COLONIAL ANCESTORS

Who founded homes in the wilds of America, the wisdom and genius of whose sons contributed to the forming and establishing of this great Republic, these pages are respectfully dedicated, with the earnest wish that the same love of truth, justice and liberty which guided and strengthened those of 1775-1781, may abide with their children of to-day.
PREFACE.

My endeavor in compiling these notes has been to collect the genealogical records of the Alston family in America, and to have them so arranged that the Ancestral lines can be easily traced, and the relationship marked out. In some lines family details are fully given, in others less so. I availed myself of all the reliable information that was obtainable. We would have been glad to have been able to insert more extended historical notes throughout the entire work, but such has been unobtainable, except from a few of the many prominent and well known members. In a few families all records have been lost, and no trace of them can be found.

While all families have not been fully traced, yet it is hoped that sufficient data have been given to enable such to connect and trace the relationship.

In recording families, we have given the wife's maiden name instead of her married name. Thus—

John Alston and Mary Clark.
William Allston and Esther LaBruce, etc., etc.

In giving names, they are frequently recorded by the more familiar one by which they have been addressed and spoken of among friends and acquaintances, and by which they will be more readily recognized.

HISTORY OF THE ALSTON FAMILY.

In "Brown's Genesis of America" it is recorded that Gabriel Harris and Edmund Neville, among other names, entered into indentures with Sir Walter Raleigh March 7th, 1589, preliminary to the colonization of Virginia, and that Captain Gabriel Archer, in 1602, made a voyage to the New England Coast, and was made recorder of the colony in 1607.

The second charter to Virginia was granted in 1609, and among the charter members are to be found, viz.:

- Captain Clarke
- William Greene
- Christopher Harris
- Thomas Harris
- John Harris
- Arthur Harris
- Robert Saunders

At this period Virginia included Carolina, and these family names among the charter members have been continued among the colonists, although the successive generations at this date cannot be traced in many instances.

At a very early period the region of country north of the Albermarle Sound, in North Carolina, was resorted to by Quakers and other non-conformists, who went there to escape the religious persecutions which they had to endure in Virginia, Massachusetts and elsewhere.

Nor can there be any doubt but that their conservatism and independence of thought and action, together with the broad principles of humanity and justice inculcated by them, had much to do in shaping the future policy and laws of the State.

Although settlers had been flocking to that region for years before, the first land grant was made to them in 1662, in Perquimans county by the Indians, and there was an influx of these Quakers for many years into several adjoining counties.

The proprietary ownership and government of the colony was inaugurated in 1663. From which period there followed a struggle between the colonists and lords-proprietors which continued until their proprietorship was compelled to give way.

A somewhat similar condition existed in the early settlement of South Carolina. The same lords-proprietors being in control of both colonies, and the population composed largely of English non-conformists and French refugees, besides many from the other colonies farther north, notably Massachusetts, whence numerous immigrants came from time to time, one noted body of whom, known as the Dorchester Colony, organized and came in 1695. Owing to the unsettled condition of affairs, and the discontent of the colonists, the governorship was changed nine times from 1686 to 1703.

Among the governors during this period, John Archdale, a Quaker, who was also one of the lords-proprietors, was sent over in 1694. He purchased lands in the Albemarle settlement, where one of his daughters had married, and some of his descendants still live. He met the legislature in Charleston, S. C., in March, 1695. From his just and humane administration much was expected. But after serving one year he resigned, and subsequently returned to England.

In entering into an investigation of the genealogical history of the North Carolina family of Alstons, as was at first contemplated, we were confronted with the following difficulties: First. The general absence of family records; the scattered condition of the family, extending throughout the Southern States, and into some of the Northern; and the tradition that they had all sprung from one common ancestry. Secondly, there being another family of the same name, claiming the same coat of arms in South Carolina. These two families, although in adjoining States, have, to a great extent, kept separate, yet their many intermarriages have created much confusion, and raised difficulties in tracing their family lines.

The trouble was increased by the frequent recurrence of the same family names in the several branches from generation to generation. To meet all of these, correspondence was opened with interested parties in various sections; the colonial records of North Carolina and Virginia have been searched, and old wills, land grants and deeds brought to light, in many instances setting aside accumulated details which thereby were found to be incorrect. In these researches material assistance has been rendered by Messrs. James M. Alston, of Montgomery, James H. Fitts, of Tuscaloosa, Dr. C. A. Taylor, of East Point, Ga., Dr. E. A. Banks, of Columbus, Ga., Mrs. H. A. London, of Pittsboro, N. C., Mrs. Kate Cabell Claiborne, of Richmond, Va., Judge C. A. Cook, of Warrenton, N. C., Dr. Willis Alston, of Littleton, N. C., Dr. E. W. Pugh, of Windsor, N. C., Mrs. Amelia Ann Whitaker, of Raleigh, Mrs. Martha T. Wilcox, of Brinkleyville, N. C., Miss Temperance Alston, of Shreveport, La., Mrs. M. R. K. Fowlkes, of Selma, J. R. B. Hathaway, of Edenton, N. C., and many others.

In obtaining the records of the South Carolina family, kindly aid has been received from Rev. Benjamin Allston, of Winnsboro, (now deceased), Jos. Blyth Allston, Esq., of Petigru, S. C., Mrs. McCready, of Sewanee, Tenn., Jas. B. Pyatt, of Georgetown, S. C., John Izard Middleton, of Baltimore, Miss Emma Elliott Johnston, of Baltimore, Miss Sara Elizabeth White, of Tallulah, and others.

Copious extracts from English genealogical works have been used in tracing the early history of the family. In addition to which Mr. Clarence Cabell, of Richmond, Va., a gentleman of wealth and education, during a protracted stay in England, employed at a considerable outlay a genealogical expert to carefully trace the family lines and connections, which served to establish and elucidate more fully the relationship between the family in England and that in America. Only such of Mr. Cabell's notes as relate to the immediate lines from which the American families descend, have been copied.

I may here state that John Alston, the first of the family in North Carolina, lived to be very old, and my great-grandfather, who was his grandson, lived in early life near by his grandfather, and his own widow lived in full possession of her mental faculties until her death in 1845, being in her 94th year. Her mother having been the widow of one of John Alston's sons, who died when comparatively young. Thus she had ample opportunity of being informed by her mother and husband, as to the traditions and history of the family. Tradition is very clear and emphatic in giving Odell Castle as the manorial seat of the family in England, also as to the statement that two young men (cousins) immigrated together, who, after reaching America, disagreed and parted, one settling in North Carolina, where his descendants are inseparably connected with its history, the other changing the spelling of the name by inserting an additional l, went to South Carolina where he founded the family which has been noted in the history of that State. In looking over the genealogical records of Odell Alstons, the two who came to America are the only ones of that period bearing the name John, excepting a son of Sir Edward of Strixton, who died unmarried in England, and a Vere-John, who was rector of Odell. The John Alston who was deported to Barbados in 1685 has been supposed to have been the son of William of Grays Inn, of which, however, there is no proof; on the contrary it is very improbable, as Saxham Hall, an old manorial seat of the Alstons, which was inherited by this William, was in Suffolk, and those who followed the Duke of Monmouth have been alluded to as Rustics from the West of England.

Campbell’s History of Virginia, B. B. Minor, Publisher, Richmond, Va., 1847, Page 99, (1685.) “A number of the prisoners taken with Monmouth, and who had escaped the cruelty of Jeffreys, were sent to Virginia.

James instructed Effingham on this occasion in the following letter:

“James Rex:

“Right trusty and well beloved, we greet you well.
As it has pleased God to deliver into our hands such of our rebellious subjects as have taken up arms against us, for which traitorous practices some of them have suffered death according to law, so we have been graciously pleased to extend our mercy to many others by ordering their transportation to several parts of our dominions in America, where they are to be kept as servants to the inhabitants of the same. And to the end their punishment may in some measure answer their crimes, we do think fit hereby to signify our pleasure unto you, our Governor and Council of Virginia, that you take all necessary care that such convicted persons as were guilty of the late rebellion that shall arrive within that our colony, whose names are hereunto annexed, be kept there and continue to serve their masters for the space of ten years at least. And that they be not permitted in any manner to redeem themselves by money or otherwise until that term be fully expired.
And for the better effecting hereof you are to frame and propose a bill to the assembly of that, our colony, with such provisions and clauses as shall be requisite for this purpose, to which you our Governor are to give your assent, and to transmit the same unto us for our Royal confirmation. Wherein expecting a ready compliance, we bid you heartily farewell. Given at our court at Whitehall the 4th of October, 1685, in the first year of our reign.

"Sunderland."

Virginia, however, made no law conformable to the requisitions of James, etc., etc., etc.

To suppose that the two cousins, John Alston, could have been sent over in this company would be preposterous, as the younger of the two at that time was only 12 or 13 years old, and their family seat at Odell was a long distance from where James, Duke of Monmouth, with his hastily collected 2,000 rustics were repulsed. The powerful Whigs, from whom he expected aid, holding themselves aloof. Besides the above reasons, the many and extensive grants to them go to show that they were in favor with the crown, and were not exiled convicts.

There is no record to show when these two John Alstons came to America, or where they landed, the Colonial reports and records of North and South Carolina, Virginia and Massachusetts having been searched with only negative results, and the following is offered as presenting the most probable solution of the problem, viz.:

That they accompanied John Archdale when he came to America in 1694, as Governor of Carolina. They first came to Albemarle, where Quakers were numerous. Here the younger John Alston probably remained. From thence Gov. Archdale, with others who accompanied him, among whom was the elder John Alston (now changing his name to Allston) went to Charleston, S. C. Here Allston (about 28 years old) met Elizabeth Harris, a young widow, whose husband had died the year before. She was possessed of a good estate, and comfortably settled in her own home, without children or other incumbrances. He soon availed himself of the opportunity, and in that same or the following year (June, 1696), married her, who in every way suited him so well. Living among his wife's relations, who were people of influence in the colony, he soon made himself as one with them, and being in favor with Gov. Archdale, circumstances were favorable to his building up a valuable estate.

The younger John Alston (about 21 years old), remaining in Albemarle, after a few years married among the Quakers. Or he possibly may have accompanied Archdale to Charleston, and in 1696, returned with him to Albemarle (now Pasquotank).

After Alston's marriage and several children having been born unto them, he removed from Pasquotank and settled upon Bennett's Creek (now Gates' county). His subsequent history is known.

Hawkes, in his history, states that Archdale received the appointment of Governor in 1694, and reached Charleston with specific instructions August 17th, 1695. That he visited North Carolina, first landing in Virginia July, 1695, thence going direct to Albemarle, where he made a short stop.

Wheeler, p. 32, upon the authority of Williamson, states that he was appointed and came over in 1694; that he met the Legislature in Charleston in March, 1695, which seems much more probable, and that Hawkes may have erred in stating that he first came over in 1695 instead of 1694.

Admitting this, and that Wheeler and Williamson are correct, it is made to appear that he came to America after his appointment in 1694, first landing in Virginia July, 1694, thence going direct to Albemarle, North Carolina, where he made a short stop, appointed Thomas Harvey Deputy Governor, and thence reaching Charleston August 17th, 1694, appointed Joseph Blake Deputy Governor, while he proceeded to investigate the condition of the colonists and their grievances, and met the Legislature in Charleston in March, 1695. Subsequently when he returned to England, he left Thomas Harvey Deputy Governor of North Carolina, and Joseph Blake Deputy Governor of South Carolina.

It may here be stated, that according to the accompanying English records, all the descendants of Thomas Alston = Frances Bloomfield, had their lines successively to fail, so that the family name in that branch is now only found in the descendants of the two John Alstons who came to Carolina, of whom the eldest now living, by family seniority, is Jos. Blyth Allston, which would have made him the legal heir to the Baronetcy conferred upon Sir Thomas Alston of Odell in 1642, and which became extinct upon the death of Sir Rowland, the 6th Bart., in 1790, for want of a legitimate claimant. This seems to have been known to Gov. R. F. W. Allston, who spoke of it in his lifetime.

Besides these two families, there was a George Alston, of the mercantile firms of Andrew Mutter, Wm. Littlejohn and George Alston, of Granville Co., N. C., 1767-1771, and John Alston, James Young, James Martin and Alexander Grindley, of Glasgow, Scotland, but there is no record of his leaving any issue.

There was also a William Alston, who died in Orange Co., N. C., in 1766, leaving property to wife, Mary Alston, gr. = sons, William Alston Downey, Thomas Stinkey McLeroy and William McBride, and sons-in-law, Peter Downey and Archibald McLeroy. No son was left bearing the name. He was probably the younger brother of Sir Evelyn Alston, the sixth and last Baronet of Chelsea, who died in 1783.

There was a John Alston who entered one hundred acres of land in Maryland in 1729, of whom nothing else is known. Another family, Henry Alston and brother, came from Lancashire, England, in 1861, and settled in Illinois, with whom we cannot trace connection.

There are also some scattering branches of the North Carolina family that have removed west, and have not kept themselves informed as to their connection. These have not been traced.

(We acknowledge our indebtedness to the valuable historical work of John H. Wheeler for many extracts.)

The following are from English records:

Volume 1, Page 149.—Published 1720.

A little lower the Ouse runs by Odell, or Woodhill, called Wahulle. The Barons of Wahulle had a barony consisting of three hundred knight's fees in several counties. The castle which anciently belonged to these Barons was nothing but strange ruins in Leland's time, who says it was in possession of Lord Bray. It afterwards came to the Chetwoodes. Here was a fire on the 13th of May,* and here also Sir Thomas Alston has a seat. The family was raised to the title of Baronet in the person of Thomas Alston, Esq., high sheriff of the county, Charles I.

*This custom of lighting fires in May, or Midsummer day, was derived from, and was a relic of the Ancient Druidical worship, and indicated that here was a place where they practiced their "rites."
rection over the hill back of the castle between it and the church. However, this seems to be a very old and proper name, for formerly it had its "Barons of Wahull," eminent for their ancient nobility. The castle, before the art of war was so refined upon as at present, must have been an impregnable fortress from its advantageous situation near the river, and as a work of considerable height and steep ascent. Little remains of the old works, yet the upper and bascourts are very conspicuous. The only habitable building is where stood the keep on one area of one-half acre, and is chiefly modern, particularly the south front, 105 feet long, built by Lady Wolstenholme while her son, Thos. Alston, was on his travels. The west is older embattled, and tower about 24 yards in length. The east end is of the same date as the south, and only 35 feet. The rooms within are real lofty and spacious, the walls being 27 feet by 23 feet, and 19 feet high. The drawing room 21 feet by 20½ feet, 13 feet 9 inches high. They contain several good paintings, some of which were brought from Italy by Sir Thos. Alston about 70 years ago (1650.)

The castle commands a delightful prospect over the Ouse, whose beautiful meanderings are remarkably striking about this neighborhood. Between it on the north rises a wide extended hill covered with the noblest wood in this county, containing upwards of three hundred acres, and known by the name of "Odell Great Woods." Part thereof, consisting of about seventy acres, only by an obscure diversion, is called "Yelmes Wood," and said to be in the parish of Paddington, though distant from any part of that parish at least one-fourth of a mile.

Alstons purchased Odell from Chetwoodes in 1640. The knights of Chetwoode revived about 15, George II., a claim to the Barony Woodhulle. The event of this claim was a rejection, as no such title exists at the present day.
That it should be presented is singular, as the very name and Castle of Odell had nearly a century before passed by purchase to the Alstons—a very ancient family of Saxon origin, as may be attested from the name, which in the language signifies "most noble" or "most excellent," yet little has been preserved of the early part of their pedigree. Alstan was the Saxon Lord of Stanford in Norfolk before the Conquest, but dispossessed thereof by the villainous Normans. (See Bloomfield’s list of Norfolk, vol. 1, p. 540). Their coat of arms, which has been preserved by the families of both South and North Carolina, is reproduced in the frontispiece, and thus described, viz.:

"Arms Azure, Ten Stars, 4, 3, 2, 1, Or, Crest on a wreath, a half-moon Argent, charged with a star Or in the arms, Motto Immutus." Seat at Odell Bedfordshire.

Note.—(There can be no doubt but that the old Saxon names, Æthelstan, Ealhstan, Alstan, Alston, Alstone and Allston are but different renderings of the same name, which the Motto "Immutus" only tends to confirm, the last mentioned orthography being confined to South Carolina).

In connection with the above will be appended some lines and notes of allied families, which will doubtless be of interest; among whom are Temple, Brooke and Wal lis in England, and in America—Macon, Dawson, Atherton, Jones, Yancey, Williams, Keerney, Kimbrough, Hinton and Lillington.

Saxham Hall, in Newton, was anciently the seat of the Alstons for many hundred years, from whence that family bath spread itself into several counties. It is certainly a family of great antiquity and said to be of Saxon extraction, though the origin of them cannot be traced at this time of day. We find them mentioned so early as Edward the First's reign, when William Alston of Stisted, in Essex, for want of warranty of Brockstroft, in Stisted, did grant and confirm to John de Carpenter, of Naylinghurst, so much of his better land in Stisted, except his mansion-house there.

In Edward the Third's time, Hugh Alston bore for arms azure, ten stars, or 4, 3, 2, 1, which was long before coat armor was granted by patent.

After some descents from the above, said William Alston, of Stisted, the lineal descendant of this family was John Alston, of Newton in Suffolk. He was father of William, who, by Ann the daughter of Thomas Symons, had issue. Edward of Saxham-hall in Newton, who took to wife Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Colman, by whom he had two sons: 1, William of Saxham, of whom hereafter; 2, Thomas of Edwardston, in Suffolk, who married, first, Dorothy, one of the daughters and co-heirs of —— Holmsted of Mapleston, in Essex, by whom he had Edward Alston of Edwardston, Esq. His second wife was ——, by whom he had Thomas Alston of Newton, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas West of London, and had issue, Thomas Alston of Newton. Edward Alston, of Edwardston aforesaid, married Margaret, daughter of Arthur Penning, of Kettleborough, in Suffolk, Esq., by whom he had Sir Edward Alston of London, Knt., Doctor in Physick and President of the College of Physicians. Joseph Alston of Chelsea, Esq., ancestor to the present Sir Evelyn Alston, Bart., of whom hereafter; and Penning Alston of London. Sir Edward married Susan, daughter of Christopher Hudson, of Norwich, by whom he had two daughters: 1, Mary, married to Sir James Langham of Cottesbrooke, in Northamptonshire, Bart., who had only one daughter, Mary, married to Henry Booth, Lord Delamer, afterwards Earl of Warrington; 2, Sarah, married first, George Grimstone, Esq., eldest son of Sir Harbottle Grimstone, Bart., Master of the Rolls; secondly, John, Duke of Somerset; thirdly, Henry, Lord Colerain, and died without issue.

William Alston, of Saxham Hall, Esquire, son and heir of Edward aforesaid, married Elizabeth, one of the daughters and co-heirs of —— Hampstead, of Halstead, in Essex, Esq. (by the daughter of William Bindloss, Esq., Sergeant at Law), by whom he had several children; but their lines failed, except William, the eldest, and Thomas, the fourth son, of whom hereafter; William, the eldest son, married the daughter of —— Nence, of Hadham, in Hertfordshire, by whom he had William of the Inner Temple, who was seated at Marlesford, in Suffolk, and married Avise, daughter and co-heir of Jeffry Pitman, of Woodbridge, Esq., by whom he had issue, Samuel of Marlesford and Thomas of the Inner Temple, who died without issue; also three daughters; Avise, married to Sir Thomas Forster, Kut. (son of the Lord Chief Justice); Elizabeth, married to Thomas Mann, of the Inner Temple, Esq., Usher of the Rolls; and Mary, who died unmarried. This William and his wife lie interred at Marlesford church. He died Anno 1641. Samuel Alston, of Marlesford, Esq. (eldest son of William), married Alice, daughter of Francis Nicholson, of Chapelle, in Essex, by whom he had Samuel Alston, of Marlesford, Esq., who married Elizabeth, daughter of Gregory Wescomb, of Eltham, in Kent, Esq. (son of Clement Wescomb, Doctor in Physic), and had issue one son, William Alston, of Grey's Inn, Esq., and three daughters.

Thomas Alston, Esq. (fourth son of William above mentioned), was of Polstead, in Suffolk, and married Frances, daughter of Simon Bloomeville, or Bloomfield, of Monks Illey, in Suffolk, Esq. (surviving her said husband; she married Sir John Temple, of Stantonbury, in Bucks, Knt.) They had issue four sons and a daughter. 1. William, who was of the Inner Temple, and also of Odell, in Bedfordshire, but died unmarried; 2. Thomas, of the Inner Temple, and also of Odell, of whom hereafter; 3. Sir Edward, who was likewise of the Inner Temple, and of Strixton, in Northamptonshire. He had the honor of knighthood conferred on him, and married Esther, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Ashcomb, of Alscot, Oxon, by whom he had five sons and three daughters (William, Edward, Thomas, John and Charles, which Charles was Doctor in Divinity, Archdeacon of Essex, Rector of Northolt, in Middlesex, Treasurer of St. Paul's and Chaplain to Dr. Compton, Bishop of London, and died 1714; all these sons died unmarried. Of the three daughters, Catherine was married to Wiseman, of Northamptonshire); and 4. John: Frances, the only daughter of Thomas, married William, Lord Monson, which John Alston, of the Inner Temple, Esq., and of Parvenham, in Bedfordshire (fourth son of Thomas, of Polstead), married Dorothy, daughter of Sir John Temple, of Stanton, Bucks, Knt., by whom he had four sons and five daughters. 1. William, who married the daughter of Brooke, see note, and died, leaving issue; 2. Thomas; 3. Edward; 4. John, who married Anne, daughter of Wallis, see note. The daughters were Frances, married to Edwards Reynolds; Elizabeth to William Crofts; Mary to John Lemon; Dorothy to Thomas Wells, and Sarah.

Thomas Alston, of Odell, Esq. (second son, but eldest surviving son of Thomas, of Polstead), had first the honor of knighthood conferred upon him, and afterwards was advanced to the higher dignity of a Baronet. 18 Car. I. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Rowland St. John, Knight of the Bath, by whom he had two sons—Thomas, who died in his father's lifetime unmarried; and Sir Rowland, his successor; also two daughters—Frances, married to Sir John Pickering, of Titmarsh, Northamptonshire; and Elizabeth, married first to Stavely Stanton, of Birchmore, in Bedfordshire, Esq., and secondly to Montague Pickering, Esq., brother to Sir John. Sir Thomas died Anno 1678, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son.

Sir Rowland Alston, Bart., who married Temperance, second daughter of Thomas, Lord Carew, of Stene, and left three sons and three daughters—Sir Thomas, his successor; Sir Rowland, successor to his brother; and Vere John, Rector of Odell and Minister of Parvenham, in Bedfordshire, who was twice married and had issue. The daughters were: Mary, married to the late Mr. Sergeant Selby; Elizabeth, to the late General Stuart, and after his decease to Mr. Rowe; and Anne, to Richard Mead, Esq., M.D. Sir Rowland died 1698, and was buried at Odell; his lady surviving him was remarried to Sir John Wolstenholme, of Forty-hill, in Enfield, Middlesex, Bart. Sir Thomas Alston, Bart., his eldest son, succeeded his father in dignity and estate; by dying unmarried, 1714, was succeeded by his next brother. Sir Rowland Alston, Bart., who was thrice elected one of the knights of the shire for the county of Bedford, and by Elizabeth, only daughter of Captain Reynolds, had issue. 1. Sir Thomas, his successor; 2. Rowland, who married Gertrude, sister to Stillingfleet Durnford, Esq., of the Tower, but had no issue. Also two daughters; Elizabeth, the eldest, died unmarried, May 5, 1756; and Ann, now the wife of Robert Pye, Rector of Odell, etc. Sir Rowland died January 2, 1759, and was succeeded by Sir Thomas Alston, his eldest son and heir. He married August 30, 1750, Catherine Davis, a daughter and heir of Dr. Borey, by whom he had issue. Sir Thomas was knight of the shire for Bedford in the tenth and eleventh Parliament of Great Britain. He died 18th July, 1774, and was succeeded by his brother, Sir Rowland. He dying without issue 29th June, 1790, aged 64, the title became extinct. His widow survived until March, 1807. The family property by the will of Sir Thomas Alston, his predecessor, devolved on Thomas Alston, that gentleman's illegitimate son.

268. Alston of Chelsea, Middlesex.

This Sir Thomas Alston, Bart. (the person of whom we are now principally to treat, second son of Edward Alston, of Edwardton in Suffolk, Esq.), married Mary, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Mr. Crookenbury, of Bergen-op-Zoom, in the province of Brabant, a Dutch merchant, with whom he had about £12,000 fortune; at the time of his creation, he resided at Chelsea, though he purchased Bradwell Abbey, in Buckinghamshire, for the future residence of his family. He died May, 1688, leaving issue three sons and two daughters (eight having died young in his lifetime), viz.: 1. Sir Joseph. 2. Edward, who married Mary, daughter of Captain Thompson, by whom he had one son, Joseph, and several daughters. 3. Isaac, who was born at Edwardston, 1688, who had a design of building a house upon an estate about two miles from Edwardston; and in pursuance of this design had laid down great quantities of timber upon the place, but his father would have the timber removed to Edwardston and build the house where the old one stood and would have this branch of the family settle there, because it was the place of his nativity; and accordingly he did remove the timber and build his house at Edwardston, though both he and his father died before the house was finished. He married Mary, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Henry Seile, of London, by whom he had one son, Joseph, which Joseph was seated at Edwardston, and a very ingenious gentleman and a collector of medals; he married Laureutia, sole daughter and heir of the Reverend Charles Trumbull, LL.D., brother to Sir William Trumbull, Knt., Secretary of State to King William, by whom he left one son, Joseph, and three daughters, viz.: Margaret married to —— Soame, Esq.; Anne, to the Right Reverend Dr. Hare, late Bishop of Chichester; and Charlotte.

The daughters of Sir Joseph were, Clare, married to John Witterong, of Rothamsted in Hertfordshire, Bart., and Mary, the youngest daughter, married to James Clayton, Esq., only son of Sir Thomas Clayton, of La Vache in Buckinghamshire, Knt., but had no issue. Sir Joseph Alston, Bart., eldest son and heir of Sir Joseph before mentioned, was seated at Bradwell Abbey, in the county of Bucks, and died March 14, 1688–9, and was buried in the chancel of the church at Bradwell, aged 49. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Morrice Thompson, Esq. (sister to the late Lord Haversham), and by her left two sons, Sir Joseph and Edward, who was rector of Wivenhoe and Layer Marney in Essex, and married Mrs. Elizabeth Wells and had only one daughter. He was succeeded in title and estate by his eldest son.

Sir Joseph Alston, Bart., who married Penelope, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Sir Edward Evelyn, of Long Ditton in Surrey, Knt., by whom he left two sons, Sir Joseph and Sir Evelyn; also several daughters, Penelope, Elizabeth, Theodosia, and Die Patris, a name given her because she was born on her father's birthday.

Sir Joseph, the oldest son, succeeded his father and took to wife —— Thursby, and died without issue, whereupon the title devolved upon his brother.

Sir Evelyn Alston, who married —— by whom he had two sons, Evelyn and William, and one daughter. He was succeeded in dignity and estate by his eldest son.
Sir Evelyn, who married in March, 1766, Mrs. May, of Mary-le-bone. (But dying issueless in 1783, the Baronetcy became extinct).

