famous Halifax Resolves. Thus, North Carolina struck out in favor of independence from Great Britain when the Colonies to the north of us were not yet ready to move. This resolute action on the part of our Colonial Convention had a profound effect upon the Continental Congress then in session at Philadelphia. We have always been very proud of our forefathers for this bold and daring act in a time of desperate danger and uncertainty. It has taken men with such courage, determination and vision to make North Carolina the great state it is today.

In November 1789, North Carolina became the 12th state to join the Union and thereby link its fortunes and future with a new Republic—the United States of America.

The years that followed were unsettled, and progress in North Carolina was slow for several decades until the adoption of several important Constitutional Amendments in 1835, which marked a real awakening and stirring among our people. The University of North Carolina, which had opened in 1795, was a leader in this awakening through the process of educating the young men of the State and in furnishing enlightened leadership for our counties and State.

North Carolina's participation in the war for Southern independence was a great period of crisis, sacrifices and patriotism to a cause which was lost. We supplied more than 125 thousand men to the Southern armies and supported the Confederacy with all our resources until April 1865, when the end came. Then followed the dark and uncertain Reconstruction period and a time of bitter political turmoil. By the end of the 19th century, North Carolina was beginning to recover from the effects of the war and showed signs of looking ahead for a better and more prosperous century to come.

Since the beginning of the twentieth century North Carolina has made more progress than in all her previous history. Stimulated by the broad and far-reaching educational program launched by Governor Charles B. Aycock, the State since 1900 has never turned back in its forward march. During this period our population has more than doubled, and in 1950, North Carolina ranked tenth in the nation. In agriculture and industry, we have been a leader in the South for many years. This progress has been made in spite of serious handicaps and reflects credit upon our people and our state government.

We have not hesitated to invest in schools, roads, hospitals, and health centers, port terminals and institutions of higher learning. The record is most impressive. We were the first Southern state to establish a tax-supported system of public schools, and we pioneered in the construction of a system of hard-surfaced roads. In public health, North Carolina had the first county in the United States to inaugurate full-time county health work, and North Carolina was the first state to manufacture and distribute free typhoid vaccine. We were one of the first states to launch a public welfare program, as authorized by our Constitution of 1868, and as early as 1917 provided a public welfare program for every county. We also were early leaders in farm and county agent work and in soil conservation.
In public education we have moved forward vigorously. At first the State aided public elementary and high schools and later during the Depression of the 1930's assumed responsibility for the basic support of a nine-month school term of eleven grades. Later a twelfth grade was added. We have seen total school enrollment increased to a million students with high school enrollment alone nearly a quarter of a million. Our program of consolidated rural schools, served by more than 7,000 school buses, was an early, constructive and far-reaching effort by North Carolina to bring public education to every section of every county. And much of our comparative economic progress is due to our progress in education.

We have also done well in higher education. North Carolina now ranks seventh in the nation in the number of institutions of higher learning, and we have two members of the Association of American Universities, the University of North Carolina and Duke University. This Association comprises a total of only 37 distinguished institutions, and it is a tribute to higher education in North Carolina that Carolina and Duke are members. Both institutions have built up great research libraries that together contain more than two million volumes. At North Carolina State College, we have one of the great land-grant institutions of the nation, where teaching, research and extension in science and technology have made great contributions to the agricultural and industrial growth of the State. Our other state-supported colleges are well-known and integral parts of our higher education system. There are many fine private institutions, such as beautiful new Wake Forest College at Winston-Salem, highly respected Davidson College, and many, many others.

We have advanced in other fields as well. The North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, the first such organization in America to receive direct state aid, has won a national reputation for the quality of its music and its tremendous educational work with the school children of the State. We have one of the finest programs of public library service in the nation. The Grass Roots Opera is an example of efforts to stimulate and encourage an understanding appreciation of this great form of art. The Morehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill makes a significant contribution to our education. Interest and activity in the field of history and in the preservation of historical antiquities, including the famous Governor Tryon Palace, have been very good. Tar Heels have pioneered in the production of outdoor historical symphonic dramas, such as "The Lost Colony," "Unto These Hills" and others; indeed to such an extent that the idea of staging these beautiful and moving dramas has spread to many other states. From an area that had been described as barren literary ground a few decades ago, North Carolina has become an oasis of literary production, with poets and novelists and other writers in every section of the State. One of the most significant cultural achievements in recent years was the establishment of the great new State Museum of Art which opened in 1956. To me, this is an example of the desire of our people to acquaint themselves and their children with the riches of life itself.

Our State is beautiful from our mountains to our seacoast. It has scenery, climate, and it is a friendly State.
One could go on and on, but praise is not enough. It is clear that we today are the inheritors of a splendid tradition of greatness. Yet, it is not enough to inherit greatness. We must be worthy of it!

In looking back across half a century, we are deeply stirred by the courage, the self-sacrifice, the spiritual faith, and the extraordinary vision of our people. While we have been blessed with great leadership, we have also had great followers. In fact, sometimes it seems that the people themselves are the leaders, and that our Governors and Legislators are important only as they understand and interpret the spirit of a great people.

Today, as in times past, North Carolina stands at the crossroads. We have made progress, but so have others. We must not stand still. Great decisions are in the offing; great choices must be made, great problems are demanding solution. At such a time, we, who, under the dispensation of Providence, hold for a little while the destiny of North Carolina in our hands, must take strength from the past; for the greatness of history is made manifest in the actions of the living. Do we today have the faith and the vision of our forefathers? Are we equal, as they were, to the demands of the hour? I am bold enough to answer for all North Carolinians and say that I am confident that we are!

The future, with all its problems, challenges and opportunities, lies ahead of us. We must build upon the solid foundation of progress which is ours. All of us must—with proper regard to our individual responsibilities in our counties and localities—try to think of the State and its welfare. Careful planning, hard work, persistence and unselfishness must be ours, if we successfully achieve our goal!

It is only natural to expect that any plans to meet the demands of the future may run head-on into well-established and accepted policies and practices which were designed to answer the needs of the past. Suggestions or criticisms on government organization or reorganization, our economy or other major parts of our life are not always welcomed because these suggestions usually mean a change from what has been done in the past. This is a very human reaction and is easily understood. Constructive criticism, from any quarter, should not disturb us, however, because this is a sign of maturity within our State. We should be glad that North Carolinians, while fully appreciating our past and our many blessings and resources, can still evaluate our shortcomings and, furthermore, can have the courage to speak out on matters which should be corrected. I agree with this point of view. Life itself is a vibrant and ever-changing process. To move forward intelligently, we must plan and work at our major goals and objectives. To do otherwise would result in aimless drifting in a competitive society which has no mercy on such dilatory actions.

Sir James Jeans once said:

"As inhabitants of the earth, we are living at the very beginning of time. We have come into being in the fresh glory of dawn, and a day of almost unthinkable length stretches before us with unimaginable opportunities for accomplishment. Our descendants of far off ages, looking down the long vista of time from the other end, will see our present age as the misty morning of the world's history, our contemporaries of today will appear as dim historic figures (working)—to make a world worthy for mankind to live in."
It is with realization of such limitless opportunities before us, that I assume the office of Governor of North Carolina. Surely God has been good to us and has given to each of us a responsibility and an opportunity to work for our own welfare, the welfare of our children and the welfare of generations yet unborn. It is my purpose to dedicate myself in the spirit of unselfish service to help in the unfinished task of building a better, greater and more beautiful North Carolina. It shall be my purpose to do everything possible to raise the standard of living for the people of this good State. I am not satisfied with where we are. At the end of my four-year term, I may not be satisfied with the progress we have made, but I shall be pleased and gratified with any forward movement accomplished with zeal and courage. I shall give the State my best!

My motivation to serve our people has grown from love, affection and a sense of duty for North Carolina. I hope you will understand a personal reference which comes from a grateful heart. More than 40 years ago I was working as a mill hand in Rockingham County, with my only assets being my youth, good health, and a stubborn determination to move ahead in life. I had been born across the line in Virginia, and my home in North Carolina is still within eight miles of where I was born. My father was a tenant tobacco farmer who found in 1899, the year after my birth, that he could not make it any longer on the farm, that he must find work to support his wife and eight children, so we moved over the line into North Carolina to a mill town where the ninth child was born.

My father, as did some of my brothers and sisters, worked in the mills 60 to 70 hours a week for about ten cents an hour. The pay was about the same when I went to work years later, as I was next to the youngest of nine. I was in the seventh grade before I ever entered a school building owned by the state or local government. My early school was a transformed mill house owned by the company. However, these were my beginnings and I am grateful for them and the opportunities offered to me by my family, teachers, friends, and the State of North Carolina. I had the privilege of attending the University of North Carolina, where I found that you could make friends regardless of your station in life—yes, even those of us who were working our way through college. For all the opportunities I have had, I am eternally grateful and I can never repay this State for what it has done for me.

Through the years, I have tried in my own way to serve my community and my State in many different capacities, just as tens of thousands of others have done. It is my honest belief that part of the genius of this great State is the wonderful service rendered without hope of personal reward, with humility and dedication, by good citizens who want to help their State, county, or community. I recall a statement made many years ago that went something like this: “Rome’s citizens did not love her because she was great. Rome was great because her citizens loved her.” That is the spirit I like best, the spirit which moves men to serve their communities and State rather than solely themselves, and the spirit I believe which is prevalent in our State. If we keep this spirit, if we nourish it, if we practice it, nothing can stop us.

May I say to the 4-1/3 million people of North Carolina that we have a great heritage, a great present and a great future. If we take our heritage and couple it with the opportunities of the present, a great future is assured. Our strength is within ourselves—as a people of a strong State. I am filled with pride when I think of the overwhelming love of our people for their State. Most of us are descendants of those hardy early settlers and our family roots are deep in the rich soil of this fair land. We have cherished the independence of thought and action typical of our forefathers. The importance of morality in thought and action should never be overlooked. From all of these qualities have come strong people, strong leaders and respected leadership among the states of the nation.

We are a moderate, but progressive people. Since our earliest days, our citizens have faced many tough and serious problems without panic or extremes. There is a characteristic stability about our people and our approach which is most important. This stability and moderation have enabled us to deal with even the most controversial of issues with calmness, resolve and understanding.

As we look ahead in North Carolina, let us do it with enthusiasm and optimism, recognizing our problems and opportunities. Let's face up to these problems with a clear mind, a clean heart, and willing hands. Let's be inspired by the love of our State and what she has done for us and our children, and what she yet holds out for us and those who will come after us.

May the Good Lord lead and bless each of us!

JOINT SESSION

Senator Graves, on the part of the Committee appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House, presents His Excellency, Governor Luther H. Hodges, who delivers the following message:
Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

In the Inaugural Address last Thursday, I refrained from discussing in specific terms these things we believe should be included in the State's program for the coming biennium. This was done because I believe a Governor's recommendations to the General Assembly can be better presented on an occasion and in a message designed solely for that purpose.

Separating the Inaugural Address and the Biennial Message is a departure from tradition, but it is one which seems to me to be justified and one of which I hope you approve. The form of this message tonight will also be a slight departure from tradition in that the spoken portion will not include a comprehensive discussion of the recommended budget appropriations, although I would like at this point to mention some of the total figures with which you will be dealing.

General Fund revenues for the biennium are expected to exceed the 1955 estimates by $47 1/2 million. These unanticipated funds, when added to amounts which have been saved from appropriations made by the 1955 General Assembly, will at the end of the present fiscal year provide the State's General Fund an estimated credit balance of $59,871,113.

The existence of a substantial credit balance and business conditions which justify reasonably optimistic revenue predictions enable the State to accomplish many things which otherwise would have been impossible. These things include maintenance of essential state services, with full allowance for expected growths in population, school enrollment, etc.; salary raises for teachers and other state employees; and adequate capital improvements program; and the revision of our revenue structure as recommended by the Tax Study Commission. Total appropriations recommended for General Fund agencies, not counting capital improvements, amount to $500,678,543, as compared with total General Fund appropriations for 1955-57 of $417,492,613, an increase of 20%. Appropriations for recommended capital improvements for the coming biennium amount to $42,541,474.

It is my sincere conviction that by proportioning the available funds in amounts which allow us to accomplish all of these things, rather than having to leave some undone because of devoting a larger amount to any particular program, our State will move forward toward an expanding and balanced economy while maintaining government services at the level expected by its people.

A budget summary will be handed to each of you in a separate printed pamphlet and complete details will, of course, appear in the budget document itself. I have here a copy of the budget summary and the budget itself, which are herewith by reference made a part of this message.