The following is from records recently collected in England by Mr. Clarence Cabell, of Richmond, Va., (omitting all collateral lines):

1. John Alston, of Newton, County Suffolk.

6. John Alston, of the Inner Temple & of Parvenham, County Bedford. 4th son, b. 1610. Proved the Will of his son, Thomas Alston, 1678. Mentioned in the will of his Brother, Sir Thomas Alston, in 1678. Buried at Parvenham, 15th Aug. 1687. Married Dorothy, dau. of Sir John Temple, 4th Jany. 1634, at Odell. She was buried at Parvenham, 5th Dec. 1668.

8. William Alston, mentioned in father's will 1707, died 28th November, 1713, M. I., at Parvenham, will dated 6th July, 1713, proved in Archdy Court of Bedford, married Elizabeth, mentioned in her husband's will 1713, died 16th February, 1730, at Parvenham.

9. William, mentioned in father's will 1713, called grandson in will of Sarah Alston 1714, died 26th April, 1736, at Parvenham. After the death of his wife Thomasin, 1669, William Alston married Sarah, who left no issue and died 30th August, 1714, at Parvenham, aged 56.

10. John Alston, 2 son of Wm. and Thomasin (Brooke) Alston; Thomasin, dau. of Wm. and Thomasin (Brooke) Alston, is mentioned as wife of Abraham Hardson in her brother William's will, 1713.

11. Thomas d. 1678, and Edward, sons of John and Dorothy (Temple) Alston, both died s.p.

12. John Alston, 4th son of John Alston and Dorothy Temple of Parvenham, mentioned in will of John Alston, 1704, married Anne, dau. of Wallis.
13. John Alston, eldest son of John Alston and Anne Wallis, was baptized at Felmersham co., Bedford, 5th Dec., 1673.

Thomas, mentioned in will of Edward Alston, 1715.

Edward Alston, bapt. at Parvenham 30th June, 1689.

Francesca, wife of Whitlock.

Sarah, baptized at Parvenham, 2d May, 1680.

Elizabeth.

Dorothy, baptized at Parvenham 23d July, 1684.

By reference to the map of England it will be seen that Strixton, Parvenham and Felmersham were all contiguous to Odell. The farthest being Strixton, and not exceeding five miles.

Greville, or Grevile, (Sir Fulke) Lord Brooke, an English poet and miscellaneous writer, born in Warwickshire in 1554, was distinguished by the favor of Queen Elizabeth, who made him a Knight. He was appointed by King James I. under-treasurer and Chancellor of the exchequer in 1615, and obtained from that monarch the castle of Warwick (then in a ruinous condition), which he repaired at vast expense. He was created a peer, with the title of Baron Brooke, in 1620. He was mortally wounded in a quarrel with an old servant in 1628. Lord Brooke was the intimate friend of Sir Philip Sidney, of whom he published a biography. He also wrote a number of poems and tragedies.

(See Horace Walpole, Royal and Noble Authors; Biographia Britannica.)

Greville (Robert), born in 1608, was a cousin of the preceding, whose title he inherited. He fought in the Parliamentary army, and was killed at the battle of Lichfield in 1643. Among his principal works are a "Discourse Opening the Nature of the Episcopacy Exercised in England," (1641), and "The Nature of Truth."
(See Lodge's Portraits.)

Thomasin, his daughter, born in 1643-4, m. Wm. Alston and died 29th January, 1669, aged 25 years, leaving three children, viz.: William, John, Thomasin q. v.

The evidence that Lord Brooke was the father of Thomasin is presumptive. Being mentioned as the daughter of Brooke carries with it the assumption that he was prominent and well known before the British Public. This could apply to no one else of the name at the time of her birth, 1643-4, but this Robert Greville. Warwick Castle, the seat of Sir Fulke Greville, the predecessor of Sir Robert, being only 45–50 miles distant from Strixton and Odell.

John Wallis was the oldest son of the Rev. John Wallis, incumbent of Ashford in Kent, where he was born Nov. 23d, 1616. The father of Wallis died when he was six years old, leaving five children to the care of his widow. He was fifteen years old when his curiosity was excited by seeing a book of arithmetic in the hands of his younger brother, who was preparing for trade. On his showing some curiosity to know what it meant, his brother went through the rules with him, and in a fortnight he had mastered the whole.

He was entered at Emanuel College, Cambridge, where he soon obtained reputation. Among his other studies, anatomy found a place; and he is said to have been the first student who maintained, in a public disputation, the doctrine of the circulation of the blood, which had been promulgated by Harvey four or five years before.

After taking the degree of Master of Arts, he was chosen Fellow of Queens, and took orders in 1640. He was then chaplain in one and another private family, residing partly in London, till the breaking out of the civil war, in which he took the side of the Parliament. He made himself useful to his party by deciphering intercepted letters, an act in which he was eminent. In 1643, the sequestrated living of St. Gabriel, Fenchurch street, was given to him, and in the same year he published "Truth Tried, or Animadversions on the Lord Brookes Treatise on the Nature of Truth." In this year also he came into a handsome fortune by the death of his mother. In 1644 he was appointed one of the secretaries of the Assembly of Divines at Westminster. In this year also he married. In 1645 he was among the first who joined those meetings, which afterwards gave rise to the Royal Society. When the Independents began to prevail, Wallis joined with others of the clergy in opposing them, and in 1648 subscribed a remonstrance against the execution of Charles I. In 1649 he was appointed Savilian Professor of Geometry at Oxford by the Parliamentary visitors. He now moved to Oxford and applied himself diligently to mathematics. At the end of 1650 he first met with the method of indivisibles in the writings of Torricelli, and from this time his celebrated researches begin. In 1658 Wallis, who with others desired the restoration of the kingly power, employed his art of deciphering on the side of the Royalists, so that at the Restoration he was received with favor by Charles II., confirmed in his professorship and in the place of keeper of the archives at Oxford, and was made one of the royal chaplains. In 1661 he was one of the clergy appointed to review the Book of Common Prayer.

He was of course one of the first members of the Royal Society, and from this to his death his life is little more than the list of his works. The collections of his works by the Curator of the Oxford university press began to be made in 1692. The three volumes bear the disordered dates of 1695, 1693 and 1699. In 1692 he was consulted upon the adoption of the Gregorean calendar, or new style, against which he gave a strong opinion, and the design was abandoned. In 1696 when the first two volumes of his works appeared he was the remote occasion of beginning the controversy between the followers of Newton and Leibnitz. Some remarks were made on his assertions as to the origin of the differential calculus in the Leipzig Acts, which produced a correspondence, and this correspondence was published in the 3d volume. He died Oct. 28th, 1703, in his 88th year.

Wallis in his literary character is to be considered as a theologian, a scholar and a mathematician. As a divine he would probably not have been remembered but for his eminence in the other characters. His discourses on the Trinity are still quoted in the histories of opinions on that subject. If the character of Wallis has been elevated as a divine by his celebrity as a philosopher, his services as a scholar have for the same reason been, if not underrated, at least thrown into a shade. He was the first editor of the "Harmonics" of Ptolemeus, of the commentary on it by Porphyrius, and of the later work of Brenniius; as also of Aristarchus of Samoa.

As a mathematician Wallis is the most immediate predecessor of Newton, both in the time at which he lived and the subjects at which he worked. Those who incline to the opinion that scientific discoveries are not the work of the man, but of the man and the hour, that is, who regard each particular conquest as the necessary consequences of the actual state of things, and as certain to come from one quarter or another when the time arrives, will probably say that if Wallis had not lived, Newton would but have filled his place, as far as the pure mathematics are concerned.

His daughter, Anne, married John Alston (4th son of John Alston and Dorothy Temple), whose eldest son, John, was baptized at Felmersham 5th December, 1673. As with Thomasin Brooke, so likewise with Anne Wallis. Being mentioned as the daughter of Wallis, carries with it the assumption that he was prominent before the public and well known, which would apply to none other of the name at that time but this John Wallis.

A few items of English history compiled from various sources will be appropriate just here.

Christianity, first planted in England by the Apostles, probably Paul himself, although persecuted and oppressed, survived even the period of Roman occupation.

After the Romans had abandoned the Island, about 449, Hengist and Horsa, two Jutish chiefs, invaded the country, and drove out the Picts. Following soon after these, Ella the Saxon, with three sons and three ship-loads of Buccaneers, consisting of Angles and Saxons, two nearly related peoples, landed upon the southern coast and established themselves. These were followed by similar successive immigrations, which resulted in Anglo-Saxon sovereignty, and spreading over the Island their English language, finally giving to it the name of Angle-land or England. The seven leading States of the Saxon Heptarchy were ruled by petty Princes, who from time to time were dominated by some one more powerful than the others. They were in no sense a confederacy, and when they had subdued the Britons, they were continually fighting among themselves.

"The principal diet of these early English or Saxon tribes is said to have been beef and pork, taken with copious draughts of ale and mead. They were hard drinkers and hard fighters, and their wild lives were usually cut short by battle or pestilence." Although Christianity was so early planted in England, the antagonism between the two races was too bitter to encourage the British Christians to mission work among the Saxons. Four generations were born and buried before this hostility died away, and intercourse between the peoples gradually obliterated differences of race. The Britons, however, sent missionaries among the Irish Celts in the fifth century; also to the Picts of North Britain, and even to the continent of Europe. (See Twenty Centuries of English History, by James R. Joy.)

These invading tribes of Jutes, Angles and Saxons were all pagans, and Ethelbert, King of Kent, had married a Christian princess, Bertha, a daughter of a King of the Franks. She was permitted to worship the Christian God in the royal town of Canterbury. To her Pope Gregory commended his missionary, Augustine (597 A. D.). Suspecting sorcery, Ethelbert received the monks under the open sky. He accepted their doctrines and many of his court were baptized. From this beginning, first one and then another state of the Heptarchy embraced Christianity, until Mercia alone was left, and became the rallying ground of paganism, with King Penda its defender. Finally in 655 the Mercians were conquered and embraced Christianity. Penda was overthrown by Oswald and the last hold of paganism fell. In 680 King Ethelred divided the kingdom of the Mercians into dioceses and placed a bishop's seat at Leicester.

During the eighth century the Danes began to make incursions, and ultimately succeeded in establishing themselves. During these incursions, having subjected to their own rule portions of North Britain, Ireland and other neighboring isles, they allied themselves with the Welsh, the hereditary foe of the Anglo-Saxons, for a combined assault upon the English. This mixed force was defeated by Egbert, the West Saxon King, in 835, at Hengestesdun, in Cornwall. Ethelwolf, the son and successor of Egbert, could not prevent their depredations upon the coast, and finally the Danes changed their tactics and brought with them their wives and children, determined to conquer a home and dwell upon English soil, and the warfare between them and the Saxons became very bitter and relentless. The Danes were pagans, and in 866, having mastered Northumbria and Mercia, they defeated Edmund, the last King of East-Anglia, in battle, whom they captured, but offered him freedom if he would only bow the knee to their pagan god, Woden. He defied them and was put to death by torture for his refusal.

Elated with successive triumphs the Danes then rushed upon Wessex, but found their match at Ashdune (871) where King Ethelred, son of Ethelwolf, with his young brother, Alfred, beat them with great slaughter. Alfred became king at twenty-one and continued his warfare against the Danes until 878, when Guthrum, their king, agreed to terms of peace and was baptized into the Christian faith.

NOTE—The above is taken from the Pedigree of J. Bayard Backus, of New York City. He says there is a question as to the spelling of several of the names, and some of the parties are known by different names. Of course this refers to the earlier names.

The several States were united under Alfred, who has ever been regarded as the greatest of English kings, great in war, but greater in peace. Of his five children only one, Edward the elder, wore a crown. He ruled from 901 to 925, and with the help of his sister, Ethelfleida, "the Lady of the Mercians," he took the offensive and won back the greater part of the Dane-Law. "The Danes of this region had settled down beside the English, adopting their religion and fitting themselves easily to the English ways of life. The two races were of kindred ancestry, spoke closely related languages, and neither had been dominated by Rome or influenced by Roman civilization."

A few notes from Bibliographa Britannica will here be appropriate, (Camden.)

Ethelfled, or Ethelfleida, sister of Edward the elder, had married Ethelred, the king or earldorman of Mercia.
After the death of her husband she governed the Mercians for eight years in very troublous times, to her great praise and honor. Besides the aid given her brother in recovering the Dane-Law, in 911 she repaired Warwick; in 913
she entered the land of the Britons to reduce a castle at Bricencumere, and took the Queen of the Britons prisoner. Also, in 914, she repaired Leicester and fortified the place with new walls. She was ancestress of Leofwine, Earl of Mercia, whose seat or residence was at Leicester, and from whom sprung the family of Sir John Temple of Stantonbury or Stowe q. v.

TEMPLE.

It is stated in Burk's Peerage that this ancient family derives its surname from the manor of Temple Co. Leicester, and has its pedigree recorded in the "Visitatio of Leicestershire," A. D. 1619.

1. Leofwine, or Leoferin, Earl of Mercia had
2. Leofric, King of Leicester, (Lodges Peerage of Ireland, under Viscount Palmerston). He married the famous Lady Godiva, who rode naked through Coventrytown by day to regain for the citizens the privileges taken from them, and dying August 31, 1027. They had issue:
3. Algar, King of the East Saxons in 1053, who had
4. Edwin, King of the East Saxons, deposed by the Conqueror, and killed in battle with the Normans, 1071. His sister married, 1st, the Welsh King Gruffydd. "Her name was Ealdgyth and her brothers were Eadwine and Morkere." (Encyclopedia Britannica, Art. Harold). She married secondly, Harold, king of England. He (Edwin) was father of
5. Edwin, Earl of Leicestershire and Coventry, who assumed the surname, Temple, from the Manor of Temple, in the Hundred of Sparkenhor in Welsboro, Leicestershire (see Burtin's Leicestershire), whose descendant Taylor, Esq., of Dorchester, near Boston, and d.

1734, leaving a daughter, Mehitabel, who married
Robert Temple of Boston, Aug. 11, 1721, and was mother of Sir John Temple, 8th Bart.

From the foregoing records we find John Alston, second son of William Alston and Thomasin Brooke, was born about 1665 or 6. Again another John Alston, son of John Alston and Anne Wallis and first cousin to the above John, son of William, was baptized in 1673, Dec. 5th, thus being about eight years younger.

The Alstons as a family had very marked characteristics. In personal appearance they were tall, erect, muscular, with florid complexion, blue eyes, and brown or flaxen hair. They held much wealth, though not given to money-making as a business, and have but seldom been panders for political preferment, or sought public honors. They have rather acted the part of wealthy country gentlemen who lived well, bestowed upon their families all the pleasures and luxuries which circumstances could afford, and dispensing hospitality with a liberal hand. Strong in their attachments and unyielding in their antagonisms, they have ever been ready to make common cause with a friend, defend injured innocence, befriend the weak, or fight against whatever they conceived to be injustice, wrong or oppression, and as masters were kind and considerate to their servants. Their own conduct being open and above board, they held in abhorrence all sham or pretense of every kind, or anything that savored of dishonesty or meanness, preferring death to dishonor. Brave and unflinching in battling with the vicissitudes of life, they have borne their name proudly in prosperity and poverty alike.

Their women, while always proud of their ancestral lineage, and holding its traditions, have been kind, loving and gentle in their home-life, unaltering in their devotion, true and faithful in all that goes to make up the sum of domestic and social endearment and happiness, cherishing virtue as the crowning jewel of womanhood.

THE SEAT OF THIS FAMILY WAS AT SAXHAM HALL IN NEWTON, CO. SUFFOLK.

JOHN ALSTON WHO WAS DEPORTED TO THE BARBADOS IN 1685 FOR PAR- TICIPATION IN THE MONMOUTH REBELLION IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN THE ONLY SON OF THE ABOVE WILLIAM ALSTON, WHICH IS VERY IMPOSSIBLE.

JOHN ALLSTON—1666-1719.

While it is not known certainly when he came to the Carolina colony, every indication points to his coming with Governor John Archdale in 1694, who was sent from England and was in control during the year 1695.

It has been stated that he administered upon the estate of John Harris, but this does not appear upon the records, nor does it appear who was the father of his wife, the records of the court having been carefully examined by Rev. Robert Wilson, whose notes are herewith appended.

John Harris—Abstract of Will—Dated 8th of Feb., 1692-3—Recorded 20th Dec., 1693.

"I, John Harris, of Berkeley Co., Tanner." Mentions:
"Elizabeth, ye daughter of Sarah Saunders; Deare wife Elizabeth Harris. Lambert Saunders. Loving Brother Mr. Ffrancis Turges. Trustee friend John Alexander." Bequeathes lands, cattle, two or three negro slaves, silver tankard, pewter plates, etc., 150 tanned deer skins, raw deer skins, calf skins, hides, etc.

Francis Turges was first husband of Elizabeth, daughter of Landgrave Danl. Axtell, whose second husband was Gov. Joseph Blake.

John Alexander was husband of her sister, Ann Axtell, afterwards Mrs. Joseph Boone.

Estate administered 4th of Mar., 1693, by Elizabeth Harris, widow, James Le Bas, "De Rousserye" and Jos. Pamor.

Inventory sworn by above, 15th of June, 1694. (Grant by Gov. Thos. Smith, 27th of March, 1694.)
Indenture by Mr. John Allston, gent. and Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, "alias Allston," 13th of Aug., 1695, late John Harris, gent.," etc.

All the above from original autograph documents, Book 1693-9. Copies in later book.

We next append an abstract which has been preserved of his will, the original will most probably having been destroyed with other old records by Sherman's army when they passed through Columbia.

To his wife Elizabeth he bequeathed "his grey mare and her three-year-old mare," besides a liberal provision in land and otherwise.

His children were, viz.:

1. John, 400 acres joining Henry Fairwell's land, and 500 acres run out for Miss Rebecca Harris, and joining "Whiskenboo."
2. William, a plantation of 490 acres called "Indian Jack."
3. Elizabeth, 500 acres.

(1) Samuel R. Allston.
(2) Harriet Allston.
(3) John E. Allston.
(4) Jane R. Amory, and died 1876.

[No further record of this family.]

The above Wm. Moore Allston was a posthumous son and not mentioned in his father's will.

James Moore immigrated to South Carolina and settled in St. James Berkeley about 1685. As tradition tells, he was a grandson of the brilliant and famous Roger Moore (or More), leader of the Irish rebellion of 1641. He was made governor of the colony in 1700. He married the only child of a former governor, Sir Joseph Yeamens, Bart., by whom he had a son, James, who was also made governor in 1719, having before then, as commander of the forces of the colony, gained great distinction in wars against the Indians. His son, John, married Rachel Villepontieux, a Huguenot lady. Their son, John, married Elizabeth Vanderhorst, also a Huguenot, and their dau., Rachel Moore, was married Jan'y 19, 1775, to Captain William Allston, who died in 1781. Her son, Washington Allston, very early manifested marked talent, and his education was conducted with much care. As a painter, he ranks among the most noted that have ever lived, either in Europe or America, and wherever known his prominent merits have been recognized. His excellencies were not confined to artistic culture alone, but he was also gifted as a writer, and in purity of life, chastity of language, originality of conception, with high sense of honor, united to refined social and domestic attractions, he stands forth among the illustrious men of the age.

Dr. Henry C. Flagg, who had been chief of the medical staff of General Greene's army during the Revolution, remained South after the close of the war and married the widow of Captain Allston. Among their descendants have been and continue to be artists of national fame. (See life of Washington Allston, by Flagg.)

The following extract from Weem's Life of Marion will be of interest:

"During the struggles of the present year (1781) Captain William Allston, of True-Blue, on Little River, All Saints Parish, Waccamaw, served under General Marion. He was a firm patriot and a good soldier. Indeed, he may well be enumerated among the martyrs to the cause of his country, for having been seized with a fever in camp, he had scarcely time to reach his home, where he expired at a middle age. He left behind him his last wife, two sons and a daughter. His younger son he named after the illustrious Washington, and he has since proved himself to be highly worthy of that distinction. In this son will be readily recognized the distinguished artist, 'Washington Allston', whose pencil has bestowed celebrity upon the place of his birth, and whom every American should be proud to claim as his countryman."

"In the name of God, amen. I, William Allston, Gent., of All-Saints Parish in Craven County, in the Province of South Carolina, Planter, being of sound mind and memory, hereby make this my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say:

"I recommend my soul into the hands of Almighty God that gave it, in hope of a glorious resurrection thro' the intercession of our blessed Redeemer, Jesus Christ. My body I desire may be decently interred at the discretion of my executors, and as to the worldly goods which has pleased God to bestow upon me, I dispose of in the manner following:

"Imprimis, it is my will and desire that all my just debts and funeral expenses be first paid and discharged."
"Item. I give and bequeath unto my 2 children, Eliza and Benj., the sum of £4800 currency, that being the sum I received from the estate of their grandfather, Benjamin Simons, Esquire, to be equally divided between them and their respective heirs.

"Item. I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife, Rachel, and her heirs and assigns forever, 3 negroes named Maryan, Beck and Abraham, and their increase; also all my household and kitchen furniture that may be in or belonging to my house in town (Charas Town); also of my best horses that she may make choice of, and all my light carriages; and also she shall (if she chooses) live on either of my settled places during the time she remains my widow and no longer.

"Item. I also give unto my beloved wife, Rachel, the use of my house in Chas. during the time she remains my widow, and no longer.

"Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Eliza, and her heirs and assigns, one negro wench, Minerva, and her child, Cain, and her future increase. Then I give and bequeath unto my other 3 children, Benjamin, Mary and Washington, and to their heirs and assigns, a young negro to each of them, which shall be chosen either by themselves or by my executors at any time before the division of my estate. Then I give and bequeath to my son Benjamin and to his heirs and assigns forever, the plantation whereon I now live, extending from river to sea, containing 932 acres, and is clearly distinguished by No. 1 in a general platt hereunto annexed. Then I give and bequeath to my son Washington, and to his heirs and assigns forever, a plantation consisting of 3 tracts of land, the one on the river called the Spring, containing 385 acres, and clearly distinguished by No. 2, and red lines in the general platt hereunto annexed, and the other tract of land on the seaside, containing 483 acres, and is also distinguished in the general platt hereunto annexed, by No. 2, and red lines, and also one other tract of land on the seaside adjoining the last mentioned tract on the north, and is the same I purchased from Mr. Joseph Allston (formerly Montgomery's) containing 110 acres.

"Item. I give and bequeath to my 2 daughters, Eliza and Mary, and their heirs and assigns forever, all my other lands, consisting of one lot in Chas. Town (with the in-cumbrance on it before mentioned) also one lot in George Town; one tract of land on Sampit, containing 750 acres, and 2 other tracts of land on plat containing 300 acres; the whole of which land to be equally divided between them by my executors either by division or by sale of such lands at any time my executors may think proper, and the monies arising therefrom to be put to interest or laid out in any other property that my executors shall think most beneficial for the respective heirs.

"Item. I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife, Rachel, and unto all my children, Eliza, Benjamin, Mary and Washington, and their respective heirs and assigns, the whole of the residue or remainder of my estate, to be equally and justly divided between them by my executors, share and share alike, which division shall be made by first having a regular and just appraisement and divided into so many lots or shares of equal value, from which each heir shall draw their respective lot, or share, at such time as follows, that is to say, my beloved wife, Rachel, receive her share or dividendi immediately after she ceases to be my widow, or at any time before when she shall demand the same of my executors, which said lot or share and other bequests to her before made are to be deemed and taken by her in lieu of her right of dower to any part of my lands, and other claims or demands which she may have to any other part of my estate, except the sum given by her father, which, by a marriage settlement, is secured to her and her issue, and my children above mentioned shall likewise receive their respective share or dividend to be delivered to them by my executors as they shall respectively arrive at the age of 21 years or day of marriage, which shall first happen, and in case of the death of either child before marriage or age of 21 years, then and in that case such child’s share or proportion of my estate to be divided between the survivors or survivor of them and their heirs respectively, then it is my will and desire that the negroes owning to my beloved wife, Rachel, from the division of my estate shall (if she choose) continue there on shares on my estate under the direction of my executors during the time she remains my widow and no longer.

"Item. In case either of my sons should happen to die before and under age, then in that case it is my will and desire that my surviving son shall take the plantation whereon I now live (the same being before given to my son, Benj., and the other plantation containing 3 tracts of land and before mentioned given to my son, Washington) be divided between my two daughters, Eliza and Mary, that is to say, they shall draw lots, one of them to have the river part called the Spring, distinguished by No. 2, and containing 385 acres, and my other daughter to have the other 2 tracts of land on the seaside, one of which is distinguished by No. 2, and containing 483 acres, and the other adjoining the same containing 110 acres, my executors seeing the same done and performed according to my desire above mentioned.

"Item. And in case the other contingencies should happen, it is then my will and desire that my other lands on Sampit—the lot in Charleston and that in George Town be then equally divided between all my survivors to their heirs and assigns forever.

"Item. In case all my children shall happen to die before marriage and under age, then it is my will that my estate be disposed of in the following manner:

"Item. On such contingencies I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife and unto her heirs and assigns forever one-third part of all my personal property.

"Item. On the contingencies before mentioned I give and bequeath unto the eldest male of my brother, Josias Allston, who shall be then living, and his heirs and assigns forever the plantation whereon I now live, known by No. 1, containing 922 acres.

"Item. And in case of the above contingencies I give and bequeath unto the next male heir of my second brother, Josias, and to his heirs and assigns forever, my other plantation containing 3 tracts of land, distinguished by No. 2, and containing in the whole 972 acres.

"Item. On the above mentioned contingencies I give and bequeath unto my niece, Martha Young, the sum of £5000 currency, the same to be raised out of the profits of my estate.

"Item. On the above mentioned contingencies I give and bequeath unto all the rest of brother's children, and here before mentioned."

The concluding part has been lost.

Mr. William Hasell Wilson, aged 89, now living in Philadelphia, has been all his life a distinguished official of the Pennsylvania R. R. With his father, Major John Wilson, he laid out the first engineering work on that great system. For many years he was chief engineer, then consulting engineer when too old for active work, and now holds an honorary position with equal rank. His son, Joseph M. Wilson, is one of the most distinguished engineers and architects in the country with an international reputation.

in prison at Fort Delaware, when on hearing of the surrender at Appomattox, he wrote

STACK ARMS!

"Stack Arms!" I've gladly heard the cry
When, weary with the dusty tread
Of marching troops, as night drew nigh,
I sank upon my soldier bed,
And calmly slept; the starry dome
Of heaven's blue arch my canopy,
And mingled with my dreams of home,
The thought of Peace and Liberty.

"Stack Arms!" I've heard it when the shout
Exulting rang along our line,
Of foes hurled back in bloody rout;
Captured, dispersed; its tones divine
Then came to my enraptured ear,
Guerdon of duty nobly done,
And glistening on my cheek the tear
Of grateful joy for victory won.

"Stack Arms!" In faltering accents, slow
And sad, it creeps from tongue to tongue,
A broken, murmuring wail of woe,
From manly hearts by anguish wrung,
Like victims of a midnight dream,
We move, we know not how or why,
For life and hope but phantoms seem
And it would be relief—to die.

Extract from Appleton's American Encyclopaedia.

"Robert Francis Withers Allston, governor of South Carolina in 1856-7, born in All Saints' Parish, Waccamaw, of that State, April 21, 1801; was educated at home till his 16th year; entered the military academy at West Point, Dec., 1817. His was the first class that went through a regular 4 years' course under Col. Thayer.

Mr. Allston graduated in June, 1821, received an appointment in the 3d artillery, and was immediately ordered on the coast survey, under Lt. Col. Kearney, of the topographical engineers. He assisted in surveying the harbors of Plymouth and Provincetown, Mass., and the entrance of Mobile bay. But domestic duties required that he should leave the service, which he did at the close of those labors; and he retired upon a small patrimony, becoming a rice-planter on the Great Pedee. He surveyed his lands in person, reclaimed a wild territory, and found his military education eminently useful in laying out the course of canals, embankments, etc.

In all these works he proved highly successful, and has become one of the most thorough, well-informed and prosperous of the southern rice-planter, contributing greatly to the improvement of this peculiar sort of culture.

In 1823, he was made surveyor-general of the State, an office which he filled worthily 4 years. In 1828, he was returned by the people of Winyah to the lower house of the legislature. In 1832, he was sent to the senate. He continued to be returned to this body at each election, was finally made president of the senate in 1850, and left it only when elected governor of the State.

His career has been one of continued employment, public and private, and unvaried usefulness in all relations. His ambition aimed at usefulness only. In its exercise he has been modest, gentle of demeanor, courteous always, and duly considerate of the claims of others. His morals are beyond reproach. As a politician, he belongs to the States' Rights school of Calhoun. But he has never suffered himself to sink into the partisan. He has always steadily avoided ultraism; shrunk from controversy; was too mild and genial of nature to suffer his political course to run into any extremes; and while honestly proud of the honors bestowed upon him by his people, has never so hungered after office as to make a single sacrifice of feeling or character in its pursuit. Agriculture and education, the free or public school system, especially, were always the leading objects of his care while in the legislature. As a planter, his progress in improvement has been steady and decided. He is one of those by whose industry, intelligence, and active exertions, the rice culture of the Southern States has gone so far beyond that of the regions from which this nutritious grain was originally introduced. He has contrived and introduced better modes of culture, better varieties of seed, and farm stocks, and farming implements of every kind. His was the first thresher ever erected on the Pedee. He devotes annually a considerable portion of his income to the work of improvement, to new inventions in machinery, structure, manuring, canalling, embanking, etc. To economize capital, labor, time, to keep his land especially 'in heart,' by feeding properly, and duly resting, are among the prominent secrets of his success. Commencing with 300 acres, he now cultivates 1,300, of which about 1,000 are in rice. He is identified with many of the improvements of his precinct. He is an indulgent master. Himself a religious man, his negroes are carefully instructed in morals and religion. Their tasks are easy and under his management they work with regularity and system. He has built them a rustic church on each of his plantations, where a missionary attends them regularly, and they have their frequent prayer-meetings beside, where persons of their own color assist in their instruction.
Gov. Allston's life is that of a model gentleman and planter. No citizen commands more certainly the respect of the people for his virtues, intelligence, and perfect amiability of character and conduct. He resides, during the winter, at his plantation, called 'Chicora Wood,' on the Pedee; and during the summer months, on the Waccamaw Beach seashore, where the climate is genial, the sea-bathing excellent, and the fish particularly fine, various and plentiful. He is a hospitable gentleman, who naturally asserts all the virtues of the old school gentry.''

Tribute to the Memory of Rev. Benj. Allston, late Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Winnsboro, S. C.

"Mr. Allston was born in Charleston, S. C., and was the eldest son of Gov. R. F. W. Allston and Adile Petigrue, sister of James L. Petigrue, Esq., the famous lawyer. He entered West Point at the age of sixteen, the youngest member of his class, and graduated in June, 1853. Among his classmates were Gens. Schofield and Craighill, U. S. A. After graduation, he was assigned to the Cavalry Corps, and sent on a Trans-Mississippi expedition, a branch of which service he commanded as a lieutenant. After a few years of active service, during which he traversed nearly all the Western States, he resigned from the U. S. Army in April, 1858. He then engaged in rice-planting until the beginning of the War for Southern Independence, when he raised, and assisted greatly in equipping, a company of cavalry, which he desired to go to Virginia, but failing in this, he resigned as Captain and reported in person at Richmond. After a few weeks drilling artillery, he was commissioned Major of the 19th Mississippi Infantry, under Col. Motte and Lieut. Lamar, which command served under Gen. Kirby Smith at Manassas Junction. After this Mr. Allston served as Colonel of the 4th Alabama Infantry, while Col. Law was recovering from a severe wound inflicted at Manassas. After serving some time around Norfolk, he was made Lieutenant-Colonel, and sent to East Tennessee to report to Gen. Kirby Smith at Knoxville, where he was wounded in the side. In January, 1863, he was transferred to the Trans-Mississippi department as Inspector-General for Gen. Kirby Smith, and continued in this capacity, as well as Chief of the Secret Service, until the surrender.
After the war Mr. Allston engaged in rice-planting, and for some years was lay-reader in the chapel at Plantersville, S. C.; and while interested in this, the late Bishop Howe requested that he take the order of a deacon that he might be available at funerals and weddings. This led him into theological studies, and he resolved to make the sacred work that of his life. About this time he married, and was called to the rectory of Prince Fredericks, PeeDee (Georgetown Co.,) where he did a great deal of missionary work among the poor. Thence he was called to Prince George, Winyah, Georgetown, S. C.; subsequently to the church at Union, S. C., and then to Winnsboro.

Mr. Allston impressed his character on this community. He loved truth and sincerity, and abhorred ostentation in everything. Being thoroughly honest with himself, whatever course the path of duty marked out, he pursued with absolute faith in its rightfulness. Of such a man, frankness, candor, and often plainness of speech, were logically characteristic. Yet he was full of sympathy and generous, and softened the stern character of the trained soldier with the sweet and tender graces of the Christian.”

Will of William Allston, Sr.

In the name of God, Amen. I, William Allston, Senr., of Prince George’s Parish, Craven Co., in the Province of South Carolina, being weak and low in body, but of perfect mind and memory, blessed be God.

there from Galway, Ireland. The family came from France with William the Conqueror, 1066, but originally from Austria, and the town of Lintz, which was "called after the chief family in the town, whose name was Lynch," (from family records.)

The coat of arms is a lynx surmounting a visor and shield, with "fleur de lis," etc.

The family had (until Sherman's raid) several tablecloths and napkins with the coat of arms woven in the damask, and a motto "Spernit felicita." The shamrock, rose and thistle was the pattern of the cloth. Thomas Lynch had these woven in Ireland, and they were often used on state occasions in the family. They were all stolen and carried off by General Potter's soldiers, (who passed through Statesburg, S. C., where the family were) and used as saddle cloths.

Thomas Lynch was delegated to sign the "Declaration of Independence," but being too ill at the time they met, his only son, Thomas Lynch, was chosen to sign in his place.

After the death of his first wife, Elizabeth Allston, Thomas Lynch married Miss Motte, from whom are descended the Hamiltons and Prioleaus of South Carolina.

30. Elizabeth Allston married Thomas Lynch Sep. 5th, 1745; issue 3 children, viz.:

I. Thomas Lynch, Jr. = Miss Shubrick, both lost at sea. They left no issue.

II. Esther Lynch died unmarried.

III. Sabina Lynch — John Bowman and had 4 children, 3 daughters who left no issue (2 of whom died unmarried), and 1 son, John Bowman, who changed his name to John Bowman Lynch and married Miss Campbell of Baltimore. They had 3 sons who died unmarried, and 4 daughters, 3 of whom died unmarried. The eldest daughter, Sabina Lynch — Paul Dismukes, of Nashville, Tenn. He was of Huguenot descent, the name originally being Desmeaux, and was corrupted into Dismukes. They had 9 children, of whom

I. Dr. John Lynch Dismukes has 3 sons and 1 daughter, viz.: John — James — Paul — and Mary.

II. Dr. Thomas Terrel Dismukes has 2 sons and 1 daughter, viz.: Gaston — Thomas Lynch — and Martha.
III. Paul Dismukes has 3 sons and 3 daughters living, viz.: James—Ravenel—Lewis—Myra—Mary—and Sabina.

IV. Marcus Dismukes has 3 sons and 2 daughters, viz.: Daniel Donnelson—James—Marcus—Esther—and Laura.

V to VIII. The daughters were all unmarried except the youngest.

IX. Sarah Dismukes married John McCrady, Professor of Mathematics in Charleston College Sept. 1st, 1859. (During the war he was engineer under General Beauregard, and helped to build the batteries on Morris and James Islands, which were engaged in the bombardment of Fort Sumter. Then he was transferred to Savannah, and was Chief Engineer of the State of Georgia under Major Harris. After the war he again filled the Chair of Mathematics in Charleston College until 1873, when he was chosen by Professor Louis Agassiz to be his assistant at Harvard University in the Chair of Zoology, and after the death of Agassiz was elected to fill the chair made vacant by his death. Feeble health compelled him to resign, when he was immediately elected Professor of Zoology at the "University of the South," Sewanee, which he called the Professorship of Science and Religion. He was also asked to deliver a course of lectures in his particular line of study, at the Johns-Hopkins University, which he did in the spring of 1881. His health was always delicate and in October of that year he died). They have 5 children, viz.:

I. Esther Lynch Bowman McCrady = Samuel Gourdine Gaillard of South Carolina, and have issue.

II. Louisa Rebecca Lane McCrady = William Hazzard Barnwell of Charleston, S. C., and have issue.

III. Sabina Lynch McCrady = Theodore Fitzsimmons of Charleston, S. C., and have issue.

IV. Rev. Edward McCrady, P. E. Church, Abbeville, S. C. = Mary Tucker of Jacksonville, Fla., and have 2 daughters.

V. Katherine de Berriere McCrady, unm.

31 Joseph Allston = Charlotte Rothmahlar, b. 22d March, 1736, d. Nov. 8, 1784; married June 1st, 1755, by Rev. Durant, 2 sons, viz.:

II. Thomas Allston = Mary, daughter of John Allston and Mary Fouchereaud. She afterwards married Benj. Huger (s. p.). The above Joseph Allston was a member of the “House of Commons” under the Royal Government, and had the distinction of entertaining Washington on his presidential tour. The mahogany table at which he dined is still in possession of the family. His residence was on the Waccamaw, and he was engaged in rice planting.

I. Col. William Allston, b. Aug. 23, 1756, d. June 26, 1839, was a Captain in Marion’s Brigade, and twice-married; 1st, on Feb. 13, 1777, by Rev. Dr. Willis, to Mary Ashe, who bore him 5 ch.; 2d, Feb. 24th, 1791, by Rev. Dr. Robt. Smith, to Mary Motte, who bore him 6 ch.

Mary Ashe was gr.-daughter of John Baptiste Ashe and dau. of Genl. John Ashe, 1721–1781, of New Hanover Co., N. C., who was distinguished for his opposition to the Stamp Act, and was the officer who led the daring spirits of his section in 1775 and 6, in their resistance to English aggression. Her brother, Samuel Ashe, Jr., served as Captain of Light Horse, and rendered important services in various expeditions against the enemy until the close of the war.

Mary Motte was the dau. of Jacob Motte and Rebecca Brewton his wife, who gave the arrows to one of Marion's men by which he was enabled to set on fire her palatial residence and thus drive out and capture the British who had fortified themselves in Fort Motte.

Obituary of Colonel William Alston.

Another patriot of the Revolution has gone—the venerable Col. William Alston died in this city on Wednesday last, in the 83d year of his age.

At the commencement of the Revolution he left college and took the field as a volunteer in defence of the liberties of his country. Though he did not enter the regular army, he served at different periods throughout the war under the partisan leaders, whose services and exploits form the brightest page in the history of South Carolina.

He was a Captain under Marion, and was entrusted by him with the defence of a fort in the harbour of Georgetown when that town was menaced by the enemy. Col. Alston loved to dwell on the virtues of Marion, and was fond of relating anecdotes illustrative of his character.
AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

On the return of peace, Col. Alston resumed the cultivation of his paternal estates on the Waccamaw, near Georgetown, which he pursued without interruption until a few years of his death, and with almost unexampled success.

Devoted to agricultural pursuits and the cares and duties of domestic life, he avoided as far as possible, all public employment. Being, however, a personal and political friend of Mr. Jefferson, he was prevailed upon to lend the weight of his name and influence to the party of which Mr. Jefferson was the head. He accordingly served for several years as a member of the Senate of this State, and was one of the Democratic electors of the president and vice-president at the time of the memorable contest between Jefferson and Adams. He soon retired, however, from public life, and from that period devoted himself exclusively to his private affairs.

It is as a Carolina planter—a character identified with the interest, and honor and best hopes of the State—that Colonel Alston was chiefly distinguished. Whether we estimate his claims to public consideration by his extraordinary success, the admirable treatment of his slaves, or the progressive improvement of his estates, (the result of a wise and practical system of economy and good management) Col. Alston stood almost at the head of his class to which he belonged.

It is believed that at the time of his death he was, with perhaps a slight exception, the largest slave holder in South Carolina. Commencing life with comparatively a small number of slaves he went on steadily adding to his stock, until they had multiplied many fold. It was the opinion of Col. Alston that in the management of slaves the true interests of the planter were in exact accordance with the dictates of an enlightened humanity. It was therefore a rule with him through life to treat his slaves.
with the utmost liberality and kindness, while he never relaxed the reins of a wholesome discipline. His rule was to provide them with dwellings of the best description, to clothe them in the very best manner, and to allow them supplies of every kind on the most liberal scale. The consequence was that his numerous plantations were models of neatness and order, and his slaves always exhibited an appearance of health and comfort which spoke well for their treatment. They were devotedly attached to their master, whose service they would not have exchanged for any other upon earth.

Colonel Alston, however, was not one of those speculative philanthropists who sacrifice essential good to visionary theories. His system was based on a calculation of practical results. It was not his slaves only who were to be made prosperous and happy. If they were among the best treated in the State, his crops were always abundant, and his rice of the first quality brought to the Charleston market.

Col. Alston lived to a good old age and richly earned the title of a useful citizen. If "he is justly considered as a public benefactor, who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before," what shall we say of him who produced such results as we have detailed?

Until compelled by his increasing infirmities to retire from the world, his house was the abode of a refined and elegant hospitality. Courteous in his manners, social in his disposition, surrounded with a large circle of friends, and blessed with an ample fortune, his tastes and habits were for many years those of "a Carolina gentleman of the old school."

He received and entertained General Washington for several days on his visit to this State, at his elegant mansion near Georgetown, in a style which the president pronounced to be truly Virginian, declaring that "he had seen nothing in all his travels so justly entitled to be styled a fairy land, as the rice fields of Waccamaw in the genial month of May."

Col. Alston reared up a large family, and as a husband and a father was always affectionate and indulgent. The loss of several of his children, among them the late Governor Alston, whose extraordinary talents and eloquence had excited the highest hopes of his future distinction and usefulness—a more recent bereavement in the loss of the beloved and excellent partner of his bosom—with the gradual decay of his own health, had prepared him for the closing scenes of a long and useful life.

He had been for many years a Christian and a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He saw the approach of the king of terrors without alarm, and died "in charity with the world," and, we trust, "at peace with his God."

Col. Joseph Alston was a man of more than ordinary ability and great popularity in the State. His connection with Theodosia Burr, and her ultimate loss at sea, are of historic record, and need not be dwelt upon at length. He married her in 1800, when Aaron Burr was at the height of his popularity, having just been elected to the Vice-Presidency. Her education, under the personal supervision of her father, had been conducted with the utmost care; thus with natural quickness of perception and aptitude for learning, she became one of the most accomplished women of the day. To this was added personal beauty and attractiveness, rare ease and grace of manner, with strict observance of the proprieties of life. She had an only son, Aaron Burr Alston.

While no excuse or justification can be offered for Burr's relentless pursuit of Hamilton, yet the charges against him of Treason would seem to sink into insignificance in the light of later political corruption and combinations under the sanction of legality, and surely his trial and acquittal before a court over which so patriotic, profound and incorruptible a Justice as John Marshall presided, should have shielded him from the burden of obloquy which followed him through life. After his trial and acquittal, Burr became an exile from home for five years, and in 1812, sailing under an assumed name, he returned incognito to New York, and a paragraph in a paper announced that he had returned to the city and resumed the practice of law in Nassau street.

His daughter, whose devotion to her father had never faltered, on learning of his return to New York, determined upon going to see him, her son, about 9 or 10 years of age, having recently died. Accordingly, on the 29th of December, 1812, she took passage on the Patriot, a small schooner, at Charleston, and bound for New York, which was never seen or heard of again. Recently, however, an article in the New York Herald announced the discovery of a portrait in Elisabeth City, N. C., which had been taken from a ship many years before, with a strange history connected, which leads to a belief that it is of Theodosia Burr Alston, and that the Patriot was robbed at sea and then run ashore under full sail on Currituck beach, North Carolina, with no one on board, passengers and crew having been previously disposed of. This accords with the reported confession of an ex-pirate, who related the capture of a vessel, all the passengers being made to walk the plank, among whom was a lady of rare beauty and elegantly attired, who displayed the most unflinching fortitude and heroism, walking into the deep clasping her prayer book in her hands.

Her husband, overwhelmed with grief at her loss, survived her but a very few years.

Obituary.

Died in Charleston, April 29th, 1861, Colonel Thomas Pinckney Alston, aged 66 years. The deceased was born in All-Saints Parish, Waccamaw, where he resided until the end of the year 1858. His many relatives and friends hold in grateful remembrance his many virtues, recalling his social disposition, amiable and benevolent temper, and agreeable conversation mingled with pleasing anecdote. After studying law he returned to his native parish, and entered upon the various occupations of the planter, amongst which the care of the negro necessarily engages the chief attention of the conscientious master. The deceased felt his responsibilities herein, and while arranging for the temporal comfort of his slaves, made ample provisions for their religious training. In this high duty he showed his deep interest by constant personal attendance in the neat chapel erected near his dwelling; by causing all the children that were born to be brought thither for baptism; and by requiring all who desired to enter into the holy estate of matrimony to be married therein according to the appointed form. The result of his efforts was the moral and religious improvement of his negroes. His end was calm and peaceful. He said that he relied solely upon the merits of our Redeemer, and that he was ready to depart, if such was the will of God.

He has left an afflicted wife and children, whose only consolation can be derived from the religion so earnestly impressed on them by a most pious, affectionate and devoted husband and father.
(In all his undertakings he was ably assisted and encouraged by his devoted wife.)

The first mention we have on record of John Alston in North Carolina is a grant of 270 acres of land on the northwest side of Bennetts creek in 1711. This creek is, in what is now Gates county, formerly Chowan, and his land was near or immediately where Gatesville now stands. He subsequently made many entries and purchases of land in that and other sections and counties and became a very extensive land holder. In 1713 we find land-grants in the names of his several sons. The first official act we find recorded of him is April 20, 1715, as juror at court held at house of Mr. Henry King, and the next as a grand juror at a general court of Oyer and Terminer, at the general court-house at Queen Anns Creek in Chowan precinct, March 30th, 1721, and was continuously a grand juror until April 9th, 1724, when he was commissioned a justice of the peace. On Oct. 24th, 1724, he was commissioned assistant justice of the court of Oyer and Terminer, the court being then composed of the following, viz.: Thomas Pollock, chief justice, Cullen Pollock, Wm. Downing, Isaac Hill, John Alston and Robert Lloyd, assistants. He was continuously reappointed and so served until after the April term, 1729. He was called Capt. Alston until 1725, then major until 1729, and afterwards known as Colonel Alston. We are not informed as to how he obtained his titles. In 1725 he was appointed revenue collector for the king. April 3d, 1738, he was elected vestryman of St. Pauls Parish, Chowan county, and served until 1747, or later. In 1746 he was sheriff of Chowan county, and probably for some years prior to that time.

His wife, Mary Clark, survived him.
The following will is copied from the original, now on file in the office of Secretary of State:

Then personally appeared before me Seasbrook Wilson & Joseph Parker two of the subscribing witnesses to the foregoing Will who made oath that they saw John Alston the Testator sign seal deliver and declare the foregoing as & for his last will and Testament and that the said John Alston was at that time to the best of their judgment & belief of sound and disposing Memory & understanding and that they together with Thomas Byrd subscribed their names to the foregoing will as witnessed thereto.

At the same time James Alston Executor before named took the Oath of an Executor.

Let Letters Testamentary issue thereon.

Arthur Dobbs.”

The above John Alston was the eldest son of John Alston = Anne Wallis, and was baptized at Felmersham, Bedfordshire, England, Dec. 5th, 1673.

John Alston = Mary Clark, issue:

J I. Joseph John Alston, (q. v.).
S II. Solomon Alston, (q. v.).
H III. William Alston, (q. v.).
P IV. Phillip Alston, (q. v.).
A V. James Alston, (q. v.).

VI. Mary = 1st Henry Guston, no issue.

2d Wm. Seward, of Isle of Wight county, Va., no issue. Surviving them both, she died a widow, but the names Guston and Henry continue in the family.

W VII. Elizabeth = Samuel Williams, (q. v.).
K VIII. Sarah = Thomas Kearney, (q. v.).

IX. Martha = Lemuel Wilson, January 29th, 1752. Her name is not mentioned in her father's will, but the marriage records of Chowan county show that she was married at the date-above mention, and probably dying without issue before the will was written, caused the omission. The names Martha and Lemuel continue in the family.

D X. Charity = John Dawson, (g. v.).

Among the immigrants to the Albemarle section in the latter part of the 17th century, who went from Isle of Wight, and Nansemond, Va., and elsewhere, are the following names: Akehurst, Chancey, Clark, Durant, Hatch, Hill, Palin, Thomas and others. These were Quaker families, and their settlements originally in Perquimans and Pasquotank extended into Chowan and other neighboring counties. These were among the best citizens of the colony, and some of them held large estates. It is here we find John Alston, among these he married, and the names Solomon, Philip, James, Martha, Charity, till then not found in his ancestral lines, were doubtless obtained through his wife's mother's connections and relationship. The loss of the old Nansemond records, and the destruction of those in Pasquotank and Perquimans during the war prevent the tracing of many family lines.

As elsewhere stated, it is most probable that John Alston came there in 1694, and there is reason to encourage the belief that among those who accompanied John Archdale to the Albemarle section at that time were John Dawson and William Williams (father of Samuel), whose families are so closely intermarried with Alston.

From Wm. and Mary Quarterly, April 1899, p. 221, we take the following:

"Will of HUMPHREY CLARK, Cooper, dated March 3d, 1655. Wife Jane, son John, daughter-in-law, Jane Brunt, two kinswomen, Jane How and Mary Clarke, the latter in his employ for 7 years, 3 of which are remitted. His son, John, to be sent to school. Legacies to Thomas Holmes, AND HIS FAMILY.

John Williams and William Godwin, Robert Bird, overseer."

From p. 241, the following:

"Francis Ayre's inventory, 1678, mentions Jane, his wife, now wife of Henry Divison, Jane Clarke, Humphrey Clarke, the son of John Clarke."

(This Humphrey Clarke must have died in his father's life time.)

From N. C. Hist. and Gen. Register No. 1 the following abstract of will of DANIEL AKEHURST of Warwick county, Va. This will is in the office of clerk of superior court of Chowan county and was probated in 1700 in Warwick county, Va.

Hon. Daniel Akehurst, Esq., was one of the lord's deputies and secretary of the council in 1694 and assistant justice, N. C., under Gov. Philip Ludwell. (Col. records.)

John Clarke died 1689, and some extracts from his will are annexed. The family name is variously spelled, Clark, Clarke and Clerke.

The above Humphrey Clark, John Clark and Daniel Akehurst lived in Virginia. John Clarke, in 1665, obtained 440 acres on the westward side of Black Water. He and Daniel Akehurst subsequently removed to North Carolina.

The will of Arthur Workman is also annexed making Mary Clarke, sole executrix in 1695. She is again mentioned in 1707 as widow and executrix, and also in 1697 in connection with Robert Wallis, who in 1694 had been assistant justice in the province.

Records go to show that she was a great granddaughter of Henry Palin, who was a witness to the signing of John Clark's will, and at the death of her husband in 1689, must have been quite young, as she is again mentioned as having been appointed in 1740, joint-administratrix upon the estate of Mary Glaister of Pasquotank. She seems to have been quite a business woman, a prominent character, and the second wife of John Clarke. At her husband's death in 1689, she was left in charge of a large estate with an only daughter, also named Mary, who afterwards married John Alston. This accords with the tradition that has been carefully and minutely transmitted, "that his wife was left an orphan, and an only child, living at her home, constantly attended by a faithful old negro woman, who had nursed her in infancy, and continued to wait upon and serve her until her marriage," which most probably was about 1700-1703.

(N. C. Hist. and Gen. Reg. Nos. 1, 2 and 3) Henry Palin had a land-grant in 1652 from Governor Richard Bennett. Probably the same as HENRY PALIN, Sr., who was witness to the signing of John Clarke's will in 1689.

Henry Palin, Jr., of Pasquotank, d. January 30th, 1699, leaving wife Ann, and sons John and Thomas.

John Palin, d. August 16th, 1737, leaving wife Sarah, and son John, and daughter Mary, of whom John Palin was chief justice in 1731, and (d. s. p.) February, 1753.

Mary = John Clarke about 1686. He d. May 30th, 1689, leaving an only child Mary, and wife Mary as his executor. (See will.)

Thomas Palin, son of Henry, Jr., and brother of John, d. August 1st, 1733. Sons Henry and Thomas, daughter Ann and Mary Scott, wife Susannah, and daughter Mary Glaister.

These families were in Pasquotank. There were other Palins in Edenton, viz: James and Christian.

EDWARD MAYO Clerk.
The Last Will and Testament of Joseph John Alston.

In the Name of God, Amen. I, Joseph John Alston, of Halifax, in the State of North Carolina, being weak of body, but of perfect sound sense, mind and memory, thank be to Almighty God, do make and ordain this my last will and testament in the manner and form following, that is to say:

Imprimis. I recommend my soul into the hands and protection of Almighty God that gave it, hoping for a remission of all my sins, and my body I leave to be decently interred at the discretion of my executors hereafter named, and as for my worldly estate which it hath pleased the Almighty God to bestow on me, I give, devise and bequeath as follows:

Item. I give and bequeath to my son, John Alston, his heirs and assigns forever, all my lands that lie on Reedy Creek, Fishing Creek, Benn Creek and Long Branch on the South side, Butterwood or the waters thereof, consisting of sundry different tracts, and whereas my said son, John Alston, has now a dispute depending in law for a tract or a parcel of land called the Poison Fields in Chatham county, with Matthew Jones, of said county, in case my said son, John Alston, should lose the said land called the Poison Fields, then and in that case I give and bequeath to my said son John Alston, his heirs or assigns, two tracts of land which I bought of John Coupland in said County of Chatham. But in case my said son John Alston should recover the said land now in dispute from the said Mathew Jones then, and in that case only, I give my said son, John Alston, part of the said two tracts of land bought of said John Coupland, bounded as follows, to-wit: lying above the Spring Branch, known by the name of Couplands Spring Branch supposing to be two hundred acres more or less including the old plantation whereon Richard Coupland formerly lived.

Item. I give and devise to my said son, John Alston, his heirs or assigns all the negro slaves which I have heretofore possessed him with as also one other negro man named Levey, and one other negro man named Joseph which is now in my possession.

I give and devise unto my son Phillip Alston, his heirs or assigns, all the negro slaves which I allotted for him being now in his possession.

Item. I have already given to my daughter, Patty Melony, the several negro slaves which I allotted for her portion, the same she has been possessed with many years past.