Before discussing specific recommendations for a biennial program, I would like to call to your attention a few highly significant statistics which furnish us as background a thumbnail, but accurate, description of the State's economic structure. I feel that such a description will be helpful inasmuch as one of the major items of the program we shall recommend is the revision of our tax laws—a revision which has as one of its principal purposes the correction of certain deficiencies and imbalances in our State's economy.
The most disturbing statistics in connection with the State's economy have to do with our per capita income. We stand 44th among the states and far below the national figure. This has been our situation for several decades, and it clearly reveals that something is not as it should be, because North Carolinians are as resourceful and as energetic as any other people in the United States, and given a chance, we can do as good a job as any other people in the United States.

Another disturbing statistic in connection with our State has to do with our population growth and the makeup of our population. Although North Carolina is one of the minority of the forty-eight states that doubled their population during the 50 years between 1900 and 1950, our rate of growth between 1950 and 1955 was not up to the growth of the Nation and was exceeded by both Virginia and South Carolina. During this period between 1950 and 1955, our population increase was 6.9%, and the increase for the nation was 9.0%. Virginia's increase was 7.8% and South Carolina's was 9.0%.

Looking at the areas of growth and nongrowth within our State, we find variances as between different sections of the State, which are also cause for serious concern. Although, fifteen counties in North Carolina had a population increase of more than 20% in the decade between 1940 and 1950, twenty-two counties had a decrease in population during the same period, and nineteen others had an increase of less than 5%. The counties having population decreases or having very small increases are in the eastern and far-western parts of our State. Those few eastern counties which show large increases in population contain large military installations, whose growth since 1940 has naturally been great.

Examining briefly the age group of our population, we find high ratios of the non-income-producing age groups with a corresponding small ratio of the age groups who do produce income. According to the latest census, 41.3% of North Carolina's population is under twenty years of age. The corresponding figure for the United States as a whole is only 33.9%. The median age in our State is 25 years as compared with a median age of 30.2 years for the entire country.

This high proportion of young people means not only that we have relatively fewer income producers, but also that the cost of providing public education is a relatively greater burden on the income producers we have than is the case in most all other states. I hasten to add that educating our youth is a burden our people have repeatedly shown themselves more than willing to bear, and our concern is not to lessen the burden, but to find more resources with which to do a better job of education. It is our further concern that too often our young people, having received their education, are having to leave our State in search of the jobs for which they have been prepared and to which they are entitled.

Another significant fact in connection with age group ratios of our population has to do with the increasing proportion of older people. In 1900, persons sixty-five years of age and above constituted 3.5% of our population, but in 1950, this figure was 5.5%. We can note with particular concern that of the twenty-two counties in North Carolina that lost population between 1940 and 1950, twenty had higher than average percentages of older people and also higher than average percentages of older people requiring public assistance. A high ratio of older people requiring public assistance accompanied by a loss in population is, I am told, almost always attributable to a serious lack of economic opportunities.

Other disturbing statistics appear in connection with our farms. It can be safely said that one of the largest contributors to our low per capita income is the fact that our small farmers are not getting their part of the total income. Many other states, in which agriculture is of comparable importance, have a better per capita income than we do. Our problem is that our farms are small and too little outside employment is available for the persons living on those farms. We have the smallest farms in the Nation, and with the increasing mechanization in agriculture these farms grow more and more uneconomical every year that passes, since the small acreage will not justify the capital investment necessary for mechanization. Our farm agencies must continue to work on this problem.

The per capita income of those persons in North Carolina dependent on farming alone for their income is around $500 per year, whereas, the per capita income of those dependent on sources other than agriculture is something over $1600 per year. A particularly interesting figure is one which has to do with the 41% of farm operators in the State who supplement their income with work off the farm. Of this 41%, who have outside work, well over one-half have an income from their outside work which exceeds their total farm income. This fact offers a great encouragement if we can find ways to make more jobs outside agriculture available to small farmers. With our fine secondary road system making it possible for industrial plants to draw workers from areas up to forty miles from the plant itself, there are great possibilities here. Surely, if there is any possible way in which our small farmers can remain on the farm and still make incomes adequate for themselves and their families, we ought to try to find it. It is my purpose to do everything I can along these lines.

Ladies and gentlemen of the General Assembly, it is my conviction that North Carolinians prefer to have the facts, and our willingness to examine ourselves in the bright light of self-criticism and analysis is, as our own Walter Hines Page once said, a mark of the maturity of our State. The few statistics I have mentioned present a disturbing picture of the economic situation in North Carolina as of today. It is a situation which must give all of us serious concern. It is also one which forces this question upon us: How are we going to provide the jobs which our people must have if our State is to move forward?

We already know that opportunities for making adequate incomes solely in agriculture are available for fewer and fewer people. The number of persons needed in the farm economy reduces every year. A recent report published by the Bureau of Census tell us that unless there is a net migration from the farms, there are for the United States as a whole 135 rural males for every 100 needed for replacement in the 25-69 age groups. In North Carolina, the replacement ratio in this age group is 192 compared with the 135 for the Nation. That is the highest in the United States except for South Carolina. It is in the coastal plain counties that such surpluses are highest.

Returning to the question of how to provide jobs that our people must have, I can see only one answer. We must develop more industry, both manufacturing and agricultural. We must create more industry locally financed, and we must bring in more industry from outside. We must encourage in every reasonable way the expansion of industry which is already here. As I shall discuss further in a few minutes, it should also be remembered that if we are to prosper as a state, our agricultural economy must prosper, and methods to improve things in this field must be a definite part of our over-all efforts to strengthen our economy.

Our industrial growth has fallen behind the rate of growth in the other Southeastern States, and behind the rate of growth in the Nation as a whole. Thus, in spite of the fact that many new plants have recently begun operation here and many older plants have expanded, we are falling behind relatively speaking. It is, therefore, necessary that we remove insofar as possible whatever roadblocks now exist to our further industrial development.

The 1955 General Assembly was aware that a roadblock to our industrial development might be found in our tax structure and adopted legislation which authorized creation of the Commission to Study the Revenue Structure of the State. This legislation specifically directed a detailed study of the impact of state and local taxes on industry and specifically alluded to the possibility that the allocation formula under the income and franchise taxes is excessively harsh and inflexible.

Shortly following the adjournment of the 1955 General Assembly, the Tax Study Commission, as it has come to be known, was created. Its members labored nearly two years in their study and in the preparation of their report. I would like to take this opportunity to express again publicly the State's deep appreciation for the patriotic service of the members of the Tax Study Commission. I particularly call to your attention the fact that despite the widely varying economic viewpoints among the members of the Commission, their report is unanimous.

The Commission's Report confirmed the misgivings expressed by the 1955 General Assembly with respect to the detrimental effect of our present tax structure on industrial development. We shall not take the time tonight to go into any detail concerning the recommendations contained in the Commission's Report, since all of you have received copies and I am sure have studied them. As we progress into this session of the 1957 General Assembly, I know that you will be constantly referring to them. I would, however, like to make a few observations and comments concerning these recommendations.

It should be kept in mind that these recommendations are comprehensive, and although there has been a great deal of discussion concerning the effect upon businesses with multi-state operations, there are many other significant aspects to the Report.

I have been highly gratified with the general response to the tax proposals and to learn that in general they are receiving widespread approval among our people. Even some of those who will have some slight tax increase are speaking out in support of the program. Several groups of citizens representing particular economic interests whose tax bills will go up as a result of adjustments have contacted me and expressed their approval of what we are trying to do. They have stated that, in their opinion, the resulting stimulation of business and industrial activity would provide an over-all good for the State which would more than compensate for whatever temporary loss might be felt. Instances such as this do my heart good, and I realize more than ever what wonderful people we have in our great State. With that sort of attitude North Carolina is bound to move ahead.

Naturally, there have been objections to the proposals here and there. Some have claimed that it is a “give-away” program for big business. In my opinion, criticism such as this probably grows out of a misunderstanding of what is in the Commission’s recommendations. In the first place, it is not a “give-away” program in any sense. Industrial operations, whether they be large or small, will continue to be taxed by the State at the same rate they have been taxed heretofore. Our corporate income tax rate is now 6%, which is as high an effective rate as there is in the country. It is not proposed that this rate be lowered. It is recommended, however, that we remove certain unfair aspects from our system of taxation on industry, in order to bring us in line with the approach used by the great majority of other states.

I have never, and still do not, approve of “give-away” programs for industry. The industry we would attract with such programs is not the kind of industry we want. Good industry, and the kind we want in North Carolina, is willing to assume the fair share of the tax burden. All that the recommendations of the Tax Study Commission are seeking to do is to make our taxing of industry fair. What fairness is there in North Carolina taxing that portion of a corporation’s income which is earned in another state, as we now do in many cases, under our present tax laws?

I also call to your attention the fact that many, many citizens of small and moderate incomes are directly benefitted by these tax proposals. For instance, a home owner, and there are many in North Carolina, who sells his home and receives for it an inflated price will no longer have to consider that inflated price as income if he reinvests his money in a home within a year from the sale of the old. Under present law, he must pay income tax on any gain received, even though he immediately has to buy another house at an inflated price and has no real gain. Furthermore, it is recommended that all citizens be allowed to use what is referred to as the “standard deduction” on their income tax forms, rather than to have to list individually all deductions such as contributions to charity, interest on mortgages, etc. Under present state law, only those persons whose income is received solely from salaries or commissions are allowed to do this, which means that taxpayers such as small farmers and small businessmen are now denied the privilege. Well over 100,000 citizens will be favorably affected by this single recommendation.

It is to be kept in mind that what we are seeking in this tax program is another tool in our efforts to raise the per capita income of North Carolinians—which is but another way of saying that we are trying to raise the standard of living of North Carolinians—all North Carolinians. My travels have taken me the length and breadth of this great State in this effort, and the specific purpose of every program we have undertaken in connection with our economy—including the establishment of the Business Development Corporation, the Research Triangle, and, in recent weeks, the State Nuclear Energy Advisory Committee, has been toward that end.
The only way to raise a per capita income figure significantly in a state such as ours is to raise the income of the great bulk of our people, which is made up of persons with low and average incomes. Increasing higher bracket incomes will not do the job. For example, it is estimated that if we were to increase by 10% the income of every North Carolinian who makes $10,000 a year, or more, the per capita income figure, which is now $1236, would not be increased by more than $10. If, on the other hand, we were to raise the incomes of all persons earning $5,000 per year or less—these include the persons making one, two, or three thousand dollars a year—if we were to raise these incomes by 10%, the per capita income figure would go up at least $250, which, based on this year's figures, would put us 34th instead of 44th. Naturally, we are not against persons with high incomes enjoying continued or increased prosperity, but the program I want for our good State is one which is dependent on increasing the low and moderate incomes.

There seems to be considerable concern over the proposals of the Tax Commission that additional revenue-raising powers be authorized for local governments. I am advised that the Tax Commission made these proposals, which do not affect state revenues, in recognition of the fact that our cities and counties are continually hard pressed for revenues to meet their essential local services. This is going to be increasingly true as more and more people settle in and around our cities, and unless some leeway is provided and means are established for taxation, you may expect demands for more drastic action on the part of municipal governments, demands in the form of such things as local sales taxes, or other such undesirable measures. Already, in some of the other states there are city sales taxes and various city consumer levies.

We could discuss other features of the recommended tax revisions, but you will have ample opportunity for this sort of thing during the coming weeks.

May I say to you in frankness and sincerity that now is about the only time in our modern history when these far-reaching tax changes and adjustments could be made. Our revenues this present biennium have far exceeded our estimates, and we are happy that the country's economy has made it possible. The general outlook for the next biennium is comparatively good, although none of us should expect these recommended tax changes to result in any immediate inrush of industries. A basic change in the nature of an economy is a long-term process and does not take place overnight, no matter what tax changes are made.

The concluding thought I would like to leave with you with respect to the tax portion of the program I am recommending is simply this: The proposed revisions in our revenue laws were formulated together, and the effect of each change was considered in the light of conditions which would exist with all other changes. There has been no attempt to show favoritism to any group. Rather, the desire has been to remove inequities wherever they were found. The approach has been one looking to the over-all good of all our people, and although there may be differences of opinion as to details, I want you to know that that is the spirit with which the recommendations are submitted to you.
AGRICULTURE

When we speak of improving the economy of North Carolina, it seems to me unrealistic if we do not recognize that while we are making every effort to accelerate our industrial development we must at the same time place equal emphasis on improvement in the agricultural segment of our economy. The goals being sought by both kinds of activities are the same, and such over-all improvement as we are able to accomplish must, as I have previously said, find industry and agriculture going down the road together side by side and hand in hand.