Item. I give and devise unto my son, William Alston, his heirs or assigns all the negro slaves which are now in his possession, excepting the following negroes, to wit: Hannah, Hagar, Silva, Nancy, Press, Boatswain, Nursery Rose, Rachel and Sam, which said ten negroes herein mentioned I lend unto my said son William Alston the use of until his children, male and female, shall arrive to lawful age or marriage, then I give and bequeath the said ten negroes and their increase to be equally divided between the said children and their heirs or assigns, share and share alike, each child to have his or her part or portion of the said negroes and their increase as he or she shall arrive to lawful age or marriage as aforesaid, and the remainder of the negroes to remain as undivided until the next child shall arrive to age as aforesaid, and so on till the youngest shall be of age aforesaid to take his or her part of the said negroes. Which division it is my will and desire shall be made among my said grandchildren by their father, my son William, if living; if not, by my executors hereinafter mentioned.

Item. I give and bequeath to my said son William Alston, his heirs and assigns two negroes, to-wit: Fork Ben and his wife Priss.

Item. I give and devise to my son, Willis Alston, his heirs or assigns, all that part of the land which I bought of Mr. Mead's estate that lies on the lower side of the Governor's Branch and joining Irving's Creek on the south-east side.

Item. I give and devise to my two grand sons, John Joseph and William Alston, sons of my son William Alston, a parcel of land which I bought of the estate of Mr. David Meade, deceased, that lies on Irwin's Creek, alias Bears Swamp, above the mouth of the Governor's Branch to be equally divided between them and their heirs or assigns, share and share alike, but in case the said John Joseph and William Alston, should either of them depart this life before they arrive to the age of twenty one years or leaving lawful issue of their body then and in that case I give and devise the part of the said land of him who shall or may decease to the other that survives, and in case both the said John Joseph and William Alston should depart this life before they arrive to the age of twenty-one years then and in that case I give and devise the said land to my grand son John Joseph Alston, son of my son Willis, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give and devise to my grand son John Joseph Alston, son of my son William, all that part of the lands I bought of Joseph Moore in the county of Chatham that lies in the fork between two streams where the said Joseph Moore built and formerly lived as high up each stream as my land extends to him, his heirs and assigns forever. But in case my said grand son, John Joseph, should depart this life without lawful issue, then in that case I give and devise the said land to my grand son, his brother, William Alston, his heirs or assigns forever.

Item. I give and devise to my son Willis Alston, his heirs or assigns all my land that lies in the fork on the North-west side the Beaver Ponds, between Butterwood and the Mill Swamp as high up each stream as my land extends, as also my other lands between the mill run and the North East branch of Irwin's Creek, alias Alston's Swamp, including my dwelling house and my Manor plantation, likewise including the plantation and tract of land where John Mills formerly lived, lying at the head of Bear Swamp as also all my other lands on the North-East side of the Beaver Ponds and Bear Swamp that lies above and joins the land that was formerly Meade's.

Item. I give and devise to my son, Willis Alston, his heirs and assigns all the negro slaves which I have already possessed him with as also three other negro men called Simon and Pocosin Ben as also Frank which are yet in my possession.

Item. I give and bequeath to my grand son, Joseph John Alston, son of my son Willis, all these two tracts of land, lying on the waters of Great Creek that I bought of Archibald Hamilton and Anthony Winston, to him, his heirs and assigns forever. But in case of his death before he arrives to years of twenty-one or leaving lawful issue of his body, lawfully begotten, then and in this case I give and devise the aforesaid two tracts of land to my son Willis, his heirs and assigns. I also give my said grand son, Joseph John Alston, one negro boy named Jem, son to Mulatto Pegg, and one negro girl named Jud, daughter of Penny, to him, his heirs and assigns for ever.

Item. I give and devise to my son, Henry Alston, his heirs and assigns forever, four thousand acres of land whereon he now lives which I purchased of Solomon Alston, Jr.

Item. All the slaves which I allotted for my son Henry I have already possessed him with, and the same I do give to him and his heirs and assigns forever, as also I do give and bequeath to my said son Henry, eight other negroes, to wit: Hester Peters' daughter, Jacob, mulatto boy, Young Boccosa, Dyner and increase Sabina and Davy to him, his heirs and assigns.

Item. I have already given my daughter, Mary Palmer, the negro slaves which I allotted for her portion, the same she has been possessed with some time past.

Item. I give and bequeath to John Cooper, his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract of land and plantation in the county of Chatham, which I bought of Thomas Coupland, known by name of the Hickory Mountain, bounded by a branch between the lands I bought of said Copeland and the lands I bought of Thomas Stone, and from the head of said branch and by a line of marked trees, westerly to the back, then round by different lines several courses to the said branch.

Item. I lend unto my daughter, Uphan Wilson Cooper, the use of the following negroes during her natural life, to wit: Toby, Sall, Will, Roger, and Sall's children, Creas Buck, Nan, Adam, Creasee's children, Nan and Will, Cate's children, Charles and Edie, Pegg's children, Jupiter and Abraham, old Joe's son, and after her decease I give and devise the said negroes and their increase to be equally divided between the lawful issue of her body, male and female, share and share alike, to them and their heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give and devise to my son, Joseph John Alston, all my lands and plantation lying in the county of Chatham that is not herein before mentioned or given in legacies to him and his heirs or assigns forever upon the expressed condition and proviso, that in case my said son, Joseph John Alston, should live to the age of twenty-one years or leave lawful issue of his body. But if neither of these cases happen, I then give and devise the aforesaid land to my grand sons hereafter named to be divided in the following manner, to-wit: To my grand son Joseph John
Alston, son of my son Willis two tracts, to-wit: One tract on the east end of the Hickory Mountain containing one hundred and fifty acres, the other track containing three hundred and fifty acres, more or less, which I bought of Simon Tyrrell, to him and his heirs or assigns forever the residue of the aforesaid lands I give, devise and bequeath as follows, to-wit: To my grand son Joseph John Alston, son of my son John, to my grand son John, son of my son Philip. To my grand son John Joseph, son of my son William, and to my grand son Joseph John, son of my son Willis to be equally divided between them and their heirs or assigns forever, share and share alike, but in case either of my said grand sons should depart this life before they arrive to the age of twenty-one years or leaving of lawful issue of their body, then I give and devise the part or parts of him or them so dying to the next brother of him or them so dying which shall then be living to them or each of them and their heirs or assigns forever.

Item. It is my will and desire that my negro woman Lucy, the cook wench, shall enjoy her liberty after my decease in the same manner as a free born person for and during the space of thirty-five years to commence immediately after my decease, she the said Lucy yielding and paying to my executors hereinafter named the annual sum of one shilling per month money if the same is by them demanded, and at the expiration of the aforesaid term of thirty-five years, it is my will and desire that my executors, or either of them shall and they or either of them are hereby empowered to sell the said Lucy, and the money arising from such sale to be given to my son Joseph John, and during aforesaid term of years it is my desire that the aforesaid Lucy be under the protection of my executors hereinafter mentioned.

Item. And for preventing disputes which may arise amongst my sons about any former rights or titles of heirship in any slaves given by me amongst any of my said sons and now in their possession, it is my will and I do hereby desire and direct that if any one of my said sons John, Philip, William, Willis, Henry or Joseph John shall at any time hereinafter sue for and recover or otherways dispossess any other of my said sons of any slave or slaves given them me in said case, I do hereby revoke so much of this my last will as bequeath any lands to such son who shall dispossess any of his brothers, and I do hereby will and devise all the lands such son might have inherited in virtue of such will unto such of my other sons who shall be so dispossessed of their slaves by him to be held for them, their heirs or assigns for ever in fee simple.

Item. I give and devise to my son, Joseph John Alston, all and singular of the remainder of my negro slaves and all other of my estate, both real and personal, of what nature, kind or quality soever which is not heretofore by me bequeathed which I shall be possessed with at the time of my decease, to him and his heirs and assigns forever, and in case he should depart this life, without leaving lawful issue of his body, then I give and devise the aforesaid negro slaves with their increase and all other of the personal estate above bequeathed to be equally divided to and amongst all the rest of my sons and daughters. My sons, John, Phillip, William, Willis, Henry and my daughters Patty, Mary and Uphan Wilson and my grand son Joseph John, son of my son Willis, and to their, and each of their heirs and assigns for ever and the survivors of them.

Item. And lastly I do hereby nominate, constitute and appoint my trusty and well beloved friends Willie Jones, Solomon Williams, William Alston, the son of Philip, James Alston and John Jones, and my son Joseph John Alston, executors to my last will and testament hereby revoking, disannulling and making void all other will or wills or testaments by me heretofore made or published. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal this fifth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty.

JOSEPH JOHN ALSTON. [Seal.]

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the Testator Joseph John Alston as and for his last will and testament in presence of us who at his request subscribe our names as witness to the due execution of the same.

ROBERT GREEN, JOHN GREEN, WILLIS GREEN.

Joseph John Alston was first married to Elisabeth Chaney, and in seeking her ancestry we find the following abstracts of wills:

Edmund Chancy and William Chancy, Sr., were brothers and had a sister Hannah who married Thomas Burnby. These were children of Edmund Chancy upon whose estate letters of administration were granted to Margaret Culpepper in 1680.

These were very wealthy and influential families that came to Albermarle from Virginia and extensively connected. Elisabeth Chancy, the 1st. wife of Joseph John Alston, was the dau. of William Chancy, Sr., and wife Deborah, (dau. of Jeremiah Simons).

Euphan Wilson, the 2d wife of Joseph John Alston, was the daughter of Willis Wilson, of Norfolk county, Va., who was a member of the House of Burgesses from that county in 1720, 1722, 1748 and 1750. Family relics go to show that his wife's name was Mary. His will was dated Apr. 28th, 1758, probated September court, 1760, and his sons were Samuel, James and Thomas.

Memoranda Prepared by Hon. Charles Alston Cook, of Warrenton, N. C.

Joseph John Alston: the first official record we have of him is that he was in April, 1724, in attendance upon the council at Edenton making a petition concerning his father's land patent on Bennett's creek. He patented a large number of tracts of land in that section which afterwards became Edgecombe County and later on, (1758) Halifax, and settled in what is now the upper part of Halifax, on the road leading from "Person's Ordinary" to Hamilton's store on Marsh swamp, at or near the place now called "Gretta Green," and there died in 1781 and is there buried in the old family graveyard.

In 1732 he was appointed Justice of the Peace by Governor George Burrington. In 1745 he was one of the Committee on Grievances and petitioned not to tax wives of free negroes. After serving in the General Assembly from 1744 to 1746, inclusive, as a member from Edgecombe county, he retired from public life, and thereafter devoted himself to his domestic affairs, and increasing his fortune, in which he was very successful, having given to his children and grand-children by will and otherwise, about 150 slaves and over 100,000 acres of land. He first married Betsey (Elizabeth) Chancy, of Virginia, and had by her four children. He afterwards married Euphan Wilson and by his marriage with her he had five children. About two years before he died, he executed his will in his own handwriting, dated May 20th, 1778, but did not sign it, so he afterwards, to wit, on the 5th day of January, 1780, executed his last will and testament which is probated in Halifax at the August court, 1731. I now have the original will, which he failed to sign; it shows a high order of intellect, excellent penmanship, orthography and punctuation perfect. In addition to bequests and devises made to his children, he also makes some to his grand-children, viz., John Joseph, Samuel and Mary, children of his son William; to Joseph John, son of his son Willis; to Joseph John, son of his son John; to John, son of his son Philip; to Robert Palmer, son of his son-in-law, William Palmer. From this will it is ascertained that he gave his land in Chatham county to his youngest son, Joseph John, who moved to Chatham county and there resided, and was afterwards called "Chatham Jack." His son Henry moved to Bute county and there lived upon the tract there situate, containing 4,000 acres, which he had purchased from Solomon Alston Jr. But as I am descended from his son John, I will next trace his family history.

Captain John Alston (oldest son of Joseph John Alston, the eldest) lived and died upon that tract of land devised to him by his father on the east and north of Fishing creek, in Halifax county, where he is now buried. A part of this place was, a few years ago, owned by Mr. Elijah Perry, and the family graveyard is only a few hundred yards from the house. He married Ann Hunt Macon, a daughter of Gideon Macon and sister of Nathaniel Macon, and was one of the executors of his said father-in-law, Gideon Macon, who died in Granville, (afterwards Bute and now Warren) county, in 1761. By his marriage with said Ann Hunt Macon, he had six children, the last three being minors at the time of his death, which occurred in 1784. His executors of his will were John Hawkins, Jr., James Johnson and Nathaniel Macon, and it was witnessed by William Johnson, James Connor Williams, Jr. and Mary Carstarphane. After his death his widow married Billy Green, a widower with eleven children. Being descended from his son Gideon Alston, I will not now undertake to trace any of his children except Gideon.

Gideon Alston, son of John Alston and Ann Hunt Macon, his wife, was born at his father's home above described. He married Frances Atherton and they resided at his place devised to him by his father, near the Warren line on the west side of Little Fishing creek, where they are now buried in the family graveyard which is now owned by me. He had no fondness for political life. Was elected to the State Senate from his native county, Halifax, and there served in 1805 and 1806, and when his term was out he positively refused to ever again hold a public office, giving as his reason that he would not undertake to perform any duty which would keep him from his family at night. He was a devoted and indulgent husband and father. Indulged his family in every luxury known to that day.

When I was reading law with the Honorable William Eaton, Jr., who was a distinguished lawyer, I was told by him that his grandfather, Nathaniel Macon, would frequently go down to see his nephew, Gideon Alston, during his vacations from Congress and carry him with him, and he would hear them discussing the public matters of that day, and his grandfather told him "that his nephew, Gideon Alston, was the most sensible man that he ever knew, and that he never voted upon any important public question in Congress until he had first consulted him and gotten his views upon the subject." He delighted in all kinds of sport and owned the finest game chickens of that day (the same breed being now in our family), and was the champion cock fighter of all the country. The following is a copy of one of his articles of a "cock-main," the original of which I have in my possession, viz: "Articles of a Cock-main made by Gid. Alston of the one part and Augustus Wyche, of the other part, to be fought at Rock Landing, in the county of Halifax and State of North Carolina, on the second Tuesday in May, 1820, showing on each side twenty-five cocks, giving and taking two ounces in each match, to fight for one hundred dollars a battle and five thousand dollars the main; it is agreed by the parties to this cock main, that it shall be conducted upon the most honorable and fair principles of the cock-pit law, which is, in all matters of dispute to be left to judges chosen by the parties, whose duty it shall be to hold the money which is to be staked, and decide which party is entitled to receive the same and deliver it accordingly.

Signed this day of in the presence of

GID ALSTON, SR."

He was also fond of fine horses, and delighted in fox and deer hunting, and boasted of having the finest packs of fox and deer hounds in the state. He died at his home on the 10th day of November, 1831, after the death of his wife which occurred on the 28th day of October, 1830.

I shall next give a sketch of Gideon Alston, my grandfather, son of the aforesaid Gideon, and Frances Atherton Alston.

He was born at the home of his father on the 9th day of October, 1795, and was married to Eliza Ann Branch, daughter of Col. John Branch and Betsy Branch, née Norwood, of Franklin county, and settled upon his father’s land in Warren county, which was afterwards given to him as a part of his patrimony.

He had only two children, viz.: Havana Lenoir Alston (my mother) and Gideon Branch Alston. He died at an early age, having been thrown from the stage by the running away of the stage horses upon his return from Raleigh, where he had been attending the session of the General Assembly, of which he was a member, and badly injured in the hip and spine, and from which he finally died. In 1824 and 1825 he represented his (Warren) county in the Legislature, and would have been returned again had he not been disabled.

He was highly educated and a cultured gentleman. In mathematics he was especially proficient. While a boy in 1810 he began a work of his own and finished it on the 15th day of April, 1812, containing 271 pages written in his own handwriting, beginning with numeration and ending with the Double Rule of False Position; which book
I now have in my possession. He died on the 21st day of March, 1828, and is buried in the old family graveyard only a few feet from his father's grave. His son, Gid.
Branch Alston, never married—died in February, 1894, in the old homestead of his grandfather, Gid. While in England in 1865 he made a thorough search of the Alston history.

"Alston," as you doubtless know, is of Saxon origin, and "Odell Castle," formerly the property of the Alstons, is a corruption of "Woodhill," and the name is still kept in the family—my Uncle Gid. Branch Alston’s place in this county bearing the name of "Odell."

His daughter, Havana Lenoir, on the 23d day of September, 1847, married Charles Marshall Cook, and they had only two children, viz.: Charles Alston Cook (myself) and Alfred Lenoir Cook. My mother died on the 6th day of December, 1878, and was buried in her garden under "the peachtree," the place of her selection, at her home in Warren county—being that part of her father’s tract of land which was allotted to her in the partition between her and her brother, Gideon Branch Alston; leaving her, surviving myself and her husband, Rev. Charles Marshall Cook (my father).

I was born in this place (Warrenton) at the old "Cook Homestead" on the 7th day of October, 1848. My brother, Alfred, was born at my mother's country place on the 28th day of June, 1850, and there died February 25th, 1854, and was buried in the garden, where my mother has since been buried.

Extract from Pension Office Record.

Joseph John Alston, private of cavalry in troop commanded by Capt. Joseph Hawkins in the North Carolina line from Feb. 16th, 1781, to Nov., 1781, nine months, and was present at the battle of Guilford. Re-entered the service in March, 1782, and was in service four months, also in the cavalry. He was born in Halifax county, N. C., June 13th, 1763, and lived there and in Franklin county until 1831, when he removed to Tennessee. In 1835 he returned to Halifax county, N. C. He was a brother of Willis Alston, Member of Congress. Pension of $54.16 per annum granted and paid to February, 1848. File No. 6498. Index Vol. A, Page 6.

Extract from Letter of Frank C. Cosby, Washington, D. C.

“In regard to Jos. John Alston, I remember that in all the affidavits, etc., he was colloquially styled Colonel, and I remember his brother, Willis, being referred to as a Member of Congress.

“Col. Alston also stated himself that for many years he had refused to apply for a pension, but that loss of property and other misfortunes compelled him to do so in his old age. He was evidently a man of education and high standing.”

11 Hon. Willis Alston—Sallie Madaline Potts. Willis Alston first appears upon record in 1790 as a member of the House of Commons from Halifax County, where he served for three successive terms. In 1794 he was elected to the State Senate, where he served for three terms. In 1803 he was elected to Congress, over Gov. William R. Davie, his opponent, and continued to serve there until 1815. In 1812 he was Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means in Congress, a position of high responsibility and difficulty at any period, but particularly so at that time. He was again member of the House of Commons 1819-20-21 and in Congress 1825-1831.
He died Ap. 10th, 1837. He was a man of great tact, and distinguished as a consistent, uniform and decided politician. From his long service in Congress he has been called Congress Willis, to distinguish him from Col. Willis and others having the same name. As a master he was very kind and indulgent to his servants, and was universally popular wherever known. Being possessed of wealth, he always kept his own carriage and horses while attending the sessions of Congress. He left three sons and two daughters.

The above records of the family of Robert West Alston have been obtained through Mrs. A. A. Cooper, of Florida, who has since died.

Col. Philip Alston resided in that portion of Cumberland county which afterwards went to form Moore. He also held property in Chatham. He was appointed 2d Major for Cumberland Co. in 1775 and subsequently became Colonel. He was very active in his hostility to the Tories, and was antagonized by Col. David Fanning, an equally brave, daring, zealous and relentless Tory partisan leader. On one occasion, Alston, when pursued by Fanning, leaped his horse from a bluff into the river and swam across, thus making his escape. His being finally entrapped and captured while on a visit to his home at Horse Shoe Bend, on Deep river, in Chatham county, by Col. Fanning in 1781, having been betrayed by a neighbor to whom he had previously shown many acts of kindness, illustrates the bitterness of partisan warfare. After his capture he was hurriedly sent to Wilmington and placed on board a prison ship, from which, with one other companion, in a half-starved condition, he finally escaped at night by swimming several miles to land. There they found a sheep in the marsh which had died from being mired. This they dragged out and ate of the raw flesh to satisfy the cravings of hunger. They being too nearly dead from exhaustion and starvation to travel, went to a house which proved to be the home of a tory. He not only refused them food or comfort, but threatened to send them back to the prison ship. His kind-hearted wife pitied them in their starved, destitute condition, and despite her husband's prohibition, and without his knowledge, supplied them liberally with food, and thus hastened their escape. In 1785 and 1786, he was a member of the State Senate from Moore county. In 1784 when that county was formed, in organizing the courts, he was one of the justices and became clerk. In the following year he was relieved of the clerkship and elected to the State Senate and George Glascock was made clerk. Glascock was killed by a negro belonging to Col. Alston. The negro fled to Georgia and was followed by his master who was there killed by the same negro. The following record of his descent, has been obtained mostly from Mrs. Michael L. Woods, of Montgomery, (a dau. of Albert James Pickett), and Samuel S. Harris, of Detroit, Mich, (son of Bishop Samuel S. Harris of the P. E. church), also Mrs. Chas. Hooks Harris, of Cedartown. Ga.

Sarah Coffee, in Hancock Co., Ga., who died in 1807, leaving two children, viz.:

1. Julia Harris, who m. Judge Field.
2. Peter Coffee Harris who m. Narcissa Hooks in 1827. (For history of her family see Wheeler's History of N. C., Vol. 1, p. 457.)
Their children were
I. Dr. Charles Hooks Harris (Cedartown, Ga.).
II. Dr. William Stephen Harris (Union Springs, Ala.), d. 1896.
III. Peter Coffee Harris.

The following is copied from a letter written by Col. Joseph K. Alston, of Columbia, S. C., some years ago, that is now in the possession of Rev. Benj. Allston.

35 John Alston died in Fairfield Dist., S. C., about 1790, leaving three sons and one dau. viz.:
1. Samuel Alston, d. unm.
2. Mary Alston, d. unm.
4. David Alston=Susanna Strother; issue:
1. William L. Alston, was killed in the battle of St. Jacinto, Texas. His brother,
2. James, went to Texas with the avowed intention of going into the Mexican lines and avenging his brother's death by killing General Santa Anna. He died unm.
3. John A. Alston= ; had issue, viz.:

36 James Alston represented Chatham county in the legislature of North Carolina in 1801, and married Mary Wilcox, of Fayetteville, N. C. He removed from Chatham county to Telfair county, Ga., and about 1837 he removed to Wyatt, Miss. His brother, Philip, went to Jackson, Tenn., where his descendants still reside. The following were their children, viz.:

I. John. VII. Margaret.
II. James. VIII. Ann.
III. Rebeeca. IX. Willis.
V. Philip IX. Henry.
VI. William Alston—Miss Somerville and removed from Telfair county Ga., to Wyatt, Miss., about 1842. They had a son, Philip Somerville Alston, whose dau., Pauline Alston, married Walter Clark and lives at Clarkesdale, Miss., from whom we have obtained the above meagre account of James Alston's descent.

(Mrs. C. A. Stegall, of Montgomery, Ala., states that her mother, Elisabeth Alston, married Thomas G. Mitchell and removed from near Thomasville, Ga., to Mississippi while she was an infant. That all of James Alston's children were church members, one of the sons being a minister. Her uncles, Philip and Henry, died in Texas, near Iron Bridge. One of her mother's sisters married Gillis and died in California. The other two married Featherstone and Wyche whose descendants are in Mississippi and Texas.)

37 From a letter written in January, 1899, by Mrs. Nannie V. Alston, of Jackson, Tenn., we gather the following:

Philip Alston removed to Jackson, Tenn., where he died, leaving three sons, viz.: James,
John and Philip; also some daughters, among whom were Mrs. Louisa Fussell, of Arkansas. John died many years ago leaving a daughter. Philip died about four years since leaving a son, James Blakemore Alston, now living in Madison county. James died many years ago, leaving an only son, John (my husband), who died in October, 1885, aged 37, leaving two sons, Louis and John, who are now living in Jackson.

There was an emigration of the entire family of Col. Philip Alston from North Carolina after the Revolution, and the county records of Chatham and Moore offer nothing in the way of wills or deeds, as to his descent or where they removed to.

It is most probable the John Alston who died in Fairfield Dist., S.C., about 1790, was the eldest son. The other children went to Telfair Co., Ga., and from there to Alabama and Mississippi.

38 William Harris = Mary Drew Carroll nee Alston; 3 children, viz.: I. William Gindrat. II. Mary = John H. Gindrat (s. p.) and III. Sarah Smith Harris, who married March 20th, 1832, at Montgomery, Ala., to Albert James Pickett, of North Carolina (the historian of Alabama). They had 12 children, viz.:

II. Mary Frances, b. Dec. 23, 1835; d. in infancy.

71 III. Martha Raiford, b. January 18th, 1837; m. June 12th, 1855, to Col. Michael L. Woods of Tennessee. She died Aug. 24, 1898 (q. v.).
IV. Corinne Albert, b. Feb. 15th, 1839, married Dec. 14th, 1858, to Edward Booth Randolph of Montgomery, and had one child, Corinne Pickett, who m. Nov. 6th, 1889, to Loderick W. Dimick of Sheffield, Ala., and died March 25th, 1890.

Supplement to follow. page 146, of Alston Genealogy.

The first mention found of the Riddick family is James Riddick, who was Burgess for Nansemond co., Va., 1718-1722.

The next is Lemuel, a Burgess, 1786-1778, and also a delegate to the State Convention 1775. Also, Rev. Lemuel Riddick, who resigned the pastorate of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Suffolk, in 1778, after having served it continuously for forty years. This is believed to have been the same individual, a son of James (above mentioned) and the father of Micajah and Gen. Joseph Riddick who was a State Senator from Gates county, N. C., for twenty-eight years. Again, Colonel Willis Riddick was Burgess from Nansemond 1756-1775 and delegate to state convention 1775-1776 and a son of Lemuel.

The family mansion of Bridger and Parker was at Macclesfield, a few miles from the old Smithfield Church, Isle of Wight county, Va., where an immense landed estate had descended to Mrs. Cowper from her mother who was a widow Bridger and had married Col. Josiah Parker of Revolutionary fame.

Richard Parker b. about 1758 entered army 1776, was Captain and Major of 2nd Va. Regt. and served at Trenton, Princeton, Germantown, Brandywine and other battles. He particularly distinguished himself at Trenton where he held a bridge. (Va. Historic Reg.) He was afterwards appointed Colonel of the 1st. Va. Regiment and was killed in the trenches at the defence of Charleston, embalmed in the tears of his faithful soldiers, and honored by the regrets of the whole army. (See memoirs, Lights Horse Harry.) 7 John Cooper m. Euphan Wilson Alston in 1779.

Family tradition makes John Cooper’s father to have been a first cousin to Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper, first earl of Shaftesbury; also that his brother James became a priest of the Roman Catholic church. His mother’s maiden name was Sutherland. She was also the mother of Commodore Dale, and as widow Dale married the father of John Cooper. John Cooper himself was of a roving spirit and took his family to France, where his sons and daughters were educated. On his return to America with three of his children, himself, wife and two children were drowned on Charleston bar in 1810, the third child having died and been buried at sea. His eldest son, John Batts, mentioned in his grandfather’s will, was sent to France when about 10 years old and educated under the care of General Kilmaine at the court of Napoleon, became a naturalized citizen and was a midshipman in the French navy. In consequence of impaired health he resigned and returned to this country. In the war of 1812 he served as paymaster and commanded the troops in defence of Hampton, Virginia. In 1803 he was married to Mary Ann Wray, of Hampton, the daughter of George Ashton Wray, and Diana Mallory, whose father, (Col.) Francis Mallory, was a colonel of Virginia militia during the Revolution, and was killed in a skirmish with the British under Col. Dundas, at Tompkins’ bridge, near Big Bethel, on March 8th, 1781.