North Carolina is still predominantly an agricultural state. We still have twice the national average in number of people on the farm. In many ways this is good, but in some ways it is not good, as it keeps down the income of our people and makes more hazardous their ability to improve their incomes. However, as already mentioned, the fact that many small farmers are able in certain sections of the State to secure adequate income through off-the-farm jobs offers great possibilities for improving this situation and making it possible for them to remain on the farms.

Looking at the overall picture in agriculture, without singling out the problems of the small farms, we can see definite progress. We are making progress in diversification. Our cattle and dairy businesses are growing. Poultry now brings to the State the second largest amount of money of any of our farm commodities.

Government agencies, both State and Federal, having to do with agricultural problems, are cooperating to improve our farm production through diversification of crops and in many other ways. I want to commend all of them for the great service they have rendered. They have made life for our rural people much more enjoyable, and they are pointing the way to a more comfortable future, yet they have been practical and realistic enough to point out the dangers which we are facing with the decrease in our tobacco economy. They and others are giving more attention to marketing, packaging, and selling. Particular mention may be made of the work of three state agencies, the School of Agriculture at State College, the Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Conservation and Development, which have all worked together to bring greater industrial and agricultural development to this State. Each of the three has specifically had a hand in bringing in from the outside a specific industry in the form of a factory or processing plant, or research farm.

Let's interest ourselves, as representatives of the people from the 100 counties of this State, in the problem of development of all segments of our economy. You, as the elected leaders in your counties, can help a great deal by discussing these matters with representatives of our state agencies. I have urged them in turn to counsel and advise with you. Let us bring forward together the resources of both agriculture and industry to the end that our State and all of its people will have better incomes, better homes, better schools, and all the other good things of life.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

We turn now to consideration of the needs of our public schools. Public education is, in my opinion, of more fundamental importance to the long-range and well-rounded development of our State than any other state governmental program. The story of the growth of our schools through increased enrollment, and of the shortage of qualified teachers is one with which you are all familiar, and I shall not dwell on it here. This good State, since the turn of the century, has shown an almost paramount interest in public school education. We have, during the last twenty-five years supported our public schools at state level in a generous manner commensurate with the State's resources. We should continue to do so. We should provide a good minimum on an equal basis for all children in our 100 counties. For this next biennium the recommended amount for the nine-month school term is $286,000,000, as compared with $247,000,000 for the present biennium. We should increase appropriations through the years to maintain this good minimum for the continually increasing school population and should raise salaries for our 35,000 teachers as we raise salaries for our 41,000 other school and state employees.

School leaders and school teachers should, even as you and I should, constantly reappraise their jobs and the system under which they work. The people are increasingly asking such questions as, "Are we really preparing our children to enter college or to enter an occupation where they are best suited?" "Why shouldn't we have our school plants open 12 months a year and put teachers on a respectable year-round basis?" "What of more and better teaching in science and mathematics?" "What of teacher shortage and teacher helpers, and what of rewarding on the basis of ability?" "How do we finance further buildings?" etc. Not just school people, but all of us, at all levels and in whatever position, must help to answer these pressing questions.

We must have a long-time goal of state leadership and support supplemented by funds from local sources to build the kind of school system we ought to have. I appointed sometime ago a state-wide Citizens Committee for Better Schools, not for an official report to a legislative body, but to work throughout the communities of North Carolina, arousing the total public interest in their public school education. I believe we will see worthwhile results from this group of fine citizens and thousands of others of like mind.

We need more vocational and technical education, particularly on the industrial side, to meet our changing economy. I am glad to say that the State Board of Education is working on this at the public school level, and the Board of Higher Education is recommending the establishment of technical institutes and the strengthening of the one now in existence. This Board has also proposed, and the Advisory Budget Commission and I have approved for your consideration, the creation of a loan fund to be available to young people of college age and qualification who want to go into public school teaching and need financial assistance to secure the necessary college education.

One concluding thought with respect to the public schools has to do with possible action by the Federal Congress. In the event that while you are in session Federal funds for school construction are made available to the states, we will make appropriate recommendations to you. If Congressional action should come after you have adjourned, it is possible a Special Session may have to be called to take care of this important problem.
Moving into the field of higher education, we find definite reasons for encouragement and at the same time many challenging problems. The Board of Higher Education, although barely underway in its activities, is beginning to provide the much needed coordination among the State's institutions of higher learning. This Board's review of institutional budgets prior to consideration by the Advisory Budget Commission has been of great help to us.

We are recommending appropriations for the operation of our colleges and universities which are, in our opinion, adequate, and of course salary increases for college personnel will be included. We have also included recommendations for several new buildings for institutions.

One of the most significant developments in the area of finance for our colleges is to be found in the construction of certain kinds of capital improvements on a self-liquidating basis. This type of financing will require the establishment of a Revolving Fund to finance the construction of the buildings with provision made for receipts from the use of the buildings to be paid back into the fund. The Budget Bureau is looking into expanded use of this technique and we have included in our recommendations to you several capital improvements to be constructed on this basis.

Another significant possibility in this area has to do with the use of closed circuit television for instructional purposes. The television operations at the Consolidated University are already doing a fine job of providing courses by regular television for which college credit may be received. This is a commendable program being carried on by WUNC-TV.

We are not yet far enough along in the closed circuit aspect of television to know where we want to go or how far, but the Board of Higher Education is making some preliminary evaluations, and we are recommending that you authorize a contingent appropriation from the Contingency and Emergency Fund to finance an experimental installation, in the event that the Board believes such an installation worthwhile. Expenditure of this appropriation would be subject to the approval of the Advisory Budget Commission, as well as the Governor and the Council of State. This is a long-range project and one which, if feasible, could provide great savings to the State over the years, and be a partial answer to shortages of teachers in the public schools and colleges.

We also believe there are great possibilities in the future development of community colleges. As suggested by the Board of Higher Education, it is recommended that the State bear approximately one-third of the college grade instructional costs of students at the community colleges in Charlotte, Asheville, and Wilmington, and that the State provide funds on a matching basis for capital improvements at these colleges.

All in all, there are many reasons to be encouraged over developments and possibilities in higher education, and I am confident that we can look forward to a fruitful biennium in our institutions of higher learning.

HIGHWAYS AND HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION

In considering the needs of a growing and progressive State, highways and highway administration are of major importance. The dramatic development in this field since I last discussed highways with you has been the enactment and the beginning of the Federal highway program with respect to the interstate highway system. The release of tremendous amounts of money from Washington to be spent in highway construction brings many problems as well as many benefits.

You will remember that we did not accept the recommendation for a highway bond issue and kept state highway expenditures on a pay-as-we-go basis. This was done at least partially in order to await the effects on state highway financing which would be brought about by the Federal highway program. In my opinion, the decision was a wise one. With highway revenues exceeding estimates and the availability of large sums of Federal money, it is obvious that for the time being at least the State could not intelligently spend more money for highways even if it had it. Competition among the states and among private engineering firms has made it very difficult to secure and retain sufficient competent engineering personnel to do all that we can finance under present conditions. There just are not enough trained personnel to go around. We hope in the very near future to install a training program in the Highway Department by which personnel underneath the level of professional engineering can be trained in the details of highway construction, which will permit one professional engineer, with the help of these trainees, to do the work of several professional engineers. And we hope greater use will be made of modern accounting and electronic equipment to save engineering talent.

The total amount of Federal highway funds to come to North Carolina for the year ending June 30, 1957, is $49,992,474. The amount for the coming biennium is $136,149,992. The total budget of the Highway Commission, including Federal funds for the coming biennium is $380,961,467. Proper expenditure of such tremendous amounts of money will require top efficiency and careful planning.

We have done a good job in North Carolina in building our highways. The need has been so great, the demand so strong, and the pressures so personal that we have, however, allowed the Highway Department to be built up almost as an independent empire. Without being critical of the present administration of highways or any previous administration, it is my sincere belief that it is time to reappraise and reorganize the Highway Department.

A distinguished Study Commission, created by the 1955 General Assembly, has for the past two years been studying possible ways of reorganization of the Highway Commission. I would like to take this opportunity to express the State's deep appreciation to the members of this Study Commission for their excellent and unselfish work to the public interest. The Report of this Commission has been submitted to you. I support it enthusiastically. In its adoption you will effectively place the largest spending agency of the state government in the same category, and under the same budget controls, as are our schools and other important agencies of the state government. The Highway Department will have a modern accounting structure and its organization will be so constituted that it will do a more effective job. The Highway Commission will be a policy-making body just as are other boards of the state government. The Director should be a career man, just as are the heads of most other departments. The building of our roads, especially the primary and inter-state system, will be on a state-wide basis, rather than having the authority delegated to individuals in various parts of the State. A policy board, rather than individuals, should control the expending of these large sums of money.

More attention, rather than less, will be given the secondary or rural roads. The County Commissioners, who are the elected officials, charged with the management of county affairs, will be consulted, even though the final decision must rest with the Highway Department. In the new organization, methods will be devised to see that members of the Commission and the Commission itself will be available to citizens and groups. Further, it is the plan to have a top man in the Highway Department management whose exclusive interest and duties have to do with rural roads. He will keep in constant touch with county and other local officials as well as the public. We have a wonderful secondary road system, and we want to make it an even better one. We can do this by setting up standards by which our rural roads will be built and not have them built on the basis of who knows whom.

I assure you my one and only interest in the Highway Department is to see that the people as a whole are served, and that North Carolina gets the most needed roads for her money. I strongly urge the adoption of the recommendations submitted by the Highway Study Commission.

PRISON SEPARATION

A matter closely related to highway administration is the recommended separation of the prison system from the State Highway Commission. As you know, this is a subject which has been before the people of our State for several years, and there is much public interest in it. At the suggestion of the Commission on Reorganization of State Government, which reported to the 1955 General Assembly, a special Committee was created by the General Assembly to determine the feasibility of separation. The Committee, composed of the Chairman of the State Highway Commission, Chairman of the Prison Advisory Council, and the Director of Prisons, reported several weeks ago that separation is feasible and can take place by July 1 of this year. I shall not attempt to discuss the details of the Report here. I would like to mention, however, that this Report reveals much room for improvement in the way we handle short-term prisoners, and we plan, through the increased use of probation and parole techniques, to take steps to help remedy this situation.

As a matter of logic, there is no basis for continuing the prison system under the Highway Commission. Some persons have felt that to separate the prison system from the Highway Commission would place too great a burden on the General Fund. However, with provisions for the continued hiring of prisoners on contract by the Highway Commission, and with other programs being developed for the employment of prisoners—programs such as forest rehabilitation, prison industries, and farming, the financial cost to the General Fund will not be great, comparatively speaking. And I am hopeful that an independent prison system can, in the long run, be made reasonably self-sustaining.

Prison support is a burden which should be shared by the State as a whole, and the continued diversion of highway revenue to take care of a legitimate expense of the general government ought to stop as soon as reasonably practical.

The recommended budget includes appropriations to accomplish separation. Bills will be introduced for your consideration which further implement this recommendation, including a bill to set up an independent Prison Department, a state use law, and others. All of these measures I strongly recommend that you adopt.

ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE

Closely related to the subject of prisons and prisoners are several other matters which deserve your attention. The problem of what to do with juvenile delinquents who have been sentenced to correctional institutions, but for whom there is no room, is one needing serious consideration—and, there are other problems having to do with youthful offenders. The Youth Service Commission has submitted a report recommending the creation of a state-supported system of domestic relations courts. This may well be a long range need of North Carolina, and I hope you will give the report your careful study.

Excessive and uneven workloads and problems of conflicting interests facing our “part-time” superior court solicitors should be dealt with. We cannot expect efficient law enforcement if the State’s lawyers are forced to handle the State’s cases while trying to augment inadequate salaries by carrying on private law practice. During the time you are here, these and other problems of a similar nature will be placed before you, accompanied by recommendations for improvement, and I urge your careful attention to the proposals offered.

So far as I am aware, no substantial changes are otherwise being proposed in our court system at this time, and I think this fortunate, since a comprehensive study along these lines is now being made by a distinguished Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association, looking toward presentation of recommendations to the 1959 General Assembly.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

Speaking in the general area of improvements in the administration of justice, and of better law enforcement, I hope you will deem it advisable to provide our Department of Motor Vehicles with the safety program being recommended by the Commissioner. The Department’s proposals have been prepared in a booklet, and this material is deserving of your serious study. I also commend to you the proposals which will be submitted with respect to driver education. It is inconceivable to me that our State will continue to tolerate conditions on our highways which result in over 1,000 deaths every year, not to mention the thousands of personal injuries, many of a crippling nature, and the tremendous property damage.