George Ashton Wray was born June 4th, 1762 and died February, 1810. He was the eldest son of Jacob Wray and Mary Ashton, of King George county, Virginia, who died December 9th, 1773. They were married May 13th, 1761, and Jacob Wray died in 1800. He contributed financial aid to the American cause during the Revolution. Jacob Wray was the son of George Wray and Helen Walker. George Wray was born in England and lies buried in Hampton, Va., his tomb bearing the coat of arms and the date, April 19th, 1758, aged 61 years. He was the only son of George (d 1724) and Rachel Wray, of Poplears, London, and in coming to this country brought with him the coat of arms which is the same as that which was borne by Sir Christopher Wray, who was lord chief justice in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; viz.: Azure on a chief argent, three martlets gules, Crest an ostrich or. Motto “Et juste et verui.”
Their children were, viz:

I. John Batte Cooper, born February 29th, 1780, died in New Orleans, September, 1834, married in 1803 to Mary Ann Wray, born March 1st, 1787; died 1852, (q. v).

As there are so many intermarriages with the Warren county family of Jones, there will be added a brief sketch of them, also of the family of Evan Jones of White Plains, and of the family of Banks, so intimately connected with Alston and Jones.

3 Solomon Alston, Jr.—Sarah ——.

Solomon Alston sold 4,000 acres of land in Bute, now Warren county, to his uncle Joseph John Alston, who willed it to his son Henry. He is also recorded as having been a grand juror in 1769, from Granville Co. In Col. Records of N. C., Vol. VIII, page 201, we find, "ordered that Solomon Alston, Jr., and Robert Dickens be added to the “Commission of the Peace & Dedimus” for the county of Granville, and that the chairman of said court be directed to insert their names in the Commission & Dedimus accordingly. Ap. 7th, 1770. [Signed] Wm. Tryon. His will was probated at August court 1771. His widow married Captain John Henderson, June 4th, 1772. In 1776, there is record of a petition from Wm. Alston and Joseph John Williams to Supreme Court, praying that John Henderson who had married the widow of Solomon Alston, now deceased, late of Granville county, be restrained from leaving the Province to the prejudice of the children of the said Solomon Alston. Names of said children:

II

I. Lemuel James, born 1760 (q. v.).
II. Henry—Sarah Hill, dau. of Thomas Hill, of Halifax County (q. v.).

III. Charity Alston. There is no record of her ever having married. Robert Lewis was also a devisee in the will of Solomon Alston, but there is found no other record of him. Of Henry Alston, above mentioned, there is a record, July 27th, 1784, leaving property to his wife, Sarah Hill, and their children:

I. Willis Alston.
II. Fanny Foster Alston, probably married to John Kimbrough, son of Nathaniel.

III. Thomas Alston, of whom there is no further record or history.

This family is to be distinguished from that of Henry Alston, son of Joseph John, who also m. Sarah Hill and left three children, and has been mentioned elsewhere.
11 Judge Lemuel James Alston married Elisabeth, dau. of Colonel Joseph John Williams and Elisabeth, dau. of Phillip Alston and Winnifred Whitmel. After the death of his wife, he married Elisabeth, widow of Joseph John Williams, Jr., the half brother of his first wife, but had no children by this second marriage. We find him living in South Carolina, on a place which is now the site of the city of Greenville, and representing that district in Congress, 1807–1811. From there he removed to what is now Clarke county, Ala., in 1816. There as Chief Justice he presided over the Orphans Court and County Court from November, 1816, to May, 1821. He was noted for his intellectual attainments, as well as for his uniformly dignified, gentlemanly, courteous bearing. He died in 1836, on what was known as the Alston place. Of his six sons and two daughters, only one son survived him and left issue. We have record of only 4 of his children, viz.:

Sketch of John Alston by his Grand-daughter.

Agreeable to promise I have written for you all that mama can now recall of the early history of our great-grand-father, John Alston. Mama says she has but an imperfect recollection of him, as he died when she was quite a child; so that we are indebted to our grand-mother (Lucy Alston) for the following facts: She often spoke to mama of her early life and of the hardships encountered by her whole family. Before proceeding further let me ask your indulgence, for I can do no more than give you a general outline. Mama was unable to give me a single date, although, after much trouble, I have succeeded in finding enough to satisfy me in the main, and hope you may feel sufficiently interested to search for yourself.

The history of Louisiana, and more particularly that portion of it known as West Florida, would be interesting to all, but deeply so to us, it having been the home of our fore-fathers—the scenes of their struggles to throw off the Spanish yoke, and of their after happiness under that rule during the general amnesty, and finally of the possession of it by the United States in 1810.

Our great grandfather was by birth a Carolinian, a true and loyal British subject—he lived and died an Englishman at heart.

In or about the year 1770, John Alston removed with his family—wife and four children—to the Natchez district of West Florida, and never participated in the struggle of the Americans for liberty, but remained firm in his attachment to the royal cause. His plantation was 10 miles east of Natchez. The maiden name of his wife was Elizabeth Hynes. At the time of their emigration to Natchez, our grand-parents were wealthy, and their children were educated at home under the care of good and competent English teachers—indeed, I may say they were reared in the lap of luxury and refinement. The plantation on which they lived is about eight or nine miles from Natchez, and to which they gave the name of "La Grange"—a name it still retains. The names of their children were William, Lewis, Ann and Solomon. Lucretia, or Lucy, as she was afterward called (our grandmother), was born in 1772 on the La Grange plantation.

In 1779 Baton Rouge, Fort Bute at Manchac, Fort Panmure at Natchez were surrendered to Gen. Galvez. Thus that portion of West Florida came under the dominion of Spain, but it was not confirmed by a treaty until 1783, when the whole of East and West Florida were ceded to the Spanish crown, and this terminated the last vestige of British power upon the lower Mississippi after an occupancy of nearly nineteen years.

In the winter of 1781, when Gen. Galvez, the captain-general of Louisiana, was engaged in reducing Pensacola (an English fort), a revolt of the English colonies in the Natchez district, headed by Jno. Alston and six others, brought upon them the vengeance of their conquerors, the Spaniards of Louisiana. During the siege, hearing of the approach of a fleet, which had been mistaken for a British one, they considered the success of their sovereign's cause in West Florida so certain that they determined on giving him an evidence of their loyalty by dislodging the Spaniards from the fort. They raised the British standard on the 22d of April, but it was not until the 29th that the evacuation of Fort Panmure by the Spanish took place, soon followed by the rumor that the report of the approach of the British fleet was unfounded, and afterward by that of Galvez's success at Pensacola.

On the 29th of July of the same year (1781) Don Carlos De Grandprie, lieutenant-colonel of the regiment of Louisiana, entered upon his duties of civil and military commandant of the port district of Natchez, when measures were immediately taken for the punishment of such of the late insurgents as were within the reach of the Spanish authorities. Arrests, seizures and confiscations commenced.

The insurgents being mindful of Spanish cruelty exercised by Gov. O'Reily ten years before, determined to elude the vigilance of the Spanish government by seeking the protection of the nearest British post in Georgia upon the Savannah river.

Without loss of time, and in company with other families, Mr. Alston started his wife and three younger children, with twenty-five young negro men as their protection or body-guard; he, with his two elder sons, remained at their post. Mrs. Alston had gone but two days' journey when her horse stumbled and fell. She was thrown, and in the fall had several of her ribs broken; her companions were obliged to hurry on, while she and her children returned to their home. Her sufferings were very great, and she was carried on a litter, the negroes taking it in turn. From this accident she never recovered, lingered a few weeks and died.

After the death of his wife Mr. Alston, with his sons, attempted to make their escape; the young men succeeded, but the leader of the revolt was too great a prize; he was betrayed into the hands of the Spaniards, and after a trial in New Orleans he and six others were sentenced to close confinement for life in Moro Castle (Havana).

Previous to his capture in the Indian Nation, Mr. Alston asked the protection of Dr. Farrar for his three younger children. After the confiscation of his property Dr. Farrar removed the three children to a cabin in the woods, on one of his plantations on "False River," in Pointe Coupee parish, La.

Mammy Poll, an old negro woman who had belonged to Mr. Alston and who was permitted to remain with the children, was in this their hour of trial their only earthly friend and protector. There was but one room in the cabin and in that they all lived for more than a year. Solomon was only twelve years of age and, from having been always accustomed to every comfort, now was called upon to exert himself for the maintenance and support of his sisters. They were fortunately allowed to retain some bedclothes and their own wearing apparel, of which they had a good supply.

Mammy Poll had a little dog which was a great help to them. She, with Solomon and her dog, would hunt the small game of the country, such as the opossum, raccoon and rabbit. She also raised poultry, and as False river was near by, their table was often supplied with fish. Meat and meal were furnished them from the plantation.

Can you imagine a more distressing situation for a young and beautiful girl of only fifteen (for such was Ann's age), the petted idol of her family, in a few short weeks to be deprived by death of an affectionate mother, her beloved father a prisoner for life, her two brothers fugitives, and she the sole guardian of her younger brother and sister, without means, without friends, with a bare roof over her head and in sound of the terrible howling of wolves and other wild animals, living in constant terror, for she was without protection and at the mercy of any or all who might feel so disposed to molest her? But they had a friend—these poor children of the wilderness. Our Heavenly Father protected them and gave Ann strength to bear her heavy burdens (I say Ann, for the others were younger and did not feel as she did), and in time sent her an earthly friend, who proved himself indeed a true and kind one. Mr. Alexander Stirling, a young Scotchman who had left his home in the mother country to seek his fortune in the new world, at that time was living at Dr. Farrar's place managing for him, and his kind, manly heart led him to pity and assist these poor, helpless children. From repeated acts of kindness and sympathy they learned to look upon him as their friend. He became devotedly attached to Ann and she in time returned his affections. In the fall or winter of 1782 they were married, and in January, 1783, they removed to their own home, on Thompson's creek, near Murdock's ford, West Feliciana parish, and commenced merchandising. They were fortunate in business and soon became independent.

Grandma, in speaking of her home on "False River," said the mosquitoes were so bad they were obliged to sleep on a sort of scaffold outside the cabin and make a smoke under it, and then they would build a large fire to scare the wolves, and although she was but nine years of age she remembered distinctly her nightly terror of them, and to her dying day she considered the meat of the opossum a delicacy.

Mammy Poll was a good and faithful friend; she tried to sell her poultry and extra game, which enabled them to buy an occasional pair of shoes or some little extra. In after years she was emancipated and lived in New Orleans to a ripe old age in comfort and independence, having the love and respect of every member of the family, who always treated her with great deference.

I have heard my own husband speak of visiting her when he was a child. Soon after Mr. and Mrs. Stirling settled in their own home, her brothers, William and Lewis, in consequence of their youth, were pardoned, and came to visit their sisters and brother.

After consultation they determined to place Lucy in the Ursuline Convent in New Orleans, which William did in the following fall, and there she remained for five years. Her education was altogether in French, and when she left the convent she had almost forgotten her mother tongue.

Solomon remained with his sister and attended the school of the neighborhood. William and Lewis Alston entered land on the Bayou Tunica (West Feliciana Parish) and soon became independent.

Until the winter of 1783 John Alston remained a close prisoner in Moro Castle. At that time Prince William Henry (afterward William the 4th of England) went to Havana as midshipman, and then an opportunity was offered him of exercising his humanity for the deliverance of the unfortunate. Some of his countrymen were in danger of suffering under sentence of death in Moro Castle; at his royal highness' intercession they were liberated, but Gen. Galvez, then Governor of Louisiana, was fearful these leaders of the revolt might again give trouble to the government and offered a reward of five thousand dollars for the head of John Alston if found within the Spanish dominion of Louisiana.

Sir—I want words to express to your excellency my just sense of your polite letter, of the delicate manner in which you caused it to be delivered and of your generous conduct towards the unfortunate men in your power. Their pardon, which you have been pleased to grant on my account, is the most agreeable present you could have offered me, and it is strongly characteristic of the bravery and gallantry of the Spanish nation. This instance increases, if possible, my opinion of your excellency's humanity, which has appeared on so many occasions in the course of the late war. Admiral Rowley is to dispatch a vessel to Louisiana with the prisoners. I am convinced they will ever think of your excellency's clemency with gratitude; and I have sent a copy of your letter to the King, my father, who will be fully sensible of your excellency's attention to me.

I request my compliments to Mme. Galvez, and that you will be assured that actions so noble as those of your excellency will ever be remembered by, yours sincerely,

William, P.

Another kind act of Prince William was to save the life of a brother midshipman, Benjamin Lee, who had been sentenced to death for disrespect to a superior officer.

In 1784 John Alston presented himself before the Governor and declared his name and claimed the reward for his impoverished children.

The Governor was struck with his manly bearing, offered him his hand, and said, "Give me your word never to again interfere with the Government, and go home and take care of your children."

From the time of his departure from New Orleans in 1781 Mr. Alston had never heard of his children, but now on his release he heard from friends in the city that his sons had been pardoned and that his youngest daughter was in the convent; he went to see her and learned from her that her sister was married and living on Thompson's Creek. Leaving Lucy in the convent he was in a few days with the other members of his family. He found his lovely daughter a wife and mother. The feeling of deep gratitude to the kind protector of his helpless children was paramount to all others; he received Mr. Stirling as a son and soon after loved him as his own child.

Finding his sons had settled on Bayou Tunica, he soon opened a plantation near them on the "Lake of the Cross," and being enabled to claim some of his former slaves in right of his children, he by persevering energy and industry soon became a wealthy planter. Mr. Alston was a large, handsome, well-formed man; his height was six feet four inches. All of the family except grandma were large. Mrs. Stirling was tall and the brothers all over-size; one of them, Lewis, was six feet seven inches, and mama says decidedly the handsomest man she ever saw.

After grandmama's return from the convent she lived with and kept house for her father until her marriage with Mr. Ruffin Gray, a young Virginian, and brother of Mrs. Lewis Alston, who was married before grandmama's return.

William Alston married Miss Mildred Wells, of Rapides Parish; his descendants live in Mississippi, but we have heard nothing of them for many years.

Lewis Alston was twice married; his first wife, Miss Mary Ann Gray, left no children; his second wife was Miss Rebecca Kimball.

About the time of grandma's marriage Mr. and Mrs. Stirling removed from Thompson's Creek and settled in West Feliciana on the plantation known for a long time as "Egypt," but which is now known as Rosale.

Lucy Alston was twice married; her first husband was Mr. Ruffin Gray. They had four children, the youngest of whom, Mary Ann, was born a few months before her father's death. He had opened the "Oakley Plantation," West Feliciana, and had made all his arrangements for moving when his health, which had been declining for some time previous, failed rapidly and he died at his residence on the Homachitta. As soon after his death as practicable grandmama removed to "Oakley," and there new trials awaited her. About that time her father died, very soon after her sister, and she had the care of her younger children. To add to her sorrow the smallpox, that terrible scourge, made its appearance in the neighborhood, and the whole family were inoculated. Grandma, in alluding to this period of her life, says her trials were greater and harder to bear than all the others. Besides the poignancy of grief at the loss of a kind husband, father and sister, she had this terrible disease to battle with; six members of the family were ill with it, besides many of the negroes. Then it was that Lucretia, the youngest child of Mrs. Stirling, died, and for days the lives of her own two children were despaired of. But for her brother Solomon, who was with her through all that trying period, she must, even with her energy, have sunk, as it was the anxiety, distress and fatigue that nearly killed her, and it was a long time before she recovered from the effect.

She was indebted to another kind friend, Miss Chisholm (the grand aunt of Mrs. Lurly), who remained with her, and her kindness and sympathy were a great comfort.

Grandmama married the second time Mr. James Perrie, a Scotchman, and friend of her brother-in-law, Mr. Stirling. They had three children—the first died in infancy—Sarah, who died at 14 years of age, and Eliza.

Of grandmama, she was twice widow and died at the age of 60 in May, 1832, beloved by all who knew her. She was a woman of strong mind and great energy of character, and her life of vicissitudes was well calculated to bring out all her faculties.

You will find the proofs of the dates herein mentioned in "Monette's Valley of the Mississippi"—"Warton's Louisiana," and Cratz's life of Geo. 4th.
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

The life of our grandmama is full of incident, but I am totally inadequate to the task of writing it out.

Affectionately your cousin,

S. P. S.

From the family Bible of Jonathan Rucker, and from family reminiscences, we have the following:

The family of Rucker were Huguenots and left Frauce in the 17th century, and settled near Fairfax, Va. Sometime previous to the Revolution they came southward, some even as far as Mississippi. The vessel which brought them to America was wrecked and every one on board lost, except Rucker himself and one companion. Among his descendants, about the beginning of the Revolution, Peter and his wife Sarah Rucker came to the Mississippi country from Prince Edward Co., Va., and settled upon the river in Louisiana below Natchez. Among their children were Jonathan, Catherine, Susanna, and William.

Here his wife Sarah died, and Peter married again. His 2d wife was disliked by the children, and little Catherine, refusing to nurse her step-mother’s infant, took her brother William with her and went off, crossing the river by night in a skiff, and wrapping up her little brother in a flannel skirt to make him comfortable, they concealed themselves on the opposite bank of the river, where they could see their father with neighbors, dogs and torches hunting for them all night. The children, when day came, went to some of the neighbor’s houses. Mrs. Philip Alston took pity upon the children, having been a friend of their mother, and offered to take little Catherine into her family and send her to school with her own children. This the child enjoyed very much, and became strongly attached to Mrs. Alston and family. In 1781, when the English colonists of the Natchez District fled from the Spaniards, she took Catherine with her to the Indian nation, where they went for protection. There they met John Turnbull, the Indian agent, whom Catherine married (she being then 16 years old), and afterwards lived in East Baton Rouge at a place called Arlington, until some years subsequent to her husband's death. John Turnbull had previously married among the Indians, where he left a number of children.

John Turnbull came to Mobile from Scotland with his father, mother, brother and sister. All of whom, except himself and brother, died of yellow fever the first summer after arrival.

William, the youngest, a child of 11 or 12 years, was put with the greater part of their property in the store of an English merchant. He moved with the merchant's family to the Bahamas, where he died, leaving a wife and two small children.

John bought a mule and a peddler's pack and started out to trade with the Indians. In the course of time he was made agent under Spanish rule and became very wealthy, owning quantities of land in Mobile, on the Tombigbee, and in East Baton Rouge.

Among the children of John Turnbull and his wife Catherine Rucker, their dau. Sarah married Lewis Stirling of West Feliciana Parish. Robert Semple Young, A. B., who served as a private in Co. A, Jeff Davis' Legion in Va., during the Confederate war, and resides in Natchez, is a gr-grandson.

Among the English residents of the Natchez District who took an active part in the rebellion against the Spanish government in 1781, and fled to the Indian Territory, was Philip Alston, a younger brother of John, and mentioned in "Pickett's History of Alabama" as residing at Petit Gulf in 1776. There is no record of his having left issue, except that his father in his will in 1784 makes a special bequest to his grandson, John McCoy Alston, son of his son Philip.

By consulting the Adams county records, we find that Owen Alston bought negroes about 1800–1810. He may also have been a son of this Philip who was still alive Oct. 1st, 1784.

AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

It is to be regretted that complete records of this family have not been obtained.

Job Routh was one of the earliest American settlers at Natchez, and saw the stars and stripes float over the ramparts of Fort Panmure. His sons and daughters occupied prominent places in the business and social circles of Mississippi and Louisiana. His son, John Routh, known as one of the largest, most liberal and successful cotton planters of the South, in 1815, when the British menaced New Orleans, hastened to her defense, and was a member of the “Wilkinson Rifles,” a company raised in Natchez, Miss., and died at the age of 76.

Calvin Smith Routh, who married Annie Elisabeth Skillman, was the son of John Routh, and his son, Andrew Skillman Routh, above mentioned, in 1861, enlisted in the C. S. Army, as a private in Co. A., Wirt Adams’ Cavalry Regt. Soon afterward he was captured and during the greater part of the war was kept a prisoner at Camp Morton or Fort Delaware. After the war he followed the vocation of planter.

John Bowie, Sr., an immigrant from Scotland, was the founder of the noted family of that name in America. John Bowie was the father of Allen Bowie, Sr., whose son, Judge (Captain) Fielder Bowie, was a member of the Maryland Convention that ratified the Constitution of the United States in 1788, and his son, Thomas Contee Bowie, was father of Dr. Allen Thomas Bowie, a native of Prince George County, Maryland, and died at Natchez Sept. 12, 1872. This Dr. Bowie m. Matilda Jane Routh (sister of Calvin Smith Routh) and were the parents of Captain Allen Thomas Bowie who is now Circuit Clerk of Adams County, Miss., and resides in Natchez with his two living children. Capt. Bowie is also a great-grandson of Robert Bowie, governor of Maryland 1803–6, and 1811–12, whose father William, and his brother, Walter, were among the signers of the Association of the Freemen of Maryland, in July, 26th, 1775, Walter being also a member of the Maryland convention of 1776, which framed the Constitution of the State. They were among the first to join "The Old Maryland Line" at the opening of the American Revolution. Captain Bowie (b. Aug. 17, 1840) was sent to college at Chapel Hill, N. C., and would have graduated in June, 1861, but when the war commenced he hastened to enlist as a private in Co. A, Wirt Adams' Cavalry Regiment. By successive promotions he was at length assigned to duty as A. A. General with rank of Captain upon the staff of Brig. Gen'l Wirt Adams. After the suspension of hostilities he was paroled, and returning to his old home, Lake St. Joseph, engaged in planting. Ann Matilda Routh, whom he married, was the widow of Henry Jordan Marshall, to whom she had been married Dec. 20th, 1860, by Rt. Rev. Leonidas Polk, D.D., Bishop of Mississippi and upon marrying Capt. Bowie the ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. J. P. B. Wilmer, D.D., Bishop of Louisiana.

(2) Sarah Edith Stirling m. Mark Boatner, 3 ch. viz:

1. Edith Lilly Boatner—Christopher V. Haile, of New Orleans, who for many years was superintendent of the Carrollton R. R. Company, and one of the first promoters of the electric street car railway system of that city. He left a daughter Clarisse, living with her mother, and a son,
Hudson R. Haile, in Texas.

2. Charles J. Boatner m. in 1870 Fannie Mayo, dau. of Judge O. Mayo, a prominent lawyer and jurist of Lou-issiana. He has been an active participant in Louisiana politics since the beginning of reconstruction.
Served as State Senator in 1876–7 and 12 years as congressman from the 5th Louisiana district. He is 5 William Alston was a member of the Committee of Safety for Halifax county that met December 21, 1774. Afterwards we find him in Lincoln county (then Tryon), and was a member from that county of the Provincial Congress that met at Hillsboro August 21, 1775, and of the Constitutional Convention that met at Halifax November 12, 1776.

The Provincial Congress that met at Halifax in April, 1776, appointed him lieutenant-colonel of the 3d regiment of Continental troops, with Jethro Sumner colonel and Samuel Lockhart major. In this capacity he served until October 25, 1777, when he resigned. After the Revolution he removed with his family to Elbert county, Ga., where he died, 1810. He married, 1774, his cousin Charity, the daughter of James Alston and Christian Lillington (q. v.), a woman of great personal beauty, whose courage was tested during the trying days of the Revolution. The issue of this marriage were, viz.:

25 I. James Alston = Catherine Hamilton. Issue, (q. v.).
II. William Hinton = Elizabeth Rucker. Issue, (q. v.).

III. Philip Henry = Mrs. Woolfolk nee Winn (s. p.).
IV. Solomon Alston left home and was never afterwards heard from.

V. George died early in life and unmarried.

VI. Mary = Captain James O. Clark of Virginia. Issue (q. v.).

VII. Elisabeth Alston = Thompson.

VIII. Christian (Kittie) Alston d. unm.

IX. Nancy Alston = J. Minor Tate of Georgia, and their daughter Charity Tate = John Alston, son of Nathaniel and Gilly (Yancey) Alston, and left large family (q. v.).

X. Sallie Alston = Thomas Chambers.

James Alston, of Abbeville, S. C., was born November 16, 1774, and died 1850. He served as major under General Jackson in the Florida war, and was married in 1824 to Catherine Hamilton, daughter of Major Andrew Hamilton, whose parents were Archibald and Frances (Calhoun) Hamilton, both natives of Ireland. Major Hamilton's wife was born in Pennsylvania.

I here subjoin the following from the pen of W. P. Calhoun:

A Sketch of Major Andrew Hamilton, of the Revolution.

[Correspondence of the Daily Register.]

Not long since I undertook to mention some of the famous men of Abbeville, past and present, and in doing so I failed to mention Major Andrew Hamilton. While he was not born here, we claim him as ours, since he devoted his life to our county and the interests of South Carolina. Major Hamilton was born in Augusta county, Virginia, in 1741. He married Jane McGara of the same county and State. Shortly after his marriage he came to South Carolina with General Andrew Pickens, and they cast their lot in this county together. By his energy, perseverance and pluck Major Hamilton did much toward the development of this section and the building up of our town. According to Rev. George Harris's history of the Presbyterian Church of South Carolina, General Pickens and Major Hamilton were about the first elders of Upper Long Cane Church. This is, I think, the oldest church in the county and has quite an interesting history.

Major Hamilton enlisted in the service of his country in the Revolutionary war. He was first a lieutenant under General Pickens, afterwards a captain and then a major, and was in most of the important battles of South Carolina and Georgia. His life was a long and eventful one. He died on the 17th day of January, 1835, in the ninety-fifth year of his age. His wife died on April 20, 1826, in her eighty-sixth year. Both are buried in Upper Long Cane cemetery. On the tomb of Major Hamilton is the following inscription:

"The name of Major Hamilton is connected with almost the whole of the Revolutionary history of the upper country of South Carolina."

He left a large family, and among his descendants may be mentioned Dr. Andrew Simonds, of Charleston; Mrs. Catherine Parker and Mrs. Waties, of Columbia; Mrs. Harriet Ravenel, of Charleston; Mrs. Edward Parker, of Abbeville; Dr. A. B. Calhoun's wife, of Newnan, Ga.; Dr. A. W. Calhoun, of Atlanta, and the late Dr. Ephiram Calhoun, of Greenwood; also the Alstons and Cabells and others.

While Major Hamilton appears to have only a traditional local fame, those here who remember him give him a name for services to both Church and State that entitles him to a place in history. He was the able assistant of General Pickens throughout the Revolutionary war. A patriot he was, and he risked his life for the benefit of his country. The memory of such men should not be allowed to die out, and it is nothing but justice that he be given a place in history among the patriots and defenders of our land in the days of the Revolutionary war.

Great-grandfather of Andrew Simonds.

Also the following taken from the Charleston News and Courier:

The following memorial sketch of the life and character of Mrs. Catherine Alston, aunt of Andrew Simonds, Esq., the president of the First National Bank of Charleston, is taken from the Abbeville Medium:

Died on the 18th of November, 1877, at the residence of her son-in-law, Colonel H. Coalter Cabell, in the city of Richmond, Mrs. Catherine Alston, widow of the late Maj. Jas. Alston, of Abbeville, S. C., and daughter of Maj. Andrew Hamilton, of South Carolina, an officer of the Revolutionary War. Her remains, in obedience to her request, were brought to the town of Abbeville and on the 23d of that month were interred in the Presbyterian cemetery at Upper Long Cane Church.

Mrs. Alston was born Nov. 25, 1786, in the vicinity of the town before it was established and resided here many years. After the marriage of her only child and the death of her husband, she removed to the city of Richmond and resided with her daughter, Mrs. Cabell. It was a beautiful tribute to this venerable lady by those who in former years were her friends and neighbors, that her remains were received and honored by impressive funeral services, and then interred with fitting reverence and respect by the whole community.