We have made some progress in lowering the death rate in relation to the number of miles being traveled and the number of motor vehicles registered, but with a 40% increase in motor travel miles in North Carolina since 1950, we must redouble our efforts and place every reasonable and practicable method of better traffic law enforcement in the hands of our officials. I approve of the major proposals submitted by the Department of Motor Vehicles, and I hope you will adopt them.
We have spoken of reorganization of the State Highway Commission and separation of the prisons. There are several other matters in the nature of governmental reorganization with which you will be concerned. North Carolina seems to have adopted a policy of gradual and continual reorganization in its state government, which was begun by the Reorganization Commission created in 1953 and continued by the Commission created in 1955. In my opinion, this is a sound approach to the subject and results in better considered and more workable proposals being submitted to you.

The Reorganization Commission has done an excellent job in the areas with which it concerned itself, and I would like to express the State's appreciation to its members for their fine work. Their studies have resulted in ten separate reports, all of which have been forwarded to you. Time does not permit even the listing of the Commission's recommendations, but I believe they will impress you, and I hope you will give all of them your close attention, especially those which coordinate and cut down present and future duplication and expense, and especially those which will reduce the number of persons with whom the Governor must deal directly. The Chief Executive of an organization as large as our state government has become—expendings biennially around a billion dollars—needs to be as free from details of direct day-to-day administration as is reasonably possible. Yet he must have a practical means of keeping himself constantly informed as to how the various fiscal and other service agencies are functioning. In my opinion, the creation of a Department of Administration as recommended by the Reorganization Commission, in which several service agencies can be consolidated, will be a great aid to future Chief Executives, as well as to me, and I strongly recommend that you authorize the establishment of this Department. I also hope that you will again authorize for the next biennium a Reorganization Study Commission to continue the gradual and intelligent approach to modernizing our state government.

There are three other matters of future reorganization, one perhaps more properly call rearrangement, I would like to speak briefly to you about tonight. We have in our capitol building one of the most beautiful small capitols in America. It is an architectural gem, which should never be changed. It simply does not, however, and cannot take care of the needs of this State, or of your needs as lawmakers. We have done too little long-range planning for all our state building needs, including the Capitol. No one is to blame for this. When we could purchase land and build, we had no money. When we had money, we thought of other places to spend it.

I will not take time to tell you of the lack of space in many offices, including my own, or the inefficiency of our present inadequate setup. You will see it each day while you are here. We need a modern structure, ample room, including press galleries, and all that the present day demands. I, therefore, recommend that you authorize or appoint a Capitol Building Commission to think seriously on the problem of planning and financing a capitol office and legislative building of which we can be proud and which will serve the needs of a growing State.

Another matter concerning future reorganization has to do with our State Constitution. North Carolinians are basically traditional and conservative, yet, we have stood out in the South and in the Nation with respect to new ideas of government and public service. Our State Constitution is old and outmoded. It needs revision and redoing. It should be modernized to meet the needs of our people. I, therefore, recommend that you authorize a Commission to submit recommendations for constitutional changes to the next General Assembly.

And speaking of our Constitution, I would like to mention the third of these items, namely, the reapportionment of the General Assembly, which is required by our Constitution, following each census. As you know, nothing has been done in this respect since the census of 1950. There has been furnished to each of you a report of a Commission of distinguished North Carolinians, recommending a plan of reapportionment. I would like to express the State’s appreciation to these fine citizens for their work and to say that I think you will like the plan that they have recommended. In the event that you do not, however, you still have the responsibility of reapportionment.

NATURAL RESOURCES

North Carolina is blessed with many natural resources which need developing and conserving. Our forests, which constitute 64% of our total land area, are potentially a great asset, and I appeal to commercial and private interests to reforest and use our trees as crops. The state nurseries are producing seedlings at the rate of 50 million a year, which is an increase of 560% since 1950. We hope that in two or three years we will be producing annually 100 million seedlings. Our mineral resources are being discovered and new ones identified. For the first time since 1875, our State will have soon a state-wide geological survey which will aid the State and its citizens in the exploration and development of mineral resources.

We are blessed in North Carolina with 49.15 inches of rainfall annually for the State as a whole, which is sufficient for our needs if we properly conserve it through better soil conservation, impoundments, etc. We must plan wisely and work cooperatively on our water problems, for our State’s future development in agriculture and industry will be affected by our handling of this great resource.

HURRICANE REHABILITATION

As you know, the State has been visited by several destructive hurricanes during the last few years. Our people suffered losses upwards of $300,000,000 from these storms in 1954 and 1955. Providence spared us in the season just passed.

Whether we have future hurricanes or not, and chances are that we will, we must do some courageous planning and work to preserve our shore lines, our coastal farms, our beaches, our inland streams, and other resources. Short-range planning and legislation must include such things as stabilization of our beaches through construction and replanting, clearing of cattle and stock off of our shore land, rehabilitation of damaged farm land, mosquito control, and other cooperative endeavors of all kinds. A report has been given you by the Mosquito Control Study Commission, which will give you an idea of the magnitude of just one aspect of this task.
For the future, we must continue to think and plan on a long-range basis, with our Congressional delegation, the United States Corps of Engineers, and with officials of the counties and towns affected, with respect to matters of erosion, stabilization of inlets, impoundment of water, flood control, proper drainage, and similar matters. This sort of activity may well require the use of present drainage districts or the creation of other types of districts for rehabilitation purposes.

Proper planning and action in this area should permit us to open up great acreage for forestry and farm use, and for the great industrial development that must come. These things will run into money. It will take tens of millions of dollars, most of which, of course, must come from the Federal Government, but the State and local governments must also make substantial contributions.

We have people working on these things full-time, and we are recommending that you authorize the creation of a Planning Division in the Department of Conservation and Development to work with cities and towns in planning their development and rehabilitation, and with Federal agencies. The creation of this Division will also permit cities and towns in North Carolina to receive special Federal funds set up for these purposes. Legislation will be introduced implementing these suggestions, and I hope you will give it your favorable consideration.

MINIMUM WAGE

In the State's program to raise its per capita income, we should have a minimum wage. One of the essentials of prosperity is widespread purchasing power in the hands of the people. A minimum wage will help provide this by raising the level of our very low income earners, something we badly need to do.

WELFARE, HEALTH, AND HOSPITALS

Although we are making plans and looking ahead with optimism to the growth and prosperity of our State, we must always keep in mind that many of our citizens, because of reasons beyond their control, are in need and will be unable to participate like the rest of us in whatever progress we enjoy. These needy people include our citizens who are too old, too young, too disabled, or too ill to work, and are without private means of financial support. Our State is rightfully committed to providing essential financial aid for these unfortunate members of our society.

North Carolina has an excellent record with regard to the administration of its public welfare program, its public health program, and its hospital program. Increasingly, our welfare activities are being geared to help individuals attain self-care and self-support. Such services are constructive and help to strengthen the social fabric of our State. The welfare officials are, however, prevented by gaps in basic legislation from developing properly certain policies that are needed to improve administration. I urge careful consideration of certain proposals which will be presented to you for legislation to correct these situations, and I hope such legislation will include methods to help control welfare payments to mothers of illegitimate children.
Our public health services continue to be outstanding. The State Board of Health will seek your approval of a much needed re-write, or codification, of all public health laws along the same lines as was accomplished during the 1955 session, in connection with the public school laws.

The hospital program in North Carolina is progressing on all fronts. Many hospitals are being built throughout the State, and the work of our tuberculosis and mental hospitals is meeting remarkable success. The number of tubercular patients in our hospitals is decreasing slightly, and the mental hospitals' waiting list is being reduced, thanks to the capable and devoted work of outstanding board members and to the use of modern techniques, such as tranquilizing drugs, etc. Budget recommendations include provisions for mental training schools at Goldsboro and Butner, and I urge that you continue to give our health and hospital programs the support they need and deserve.

ABSENTEE BALLOT AND LIQUOR

We now come to the perennial subjects of the absentee ballot and the liquor referendum, and I shall repeat the recommendations made in my Biennial Message to you in 1955, which were that the civilian absentee ballot provisions for the General Elections be abolished, as has been done for the primary elections, and that you submit the liquor question to a vote of the people.

SEGREGATION

I would like now to make a few brief remarks about a matter which has given, and continues to give, all of us a great deal of serious concern. This is the problem which resulted from the segregation decisions of the United States Supreme Court in 1954 and 1955. Thanks to the dedicated work of the two Pearsall Committees during this period and the wisdom of the General Assembly in 1955, and the Special Session in 1956, North Carolina has to date dealt well with this problem. We have been fortunate in being spared the lawlessness and violence which have taken place elsewhere, and I would like to commend all of our citizens for their calmness and wisdom.

I am informed that the Advisory Committee on Education has under consideration the question of whether it will recommend any changes in some of the school laws, but that decision on this will probably await disposition of several legal actions now pending in this and other states. In the meantime, I would like to recommend to you that we strengthen the registration laws applicable to various pressure and propaganda groups, and legislation will be introduced along these lines.

CONCLUSION

The program I have submitted to you tonight is one of many facets and of far-reaching consequences. These are things which after careful study, deliberation, and discussion, I believe are necessary for the people you and I represent, and for the State we are sworn to serve. I have great confidence in your ability as representatives of the people to promptly consider and dispose of the business before you from a viewpoint of what is best for the State over the long pull. And I have faith that your final judgment will be for the best interest of our beloved North Carolina.
In closing this rather lengthy message—but the State's program is large and most important—I would like to describe for you a vision of what I believe can be the North Carolina of the future:

I see a land of thriving industry of many kinds—manufacturing, agricultural, research, with plants distributed throughout the State—East, West, North and South, set well apart on our country sides, and in well-planned small towns and medium-sized cities, drawing their workers from all the surrounding areas, without the slum conditions, the polluted air, the unmanageable congestion and the other unwanted characteristics of the present typical American industrial center. This is a land where all workers are land owners and home owners, rather than modern-day cliff dwellers cramped in gloomy rented flats and furnished rooms; a land with prospering farms producing many different crops and no longer dependent for their existence on a one-or-two-crop market. I see in every community well-constructed, modernly equipped and modernly run schools, staffed by adequately trained and adequately paid teachers, supported by an enthusiastic people who demand nothing less than the best for all children. This is a land where all citizens have sufficient economic opportunity, spare time, and education to enjoy the best there is in life through private pursuits supplemented by public cultural and recreational facilities. And in this land, looking out over all else, there are the towers of colleges and universities—for it is an enlightened land, and the spires of many churches—for it is a moral land.

This is the vision, the North Carolina dream. And it is not an unattainable thing. We have a great heritage, with past leaders who have shown us what courage and faith and hard work can do. We have the people, and the natural resources to turn this dream into eventual reality, if we but work and continue to have courage and faith in our own abilities. You and I, in the all too few years remaining to any of us, can do no more than lead our State a little of the way, but if we do this, and hand over to those who come after us the courage and the faith which were handed to us, then, God willing, this vision of North Carolina will become her destiny.

Thank you and good night.

Mr. President:

It is ordered that a message be sent your Honorable Body with the information that pursuant to S. R. 286, entitled "A joint resolution inviting the Governor to address the General Assembly", the House in its Chamber stands ready to receive the Senate in Joint Session at the hour of 12 M.

ANNE E. COOPER, Principal Clerk.

The President announces that in accordance with the Joint Resolution inviting the Governor to address a Joint Session of the Legislature, the hour having arrived for the delivery of His message, the Senate preceded by its officers, will repair to the Hall of the House of Representatives, there to sit in Joint Session with that Honorable Body.

JOINT SESSION

The Senate is received by the members of the House of Representatives standing and the Joint Session is called to order by Lieutenant Governor Luther E. Barnhardt.
Representative Bost on the part of the Committee appointed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to escort the Governor to the Hall of the House, presents His Excellency, Governor Luther H. Hodges, who delivers the following message:

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly of North Carolina:

I have asked to address you on the subject of salary raises for teachers and other state employees. In the weeks since our Biennial Message was given you we have seen a great and growing interest in our schools and more particularly in the salaries of school teachers. Some of the interest you have seen and felt is highly organized, but I believe there is more sincere and real, widespread interest than we have had in many years.