Mrs. Alston was descended from two of the oldest and most honored families of Abbeville. Her father was a Hamilton and her grandmother a Calhoun, names identified with that of South Carolina in all the eventful epochs of her history. Both these families were of Scotch-Irish descent, and possessed all their fierce patriotism, their traditional courage, their stern love of liberty, and their grand religious convictions. These high qualities, toned and softened, and shaded and tinted, were deeply embedded in the character of Mrs. Alston. She was high-born, high-bred, accomplished and refined, with a majestic presence and polished manners, a fine type of the old school of Carolina ladies.

The marriage of her daughter in one of the most distinguished families of Virginia drew around her the polished and brilliant society of Richmond. But Abbeville was still the home of her affections, and she never disposed of the old homestead in which her conjugal life was passed and her husband died. She reserved the spot by the grave of her husband for her own resting-place, and there she reposes.

Her father, Major Andrew Hamilton, and her husband, Major James Alston, won their titles in the service of their country, and the former filled high civil office.

The group in that peaceful abode in which Mrs. Alston lies consists of her father, her mother, her husband and herself.

25 Major James Alston and Catherine, his wife, had an only child, Jane, who married Colonel HENRY COALTER CABELL, of Richmond, Va., who distinguished himself as an artillery officer in the Confederate army, and died January 31st, 1889, honored and beloved by all who knew him. (For an account of his distinguished services see "Cable's and Their Kin" published by Alexander Brown, D.C.L., from which valuable work we make some extracts.) They had the following children, viz.:

I. HON. JAMES ALSTON CABELL, an attorney in Richmond, who m. ETHEL HOYT SCOTT, of New York, and had 3 children:

   (1) Ethel Alston.
   (2) Catherine Hamilton.
   (3) James Alston who died in infancy.

   Mr. Cabell graduated with distinction at the University of Virginia in 1873. Was chosen professor of chemistry in the Central University of Kentucky, where he continued for two years. Resigning that position after two years, he subsequently applied himself to the study and practice of law. He has served as a member of the city council, as a Representative in the State Legislature, as W. Master of Metropolitan Lodge of A. F. and A. M., President of the Virginia Society of the Cincinnati, and as Vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

II. CATHERINE HAMILTON CABELL, who married HON. HERBERT AUGUSTINE CLAIBORNE, of Richmond. Their children were:

   (1) Jeanie Alston Claiborn, who died in her 8th year.
   (2) Herbert Augustine Claiborne, Jr.
   (3) Hamilton Cabell Claiborne.
Mrs. Claiborne, from her high social position, is well known for her interest in benevolent enterprises. She has been President of the Society of Colonial Dames of Virginia, and at this time is a Vice-President of the National order for the same society. Her home in Richmond has many valuable souvenirs in the way of old family portraits and relics.

Mr. Claiborne is a lawyer by profession, and was Captain in C. S. Army. He is a son of H. A. Claiborne of King William Co. and of Richmond, who was a member of the Virginia Legislature; also a soldier in the war of 1812, and a lawyer. His great-great-grandfather, Augustine Claiborne, was a direct lineal descendant of William Claiborne, who was appointed by Charles I. Secretary of State and Treasurer for Virginia, 1626-1642.

III. Henry Coalter Cabell graduated in 1883 at West Point and assigned to 14th Infantry U. S. A., Aide to Gen. John Gibbon; appointed regimental quartermaster of 14th infantry in 1892; married at Portland, Oregon, Emily Corbett Failing, dau. of Henry Failing and Emily Corbett, a sister of U. S. Senator Corbett, and descended from Roger Corbett, a Norman, who went over to England at the conquest.

IV. Julian Mayo Cabell completed his education at the University of Virginia, where he also graduated in medicine, 1886. He was appointed 1st lieutenant and ass't surgeon U. S. A., April 14th, 1887, served in the field throughout the Sioux campaign, 1890–1891; promoted captain and ass’t surgeon U. S. A., April 14th, 1892.

V. Clarence Cabell, a graduate of the University of Virginia; a law student at Harvard College, Mass.; a student at the Universities of Paris and Leipsic.

26. II. William Hinton Alston was born in North Carolina and came with his father soon after the Revolution to Elbert Co., Ga.; where he married January 25th, 1820, to Elizabeth Rucker. He afterwards removed to Columbus, Ga., where he died. Their children were:

1. Elizabeth—William E. Dubose, of Enon, Ala. Issue:
   (1) Edwin Dubose—Clara Horah. He was sergeant during the Confederate war, in the company of which his uncle Philip was captain, and in the battle near Marietta, Ga., he was severely wounded in the head, from the effects of which he never fully recovered.

Issue of

7 Charity Alston—James Jones.

This James Jones, the son of Shugan Jones (Warren county), was appointed Ap. 22d, 1776, Captain of Light Horse, Company 3d, with Cosimo Madacy, Lieutenant, and James Armstrong, Cornet.

He was also a member of the State Senate from Wake county in 1777. He died prior to September, 1777, as will appear from his will, which was written 10th Mar., 1775, but not probated until Sept., 1777.

The witnesses were Major Pollard (Jurat) and Thomas Hines; Executors, wf. Charity Jones, brother, Edmund Jones, and James Alston, son of Solomon Alston. His children were:

1. Mary Jones.
2. Priscilla Jones, mentioned in Solomon Alston's will.
3. Willis Jones.
4. Rachel Jones, who afterwards married Ralph Banks.
5. Thomas Jones.
6. James Jones.

in Latin was erected and still stands over his grave. In the same church the remains of John Milton were afterwards laid. John Speed was noted as a historian, geographer and antiquarian; his works are among the most valuable and reliable in their line in English literature.
7. Captain Solomon Jones, who was probably born in 1777, after his father's death, as there is no mention of him in will. He served as Captain under Gen'l Andrew Jackson and married Christian Charity Alston, daughter of John, the eldest son of James and Christian Alston. His daughter, Priscilla, m. John Stoddard, an extensive planter on Duck River in Maury county, Tenn.; for issue (q. v.):

Col. D. Jones, son of Solomon, was Colonel in the Mexican war, and State Senator in Tennessee. He had also a brother, Wm. Alston Jones, and 3 sisters, viz.: Priscilla, Martha and Mary Jones.

Solomon Jones also had 3 half-sisters, viz.: Charity Alston, Betsy Alston and Rachel Alston.

Note.—There has been an emigration of this entire family of Jones from North Carolina to Georgia, Tennessee and elsewhere, many of whom are now residing in Maury county.

Banks.

Miles and John Banks were members of the Virginia Company in 1620.

In 1632 Charles I. issued a commission appointing a Council of Superintendence over Virginia, empowering them to ascertain the state and condition of the colony. Among the 23 names given, John Banks, Esq., is the 16th. Others came to Virginia afterwards, viz.: Henry, James, Thomas. We also find William and others in the 17th century. We are unable now to connect certainly the family of Thomas Banks of Grauville county, N. C., with any of these, yet it is very probable that he was either a son or a grandson of William Banks of King and Queen county, Va., who died 1709.

Record from the family Bible of Ralph Banks — Children of Thomas Banks by his 1st wife, Sarah Chandler-Banks:

James J. Banks was a farmer by occupation, and accumulated a valuable estate. He was noted for his strict integrity, uprightness of character and piety, in which respects his children all followed in the footsteps of their parents. After the death of his wife Hannah, James J. Banks married a second time, but had no issue by 2d wife. His children were:

I. Jasper Galenius Banks, d. unm. at Enon in 1843.

of Birmingham, Ala. Their children are Frazer and James Jones Banks.

III. Dr. Newton Paley Banks—Fannie Jernigan of Enon, Ala.

Dr. Newton Paley Banks was born in Elbert County, Georgia, September 24, 1824, and died in Opelika, Ala., May 1, 1901. When quite small he removed to Culloden, Ga., in 1844 to Enon, Ala., thence in later life to Columbus, Ga., and then, in February, 1898, to Opelika, Ala.

Strong, vigorous, energetic as a boy, he early developed a keen business perception, and often when only ten or twelve years old was sent to Macon, Ga., to market cotton, returning with the proceeds of the sale in a belt tied around his waist, being compelled to camp at night, returning home the next day.

The inflexible principles of upright living were early instilled into little Newton, which afterwards developed into the rounded Christian character of Dr. Banks.

On the 16th of January, 1851, he married Frances A. Jernigan, who proved indeed a true helpmate.

He was kind to his negroes, all of whom loved him, and up to a few years ago he provided, without remuneration, for one of his old servants, until he too passed to the heavenly home.

After the close of the war he built a log school-house on his place for the negroes, probably the first built in Alabama after the war by an ex-slaveholder for the education of negroes. He made a careful study of the Bible, and manifested special interest in church work, being always connected with the Sunday-school either as superintendent or teacher, and ready to respond liberally to every call for benevolent and Christian enterprise or charity.

Uncompromising honesty and faithful conscientious discharge of duty were the ruling principles that governed his actions.
In all matters of public concern he took deep interest, and never suffered himself to be led by the opinions of others, or to yield his own judgment to popular sentiment, but formed his own opinions, and having once formed them he had the courage to maintain them.

He was a prohibitionist, but in all political measures, as elsewhere, he advocated undeviating honesty, the result being left to an all-wise God, who maketh even the evil designs of men to work out objects for His praise.

Their children are:

1. Henry Jernigan Banks = Sallie Kate Tarver, 1873, dau. of Wesley Tarver, and had issue, Tarver Banks.

*Note.—The following lines taken from the New York Times, were from the pen of M. J. Moses (late) Asst. Surgeon 37th Regt. Miss. Vol., C. S. A., at the battle of Resaca, Ga., on the 9th May, 1864, and was a tribute to his friend, Sergeant Banks:

The storm of shot was flying fast,
And through the marshalled host
The waver ing lines come swaying back,
As though the day was lost.
The hurrying aides were riding down
From left flank and from right,
And sulphurous clouds obscured the sun
In blackness dark as night.

On come the glittering battle line
Upon the shattered band,
Whose heroes held the crested hill
Scarce touching hand to hand.
On came the steady columns down,
Like whirlwinds on the plain,
Whilst batteries from the distant heights
Poured down their iron rain.

Out dashed young Harry Chambers,
With orders for the right,
Out went the noble Elliott,
(We buried him that night).
Felix Sherrod's wife (Sarah Parrish) was cousin to Commodore Maury and gr.-dau.
of Abram Maury, one of the founders of Franklin, Tenn. Their children:

(4) Lucretia Banks, unm.

Brave Waldrop takes the orders now,
And as he turned to go,
The hurtling shot comes plunging down,
And lays our comrade low.

The storm increased—the charging line
Came onward with a cheer;
The General quickly turned his eye
Where Banks and I stood near.
In vain he called upon his aides;
None but the dead were there;
"My God!" he cried, "who can I send"
Those stout, brave hearts to cheer?

I stepped to where the General stood
And asked him if I'd do,
And said that if I did not fall
I'd take his orders through.

Young Banks sprang up and seized the note,
"I'll go," he cried, and smiled,
And whispered as he rushed away,
"He has a wife and child."

Again the storm of battle surged,
Again the lines advance,
And now to save the little band
Seemed but a thing of chance.
"Tell Charpentier to open now
With every single gun."

He scarce had turned to see who went Ere Charpentier begun.

From piece to piece the order went,
And through the darkened air,
The booming cannon thundered out,
While cheer re-echoed cheer;
And night came down with moon and stars
And rested on the hill—
Where high above its blood-stained crest
Our banner floated still.

From camp to camp, from post to post,
I rode through all that night,
To find who of my many friends,
Had fallen in the fight.
And every man I chanced to know
In staff, or line, or ranks,
I asked if he had seen or heard
Of "little Sergeant Banks."

Till when I came again to camp,
And found my young friend there
My heart leapt up to teach my lips
To speak his name in prayer.
And since that day, whene'er I hear
Of heroes from the ranks,
My mind will always head the list
With little Sergeant Banks."

Nearly thirty years afterwards the following lines were added by another friend and companion:

This "little Banks" is now a Vet:
And fat and stout has grown,
The same old Grit is in him yet
As when this deed was done.
His face may seam, his hair grow white,
His blood will ne'er grow cool,
Just mention now that word "fight!"
He's still the same old fool.

    4. Lucy Whitaker.
    5. Annie Whitaker.

III. Nathaniel Jones died.

IV. Rufus Jones = Sarah Merritt and lives in Cary, N. C. They have 3 sons and 3 daughters.

V. Adolphus Jones = Frances Hooks and have 1 dau. They live in Cary, N. C.
MATTHEW JONES—SARAH KIMBROUGH (dau. of Nathaniel Kimbrough and Mary Alston), issue:

1. Nathaniel Jones m. —— Jones and Hon. James Kimbrough Jones, of Arkansas, was their son.
2. Kimbrough Jones married and had 1 son, Calvin.

These brothers removed from Tennessee to Dallas County, Arkansas.
4. Mary Jones m. —— Hancock.
5. Annie Jones, married —— Harper, of Memphis, Tenn.

All of the above family moved from North Carolina to Hardiman County, Tenn.

GASKIA JONES—WILLIAM BARBEE; 4 daughters:

1. Delia Barbee m. Dr. Cave.
2. Emily Barbee m. Early Nunn.
3. Margaret Barbee m. James Hargraves.
4. Caroline Barbee m. —— Patterson.
KIMBROUGH.

All who bear this name in America are claimed to be of one family, and of Scotch descent. While there is no record to show when they came and where they first settled, we find them in North Carolina in 1742, and there is reason to believe that the family accompanied Governor Gabriel Johnson when he came over in 1734, first landing in New Hanover county, thence passing northward to where we find them near the head-waters of the Neuse and Cape Fear rivers.

The first mention we have of the name is Buckley Kimbrough, Dec. 19th, 1736, in Edgecomb county, in the will of Philip Mulkey.

Among the children are:
Nathaniel Kimbrough, of Wake, who died 1781 (q.v.).
Major John Kimbrough, who was member of the Assembly from Guilford in 1773, and died 1796. He removed to Great Pedee, S. C., just before or during the Revolution. He married Hannah Kolb, and they had an only dau., Elisabeth, who married Col. Lemuel Benton, and their dau., Gilly Hinton Benton, married Isaiah Dubose. (Bishop Greggs' old Cheraws.)
Frances Kimbrough = Col. Samuel Benton, of Oxford, Granville county (q.v.).
Grizel Kimbrough = Col. John Hinton, of Wake county (q.v.).
Elisabeth Kimbrough = Col. Thomas Loyd. They removed to South Carolina before the Revolution, and had an only dau., who m. Wilson and d. leaving no children.
Ann Kimbrough = 1st, William Alston.
2d, Jeconias Yancey (q.v.).
Besides the above there were others which we cannot locate, not being able to obtain the original family record. Among them we find a dau. of Nathaniel Kimbrough had also married a Kimbrough prior to 1780, whose first name we have not.

William Kimbrough bought land from Earl Granville in 1762, and his name is also upon the Revolutionary pay-roll, but we can find no family records on file.

Thomas and Elisha Kimbrough also appear upon the Revolutionary pay-roll, but we cannot locate them.

Leanah and Tabitha, also upon the pay-roll, were doubtless widows or orphans who drew the pay and signed the roll.

Marmaduke Kimbrough obtained a patent for land in 1742, upon Enoh and Little rivers.

Thus we find Kimbrough had at least five of the name in the Revolutionary army in North Carolina.

William Kimbrough.

The following is obtained from Mr. W. N. Kimbrough, a very old man living in Hills Dale, Guilford county, N. C.:

William Kimbrough had 3 sons, viz.: William, James and John. William settled in the eastern part of the State. James went to Giles county, Tenn. John settled in Caswell county, and married Miss Turner, in Hillsboro. His son John married a Miss Miles and had 11 children; of these John, the second son, died in Alabama, and the widow, with one dau. and three sons, came to Guilford, and the dau. married Martin Miles. One of the boys was named John Kimbrough.

Marquis de Lafayette and Bob Carter went to Ohio.

My oldest sister, Jane, m James Kimbrough and lived in Giles county, Tenn. They had 16 or 18 children, and after their death the children went to Texas.
THE KIMBROUGH FAMILY.

MARMADUKE KIMBROUGH.

We have not been able to trace the descendants of him, but among the records of deeds in Anson county, in 1796, are the following from James Pickett to Marmaduke Kimbrough, John, Nathaniel and James Kimbrough, in which he refers to them as brothers, and mentions Ann Kimbrough as a friend. These 4 may have been sons of Marmaduke Kimbrough, Sr.

His will is recorded in Wake County, from which we make the following abstract:
1st. To my loving wife, Mary, during her natural life or widowhood.
5. My son John Kimbrough.
6. My son James Kimbrough (he afterwards married Margaret (Peggy) dau. of Nathaniel and Ann (Snickers) Jones (q. v.).
   Dau. Gilly, (Grizel married in 1782 to Nathaniel, son of Nathaniel and Ann (Snickers) Jones. (q. v.).
   Dau. Penny.
Sons John and James.
Daughters Polly and Sally.
Executors:
   My brother John Kimbrough, my son John,

Signed and sealed 12th July A. D., 1781.

Mary (Polly) Kimbrough, in above will, married John Martin, founder of the school at Wake Forest. Their dau. Ann Martin—Willis Somerville, were the parents of wife of James K. Jones, Senator from Arkansas, and Sarah (Sally) Kimbrough—Matthew Jones, (brother of Nathaniel who married her sister) and their son Nathaniel was the father of Hon. James K. Jones.

Sally Kimbrough married January 31st, 1797, and d. 1808, and Matthew Jones died 1843.

Frances Kimbrough = Col. Samuel Benton, of Granville county.

Samuel Benton was a very prominent man and appointed, together with Solomon Alston, Jr., justices of the peace for Granville by Gov. Tryon.

His seat of 1,000 acres was called "Oxford" where the town of Oxford now stands. We are not informed as to his ancestry or where or when he married Frances Kimbrough.

His will was probated April court, 1770.

John Kimbrough—Widow (Amy) Pickett, whose maiden name was Alston (most probably Fanny Foster, dau. of Henry Alston (son of Solomon), Jr., and his wife, Sarah, dau. of Thomas Hill of Halifax). They had 2 sons, viz.:

(1) John Alston Kimbrough—Ellen Dumas of North Carolina.
(2) Henry T. Kimbrough, of whom there is no further record.

John Alston Kimbrough married near Grassy Island, on Pedee river, in Anson County, and, together with his brother and parents, came to Alabama about 1832 and settled near Hampden, in Marengo County. His father died there about 1839, aged 70 years, and his mother about 1835, aged 60 years. They had 6 sons, viz.:

(1) Francis Henry, b. 1830, m. 1854 to Rebecca Gratville, and had 6 sons (q. v.). He was in the Confederate army, and wounded at Murfreesboro January 1st, 1863. Also served in the State Legislature in 1884–5.
(2) Julius A. was killed at Sharpsburg.
(3) C. C. Kimbrough died 1864, on the Nashville & Franklin trip.
(4) W. A. Kimbrough lives at Pine Hill.
(5) F. F. Kimbrough lives at Arlington.
(6) John Alston Kimbrough, Jr., died in 1845.
Francis Henry Kimbrough—Rebecca Gratville. Issue:
1. John Alston Kimbrough died. He had a daughter, Mary Alston Kimbrough, who also died.
2. Dr. W. L. Kimbrough lives at Linden, Ala.
3. Dr. F. G. Kimbrough lives at Salado, Texas.
4. Dr. Thomas G. Kimbough, Coatopa, Sumter County, Ala.
5. C. C. Kimbrough, attorney at St. Stephens.

The above notes of John Kimbrough's family were furnished by Mr. F. H. Kimbrough.

William Alston lived and died in Edgecombe, now Halifax, county. He served at one time as Justice of the Peace. He married Ann Kimbrough about 1735, and died about 1743. Their children were:

2. Elizabeth = Thomas Crawford of Great Pedee. After the death of William Alston, his widow m Jeconias Yancey of Halifax, and bore him 5 daughters, viz.:

   3. Frances = Francis Jones.

   4. Grizel (Gilly) = James Alston.

   5. Sarah = Samuel Yeargan.

On account of frequent intermarriages, the families of Kimbrough, Yancey, Jones and Hinton are mentioned:

1. Benjamin Hardee m. Mary Alston about 1754. They must have lived in Wake, as he represented that county together with Thomas Hines in 1773 in the General Assembly. He died in May, 1775, and his will is recorded in Book No. 1, p. 75. We only have record of their having one daughter, Martha, who married Lt. Col. Wm. Alston of Shocco Creek, and left large family (q. v.). After the death of Benjamin Hardee, his widow married Major Thomas Hines, who had represented the county in the General Assembly in 1773 in connection with him, and who had been sheriff of the county in 1774. But there was no issue by this marriage.

2. It is not certainly known when Elisabeth Alston
John Crawford was born at Kilbirnie, in Ayrshire Scotland, in 1600. His son David was born in 1625. Together they came to Virginia in 1648. Of David's children the second was Judith and not Lucy.

2 Robert Cornelius Robson.
8 John Robson, married Thomas Howard, of Atlanta.
4 Annie Robson married Jehnnie Howard, a son of Thomas (above). Their son Walter Howard (late) was a prominent newspaper man of Atlanta and New York.
married Thomas Crawford, but it was after 1756, as her grandfather in his will of that date mentions her as Elisabeth Alston.

(Of the family of Thomas Crawford we give the following sketch, furnished by Mr. E. A. Crawford, of Midway, Fla.)

John Crawford was born in Lanarkshire, Scotland, in 1600, and came to this country in 1643, bringing his only child David, born in 1625, with him; the wife and mother having died in Old Scotia. They settled in James City Co., Va. John was killed during Bacon’s Rebellion in 1676, of which he was one of the organizers. We do not know the name of David’s wife, nor the date of his marriage. But the Church and County Records of New Kent Co., Va., show that his children were:

- Elisabeth = Nicholas Meriwether.
- Lucy = Lewis.
- Angelina = McGuire.
- Captain David, born 1662 = Elisabeth Smith in 1684 and died in Sept. 1762.
- John, who died Dec. 13th, 1689.

Captain David’s children were:
- David = Ann Anderson.
- Elisabeth = James Martin.
- John = Mary Duke.
- Mary = John Rhodes.
- Judith = Joseph Terry.

Michael, born in 1707, came South when quite a young man, married we do not know whom, and settled on the Great Pepee, in South Carolina. The only child of whom we have any record was Thomas, who moved back to Virginia and settled in Brunswick Co., where he married and where some of his children were born. He removed later to the neighborhood of Raleigh and afterwards to Halifax, and thence about 1794 to Georgia, Greene Co., where he raised a large family of children.

The following sketch of his descent was made by Miss Martha Alston, of Monroe Co., Georgia, in 1836:

1. Hardee. 2. Thomas—Martha Banks (dau. of James Banks, Sr.,) and Charity (Alston) dau. of James Alston and Gilly (Yancey) (q. v.).

5. William — has a son Hardee, and a dau. Mrs. Merritt, and a dau. Mrs. Owen, lived near McDonough, Henry Co.

6. Elisabeth — and had 2 sons.

7. Gilly = 1st — Hawkins and had 3 sons. = 2d — Boone and had 1 son, Dr. John Boone, of Columbus, Ga., and 3 daughters, viz.: Mrs. Guffington, of LaGrange, Ga.; Mrs. Robson, of Madison, and 1 unmarried, living near Madison, Ga.

8. David — Fanny, sister of William Harris Crawford. Note. (and are the parents of Dr. John Lovick Crawford, the present Secretary of State of Florida.)

9. Nancy = Bennett Crawford, a brother of Wm. H., and after her death he =

10. Martha, her sister.

11. Sarah = Boone, lives in Lee Co., and has a large family.

The children of (2) Thomas Crawford and Martha Banks, his wife were:

Elisabeth — — Reese, of Madison, Ga., who had 1 son, Augustus Reese, and 7 daughters, 2 of whom married Dr. Stovall, of Greene Co., and 1 married Foster, and lived in Bibb Co., Ga.

During the Confederate War, 1860–1865, the members of this Crawford family were all loyal and brave Confederates, serving in various capacities from colonel to private; and for generations past have figured conspicuously in the political arena, furnishing a full quota of officers, County, State and United States, among them Cabinet officers, United States Senators, Members of Congress, Governors and Supreme Court Judges.

YANCEY.

The precise date of the marriage of Ann Alston, née Kimbrough, with Jeconias Yancy is not known, but must have been about 1748–9. Before giving their children's descent, we will make a brief notice of the Yancey family, taken from a letter addressed to Asbury Dickens, March 22nd, 1853, and written by Major Charles Yancey of Buckingham County, Va., in the eighty-fourth year of his age, and was obtained from Francis Asbury Dickens, son of Asbury Dickens, living at Ossian Hall, near Alexandria, Va.: "Three brothers, viz.: Lewis, Richard and Henry, came to this country, and, as an intelligent uncle of Charles Yancey informs me, from England, but W. L. Yancey believes they came from Wales. Lewis Davis Yancey m. and settled in Louisa County. I descended from his stock, and my sister Miller and myself heired the place (400 acres) on which he lived and died. Henry m. and settled in Culpepper County. Richard went to North Carolina and settled in that State, and all the Yanceys of the two Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama, yourself among them, are descended from Richard Yancey, and my belief is that my father and your mother's father were first cousins. My father was a talented man, an Episcopal priest ordained by the Bishop of Canterbury about 1764, and next day preached to the royal family. He was the first divine to preach universal redemption on this continent."

3 Frances Yancey—Francis Jones, son of Frank Jones and Betsy Ridley his wife (q. v.) for issue.

4 Grizel (Gilly) Yancey, b. April 11th, 1752—James Alston, of Neuse River, N. C., in 1774, and after her marriage lived in Orange County until after the Revolution. For further history see James Alston.

5 Sarah Yancey—Samuel Yeargan of Roanoke River, N. C. They had an only daughter, Sarah, who m. Thomas Alston, the son of William Alston and Martha (Hardee), his wife. They had no issue. This Samuel Yeargan was probably the son of Samuel Yeargan, Sr., and had a sister, Sarah Yeargan, who m. Wm Alston, son of Joseph John Alston, the elder.

6 Priscilla Yancey—William Hurt of Halifax, N. C. Her descendants in 1824 were in Georgia.

I. Henry Hurt, a widower, with 7 children.
II. Joel Hurt was quite wealthy, having married an heiress, and had a large family.
III. Elisabeth married Samuel Reed. She died in 1832 (at Monticello, Ga.), leaving 5 children, one of whom, Elizabeth Yancey, married Jordan of Monticello. Another married a distant relative, Charles Hurt, of Putnam County, Ga., and resides near Eatonton.
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

7 ELISABETH YANCEY — REV. JOHN DICKENS of England, and of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore.

Of their descendants living in 1868, there was Miss Eloisa Baker of Baltimore, and the children and gr.-children of their eldest child, Asbury Dickens. Mrs. Elisabeth Dickens' home in Baltimore was the resting place of the venerable Bishop Asbury. Her son, Asbury Dickens, was secretary of the U. S. Senate for twenty years. During the whole period he drew nothing of the salary due him for services. In July, 1861, he was removed by the Republicans and denied all compensation. He died in October of the same year.

He left 4 sons and 4 daughters. Three of the sons married and had families. James died in 1865, leaving a widow and 3 children, all young. Thomas was in delicate health and had a wife and large family of small children. He was a clerk in his father's office, and was turned out the day after his father. He removed with his family to California, and resided at San Francisco. One of the daughters married Commodore MacCauley, U. S. Navy.

Edward, the youngest son, never married.