There has not been a clear understanding as to how I feel and many of you feel about schools and teachers' salaries. Some people have indicated that we wanted to unload the State's present burden on to the local school units. That is not true! Let us quote a statement of policy I made at Wilmington, North Carolina, on January 26, 1957.

"May I explain briefly our point of view on public schools because there has been some misunderstanding as to my attitude and program. I am for public schools and always have been. I have supported every bond issue and tax supplement, state and local, (my community) for 35 years. I have taught; my sister has taught for 25 years; my wife was a teacher. I do not think our good teachers are paid enough or that we take care of our best students. I want the State to continue to support at a state level nine months, 12 grades (which costs the State over $100 million a year). I want the State to take care of increased school population and also to raise salaries at a state level. I do not think the State can ever pay more than a good minimum, and if we are to enrich our curriculum and get the best teachers, we should, if we can do it, pay something at the local level."

Let me briefly give you a further explanation. In March 1956, when I made a talk to the Teachers State Convention in Asheville, I raised the question of local participation in teachers' salaries, as I was sincerely interested at that time, over a year ago, in their getting raises. I indicated as an example that the legislature might be asked to grant a 10% salary raise and offer another 5% to match still another 5% from local units. I saw North Carolina losing ground in teachers' salaries and wanted to see us do something. We had slipped in five years from 29th to 38th place. There was no particular interest shown by teachers or school leaders in my Asheville statement, so in a talk to the 176 county and city superintendents at Durham in December 1956, I said:

"I realize that I do not have your support entirely in this idea of local support and I think it is probably expecting too much to have the support of the General Assembly for the so-called matching formula which I proposed for teachers' salaries.

"What I propose to you tonight and for the first time, is that we have a State Citizens Committee for Better Schools to make a study of our school needs with particular reference to the financing and the responsibility of all of us at local levels as well as State levels—I am hopeful that this Committee will bring to professional educators, to the State Government, to the public at large, and to the 1959 General Assembly, what our problems are, what our needs are and how they would suggest we go about meeting these needs; I hope this idea meets with your approval."

I later appointed a Committee of citizens, headed by Mr. Holt McPherson of High Point, who, along with about thirty other members from over the State, plus an Advisory Committee of educators, are meeting regularly and working hard to organize grass roots sentiment for study and action on the part of laymen and citizens with regard to the future of our schools.

I hope this General Assembly will authorize a Study Commission to look at the school support at all levels and determine what each county can afford to pay for all its school costs, building, operations, and teachers' salaries.

We cannot and should not try at this time to detail a long-range plan and program, but I'd like to give you a broad idea of what we have in mind.

Contrary to an idea held by some legislators, some county commissioners and some civic and educational leaders, that our plan is to unload the State's burden on the counties and cities, I would like to say that our thinking is almost the opposite. Some counties are probably paying more now than they can afford. The present burden of providing school buildings was placed on local units without any regard whatever for their ability to pay. I would like to see each county's ability to pay checked by proper indices and the contribution required of each county, considering total school costs, including buildings, be handled accordingly. These suggested indices would include such things as dollar value of retail trade, auto registration, per capita income, etc.

The total costs of buildings, operating expenses, and teachers' salaries could be allocated between the State and the 100 counties based on each county's ability. The State would put up so many millions of dollars which would be given to counties, by formula prescribed by law. This is being done successfully by most of the States and I have recently checked two of our neighbor States who operate under this system.

A good minimum program under this system would then be assured for all children and any school district which wished to supplement salaries or enrich its school program in other ways would be allowed to do so, just as now. The schools and teachers will be brought closer to the people; they will be greatly improved and our children will receive a better education, and teachers' salaries should greatly improve. I strongly urge that a Study Commission, to look at these problems and report to the 1959 General Assembly, be authorized by you.

But, let's forget for the moment any long-range plans on public schools, except to assure you as representatives of all our 100 counties that we do not propose that the State unload anything on the counties. We want each county to do its best—based on its ability, and I thoroughly agree that the richer counties must help the poorer ones.

Now, what can we do during this General Assembly for teachers and other state employees?

I said on March 4, about one month ago: "I feel that during this session of the General Assembly we will have to recognize the short-term necessity of raising teacher and state employees' pay beyond the point recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission and myself, as we viewed the budget from the over-all point of view. Just how we will do this and where the money is to come from and what subsequent adjustments will have to be made is not clear at this time. However, I will gladly take the lead in helping solve the problem, and I feel sure that the members of the Advisory Budget Commission will join me in this."

The time has now arrived when I would like to recommend to you just where I propose that the money should come from and the adjustments which I believe can be made. But before mentioning specific details I would like to discuss briefly the much-talked about surplus of $60,000,000.

There has been a great deal of loose talk which could, if believed, lead one to the conclusion that in our original recommendations to you the Advisory Budget Commission and I did not propose to use this surplus, and that all the General Assembly would have to do to provide all the pay raises everybody wanted would be to make use of this surplus. As all of you know, of course, this sort of talk is misleading and confusing. Our original recommendation was that $42 1/2 million of the surplus be used for capital improvements. The specific projects recommended were listed in the budget. We also recommended at the same time that the remaining $17 1/2 million be used as part of the $33,000,000 recommended at that time for General Fund salary raises for teachers and other employees. The $42 1/2 million for buildings and the $17 1/2 million as part of the cost of raises together disposed of the entire $60,000,000 surplus. Thus, there was nothing left to increase salaries further so far as the surplus was concerned.

Some of you are probably thinking at this point, that if all the surplus is disposed of and all the money expected from revenue estimates is also disposed of, how are we going to get more money for additional raises without adding new taxes? One of a Governor's disadvantages in making spending recommendations is that when he makes a proposal to spend money he must include recommendations as to how to get the money. I, therefore, recommend:

1. First that $10,000,000 be taken from the amounts previously recommended for capital improvements ... $10,000,000
2. Second, that $4,289,000 be taken from the Highway Fund and used during the transition period of the next biennium for the support of the Independent Prison Department. This will, of course, free an equal amount previously recommended from the General Fund for this purpose ................................. 4,289,000
3. Third, that you use an additional $1,000,000, which, we are advised, can be expected from non-tax sources, such as interest from investments, etc., during the next biennium on account of higher interest rates ............... 1,000,000
4. Fourth, that $2,811,000 be taken from the proposed revolving fund for capital improvements ......... 2,811,000
5. Fifth, that the estimated size of the credit balance available at the end of this fiscal year be raised by $4,400,000. This is justified based on increased interest earned from investments and current revenue receipts 4,400,000
6. And, finally, that an additional $2,500,000 be appropriated from the Highway Fund to raise the salaries of highway employees. $2,500,000

Total $25,000,000

Altogether, this gives a grand total of $25,000,000 over and above all previous recommendations, which is sufficient when added to previous recommendations, to provide salary increases of 11% for state employees generally and 15% for teachers. Also, it will take care of previously omitted retirement costs, and leave approximately $1½ million which can be used for other appropriations or contingencies.

I would also like to suggest that in order to provide for the capital improvements, which could otherwise be lost by the proposed reduction in appropriations originally recommended for that purpose, you authorize a bond issue up to $10,000,000 which can be voted by this General Assembly. This money should be set up for specific capital expenditures which have the highest priority.

Along with the recommendations made, I would like to remind you of some perhaps unpleasant, but nevertheless, real and highly important facts and figures in connection with the proposed expenditures and the State's fiscal affairs.

It now takes about $4½ million for each 1% raise for the State's 75,000 employees, broken down as follows: For teachers $2½ million and for other employees $2 million, including $682,000 for highway employees. Thus, an 11% raise for state employees generally will cost during the next biennium $22,000,000, and the 15% raise for teachers will cost $37½ million, for a total additional salary cost of around $58,000,000. Added to the actual salary increases will be an additional $7,173,873 in regular salary increases by way of annual increments for employees and $3,872,808 additional retirement benefits to be contributed by the State. A detailed breakdown of specific amounts involved in granting the recommended pay raises is attached to the written copies you will receive of this message. I would, however, like to point out here that when we take into account the amounts provided for teacher salary increments for the next biennium and additional amounts required for retirement benefits, the amount now recommended for teacher salaries and retirement benefits is, for the coming biennium, approximately 17% above what is provided for these purposes for the present biennium. The comparable percentage for "other state employees" is approximately 13½%!

Looking briefly at the over-all picture, we see that of the revised credit balance of $64,400,000—as of June 30, 1957, we are recommending that approximately $30,000,000 be used for capital improvements and that the remaining $34½ million be used as part of the $58 million cost of providing salary raises. This $34½ million is nonrecurring revenue, and for the 1959/61 biennium we feel that this amount will be replaced by new revenues from improved business conditions resulting in part from a revised allocation formula, which will make our taxing of industry more equitable and more competitive.

We are taking a calculated risk by using this $34,500,000 non-recurring revenue for current operating expenses during the biennium just ahead, but I am willing to join with you in taking the risk in order to provide these salary raises. I caution you, however, that to go any higher on these and other figures would be very risky and a course of action of which I could not willingly be a part.

For your information, the State will pay during the next biennium solely for salaries and retirement benefits $547 million, or over $½ billion.

As for the method of distribution for salary increases, you are already aware that the distribution plan recommended by the State Board of Education calls for a lump sum amount to be distributed by the Board in accordance with a schedule which is tied to the status of particular teacher groups and not "across the board." The State Board recommended a salary raise averaging 16.1% for teachers ranging from a high of 17.81 percentage to a low of 9.9 percentage. The Board also recommended 10% for other school employees. As already stated, we are recommending that you provide a sum of money which would make possible raises of 15% for teachers and 11% for others, instead of the 10% recommended by the Board. The Board can, if it desires, raise the figure for teachers beyond the 15% from funds which we recommend and still give the other employees the original 10% raise the Board has requested.

I would also like to recommend that vocational education teachers be given the salary differential which they have had in the past and that the Board make a survey of the work of all vocational teachers and the vocational needs of the State and report to the 1959 General Assembly.

I approve wholeheartedly the pay raise plan recommended by the State Personnel Council for other employees. It is consistent with the well-established salary plan which has been in effect for several years, and under this plan approximately two-thirds of all state employees will get more money than they would under an across-the-board flat percentage plan. These two-thirds are the lower paid employees. In a general salary increase tied in with a rising cost of living, lower paid personnel ought to receive primary consideration. I also join the State Personnel Council in the recommendation that the proposed pay plan be written into law so that each employee may be assured of the plan's automatic application and not have to worry over whether he or she will get his or her raise. I am advised that under the Personnel Council's Plan 98% of all employees will receive raises, leaving about 2% who are already being paid salaries considerably above their established pay range. To this last-mentioned group, I recommend that the Appropriations Committees give special consideration, taking into account the actual rise in the cost of living and consistent insofar as possible with the Personnel Council's suggested plan.

The General Assembly will, in its wisdom, finally decide what percentages and/or dollars will be used to give raises to teachers and other state employees. I must in all fairness and candor point out that a difference in amounts to teachers and "other employees" is justified by the record of actual payments to the two groups during the last four years. Figures given you in your "budget report," page 14, show that teachers have received in the past four years 1952-1956, in increment pay, 1.2% total. On the other hand, "other employees" have received in the same period 5.6% total, or a difference of 4.4% in favor of "other state employees."
We feel sure that you will agree that we have tried to be fair to all state employees and we believe that most employees and the public will so agree. The average teacher salary in North Carolina will be in excess of $400 per month, or $3600 per school year of nine months, if these raises are granted. Added to this, of course, are retirement benefits provided by the State, amounting to 7.33% additional or around $30 per month extra, or $270 per school year. State employees on the whole will, if these raises are granted, receive salaries which compare favorably with salaries received by persons performing similar jobs in private employment. You don't need to be reminded that all of us have obligations to the citizens who must pay these salaries as well as to the citizens who will receive them.

You are to be congratulated on your work done thus far. It seems to me you are well on your way to adding a shining chapter to the pages of our legislative history. Your conscience and the inner satisfaction of doing a good job for the State and in the State's interest will constitute your greatest reward.

I appreciate deeply your help and cooperation in the over-all program that has been recommended along various lines for the State, and hope that these new recommendations for larger salary raises for our 75,000 employees will receive your hearty approval.

Academic teachers and supervisors' salary raise (15%) .... $31,460,927
Vocational teachers and principals and superintendents increase to 11%, etc. (1% above increase requested by the State Board of Education) .................................................. 3,229,464

tional personnel) salary raise (11%) ................................ 23,398,847

The minority report is adopted and the bill is placed upon the favorable Calendar.

Senator Henkel offers an amendment which is adopted.

The bill, as amended, passes its second and third readings and is ordered sent to the House of Representatives, for concurrence in the Senate amendment.

Senator Henkel offers the following statement with reference to this bill and it is ordered spread upon the Journal.

On or about March 12, 1957 I became one of the introducers of S. B. 111. At the time I signed the bill I expressed misgivings about the feasibility of acting on it at this Session of the Legislature, stating that I questioned that the General Fund could assume the financial burden which had formerly been carried by the Highway Department and still supply the necessary services that the citizens of the State require.

I had further reservations concerning the ability of the proposed Prison Commission and the Prison Director to require suitable and adequate use of prison personnel for work on the highways under the provisions of the Bill. It is my belief that the Bill as drawn would enable the Highway Department to use constantly fewer and fewer of the prison population.

After the Governor and several members of the Legislature proposed that the financial burden be removed from the General Fund, I then determined that the Bill should not be passed until such time that the General Fund was able to absorb the burden, on the theory that the Highway Commission should have a voice in the affairs of the Prison System if it is to provide its entire financial support.

It is my further belief that the Prisons were for all practical purposes separated from the Highway Department in 1955, under H. B. 167, which was ratified the 16th day of March 1955, and for which I voted.

The title to S. B. 111, and H. B. 218 in my opinion, does not conform to Senate Rule Number 47, which reads in part as follows: "—a statement of its title which shall contain a brief statement of the contents of the Bill—".

A more suitable title would be: "To transfer control of the Prisons from the Director of Prisons, the Prison Advisory Council, the State Highway and Public Works Commission and the Governor to the State Prison Commission."

If the financial burden remains in the Highway Department that is all of any consequence that S. B. 111 and H. B. 218 do.

It is my further belief that nothing can be done under this proposed legislation that cannot be done under existing law, and that consideration of this matter should be deferred until such time as the General Fund can assume the financial burden. For these reasons I voted for an unfavorable report in the State Government Committee on Friday, April 12, 1957, and will vote against the Bill if and when it is voted upon on the Senate Floor.

Upon motion of Senator Hightower, the Senate adjourns in honor of the memory of former Senator Robert Eugene Little of Anson County, to meet tomorrow at 12 M.

Prayer is offered by Rev. E. C. Durham of the Methodist Church, Raleigh, N. C.

Upon motion of Senator Thomas, the courtesies of the galleries are extended to the students of the Lakeview School of Moore County.

Upon motion of Senator Hightower, the following remarks are ordered spread upon the Journal:

Mr. President and Senators, the closing hours of this Session of the Legislature are approaching. The Finance and Appropriations Sub-Committees are making momentous decisions which, if enacted into law, will affect the future of North Carolina for years to come. Within a few days we will be asked to endorse and approve the decisions made for us by the Sub-Committees. Thus, there is little time left for calm, individual, deliberation by any of us before we are called upon to cast our vote. I, therefore, suggest that every member of this Body spend this week-end in searching his conscience as to the course we are to follow.

All of the evidence is now before us. Literally hundreds of thousands of words—in testimony, in messages, in speeches,—have been brought to us in regard to the economic and financial program to be adopted for North Carolina. The great issue of the 1957 General Assembly has been drawn. That issue is: Will North Carolina provide a program of services for all of its people, regardless of economic status, whether rich or poor, large or small, or will we turn backward to a program of favoritism for big business of a character we have not heard suggested anywhere in America since the defeat of Herbert Hoover's Republican Party? Call it what you will, gentlemen. The program which we are asked to adopt for North Carolina is nothing else but the old "trickle-down" theory by which we are asked to believe that financial windfalls handed to big business by the government will eventually trickle down to the benefit of the individual citizen. But before we adopt this theory, let us recall that the American people, including us North Carolinians, rejected it in 1932 as folly. Should we then roll back the clock twenty-five years and saddle the people of North Carolina with a program of the very kind which led this nation down to the greatest depression in its entire history.

Let us look at the record: The cornerstone of the administration's program is the revision of the income tax allocation formula which will reduce corporate income taxes for big business by $9 million to $14 million. In all likelihood the cost to the people of North Carolina will far exceed that figure and will probably approach $30 million. This is being done on the theory that only by such action can industry be lured to North Carolina. Yet it is interesting to note that not a single representative of industry appeared before the Finance Committee to state that this tax give-away was either needed or sought. On the other hand, the administration opposes the granting to our school teachers of even the minimum wages called for by the State Board of Education itself. One of the prime requirements of new industry is the availability of good schools and the next is skilled labor which we cannot furnish without higher educational standards. Which is the more important, the youth of North Carolina or the imported shirt factory with its untrained women labor and its accompanying evils? This is a question which must be answered not only in this chamber this Session but must be answered to generations of yet unborn children of North Carolina.

It is beyond dispute that the Tax Study Commission was created by the 1955 Session for the purpose of eliminating existing inequities and unfair provisions of our revenue or tax laws. We all realize that there are some small adjustments needed to make our taxes fairer. But let us look at the results:

We have been asked to repeal the present method of taxing certain public utility corporations. This repeal would cost the taxpayers of the State of North Carolina at least $350,000.00 each year. We have been asked to grant this tax give-a-way in spite of the fact that not a single public utility appeared before the Finance Committee to request this reduction. While on the other hand, we heard small business men come before the Finance Committee day after day not only to oppose the burdensome and unfair tax increases which had been recommended by the Tax Study Commission but also to request the repeal of unfair tax measures as they had been led to expect.

Also look at the intangible tax proposal. I am opposed to intangible taxes as they constitute a penalty on those people who are trying to save a little bit for a rainy day. The state has been realizing some $1,600,000 each year out of this tax less the expense of approximately $100,000.00 netting 1½ millions each year or 3 millions for a biennium. At present 80% is being given to the cities and counties leaving $640,000.00 to the state for the biennium. Are we able to give this tax away at this time when we are being asked to float a 10 million dollar bond issue, which, for all practical purposes, will be used to pay the state's operating expenses?

These are some of the things we must soberly think about during the next few days. We must constantly bear in mind that we are presented with the largest budget in our state's history while at the same time we are asked to give away to special groups public tax funds in unprecedented amounts. At the same time we are asked to float a 10 million dollar bond issue with 64 millions of dollars in the bank. Who will pay the taxes to retire or pay these bonds? It will be the small taxpayers for we will have by our own hands relieved large businesses of their proportionate part of the tax responsibility. If these unusual proposals are adopted, it is most likely that a Special Session will be required to levy new taxes on the individual taxpayers to make up the deficit.

All of us know that we have no assurance whatsoever that one single new industry will move into our State on account of this proposed tax give-a-way. While on the other hand all of us do know that by leaving our tax laws substantially as they now are, we can pay our school teachers the minimum wage requested by our State Board of Education, we can pay our state employees wages comparable to those paid by private enterprise, we can make every capital improvement recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission, we can do all of these things and without the necessity of a 10 million dollar bond issue.

Do not get the idea that I am vehemently opposed to the main theme of the Tax Study Commission, which is the new tax allocation formula for multistate corporations. I am against the fiscal package as it is being handed to us. If we could forget the 10 million dollar bond issue, use some of this 64 million dollar surplus now in the banks to pay our teachers and state employees desirable salary increases, and use the balance of that surplus for needed capital improvements, then I am perfectly willing to try the new tax allocation formula on the chance that it might attract new industry to our State.

If you will, Senators, take these matters up with the people back home and avail yourselves of their opinions. What answer are you going to give to them when they ask you why you are going to saddle them with a 10 million dollar bonded debt when you have 64 million dollars in the bank?

BRIDGING THE TAX GAP

While the Daily News defends Senator Hightower's right to speak his mind on the Senate floor and decries questioning of his right to have his sharply critical speech included in the Senate Journal, we disagree with his attack upon the administration’s tax program and fail to see the clear-cut delineation of “the great issue of the 1957 General Assembly” which the Honorable from Anson professes to see.
If we saw tax revision, entailing an estimated $7,000,000 annual loss in revenue, as a "give away" for big business, we would be in there pitching with Senator Hightower.

The administration's program, based on long and careful study, is two pronged. First of all it is aimed at eliminating tax inequalities and inequities; at bringing the state's tax structure, which has not been overhauled since adoption of a permanent revenue act back in the 30's, into line with present conditions and trends, and at replacing the hodgepodge of cumulative amendments and administrative interpretations.

In the second place, the recommendations of the Special Tax Study Commission, each of which ought to be closely examined without blind acceptance of the whole are pointed to the future. They are a calculated risk aimed at the state's development and strongest economic and industrial undergirding. We do not question the earnestness and sincerity of their sponsors. It is not a question of giving away so much to industry or big business but of dealing fairly with them and placing North Carolina, which gravely needs to lift its income and living standards, in genuinely competitive position with other states in attracting new and holding old industry. To be sure many other factors enter into attraction and retention of industry. But all else being anything like equal, the tax factor can be decisive. Fair, equitable taxation is not merely a matter of dollars and cents but an earnest of the climate which exists toward industry in any given state or community.

If the program works out as Governor Hodges and those who think as he thinks believe it will, North Carolina will, in the years ahead, enjoy increased pay rolls, greater income, more tax sources, higher living standards and resources which will more than bridge the fiscal gap and enable it to pay for expanded facilities and better services for its increased population. North Carolina must diversify and industrialize or slip back sharply in its role of Southern leader.

It must be recognized that this expansion and development will not come all at once. There will be a revenue gap while such a program takes hold and its benefits are diffused. That is justification for the administration's position and for using surplus and bond issue to bridge the intervening biennium. Come the 1959 General Assembly, we shall be in better position to judge and see what the actual effects of the risk which we are now taking are.

North Carolina wishes and needs many things, but amongst rapidly changing patterns, we face the primary task of creating the ability to pay for them. Those who believe in North Carolina's future will not fear to face up to the only program before us designed to that end.

EVENING SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,
Thursday, May 23, 1957.

Pursuant to H. R. 1012, a joint resolution providing for a Joint Session of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of North Carolina, for the purpose of accepting portraits of Governor Clyde R. Hoey and Governor O. Max Gardner, and pursuant to a motion heretofore made the Senate and the House of Representatives convenes in Joint Session in the Hall of the House and is called to order by Lieutenant Governor Luther E. Barnhardt.

The Presiding Officer calls Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne of the North Carolina Supreme Court of North Carolina to the dais who presides during the proceedings.

Invocation is offered by Jack Percial Mansfield, Pastor of Smith Methodist Church, Roanoke Rapids.

Clyde Roark Hoey, II; Samuel Roark Hoey, Lewis Whitford Paul, II, and Daniel Murray Paul, Jr., grandsons of former Governor Clyde R. Hoey unveiled the portrait of former Governor Hoey.

O. Max Gardner, III; John Mull Gardner, and James Webb Gardner, Jr., unveiled the portrait of their grandfather, former Governor O. Max Gardner.

Chief Justice Winborne presents Honorable Edwin Gill, Treasurer of the State of North Carolina who delivers the following presentation of the portraits of former Governors O. Max Gardner and Clyde R. Hoey.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Judge Winborne, Governor Hodges, Members of the General Assembly, and Friends of Governors Gardner and Hoey:

It is with a sense of pride and pleasure that I speak to you on this occasion. I have the honor on behalf of the families of two great North Carolinians to present their portraits to the State. I would like at this time to express appreciation to Mr. Cuthbert Lee of Asheville, who painted the Hoey portrait, and to Mr. Dayrell Kortheuer of Charlotte, who painted the Gardner portrait. We are glad indeed to have both of these gentlemen with us here tonight.

Somewhere in the Apocrypha,* we find these words: “Let us now praise famous men.” Although the men we honor tonight are famous and in many ways praiseworthy, I do not consider that we are here so much to praise them as to renew our acquaintance with old friends—to recall something of the qualities of mind and of heart that endeared them to the people of *Ecclesiasticus, Chapter 44-1.

North Carolina—and to inquire, if you please, into the nature and character of the very profound influence that they exerted upon our day and generation.

I shall not review in detail the events of their lives, nor shall I attempt to list formally their achievements. My approach will be to highlight those traits of character that made their humanity so appealing, and to suggest the reservoirs of moral and spiritual strength upon which they relied.