Francis Asbury Dickens married Miss M. Randolph of Virginia, in 1839, and resided upon his farm at Ossian Hall, in Fairfax County, near Alexandria, Va. In 1868 he had five children and one gr.-child living. His eldest son Frank was at the North Carolina Military Institute when the war broke out, went with General Hill to Bethel, and served through the whole war in the Virginia Cavalry. He sent his two daughters South in October, 1861, and they did not return home until 1865. One of them married Henry T. Wright in 1866, and resides in Goochland, on James river.

Being an old man he attempted to remain at home, but was imprisoned and persecuted, and after being 13-times a prisoner or under arrest, and in various prisons, in 1863 he made his escape and went South.

HINTON.

In Vol. I. of Colonial Reports of North Carolina, page 39, we find reference to William Hinton with others from Barbadoes making exploration of the coast of North Carolina and mentioning the Albemarle section. This was in August, 1660, and although we cannot determine his settlement there or trace his descent, we find in 1730 in Chowan (now Gates), Col. John Hinton, a man of prominence, wealth and widely-spread connection with many of the most influential families in the colony. The following abstract from his will is made.

1st. Well beloved son Hardy Hinton.
These sons not yet 18 years of age.

His children in order, viz.: Ann Alston, Mary, Judah, Rachel, Rose, Sarah, Charity, Hardy, John, William and Malachia Hinton.

His well beloved wife, Mary, and well beloved son Hardy Hinton and trusty and well beloved brother, William Hinton, executors, and brother William Hinton to be overseer and trustee for his 4 sons above mentioned.

Witnesses, James Hinton, Joseph Ashley, Thomas Rountree.

Probated 25th April, 1732.

After the death of John Hinton, his widow, Mary, married, in 1732, to Thomas Holliday.

His daughter Ann, had (previous to 1730) married Solomon Alston, Sr. Sarah subsequently married Benjamin Blanchard, and John married Grizel Kimbrough (sister of Nathaniel). He settled on Neuse River, about 5 miles from Raleigh, where he patented several thousand acres of land. He was a member of Provincial Congress at Hillsboro, Aug. 1775. In May, 1771, he commanded a detachment from Wake under Gov. Tryon against the Regulators. In October, 1773, he was appointed Colonel of militia for Wake, and his son, John Hinton, Jr., appointed Major of the same. Was appointed Col. of North Carolina militia Sept. 9, 1775, and John Hinton, Jr., Major of North Carolina militia at same date. Col. John Hinton was on Committee of Safety for Hillsboro district in Sept. 1775, and a member of the Provincial Congress of North Carolina at Halifax, in April, 1776. He d. 1784 in Wake county; his children were:

I. Major John Hinton—Pherebee Smith, of Smithfield, N. C.

II. James Hinton—Delilah Hunter.

IV. Mary—Col. Joel Lane, of Broombury.

V. Alice—John James.

VI. Elisabeth—Thomas James.

VII. Kimbrough Hinton.

VIII. David Hinton—Jane Lewis.

His numerous descendants continue to hold rank with the prominent and influential citizens of the State and deserve a separate and extended notice.
Copy of Phillip Alston's Will.

In the name of God, amen. I, Phillip Alston, of Warren county, in the State of North Carolina, being weak in body but in perfect sound mind and memory, praise be given therefor to Almighty God, do make and ordain this, my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say, first and principally I commend my soul into the hands of Almighty God, hoping through the merits, Death and Passion of my Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ to have full and free pardon of all my sins and to inherit Everlasting Life, and my body I recommend to the earth, to be buried at the discretion of my Executors herein after named; and as touching the disposal of all such Temporal Estate as it has pleased God to bestow upon me, I give and dispose thereof as follows:

Item. I give unto my son, William Alston, all the negroes and other things that I have already possessed him with, to him and his heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give unto my son, Thomas W. Alston, all the negroes and other things that I have already possessed him with, to him, his heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give unto my daughter, Elizabeth Williams, all the negroes and other things that I have already possessed her with, to her and her heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give unto my son, Phillip G. Alston, part of a tract of land I purchased of William Alston, known by the name of Ralls’ place, beginning on Blanchett’s Branch where a small Branch empties into it, then up the small Branch to Blanchett's Branch near the mill path; also one other tract of land beginning on the Maple swamp at the mouth of Buck Branch, then up the Buck Branch to the head, then with my son Tommey's line to Ginney's Branch, then down Ginney's Branch to where it empties into the Maple, then down said Maple swamp to the beginning; also two mares, one got by old Barneysides and the other a small bay, and also all the negroes, and other things that I have already possessed him with, to him and his heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give unto my daughter, Winifred Cocke, all the negroes, and other things that I have already presented her with, to her heirs and assigns forever.

Item. I give unto my beloved wife, Winifred Alston, eight negroes, to-wit: Tom, David, Old Perry, Lucy, Phillis, Squire, Perry and Easter; and one-half of my household and kitchen furniture, fifteen head of cattle, one horse by the name of Osborne; two mares, one a bay and the other a sorrel with a blaze in her face, and five sows and pigs, during her natural life, and after her decease to be equally divided between my son William Alston, my son Thomas W. Alston, my son Phillip G. Alston, my daughter Winifred Cocke, or to their heirs and assigns.

Item. I give unto my son, Samuel Alston, all the remainder part of my estate, excepting what I have before given, both real and personal, to him, his heirs and assigns forever, and my desire is that my executors do with my son Samuel's part of my estate as they think will be most to the interest thereof until he comes of age.

Lastly. I constitute and appoint my son William Alston, my son Thomas W. Alston, and my son Phillip
G. Alston, Executors of this my last will and testament, and I do hereby revoke and make void all former wills and testaments by me heretofore made.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this Eleventh day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three.

Phillip Alston (Seal).

The following, with a few corrections, is a copy of a letter written some years since by the late Dr. Solomon G. Ward, Warrenton, N. C.

Editor Marshall Messenger:

I have read the communication submitted to me by you, and at your request will endeavor to correct the discrepancies published in relation to the genealogy and conduct of the Alston family. Having been the physician in the Alston family for nearly half a century; a kinsman and the husband of Mary Clark Alston, of Wake Forest, North Carolina, of whom "Viator," in the Galveston Daily News, says: "She was highly accomplished; a perfect blonde, of commanding beauty, and famous throughout the State."
The Alstons came from England; as I have indubitable proof from wills, portraits, and heir-looms still in the family. William, Thomas and Samuel were brothers, and settled in Bute, now Warren county, and Willis in Halifax before the Revolution. They had cousins who went to South Carolina.

The descendants of the above named, Thomas and Samuel, settled on the lands in Wake Co., North Carolina, which had been owned by the father of Thomas Hart Benton. —— Willis, Sr., was member of the Congress at Halifax Town, 1776, and was appointed colonel in the Continental army in April, and was re-elected in November, 1776, to form the Constitution of North Carolina. All the family were patriotic, and amongst the first to declare for independence.

Colonel Philip, another descendant from the Halifax stock, settled on Hickory Mountain, in Chatham Co., and was equally patriotic; for which cause he was captured by David Fanning, a loyal and bold Tory, and delivered to the Royal Governor, Martin, at Wilmington.

The aid and comfort afforded to Generals Marion and Greene by the Alstons in South Carolina are historical facts. Two of that family descent, Joseph and Robert, were governors of that State. The first named married Aaron Burr's daughter, Theodosia, who was lost at sea; and Col. William Alston, of Charleston, married a daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Motte, who cheerfully permitted Generals Marion and Lee to burn her palatial mansion with arrows, to capture the British commander in Fort Motte.

Washington Allston, poet, artist, and painter, removed to Massachusetts, and one of her towns bears his name.

Capt. John Alson, of Halifax, oldest brother of Willis, Sr., married a daughter of Gideon Macon, and the sister of Hon. Nathaniel Macon, of Warren Co., to whom was born the Hon. Willis Alston, Jr., who was a member of the Legislature for six years, and of Congress from 1803 to 1831, and Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means during the War of 1812.

His brothers were Joseph, Gideon and Robert. The last named was the father of Willis, Augustus and Gideon, of Georgia. He married Henrietta Green, of Warren Co., a sister of Solomon Green, one of the adopters of the Constitution of the United States, and of John C. Green, a colonel in the War of 1812. She was a lady of superior endowments of mind and person, and nearly every year visited her kin in North Carolina in a coach and four. The Hon. M. W. Ransom, of the United States Senate, and Maj. Gen. Robert Ransom, of the Confederate Army, were her nephews, and likewise was Gen. Thos. J. Green, one of the heroes of Texas independence and of the Mier expedition into Mexico.

Robert lived in Sparta, Ga., in regal splendor, and their children were educated at the first colleges. Gideon was accidentally killed. Augustus was one of the finest specimens of a gentleman in mind, manners and person I ever saw, and but for his sympathies, and devotion to his friends, his duels with Brown, of Georgia, and Reed, of Florida, would never have been fought. Willis was excitable and ungovernable when he conceived himself or his friends injured. A half century has elapsed since, and their conduct should not be judged by the present standard of morals, as duelling then was encouraged and practiced by the first men in and out of Congress. Willis married a Methodist minister's daughter, Miss Howard, celebrated for her beauty and accomplishments, who inculcated her religious principles in the heart of her son, Robert A. Alston, which governed his actions throughout life. He kept a diary of his conduct, and the occurrences of each day, and when he was captured with Gen. Morgan's cavalry, to which he belonged, this journal inspired his captors with so much sympathy and respect for his character, that he was soon released and amply provided for. He was a genius, noble, brave and handsome, and indefatigable in all that he undertook.

I have been long and intimately acquainted with the Alston family—save with the oldest ones, and can conscientiously affirm that I never knew so large and distinguished a family as theirs, more practical, more refined, civil and generous. They were provident; rich, without ostentation; devotedly clannish to each other, and liberal to their friends and neighbors. By marriage they became associated with very many of the most intelligent and influential families throughout the Southern States, to wit: Thomas Hart Benton, Jefferson Davis, Col. William Polk, President Polk, Major Gen. Leonidas Polk, Geo. E. Badger, Stephen and Sherwood Haygood, Louis D. Henry, Gens. Blount and Branch, Williams, Dickens, Benton, Hawkins, Greens, Somervilles, Seawells, McLemores, J. G. Harris, Dukes, Jones, of Warren and Wake counties; Raynors, Cannons, Barringers, Eatons, and last, but not least, the late Col. R. D. Ward, of your city, whose genius and energy organized and started the first railroad to the Pacific, and was its first president.

Hundreds of other families might be mentioned; amongst them were four United States senators, five governors, eight members of the House of Representatives, and several judges.

15 Major Alfred Alston = Mary Plummer.
Alfred Alston was educated at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va. He was inclined to be wild when he first grew up. Too honest for a gambler, he lost heavily at cards. After being most unmercifully swindled by an unscrupulous and professed gambler (a citizen of Warrenton, N. C.), he entirely reformed, settled down to a noble and energetic life and soon regained what he had lost, being the possessor of a large share of this world's goods. He and his lovely wife dispensed a wide and generous hospitality at their beautiful home, a few miles from Warrenton. They were both earnest Christians, members of the Episcopal Church. He was looked up to as a model for sound judgment and high moral character, and his services as guardian for orphans was much sought after. Among the number whom he served in this capacity were Havana Lenoir and Gideon Branch Alston, his cousins. The former afterwards became the wife of the Rev. Charles Marshall Cook, and mother of Hon. Charles A. Cook of Warrenton, North Carolina. Their children were:

JAMES ANDREW CRAWFORD, JR., b. July 4th, 1839, and m. April 1st, 1869, to MARY V. WEEMS.

Amanda Louisa Terrell’s 2d husband, to whom she was married on Feb. 20th, 1844, was JOHN HICKMAN RANSDELL, an influential and wealthy sugar planter of Rapides. He died Nov. 27th, 1869. She bore him nine children.

II. Martha Louisa Ransdell, b. Sept. 14th, 1846;
Maj. Tactus Gaillard Calvit, a graduate of the University of Virginia, in Surgery and Physics, was a wealthy sugar planter, well and widely known throughout his parish, not only for his fine personal appearance and dignified gentlemanly deportment, but for his mental attainments. He entered the Confederate service as Captain of an independent company of volunteers, Co. C. Miles’ Legion, serving with zeal and ability during the engagements both in Louisiana and Mississippi.

After the fall of Port Hudson Capt. Calvit was appointed on Green’s staff ranking as Major and filling the position of scout with signal success in the Fordoche and Morgarza skirmishes, upon one occasion capturing and securing a string of wagons and mules. His residence on the Atchafalaya river opposite Point Coupee, was robbed and burned. The family driven away by the too frequent bursting of shells, took refuge in a vacant house situated in the edge of the swamp. Following this move a raid was made of Federal cavalry, from the river to Washington, St. Landry Parish. Learning where Major Calvit was to be found, a stop was ordered; the troops entered the dwelling, demanded of Mrs. Calvit the whereabouts of her husband, and with loud and insulting language, pillaged the place of valuables, and tho’ they were told, (seeing for themselves) that two of the children were in a dying condition, they shouted, cursed and slung their sashes about regardless of the broken-hearted mother, or the startled suffering children. (Two died a day later.) At the first intimation of the troops, aware of the fate awaiting him if captured, Major Calvit concealed himself in a heavy growth of vines just behind the house.

The crop of cotton and sugar, molasses, stock, everything was swept away by the relentless hand of war.

Afterward my husband, and father Genl. Montford Wells, were arrested and conveyed to New Orleans to be tried for insults offered a Col. Frisbee, Major Calvit meeting Col. Frisbee in the old Ice House, Alexandria, shot at him, but without fatal results. The command under which my husband served during the early part of the war, happened to be stationed in New Orleans when Genl. Banks made that city his headquarters. Every soldier endeavored to get beyond the limits of the city.
My husband was recovering from a severe illness, too weak to walk far, he gave up all hope of escape, until persuaded by Col. John E. King to make the effort—venturing as far as his weak limbs permitted, he stopped, pleading with his companions to leave him and save themselves. Col. King was very short and stout—he turned to Major Calvit remarking, "I can take you on my back as far as we intend to go, try me," and so they started, succeeding in reaching a place of safety.

Genl. Montford Wells (my father) was a wealthy sugar and cotton planter—highly educated—one of four brothers—all distinguished for intellect and culture, pronounced the Chesterfields of Louisiana. Genl. Wells and Col. T. J. Wells were the owners of many of the celebrated racing horses of ante-bellum days. Both held positions of trust and honor during early and middle life. The title of General was acquired in the militia organizations and conferred by the Governor. The oldest of the four brothers, Samuel L. Wells, and Thomas Jeff-ferson Wells, were participants in the noted Sand Bar duel. The youngest of the four brothers, James Madison Wells, was Governor of Louisiana 1865-6 and is the father of Mary Elisabeth, who married Terrell Burges.
Lovatt's wife was my sister. My eldest sister Martha Lucy Wells, married Dr. Edward Lewis Skillman, only son of Ann (Stirling) Skillman.

S. L. Wells, Sr., was a civil engineer of government appointment and the first man to survey the wild lands of middle Louisiana. He was associated with General Daniel Clark, father of Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines. He had six sisters, all of whom married prominent men. And his father served in the Continental army.

64 Samuel Alston Fitts—Sarah Elisabeth Alston, dau. of Col. William Williams Alston—Mary Haywood Burges. They were both born in North Carolina, their parents coming to Alabama while they were quite young. Soon after their marriage, on the 29th of Nov. 1838, he settled in Marengo county, not far from Uniontown; where they raised their family, and where they both died. In his life and character he was a remarkable man, exhibiting to a marked degree the strictest integrity, fidelity to every trust, consistency as a Christian, and sincerity as a friend, winning the love and esteem of all who knew him. He was a successful farmer, and such was his skill in managing his affairs, that he accumulated a large estate for his family. They had 11 children, viz.:

I. Mary Elisabeth Fitts, b. Feb. 28, 1840; Faunsdale, Ala.
IV. James Oliver Fitts, b. Dec. 19, 1846; d. Feb. 25, 1892.

65 Elisabeth Faulcon Fitts was born at St. Stephens, Ala., January 23, 1821, and educated at Tuscaloosa, where she now resides. She was married to Sewall Jones Leach, Oct. 10, 1839. He died Aug. 6, 1885.

Sewall Jones Leach was born Nov. 28, 1812, in the city of New York and was the oldest son of Ephraim Leach—Sophia Jones. His educational advantages were very limited, yet such was his energy and aptitude for learning, that at the age of 18, he had prepared himself as a teacher and successfully conducted a school in the State of New York. At an early age he exhibited two predominant characteristics,—love of mechanics and music. Having selected the profession of dentistry he located in Mobile Ala., in 1837 and in 1838 he removed to Tuscaloosa. After his marriage he lived in Uniontown, Ala., for awhile, but subsequently returned to Tuscaloosa, where he was engaged in several mechanical and industrial enterprises. He was universally beloved and honored by all who knew him. Of his children

Caroline Medora Fitts—Col. Josiah James Pegues, Tuscaloosa. Col. Pegues was born in South Carolina July 19, 1825, and came with his parents to Alabama in his infancy. By occupation he was a farmer and cultivated lands both in Marengo and Dallas counties. At the outbreak of the war he joined the "Warrior Guards," the first company that left Tuscaloosa, and as a private in the ranks participated in the first battle of Manassas. He continued in the Confederate service during the four years of the war and at the close of hostilities, acted as an escort, with his regiment, to President Davis, on his retreat from Richmond, as far as Greensboro, N. C., being at that time the Lt. Col. of the 2d Alabama Cavalry Regt. At the close of the war he accepted the office of sheriff, when the position was one of grave responsibility and great danger, and by his energy, coolness and courage, soon subdued the lawless and restored order. In March 1882 he was appointed clerk of the Circuit Court of Tuscaloosa county by the Governor of the State, and in 1886 elected to the same office by the people. The following extract from Major Alston's obituary is given:

Major Robert W. Alston.

"At his home in Warren county, N. C., April 29th, 1901, there passed from the sorrows and troubles of this world to a life of joy and peace above, Major Robert W. Alston in the 64th year of his life. He was one of God's noblest creations, a man of whom naught but good could be said. His life as a boy was all a fond father and mother could wish. As a young man, he was noble, true and brave. As an older man he was all of these combined.

"In 1862, he raised Company K, 12th North Carolina Regiment, and as Captain led the Franklin and Warren boys in many a hard fought battle. He led his men, never saying go, but always follow me, boys. At the death of the Major of the regiment, he was promoted to Major. Like his noble leader, Stonewall Jackson, Major Alston knew no such thing as fear. He led his regiment in perhaps a hundred battles. He was wounded sixteen times, one ball striking him in the mouth taking out all the teeth on one side; and another in the shoulder, causing the partial loss of the use of his right arm the balance of his life, and many other wounds that would have killed most men. He had three horses killed under him, captured two soon after, and rode one of them home, which he kept for many years after the war. His men loved him, and would have followed him into the very cannon’s mouth.

"'Twas in the day of greatest need,
He came the South’s brave sons to lead
On fields of battle gory.
His lofty courage did inspire
The boys in gray with souls on fire,
To fight for home and glory."

"His old comrades will shed bitter tears of grief at his leaving them. His life since the war has been as pure and as simple as our Savior has laid down, when he said: ‘Love thy neighbor as thyself,’ for if ever a man lived that way, Major Alston did."
James Alston settled in Craven county, at or near New Berne, where he married Christian Lillington, daughter of George and Hannah Lillington. The date of this marriage is not known, but it was after 1741, and on the 7th of May, 1745, he purchased an island called Troy, on Bennett's creek, near his father, and in 1747 he sold 640 acres of land near New Berne, which George Lillington bequeathed to his daughter Christian, now the wife of James Alston. He also witnessed the signing of the will of Samuel Williams in 1751. He is next mentioned as being appointed on the Commission of Peace and Dedimus, as Justice for Chowan county, Dec. 5th, 1757. After his father's death, which occurred in 1758, he removed from Chowan to Orange county, where he died on Elebye creek, in 1761. His father, in his will in 1758, made him sole executor. The following were his children:

1. John Alston—wife not known. (q. v.).
   II. Mary, died prior to 1764.

2. III. James Alston—Grizel (Gilly) Yancey. (q. v.).

IV. Charity—Lieutenant Colonel William Alston. (q. v.). (Son of Solomon Alston, Sr.—Nancy Hinton.)

3. V. Sarah—1st Sir Thomas Dudley. (q. v.).
   =2d William Cain. (q. v.).

The belief is prevalent among his descendants that the-above mentioned George Lillington was a colonel in the British army, and came to Carolina from Barbadoes, but the proof is wanting. The first mention we find of him and his father, Edward, in the Colonial Reports, is about 1724. The following abstracts are here annexed with the will of George Lillington, and a sketch of the family In the Colonial Records the name is variously given as Lillington, Lunninton, and Linnington or Linnington.

Edward Lillington died on the Neuse river, in Craven county, in 1736. His devisees were: George Lillington, Christian Malone, Mary Sherlock, Edward Lillington, and grandson, Francis Sherlock. His executors were: Edward Moseley, Captain Joseph Hannis, and son-in-law, Dennis Sherlock.

George Lillington, son of the above Edward, lived on the Neuse river, in Craven county; was appointed Justice of the Peace in 1739, and died in January, 1741. From his will we learn that he was twice married. By his first wife (name unknown) he had 2 daughters, Ann Hutchinson Lillington and Elisabeth Lillington; and by his second wife (Hannah) also 2, viz.: Christian and Mary Elisabeth Lillington, not yet 17 years old. This Christian Lillington married James Alston a few years afterwards, and survived her husband.

LILLINGTON.

The following sketch of this family is taken from letters written by Mr. George W. Kirke of New York, who has repeatedly visited the manorial seat in England, and was well informed of their history:

"Lillington was an ancient and honorable family in Warwickshire, England. The manorial home was at Lillington, a rural hamlet near Leamington, Spa., where a church was erected, and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalen, in 1190. It was served by the Seculars of Kenilworth Priory (four miles off) until the religious houses were suppressed by Henry VIII. Near by is Leicester Hospital, founded in 1571 by Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, previously a monastic house, and confiscated by Henry VIII.

There have been successive generations of clergymen in the Lillington family, and Wadham College, Oxford, has been the family channel of education. These held as a living St. Mary's Church, and also Leicester Hospital." This church, somewhat remodeled, is still standing and known as Lillington Church. Three brothers of this family came to Massachusetts in early colonial days and were men of enterprise and means, and went from thence to the island of Barbadoes. They purchased land near Philadelphia, and later sold it to Mr. Parmer, who called it Kensington, which is now a part of the city of Philadelphia; also Treaty Island, in the Delaware river just above Philadelphia. They also went to the North Carolina colony. George was in Barbadoes in 1685. George Lillington, Esq., was President of the Council in 1709 as governor and commander in chief of Barbadoes. He subsequently returned to England.”

From the Genealogical Register of Massachusetts, vol. 30, page 235, is obtained the following:

“I, Alexander Lillington, of Albemarle county, in the province of Carolina, planter, and now present in Salem, in New England, being the husband of Sara James, the daughter of Thomas James, dec’d, etc. This deed was signed and sealed 3d August, 1675. Essex Co. Deeds, B–4, p. 379.”

From the North Carolina Register of Genealogy it is ascertained that Alex. Lillington was born 1643, so he must have been about 25 when he immigrated to Carolina. His subsequent visit to Salem, Mass., in 1775, may have been to dispose of property inherited by his wife from her father, who had recently died in the province of Carolina. His will, dated September 9th, 1697, gives his wife’s name as Ann, who unquestionably is the widow who died Jan’y, 1724, leaving a dau., Elizabeth Lillington; a grandson, John Simons, and was not the mother of Alexander Lillington’s children, but a widow with a family of her own, at time of her marriage to him, and her widow’s name or maiden name are unknown. Her grandson, John Simons, was appointed justice of the peace for Craven county, in 1739. Her daughter, Elizabeth Lillington, was the widow of William Barrow (whose will was dated January 8th, 1715; proved April 27th, 1717) before she married Lillington. In her will, proved Dec., 1741, she enumerates her children by name of Barrow, but none of Lillington. There was Sam Lillington in Albermarle in 1702, and William Lillington, of Bath, in 1701, as well as Edward Lillington, all of whom were doubtless of the same family.
as Major Alexander. There was also an Eleazer Lillington, juryman in 1723 in New Hanover county. These several parties may have come from Barbadoes subsequently to Major Alex. and been sons of George or the 3d brother mentioned by Mr. Kirke. Records are wanting and there is no proof. Major Alexander Lillington died in Perquimans. On the 3d Dec, 1679, he, together with George Durant, Ralph Fletcher and Caleb Calloway were appointed associate justices for holding court. He was judge of Precinct Court 1690, and deputy governor of North Carolina, appointed 1693. His will enumerates sons John and George, wife Ann, dau. Anne, Elisabeth, Mary and Sarah.

1. JOHN LILLINGTON=SARAH PORTER. He was vestryman of St. Paul's Parish, Edenton, from 1705 to 1715, when he became custodian of goods for Bath precinct, Pamlico Sound, where he died in 1723. He left issue: General Alexander Lillington and daughters, Elisabeth, Sarah and Anne. His executors were his wife Sarah, Maurice Moore, John Porter and John Baptista Ashe. His widow afterwards married — Pilkington.

2. GEORGE LILLINGTON died 1706, aged 13 years, and his tomb is to be seen in the graveyard at Edenton, North Carolina.

3. ANNE, his oldest dau., born 1677, married HENDERSON WALKER, Esq., President of the Council and commander-in-chief of North Carolina. He died 1704. His widow subsequently married EDWARD MOSELEY, Esq. She died 1732 and is also buried at Edenton.

4. ELISABETH, his 2d dau., was born 1679. She married JOHN FENDALL, who died Dec., 1695, without issue. She then married May, 1698, to HON. SAMUEL SWANN, who died 1707, leaving issue. She subsequently married, about 1712, Maurice Moore, who survived her and afterwards married Miss Porter.

5. Mary, the 3d daughter. We are not informed as to whom she married.

6. Sarah, the 4th daughter, married John Porter, brother of John Lillington's wife.

WARHAM GLENN,
JAMES BOYD,
THOMAS HINES.

Proved in Court by Thomas Hines second Tuesday in May 1761.

Test: JAMES WATSON, C. C.
1  John Alston, the oldest child of Jas. Alston and Christian (Lillington), we find living in Wake county, in 1774, and disposing of property in New Berne and Craven county. He died in 1814 in Orange county, where his will was probated. It has not been ascertained whom he married, but more than probably he married twice. By reference to his will and that of his 4th son, Lemuel, we gather the following as his children:

II. George L. Alston. Nothing known.
III. Philip Alston. Nothing known.
IV. Lemuel Alston. d. s. p. 1818.
V. Alfred Alston. Nothing known.
VI. Mary K. (Polly) m. Robert Scott.
VII. Martha (Patsy.)
VIII. Sarah (Sallie) — Mathew Picket.
IX. James Alston, m. and had a son, Lemuel.
X. Absalom Alston, m. and had a son, Calvin J., who had a son, J. W. Alston in Texas.
XI. Christian Charity = Solomon Jones, (son of James Jones = Charity Alston, dau. of Solomon Alston = Nancy Hinton.) (q. v.)

It is very much regretted that no regular history of this large family has been obtained.

The above is probably the John T. Alston mentioned in N. C. Colonial Reports, Vol. X, p. 615. 1776.