It is unusual to pay a tribute to two men at the same time. In fact, I know of no precedent for a ceremony such as this. And yet coming as they did from Cleveland County, and being related by marriage, and being contemporaries, it is logical that they should be considered together. There are, of course, other reasons for linking their names. Both were sons of Confederate veterans. Both came from families in modest circumstances, neither having the advantage of wealth, both securing their education through great effort and sacrifice. Gardner borrowed the money with which he went to State College, while Hoey left school when he was young to pursue a very practical education in the offices of his home town newspaper. Both became members of the Bar and turned to politics at an early age. The political gods of Hoey and Gardner were the same—our legendary heroes, Vance and Aycock. After service in the State Senate and as Lieutenant Governor, Gardner first ran for Governor at the age of 38, and when he came to the Governorship in 1929, was one of the youngest men in our history to hold this office. Clyde Hoey became a candidate for the State House of Representatives and was nominated before he was old enough to take the oath of office, actually becoming twenty-one between the primary and the convening of the General Assembly. After serving an apprenticeship in the General Assembly, both went on to hold high office in Raleigh and Washington, and after lives of public service, each died in harness, active and influential in public affairs until the very end. Governor Hoey passed away seated at his desk in the Senate Office building and Governor Gardner died at the St. Regis Hotel in New York on the eve of what was to have been his voyage to England as Ambassador to the Court of Saint James.

Never were two men more fortunate than Hoey and Gardner in the help and support that they received from their wives. The Gardners were a perfect team, working closely together in both public and private life. I have often heard Gardner say that “Fay” had excellent judgment about people and that he remembered instances when he would have avoided some serious mistakes had he listened more closely to her. And Governor Hoey, when asked by Ed Murrow to give his philosophy of life under the title of This I Believe, paid a beautiful tribute to “Miss Bess,” whom he called “a radiant and lovely life companion,” referring to his faith in her and her faith in God as a blessed heritage.

Incidentally, the political careers of Hoey and Gardner are in refutation of the venerable statement that “a prophet is not without honor save in his own country” for these men enjoyed throughout their lives the united, loyal, enthusiastic support of their home county of Cleveland. In fact, the strong support that Cleveland and the neighboring counties of Rutherford, Polk, McDowell and Gaston, gave to both these men was a determining factor in their very successful political careers.
That Gardner and Hoey were lifelong friends is well known, but it would be a mistake to assume that their friendship was after the fashion of a David and Jonathan, or perhaps a Damon and Pythias; for in these legendary friendships, one of the partners is usually subordinate to the other. But in the case of Gardner and Hoey, we have two friendly but exceedingly independent souls, each going his own way, subscribing to his own convictions, maintaining, however, at all times a cordial relationship based upon mutual respect. Here were two ambitious men coming from the same community, and yet for over a period of forty years their aspirations never clashed. Not only were they never rivals, but actually each gave strength and moral support to the ambitions of the other.

It was around the friendly relationship of these two men that much of the history of North Carolina revolved. It was this friendly entente that formed the nucleus of what came to be known in political circles as the "Cleveland County Dynasty." Incidentally, the wives of these two men played an important part, for it was Mrs. Hoey, affectionately known to all as "Miss Bess," who as the wife of Hoey and the sister of Gardner, made a great contribution toward inter-family understanding. Also Mrs. Gardner, who we are delighted to have with us tonight, gave further color to the idea of the "dynasty" because she was a Webb, another Shelby family that had produced two very distinguished judges. The existence of this strong group of unusually talented men, coming from the Webb, the Gardner, and the Hoey families, to which, of course, could be added others, did much to encourage the legend of the "dynasty." Well, if ever there were a "dynasty" in Cleveland, instead of being hereditary, it sprang directly from the people and had its firm foundation not in special privilege, but in magnificent service to all the people of North Carolina!

Both of these men were eloquent, and yet how little does this word describe the way in which each spoke. Gardner was apt to speak in a direct, emphatic way—often clothing his thoughts in brief, succinct language. He could take, when the occasion demanded it, a hard-hitting approach. In his very young days, he was more of the sophomore, giving reign now and then to a "purple passage," but, as he matured, and came to grips with great issues, he relied less and less upon oratory as such and became persuasive by virtue of the fine discrimination with which he picked the words that composed his lucid, concise statements. It was often apparent that Gardner's speeches had been carefully written and meticulously revised in an effort to present his thoughts logically and accurately with just the right shade and color of language. He was persuasive because of the logic of his statements, which were often presented, in plain, down-to-earth language. Even in formal addresses, he would occasionally lapse into the popular language of the street, or perhaps use a word of slang, in order to make more understandable his ideas. On the other hand, Governor Hoey throughout his entire career was noted for a particular brand of eloquence, which flowed in beautiful sequence to its inevitable conclusion. Never has a man spoken more beautifully and with less apparent effort. Even when speaking extemporaneously, his sentences and his paragraphs took their appointed places as precisely as if the address had been composed in advance. Those of us who heard him speak can bear witness to the fact that he always led us upward to the Mount of Transfiguration; that is, he always left us with a sense of exaltation.

Another interesting difference: When Gardner finished an address, he would often be perspiring and on occasions appeared fatigued as though he had invested his entire energies into the speech; while Governor Hoey, after an extended address, even in hot weather, appeared rested and cool, as though speaking was no burden or effort at all.

Gardner's voice was deep and strong, possessing a richness that was tremendously convincing, while Hoey spoke with a rhythm that was biblical in its beauty and which was closely akin to music. Each voice, in its own way, carried the ring of sincerity.

In the old days, when Gardner and Hoey both practiced at the Bar of Cleveland County, it was a great event to see them pitted against each other in the Court House. People came from surrounding counties to see and hear these two great advocates. They were always on opposite sides, and, regardless of the fact that the case might begin “Smith versus Jones,” it usually became, before the final verdict “Gardner versus Hoey.” After a particularly hard fought case, in which it seemed that these two legal gladiators would literally tear each other apart, the good people of Cleveland County were amused to see them leave the Court House arm in arm, as though they had never had a difference in the world!

Gardner and Hoey were men of great ability and it was not surprising that they rose to prominence in public life. Both had a real flare for people and for politics. But I am convinced that they would have attained distinction had they pursued careers in other fields. For instance, I have the feeling that had these two men entered the ministry, in due time Gardner would have been President of the State Baptist Convention, and Hoey would have progressed gracefully from Presiding Elder to Bishop! I hope that no one here will think from what I have said that either of these positions could be obtained through politics! I simply mean to say that each of these men had an element of greatness which was bound to assert itself.

Both of these men were affable, genial and easy to know. They went through life possessed of an enormous amount of what, for want of a better word, we will call political charm, which was a far from negligible factor in the ease with which they were able to convert acquaintances into friends. But this genial, affable manner was sometimes deceptive. In other words, occasionally there were people who assumed that this friendly exterior was a sign of softness. Nothing could have been further from the truth. Actually both of these men had in their make-up an element of steel and could become as immovable as granite when an effort was made to “push them around” or to attack their deeply-held convictions.

I have always thought that Gardner should have held the Chair of Political Science at some University. I believe he knew more about human nature in the political arena than any other man of his day, and his informal lectures on men and politics were a treat. Notwithstanding his lifelong effort to elevate the plane upon which political battles were fought, he was not blind to some of the unlovely characteristics of the political animal. "Whether we like it or not," he would say, "Politics, as practiced, is too often organized prejudice, and people are more apt to vote against than for!" And we remember his classic story which told of an erstwhile friend of his who admitted past favors, but complained: "Max ain't done nothing for me lately!" If Gardner did not originate this priceless commentary upon human ingratitude, I do believe he passed it on to Alben Barkley who made it internationally famous.

I remember a delightful conversation that I had with Clyde Hoey once about people who had no real convictions about anything. The Governor became rather stern and said: "A man who does not have a few healthy prejudices is not of much good in this world." And then he broke into a smile and said: "For instance, I am prejudiced in favor of the Methodist Church, and I am prejudiced in favor of the Democratic Party." What he meant, of course, was that there were a few things in life about which he had made a final decision and with respect to which he had made an irrevocable commitment. Lest some assume the use of the word "prejudice" here is akin to intolerance, I wish to remind you that in the great campaign of 1928, it was Clyde Hoey who stumped this State from East to West, lifting his voice in eloquent protest against those who would, because of religious prejudice, deny to any man the office of President of the United States. It was at the climax of this famous address that Governor Hoey reminded his rapt audiences that it was a Catholic* who wrote "Lead Kindly Light . . . ."

In the midst of this same campaign of 1928, Gardner found himself caught in a crossfire. He was the Democratic Nominee for Governor, and a substantial number of Democrats were threatening to scratch his name on the ticket if he had the temerity to be loyal to the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith, who was both a Catholic and a "wet." Another considerable group threatened to disavow him if he did not condemn all those who might vote against Smith. It was a time of crisis and the people of North Carolina were torn with dissension. Gardner knew in his heart that he could not desert the head of the ticket. And yet he felt that passions were so aroused that if he were not careful his position would be misunderstood and that the Party he loved would be destroyed in an atmosphere of emotional storm and stress. It was in this heated and bitter atmosphere that he made his opening campaign speech at Boone, North Carolina, on September 2nd, in which he declared that while everyone had a right to vote for whom he pleased as for him, he could not and would not desert the Captain of his Ship! As the titular leader of the Party, Gardner was supported in this position not only by Hoey, but by Angus W. McLean, Josiah W. Bailey, J. C. B. Ehringhaus, the Doughtons, Josephus Daniels, and other great spokesmen for the Party. Hoover carried the State against Smith by a majority of more than sixty thousand, while Gardner led the State ticket and was elected Governor by a majority of more than seventy thousand.

Clyde Hoey believed that there was no excuse for violence and he was determined as Governor to see that the law was enforced without fear or favor. When he heard that sit-down strikes in Michigan had not only prevented the operation of industries, but had actually delayed the delivery of the United States mail, he was absolutely outraged. So he took occasion at the dedication of an Armory in eastern North Carolina* to declare that he would use the full power of the State to prevent sit-down strikes in North Carolina. Hoey's statement was so plain and unequivocal that it had a calming influence on our people with the result that North Carolina was not afflicted with the violence that had characterized management-labor relations in other States.

Gardner also believed in the supremacy of law, and never hesitated to use the full power of his office to maintain law and order. However, in the cruel days of the depression when he was faced with unprecedented bitterness in industrial disputes, Gardner abandoned the use of force and brilliantly improvised. For instance, at a time when governors generally throughout the Union were ignoring the explosive nature of human passions that had been aroused and knew of no better method to bring about understanding than at the point of a bayonet, Gardner went to High Point and persuaded labor and management to sit down at a table at the Sheraton Hotel and write a new chapter in terms of friendliness and understanding between capital and labor. Due largely to agitators from without the State, the city of High Point was practically living under mob rule, and I was never prouder of Gardner than when he went there and braved the hate and bitterness of the controversy to hammer out on the anvil of free and fair discussion, a settlement that enabled the mills in that area to reopen and which restored the forces of law and order to their proper function.

Throughout his entire life, Gardner never forgot the under-dog—the boy who lacked financial backing and yet aspired to higher education. So it was logical for him not only to throw the entire prestige of his career behind the building of a greater University through its consolidation, but in a magnificent burst of generosity at Boiling Springs, to revive and recreate that wonderful institution known as Gardner-Webb. It is no secret that this small but thriving institution was near to his heart, and that he hoped it would be a place where the young people of his section could obtain an education, particularly those who did not have the funds with which to go away to college. It is difficult to estimate the contribution made by Max Gardner to the cause of higher education in North Carolina. As a boy who borrowed money to go to school and who made good both in his books and on the football field, he was a shining, glamorous figure who fired the imagination of an entire generation with the thought of going on to college.

Gardner injected a new and fresh viewpoint into public affairs and by his example attracted the young people of his day to go into politics. He was the first Governor since the War between the States to run on issues other than those of reconstruction. He was indeed the prophet of a new day, and the young people of North Carolina rallied to him as they had never rallied to any other young man. Old political institutions and old political alliances gave way before the onslaught that he led. It must not be forgotten that he espoused in the 1920's the cause of Women's Suffrage and when he became Governor helped to write into law the Australian ballot and a Workmen's Compensation Law.

*New Bern, June 24, 1937.
I have heard many people say that Clyde Hoey was a very conservative man, and I doubt that he would have taken much exception to this characterization. No doubt there was much in his manner of speech, in the way he dressed, and in his philosophy of life to lend color to this idea. While in no sense a slave to the past and in no way wedded to the status quo, Clyde Hoey was proud of the traditions that had made this country great, and he was not easily moved by those who wished to embark upon new and untried experiments. His incisive mind dissected and destroyed through analysis many unsound proposals. And yet, he was no "stand-patter," no reactionary. It is interesting in this connection to remember that it was Clyde Hoey, the so-called conservative, who advocated and secured the approval of the legislature for free school books for children in the public schools. In Hoey's opinion, it was the sensible, fair thing to do, for there was no point in guaranteeing education to children who were unable to buy the books with which to study. And it was Clyde Hoey who lent his warm endorsement to the Social Security program, and who told the General Assembly of 1937 that this humane program would be their most outstanding achievement. Hoey was often denominated a conservative because of his open espousal of the old-fashioned virtues. Whatever his feelings or his views, the people felt that they were based upon his Christian conscience. So he influenced literally thousands of church people, who ordinarily looked upon politics as an unworthy activity, to concern themselves with voting and with the whole process of self government.

In my opinion, each of these men came to the Governorship at just the right time. That is to say, each possessed the particular qualities that were needed for the period in which he served as Chief Magistrate. Gardner came to the Governorship at a time of crisis, at a time when government on all fronts were undergoing study and re-evaluation. In response to this critical situation, Gardner put through a program of reorganization which up until then was unprecedented in North Carolina. Among the agencies of government affected were banking, highways, schools—and specific measures were a central purchasing agency, a personnel department, the Local Government Act, and, of course, University Consolidation. In addition, there were sharp conflicts between the Governor and substantial elements in the General Assembly with respect to taxation and other fiscal policies, to the solution of which Gardner brought both courage and skill. There are many who believe that the credit of the State and the public schools themselves were saved by Gardner's firm far-sighted leadership, together with the sound and courageous program of Ehringhaus which was to follow.

On the other hand, Hoey came to the Governorship after the periods of crisis of the Gardner and Ehringhaus administrations, at a time when the State needed to "catch its breath," so to speak, to consolidate gains, to stabilize the Ship of State on an even keel, and, above all, to harmonize differences and heal the wounds that were inescapably associated with periods of great change.

Gardner will be remembered as a dynamic leader in a period of crisis who redefined the functions of government, while Hoey's contribution was more in the field of stabilization—restoration of confidence in government as such, and in symbolizing in his own person the hopes and aspirations of a people who, as the result of his stewardship, felt closer than ever to their government. Had these two men been transposed as to their terms of Governor, each might have met the problems of his day just as well, but I cannot escape the feeling that each came to high responsibility at just the right time.

Gardner was a magnanimous man, anxious and willing to forgive honest differences of opinion. Seldom has the State seen a man display a finer feeling of sportsmanship and fair play than he showed throughout his political career. For instance, although defeated by Governor Morrison in a spirited primary in 1920, which was characterized by great bitterness for which incidentally neither were responsible, Gardner gave enthusiastic support to Morrison in the General Election, and when the opportunity came, appointed his erstwhile opponent to the United States Senate. While Hoey was perhaps more conventional in matters of this kind, it was astonishing to see the degree of graciousness and courtesy with which he treated those who from time to time had bitterly opposed him in the political arena. What I am trying to say is that here were two splendid gentlemen who elevated politics to a high plane where honor and decency and even chivalry were the order of the day.

While each of these men were strong partisans, both had respect for distinguished leadership, in the opposition. Governor Hoey, during his tenure as a United States Senator, numbered among his closest friends stalwart Republicans—for example, Bob Taft. Although they wore different political labels, it is well known that these two staunch partisans frequently worked together in an atmosphere of mutual respect when they felt that the issue was above partisan considerations. And I shall never forget the magnificent tribute* that Gardner paid to a distinguished North Carolina Republican, John J. Parker, when his name was presented to the Senate for confirmation as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Hoey viewed the issues of the day with a serene confidence. After making decisions of great moment, he went forward quite unperturbed and gave the impression that he was troubled by few doubts, that the course was clear and that the highway to Right and Justice was well marked. We remember him as a man who had the assurance of the rightness of his cause, who never faltered as he moved toward his objective. Gardner, on the other hand, I believe, was more keenly aware of the shattered world about him, of the threat of new and dangerous social and economic movements, and of the ominous implications of the discoveries of science. Like Hoey, he, too, was a man of faith, grounded in religious conviction, but his whole education and background and the temper of his mind caused him to be more given to reappraisals in the light of changing conditions and to re-evaluation not of principles but of remedies. Gardner was something of a pioneer in the use of the study commission, and preferred to base his recommendations on extensive factual data contained in objective reports. Being of a scientific mind, Gardner was not quick to come to conclusions, but, after he had resolved the issue in the light of the facts and in the laboratory of his own conscience, he did not hesitate to go forward with militant courage and conviction.

*Letter from Gardner to Senator Overman; Page 589-91, "Letters and Papers of Oliver M. Gardner".

It may be that the difference between these two men was that Hoey was one of the last of a great tradition of men who presupposed certain basic elements that had for a century been considered firm and immovable, while Gardner was more a part of a new and equally great tradition that was questioning, always searching for a new basis upon which to build a moral, free society. It would be superficial to say that Hoey was a man of faith and Gardner a man of science, for both drew sustenance from a firm faith in God and in man. But Hoey seems to have been a man characterized by certitude, while Gardner was always a man engaged in inquiry. Hoey's faith was more like the prophets of olden times, while Gardner's faith was more like the kind described by Tennyson's "In Memoriam,"* which was strong because it was based on "honest doubt." Both, however, were needed by North Carolina and together with the great men who preceded and followed them, furnished a fine continuity as our great State moved with care and circumspection from the Nineteenth into the full stream of the Twentieth Century.

Both of these men loved North Carolina with a deep and abiding passion. Here they were born, here they were reared and educated, and here they found wide scope for their great careers. Governor Gardner, although he lived a great deal in Washington in the latter years of his life, never felt at ease in the transient, superficial, sophisticated air of the Capitol City. Although Washington was a challenge to him which he accepted with zest, he frequently became satiated with the gloss and the sheen of the passing parade. And when he felt this way, he returned to North Carolina, to Cleveland County and to Shelby—there to move among old neighbors and friends, to walk in the country and feel the good soil beneath him. Thus he was refreshed and found rest and relaxation. Likewise, Clyde Hoey, when he became tired of the official grind and desired to refresh himself from the long and tedious paper work associated with public life, loved to go out among the people of our State, to exchange greetings with them, to shake their hands. This contact with the folks seemed to rejuvenate him. So these two Tar Heels, like the fabled Antaeus,* were strong of body and invincible of spirit as long as they could touch the good earth and associate with the good people of their native State!

And so tonight we salute Max Gardner and Clyde Hoey, who in their separate ways symbolized all that is good in North Carolina. They were men easily recognized in any crowd: Hoey, dressed in his old-fashioned frock coat, adorned with a red flower, bowing graciously as he passed from individual to individual, and from group to group, bestowing on all a friendly benediction; Gardner appearing to tower head and shoulders above those with whom he talked, not alone because of his actual height and massive build, but because of the sheer impact of his dynamic personality, laughing and joking with friends, gesturing perhaps with a cigarette in

*"There lives more faith in honest doubt Believe me, than in half the creeds."

*A giant who was invincible when in contact with the earth but was lifted into the air by Hercules and crushed.
his hand, displaying that suave, urbane manner which made him equally at home "shooting the breeze" at the drugstore in Shelby or discoursing in the more sophisticated circles of Washington.

Sometimes historians overlook important achievements. For instance, Gardner, by his happy example made it almost mandatory that Governors of North Carolina represent the State at football games; while Clyde Hoey, through his friendly walk from the Governor's Office to Brantley's for a "coke" converted "the pause that refreshes" into a symbol of the democratic way of life!

I have attempted in these remarks to draw portraits of two men—not formal portraits, of course, but more in the nature of candid camera shots, or perhaps sketches, citing incidents and traits of character in order to refresh our memories. But how feeble are my efforts to recapture here the warm, human attributes of these men! So I hope that you will consider what I have had to say more in the nature of suggestions—points of departure in thinking about two very remarkable men who did so much in their lifetime to elevate the moral thinking of our State, and to give ethical tone and integrity to our institutions.

There is a salutation that has come down to us from the days of ancient Rome which is a combination of joy and sorrow. The words are "Hail and Farewell!" Tonight I would like to reverse this ancient phrase and acclaim our friends Hoey and Gardner by saying: "Fairwell and Hail!" For we are determined not to leave them with a word of parting, but to cherish always as a living thing the gallant example of their lives!

For many years, there was a rare and splendid character at the Governor's Mansion. He was a sort of butler and major-domo combined. We all remember him as "Uncle" David Haywood, and he wore a beautiful dark blue uniform, unadorned except for several golden stripes on the sleeve of the right arm. They were as resplendent as those that mark the rank of an Admiral. Actually, each stripe represented a Governor under whom "Uncle Dave" had served, and he had been there for many, many years. Toward the end of his administration, Governor Ehringhaus remarked: "In a short time, I will be just another stripe on 'Uncle Dave's' sleeve." I always thought it was a most beautiful idea. Tonight, my friends, Governors Gardner and Hoey are very bright stripes on 'Uncle Dave's' sleeve, for they have become a part of the great tradition of good government in North Carolina.

Chief Justice Winborne presents His Excellency Luther Hartwell Hodges, Governor of North Carolina who accepts the portraits of Governors Gardner and Hoey in a speech of acceptance, as follows:

It is a great privilege to participate in this historic event before a joint session of the General Assembly of North Carolina. We have witnessed here tonight the presentation of the portraits of two distinguished Chief Executives of North Carolina whose services and contributions will always be remembered. There are men here tonight who served with Governors Gardner and Hoey and they remember in a personal way these great Governors.

We are honored and pleased to have so many members of the Gardner and Hoey families and also many long-time and dear friends of both Governors. This is a warm reunion of many people who loved, admired and respected O. Max Gardner and Clyde R. Hoey. Each of them was a personal friend of mine and I admired them greatly. Each of these friends was an inspiration to me, and it is with great pleasure that I acknowledge their inspiring help.

The Honorable Edwin Gill, State Treasurer and a life-time friend of both departed Governors, has renewed our acquaintances with these two great men. Through his address we have lived again with the vigorous, direct Gardner and the eloquent, kindly Hoey. Both men served North Carolina with all their strength and moral force. While different in so many ways, both men made great contributions to the growth, stability and progress of North Carolina and its government.

We in North Carolina were extremely fortunate to have such leadership by men whose dedication and love for North Carolina could never be questioned. Gardner and Hoey were great figures whose personal magnetism, eloquent leadership, constructive programs, and devotion to our Democratic principles met the challenge of their times. Their record of service left to all of us who have followed them a great challenge.

May I express the hope that North Carolina will always be blessed with this type of dedicated leadership. The challenges of today and the future are overwhelming and will require the best leadership, the best programs, the best moral principles and the best of everything that we can muster.

In the name of the people of North Carolina, I am proud and pleased to accept the portrait of Governor O. Max Gardner and the portrait of Governor Clyde R. Hoey as permanent and cherished memorials for all time. It is a great honor to me to be able to accept these portraits for the State. To Mrs. Gardner and the members of the Gardner family, and to Mrs. Dan Paul and the members of the Hoey family, I know that I speak for everyone when I express warm appreciation for these gifts.

To the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

Your Conference Committee appointed on H. B. 216, entitled “A bill amending various Sections of Chapter 97 of the General Statutes relating to Workmen’s Compensation”, have carefully considered the differences existing between the two Bodies and respectfully recommend as follows:

SENATE JOURNAL

STATEMENT OF MEMBERS

Senator Eagles submits the following statement, concurred in by Senator Graves, which is ordered spread upon the Journal.

H. R. 1100, a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a Commission by the Governor for the purpose of making plans for the construction of a building to house the Executive and Legislative Branches of the Government.

H. R. 1100 was reported unfavorably by Judiciary No. 1 yesterday. I, along with the majority of the Committee, opposed the bill as drawn because the breadth of its provisions might allow a very costly study by a special commission which might even go so far as to hire an architect and even commission a set of plans.

However, I believe there is a real need for some consideration of the problem of providing an adequate building for executive and legislative functions, and for that reason I would like to ask that the newly created Department of Administration give study to the matter and make whatever recommendations it deems wise. I would further ask that these recommendations be made, if possible, prior to the preparation of the 1959-61 Budget Bill.

I ask that my remarks on this subject be entered in the Journal of the Senate since I believe it is the feeling of the majority of this Legislature that some consideration of the matter be undertaken.