2  James Alston, the second son of James Alston and Christian (Lillington) his wife, was born most probably in Chowan county, near his grandfather; about 1746–1748. After his grandfather died in 1758, his father removed with his family (date not known) to Orange county.
Here he married Grizel (Gilly) Yancey, and lived until soon after the Revolutionary war, when he removed with his family to Elbert county, Ga., together with his cousin Lieut.
Col. William Alston, who had married his sister Charity; and settled near each other on the Savannah river and Beaver Dam creek, where they both died at an advanced age—William in 1810, and James in 1815. In the same section and nearly about the same time, the family of Ralph Banks, who was a near relative, settled. (This family has been noticed elsewhere). Sometime after the death of James Alston, his widow removed to Monroe county, Ga., and settled about two miles from Culloden, where she died, Nov. 8th, 1845. From their settling in Monroe county, this family has been sometimes alluded to as "the Monroe Alstons." Mrs. James Alston, in her character and widely spread influence, was a most remarkable woman. I will insert an obituary notice, written soon after her death, also a little sketch of her family, as there have been several intermarriages with the families of Alston and Yancey. (See line of William Alston—Ann Kimbrough.)

Mrs. Gilly (Yancey) Alston.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

Died on the 8th of Nov. 1845, near Culloden, Ga., Mrs.
Gilly Alston, relict of Mr. James Alston, in the 94th year of her age. She became religious in early life in North Carolina, and was some of the first fruits of the Methodist ministry in that State. She and her husband cast their lots with them at a church twenty miles distant, but shortly afterwards their house became a place for preaching, and a society was formed there. When they removed to Georgia, they brought their religion with them, and were among the first Methodists in Elbert county. The venerable Bishop Asbury, in traveling through the South, used to find a home in their hospitable dwelling. About thirty years ago did this venerable matron become a widow, but Providence seems to have kindly alleviated her bereavement by the assiduity and warm affection of a maiden daughter, who took upon herself all the burdens and cares of the household, and was a truly excellent nurse.

Her last affliction was of seven weeks' duration and extremely painful, yet she bore it with fortitude, and died as she had lived—a Christian. Some of her last stammering accents were uttered in a soliloquy which bespoke the triumph of her faith. Just before her departure she said: "O, the joy, the glory, the richness of the inheritance of the saints!" She has gone to join the companion of her youth, and some of her children and grand children at God's right hand; and leaving behind her upwards of a hundred of her descendants, down to the fourth generation, most of whom that are come to years of maturity, are members of the Methodist church, and are trying to follow the footsteps of this veteran of the Cross. "Verily, the generation of the upright shall be blessed."

Her daughter, Mrs. Banks, of Alabama, was permitted to visit her in her last illness, and remained with her until she died. This visit she esteemed as a boon of kind Providence toward her in her last affliction.

John Joseph Groves.

The following incident of James Alston occurred during the Revolution. At the time he was an officer in the militia, and in an engagement with the Tories, was captured, together with the horse he was riding, which was a fine animal. Being fond of horses, he had taught this one, which was a favorite with him, a number of pranks. Among which was, "by placing his hand upon a certain part of the horse he would limp very badly; then by changing the hand and placing it elsewhere, he would instantly spring to the utmost and run at the top of his speed." After having been captured, as above stated, he was tried by court-martial and sentenced to be shot sitting upon his horse, being required to ride a certain distance to a designated spot to be executed. As he was riding the distance he made the horse limp most wretchedly, and upon reaching the place, he changed his hand, when suddenly he sprang as for life, and ran at the top of his speed, with his would-be executioners in pursuit. The race was lively, but his horse saved him.

He was educated by that celebrated teacher, Dr. Moses Waddell, in South Carolina; came with his father to St. Stephens, where he taught school and studied law. In 1821 he began to practice in Linden, Marengo Co., and became Judge of the County Court. He died 1876.
The following taken from "Public Men of Alabama," will not be inappropriate.

William Jeffreys Alston first appeared in the Legislature of Alabama as a representative from Marengo County in 1837. In 1839 he was elected to the Senate, and after serving his term of three years, he retired until 1849, when he was elected representative to Congress over his able competitor, Calvin C. Sellars, of Wilcox. After his term in Congress expired, he was again elected to public life and still resides in Marengo, highly respected by all parties. While he figured in the political arena he displayed great activity and zeal as a Whig, before that party was absorbed by another organization in 1855, when he was again elected to the State Legislature. He was a gentleman of fine talents and culture, of engaging address and pleasant delivery in debate. No man had stronger convictions in the line of duty and none was more courteous in discussion. The same measure of respect which he required from others, he cheerfully accorded to his opponents on all occasions.

He was 4 times married.

17 MARY GREY—DR. JAMES KENT.

The following sketch has been furnished us.

DR. JAMES KENT was born in Petersburg, Va., Jan. 8, 1830, graduated at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., at the age of eighteen. At twenty-one he graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and moved to Linden, Ala. He there married and afterwards settled in Selma, where he practiced his profession for twenty years. When the Civil War broke out he was captain of the "Independent Blues," of Selma. His company was ordered by Gov. Moore to Fort Morgan, Jany., 1861, entered the Confederate service May 28, 1861, and was assigned to the 8th Alabama Regt. This company was the first in the State to volunteer for the war, that is, as long as it should last. Before this time the companies had volunteered for one year. In 1862 he was elected colonel of the "44th Regiment," which was assigned to "Law's Brigade," "Longstreet's Corps, Army of Northern Virginia." Though devoted to the cause, he was forced to resign on account of ill health, and returned to Alabama. He served as surgeon when "Wilson's Division" raided Selma, April 2, 1865. About 1876, on account of failing health, he retired from the practice of his profession to his plantation near Birmingham, Jefferson County, Ala. In 1880 he represented that county in the legislature, and died in 1881. They had but 2 daughters.

I. MARY ROSALINE KENT, b. March 1, 1856; m. Sept. 8, 1875, to EDWARD TAYLOR FOWLKES. He was a descendant of the Taylor-Wooten-Bass and Jennings families of Virginia. Served in the Civil War at the age of 15 and died June 3d, 1886.

Issue, Grace Byrd, b. Aug. 17, 1876; died young.

II. MATTIE BYRD KENT, b. Oct. 8, 1858; d. Nov. 2, 1886; m. April 14, 1880, to BENJAMIN HARRISON WILKINS, a lineal descendant of Benjamin Harrison, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Issue, Mary Grey Wilkins, b. Jany. 17, 1881.

VIII. Sylvanus Nathaniel Joshua Groves, b. 1822. Died in early manhood.

23 Rev. John Joseph Groves, together with his brother James went to Franklin College, Ga., and afterwards to Columbia, S. C., where they graduated in the same class and then qualified themselves to practice law.

The following obituary is taken from the Wesleyan Christian Advocate:

Groves.—Rev. John Joseph Groves was born in Abbeville District, S. C., April 4th, 1800, and born again at Abbeville Court House in the law office of Noble & Wardlaw, July 20th, 1820.

He sought the Lord deliberately and earnestly in the room when a law student, and was blessed with a bright, clear, and unmistakable change of heart, with the "joy unspeakable and full of glory."

He practiced law in Monroe, Walton county, Ga., and Elbert county, from 1822 to 1831, was leader of the first class formed in Monroe, and continued in that office to the end of his life. Was licensed to preach 1829, and taught school for many years in Middle and Southern Georgia and Alabama.

Before leaving home on a visit to his son, at whose house he died, he spoke to his pastor of a presentiment that "his end was nigh," but said he, "I have set my house in order." Few men ever reach to within twenty days of their eighty-sixth birthday in every way so well preserved. Time and care and trouble did not rob him of his natural force, his unfailing cheerfulness, kindliness and buoyancy of spirits. With the exception of his devoted and cherished wife, (whose rare excellencies made her a fit companion for such an husband) I suppose that no one of his contemporaries remain.

In his later years, when shut out from regular secular pursuits, he received a cordial welcome to the home of his son-in-law, John Harris, Esq., and his only daughter, whose delight was to comfort and cheer the declining years of her venerable parents. Here brother Groves exhibited a trait which strikingly marked his character as a Christian worker. He would eat no idle bread. If he could not find one thing that would serve the needs and comfort of his family, he would seek another. His whole life showed that he was busy about his Master's business. To every good work he desired, he would, if possible, in some way lend a helping hand. To this he was moved not simply by conscience, but by love to God and love to man. He recognized the fact that if there was one body, there are many members and that all the members have not the same office, "of one spirit a diversity of gifts."

Although a licensed preacher and ordained elder for fifty-sixty years, most of his work was done well, and cheerfully done out of the pulpit, not that he refused to occupy the sacred desk, when circumstances required, but he did regard not this relationship as an exemption from any kind of work which his hands found to do. He illustrated that a local preacher could, in his place, perform the functions of a pastor without the slightest obtrusiveness or infringement of the prerogatives of the one officially in charge—that there are gleanings in every harvest-field, rich and remunerative to all "who have a mind to work." He manifested a zeal and consecration for the prosperity of Zion not a whit behind that of the best pastors I have met. Wherever duty or probable usefulness called, he was to be found. Who ever knew him, when able, absent from the house of God, as a devout worshiper, an encouraging, eloquent hearer, from the class or prayer-meeting, from the chamber of sickness, or presence of affliction, what widow or fatherless one complained of his neglect?

I venture that none along the line of his long journey through life, will say to him, I was hungry and you fed me not, I was naked and you clothed me not, sick and in prison and you visited me not, except when inability prevented. As nearly as any man I have known, "he did what he could," and surely none would have rejoiced more in removing the last vestige of suffering from the face of the earth. Frequently, at camp and other large religious meetings there is a surplus of preachers, and occasionally I have met with those who if not demanded for the pulpit, seem to find nothing to do—not so with our honored brother. If he found no "altar work," he could find groups on the grounds or in the congregation or in the front of the tents, or isolated individuals, to whom he could commend his Master. "Instant in season, out of season, always abounding in the work of the Lord." Affable, kind, courteous in manner, tasting deeply "of the good word of the Lord and the powers of the world to come," he consecrated all his gifts and graces to "wooing men to heaven and led the way." Such a life cannot be studied without profit, such an example cannot be emulated without usefulness.

W. R. BRANHAM.

He died in 1885 at Browns, Ala., and was buried at Covington, Ga., the sun being in partial eclipse at the time of the burial service. He was married in 1825 at Asbury Hulls, Athens, Ga., to MARY LOUISA HARVIE, (born 1807 and died 1888) (dau. of William Harvie and Judith Cosby, his wife, both from Virginia. He, a private soldier in the Revolution, and son of John Harvie, Sr., of Scotland and Martha Gaines, his wife, and she descended from Charles Cosby and Elizabeth Sydnor, both of Virginia.)

ceived injuries from which he afterwards died. The extract from his obituary will serve to illustrate his character. He married in 1840, Rebecca Jane, dau. of Caleb and Jane (Manson) Norwood, who bore him 5 children, and is still living.

Children of Caleb Norwood—Jane Manson:

William Anderson Norwood, Culloden, Ga.
Polly Ann Echols, Columbus, Neb.
Oscar Alexander Norwood, Navasota, Tex.
Rebecca Jane Alston, Barbour county, Ala.
Thomas Manson Norwood (ex-U. S. senator), Savannah, Ga.
Elisabeth Askins, Culloden, Ga.

"Died on the 9th of June, near Culloden, James A. Alston, aged 38 years and 6 months. The M. E. Church has sustained a serious loss in the removal of our deceased brother. He was emphatically a strong member, and this was manifested in his uniform meekness, his proverbial humility and in his daily endeavors to exemplify in a corresponding course of action the blessed doctrines and principles of Bible Methodism. He loved our Church and was always ready when called upon to furnish pecuniary aid up to the measure of his ability. His charity descended in liberal relief upon the objects of distress whenever he found them."

Their children were:

39 SUSAN EANES ALSTON, was the daughter of JOHN ALSTON by his second wife, MISS McGINTY. She married ALPHEUS M. CHADWICK, and lives at Kenton, Tenn. They have five children, viz.:

2. Frank Lee.
3. Charles Jesse.
4. James Alston. { Twins.
5. Mattie Alice. }

7 JOHN OLIVER GLOVER married ELISABETH YANCEY ALSTON in Marengo county, Ala., Wednesday, Sept. 6, 1815. Mr. Glover died there, Oct. 18, 1843. Mrs. Glover died in Holmes county, Miss., May 8, 1851. Children who lived to maturity:
I. Mary married Dr. Hobson, of Greensboro, Ala. I think moved to Mississippi, from there to Hot Springs, Ark., where they both died, leaving several children, of whose fate I am ignorant, except one, Dr. John Hobson, who at his death was a very prominent physician of Hot Springs. He left one daughter, Mary, who I presume is still there, think married, however. Mrs. Hobson was considered one of the most beautiful women in three States, and was so up to her death.

II. Gilly married twice, first Mr. Jackson, a planter; died early; no children. Second time, Capt. Floyd, of Monroe, La., who died during the Confederate War, his wife having died a few years before. He left two children, Rosa, married Mr. Dinkgrave, of Monroe, La., both dead; leaving three children, Ethel, and two boys, just grown. Floyd is the elder; they live in St. Louis, Mo. Aunt Gilly’s second daughter, Willie, has never married, she lives at Stonewall, Miss., one of the queenliest looking women I ever knew.

III. Carrie Olivia, born April 27, 1827, in Marengo county, Ala.; married A. M. West, in Marengo county, Ala., August 7, 1845, T. C. Lowery, being the minister. General A. M. West was from Perry county, Ala. He moved to Mississippi and located in Holmes county; after the war between the States he moved to Oxford, Miss.; in 1870 he moved to Holly Springs, Miss., where he died in 1893, three years after his wife. His life was full of usefulness and activity, three times member of the Mississippi Legislature; nominated for governor twice; elected to the United States Senate, but was refused his seat by carpet-baggers, it being during the Reconstruction period; organized the first regiment in this State for war in 1860, in which he was Adjutant-General, then Commissary-General; was President of the Illinois Central Railroad for a number of years, resigned because he thought his State needed him in other work; was nominated for Vice-President on the Greenback ticket in 1875. He was a very staunch Whig, although he was one of the electors in the Tilden campaign, and it was largely due to his influence that the State went Democratic. He wouldn't accept a single office from that party, saying always, "I'm no Democrat." He amassed quite a large fortune, but poor investments left him at death a poor man. The old family homestead at Holly Springs, still in the family, is one of the handsomest in the State. His wife was a most brilliant woman, and was recognized as such by all who knew her. The children are as follows:

1. Alston Madden West, born March 5th,
1849, in Holmes county, at West-Home; graduated at University of Mississippi with honors, member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity; from there he went to the University of Virginia, where he again finished with honors; he then attended the University of Pennsylvania, finishing in medicine, and also carrying off the honors; is now a practicing physician in Memphis, Tenn., address 110 St. Paul street, Memphis, Tenn. Married the daughter of Judge Jere Clapp, of Memphis, who was a member of the Confederate Congress, and since the war has been prominent in legal circles. Dr. West’s wife’s maiden name was Eva Walton Clapp, married Dec. 5, 1877. Have 3 children, viz.:

1. Evelyn Lucas, just grown.
2. Alston Madden, who bids fair to be a successful writer.
3. Jere Clapp, yet a school boy.

2. Celia Olivia West, married Capt. William Thaddeus McCarty, in Oxford, Miss., Oct. 22, 1867; moved to Kansas where they still reside. Mr. McCarty is a lawyer, served through the war on Gen. Lee’s staff; is a Virginian, born at Richmond. The children are as follows:

4. Carrie Hannah, b. at Emporia, Kan., in March, 1876.
5. Eva Clapp, b. at Emporia, Kan., in May, 1878.

All reside in Emporia, Kansas.

3. FREDERICK EDGAR WEST, born in Holmes county, Miss., at West-Home, Nov. 1850; married ROSA DONNELLY LEFLORE, at Grenada, Miss., 1880. His wife is descended from Count Louis DeLefleur, who led the French in the French and Indian war; fell in love with an Indian princess of the Choctaw tribe, married her, and afterwards became chief himself. At his death, Greenwood Lefleur, his son, became chief (Mrs. West's grandfather). His controversy with President Jackson over the Indian reservation has become historical. His home, Malmaison, is one of the historical landmarks of Mississippi. It stands as in ante-bellum days, undisturbed by war; he was not a citizen of the United States, so he was undisturbed by either side. Col. Jack Leflore (her father) not caring to move to the Indian Territory became a citizen of the United States, and died a few years ago on his plantation,
"Ivors," adjoining his father's. Mr.
West is a graduate of the University of Mississippi, D. K. E. fraternity, winner of first medal in oratory, anniversarian, twice member of State Senate. He is considered one of the most scientific planters in the State. He has five children, as follows:

1. Fannie Newman, born in Holly
Springs, March, 1881.
2. Louie LeFlore, born in Holly Springs,
October, 1883.
3. Carrie Glover, born April, 1887, in Durant, Miss.
4. Frederick Edgar, born March, 1892, in Durant, Miss.
5. Rosa LeFlore, born July, 1897, in Durant, Miss.

Their present address is Durant, Holmes county, Mississippi.

4. Benjamin Glover West, born in Holmes county, Miss., at West-Home, Nov., 1855; marmariied Mary Brodie Crump, at Holly Springs, 1882. Mrs. West's father was Major Brodie Strachan Crump, born in Spottsylvania county, Va., 1833; moved to Mississippi, and was educated at the University of Mississippi, member of D. K. E. fraternity, studied civil engineering, but the Confederate War broke out and he went to the front; at the close was a major on Chalmer's staff. He then became a merchant and banker in Holly
Springs, dying there in 1878 of yellow fever, a victim to loyalty to friends. He was descended from the Hulls, Maury and Herndon of Virginia. Mr. West was educated at the Kentucky Military Institute; has been a prominent Populist and president of several farmers' alliances; ran for Congress last year, and is now a broker in Memphis. His address is 109 Polk St., Memphis, Tenn. Has 5 children:
2. Benjamin Glover, born April, 1888, in Holmes county, at Greylands.
3. Mary Brodie, born April, 1893, at Memphis.
5. Louise Kenner, born April, 1899, at Memphis.

5. Carrie Minerva West, born at West Home in Holmes county, 1858; married Lemuel Augustus Smith, at Holly Springs, Miss., November 1877. Mr. Smith died the next year in the epidemic of yellow fever. He was a druggist, and felt it his duty to remain. Mr. Smith was a member of a prominent Tennessee family, his father a planter and commission merchant of Memphis, his uncle Chief Justice of Tennessee, Nicholas Smith. Mr. Smith himself was only twenty-two at his death. Mrs. Smith graduated at the M. C. I. of Tennessee, as valedictorian; she has been State Superintendent of the
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

Flower Mission Department of the W. C. T. U.; for years had charge of the Children’s Department of the Christian Advocate, Memphis; has been connected as teacher with some of the most prominent schools of the State, is now teacher of English in Woman’s College, Oxford, Miss. She has one child.

LEMUEL AUGUSTUS WEST SMITH, born in Holly Springs, Nov. 19, 1878; graduated at University of Mississippi, B.A., D. K. E. fraternity; U. M. A. A.; licentiate instructor in Latin and Greek; associate editor Record; associate editor of Ole Miss; tutor in French at University of Mississippi; and is now studying law.

6. CHARLES FLOYD WEST, born at West-Home, in Durant, Holmes county, Miss., 1859; married LAUREA CARSON, at Durant, 1894. Mrs. West’s father graduated from the University of Mississippi with honors, was a member of S. A. E. fraternity, died in Holmes county, in 1897. Mr West is a planter, the most beloved of the children—friends in all classes. They have two children.

1. Sidney Yancey, born June, 1895, at Durant, Miss.

2. Floyd Elizabeth, born 1897, at Durant, Miss.

7. SIDNEY YANCEY WEST, born Sept., 1863; died early, just twenty-three; was engaged to L. Q. C. Lamar’s youngest daughter. He was the most talented member of the family, making the highest grade ever made in the university up to that time; was a D. K. E., and a born orator.

IV. ELIZABETH JOHN HANNAH GLOVER married W. L. BYRD, in Holmes county, October, 1849. Mr. Byrd was a merchant; died just before the war, in 1860, leaving two children, viz.:

1. GRACE, born February, 1854; married CAPT. STAFFORD, proprietor of Stafford’s Well; her address is Stafford’s Mineral Springs, Vossburge, Miss., via Meridian.

2. JESSIE, born February 9, 1858, at Goodman, Miss.; married E. A. HAMBLIN, 1878. He was a lawyer and died a few years ago, leaving three children, namely:

   1. Nellie Byrd, married Dr. J. L. Harbour, 1899; born Nov. 19, 1879.
   2. Emma Elizabeth, born February 22d, 1882.
   3. Mary Grace, born March, 1886. Their address is Vossburg, Miss.

V. SARAH ALSTON GLOVER, b. Oct. 8th, 1836, in Marengo county, Ala.; married Oct., 1856, in Holmes county, Miss., to MAJOR JOSEPH MOFIELD ROBERTS, b. April 24th, 1819, in Hancock county, Ga. Major Roberts fought in the Seminole war; and in the Confederate war served as captain of Commissary Department in Lowery’s Mississippi regiment. His widow survives him, and lives at Biloxi. They had 4 children, viz.:

43 (1) Pauline Glover, b. May 20th, 1865 — R. L. Prophit, Monroe, La.; issue (q. v.).

44 (2) Patrick Henry, b. May 10th, 1867 — Maggie Champlin, Biloxi, Miss.; issue (q. v.).

  1. Lyman.  2. Floyd.  3. Paul.

They live in Biloxi, Miss.

The above notes of the family descent of Elisabeth Alston and John O. Glover were furnished principally by Lemuel Augustus West Smith.

3 Sarah Alston married, 1st, Thomas Dudley; issue (q. v.). 2d, William Cain; issue (q. v.).

Sir Thomas Dudley came from England to America about the beginning of hostilities that culminated in the Revolution, first landing in Virginia, and from thence went to North Carolina where he married and enlisted in the cause of the Colonists.

The following is copied from "Heitman's Historical Register" of officers of the Continental army, 1775–1783:

"Thomas Dudley, musician 6th North Carolina in 1776.
Ensign 10th N. C., 1778; lieutenant 20th June, 1779; wounded at Eutaw Springs 8th Sept., 1781; retired 1st January, 1783." The regiment was commanded by Col. Abraham Shepherd 17th April, 1777. It is not known when he died, but family tradition states that he was drowned in attempting to cross a river with his command.

For services rendered by him a land-warrant was issued to his assignee or executor, Amos Johnson, Esq.

He was very decided in his hostility to English rule, and his estates in England were accordingly confiscated. His wife Sarah bore him one son and three daughters, viz.:

1. John Alston Dudley, who married Mary, daughter of Cornelius and Elisabeth (Pickett) Robinson, and had issue (q. v.).
2. One dau. married Collier.
3. One dau. married Lewis.
4. One dau. married Moore.

Of these there is no farther record.

The following account of the Robinson family will be of interest to many: Cornelius Robinson, a man of wealth in Anson county, North Carolina, married Elisabeth, daughter of James Pickett, Sr. In 1797 he devised land to James Kimbrough, son of John Kimbrough. William Pickett, of Anson, was delegate to the Provisional Congress at Hillboro, 20th Aug. 1775; was captain in 1st regiment of North Carolina Continentals, commanded by James Moore; was also member of House of Commons, 1777. There was a James Pickett, sheriff of Anson county prior to 1795, and member of the Legislature 1791–4–5; and there was a James Pickett, Jr. In 1795 James Pickett conveyed property to Joseph, Martin and Wm. R., sons, and to Frankey Hanes Pickett, daughter. In Sept. 5th, 1796, James Pickett devised negroes to brothers Marmaduke, John, Nathaniel, and James Kimbrough, also to Ann Kimbrough. After this the name of James Pickett disappears from the county records. Joseph Pickett died April, 1825. Martin Pickett died Oct., 1834. Flora Pickett died April, 1835. William R. Pickett became sheriff, and in 1818 removed to Alabama and settled in Autauga county. His son Albert James, born 1810, was the historian of Alabama, and married Mary Harris, granddaughter of Col. Philip Alston, of Moore county.

Probated at the February court, 1754 (1754) of Edgecombe County upn the probate of Honorable Matthew Rowan, President and Commander in Chief in and over His Majesties' Province of North Carolina.

And there is a deed from Hardy Hinton to the said Samuel Williams recorded in Edgecomb County dated in May, 1744.

In the North Carolina Historical and Genealogical Register, No 1, page 84, is found the following abstract of a will now on file in the office of the Secretary of State at Raleigh.
"William Williams. Dec. 9, 1704; wife Mary, sole executrix, sons, Samuel, John and Stephen, each of my daughters."

The tradition is universally prevalent among his descendants, that the first American ancestor was William Williams and came from Wales, and there is a strong probability that this William Williams came to the colony at the same time with John Alston, and that it was his son Samuel, quite young at the time of his father's death, who subsequently married Elisabeth, daughter of John Alston, not in 1715 as has been claimed, but more probably about 1725--28.

William, Lewis, Mary, Janet, Anne, and six left families, viz.:

I. Col. Thos. Whitmel, b. 1713; m. Mary Blount; 2d Elisabeth West.

II. Elisabeth, b. 1717; m. 1st George Pollock, son of Gov. Thomas Pollock in 1734, but after living with him one month she returned to her father's house. No issue came of this marriage and Pollock died Feb. 24, 1736. On the 27th Oct. 1736, she married Captain Thomas Blount, by whom she had 2 children, a daughter Winifred who m. Whitmel Hill (a cousin), and a son Whitmel Blount.

Capt. Thomas Blount d. Sept 1st 1745, and on Oct. 2, 1746, she was married at her father's house by Needham Bryan to Col. William Williams to whom she bore 3 children, (q. v.).
III. Sarah—Henry Hunter, and had issue.
IV. Winifred—Philip Alston, and had issue, (q. v.).

This most excellent matron, now living at Warrenton, has quite a collection of old family portraits and other souvenirs of the past. Among them is the military hat worn by Gen'l Santa Anna during the Mexican war; also the scarlet cap and cloak of Padre Jarauta (a Roman Catholic Cardinal). This Padre was a guerilla chief, who upon being pursued by the U. S. soldiers, cast away his cap and cloak, which rendered him very conspicuous, so as to facilitate his escape. These were taken by Col. Polk, who was in pursuit at the time, and brought home as a trophy of the war, together with Santa Anna's hat.

k THOMAS KEARNEY—SARAH ALSTON.
It is not known when these parties were married, although it was most probably not later than 1730–2. Nor is it known when he came to the colony, or whether he came alone or with others of the name. We find at Hampton, in 1713, a merchant named Edmond Kearney, contributing to the relief and maintenance of a clergyman in Albemarle county, and whose brother, Micheal Kearney, had obtained a patent for 640 acres of land at Cassia in 1717. Thomas Kearney naming his eldest son Edmond would seem to indicate that there might be a near connection between them. Family tradition states that he was a younger son of an Irish earl, educated for the ministry, and was an Episcopal clergyman. Of this we are lacking in positive proof. The family have their coat of arms. The first public record we have of Thomas Kearney was as grand juror in Chowan, April 1st, 1731, at the same time with Henry Guston. In June, 1739, he was appointed Justice of the Peace for his county, and then made Sheriff, at the same time with John Dawson. In April, 1745, he obtained a patent for land in Edgecombe. In April, 1752, he was member of the Assembly and appointed on a committee to examine and settle public accounts, John Dawson being on the committee with him. In 1753, he witnessed the signing of the will of Samuel Williams, and March, 1764, appointed one of the executors of will of Charity Dawson, and in August, 1764, he died. Of their issue:

III. Elisabeth Matilda Alston Kearney, born Feb. 27th, 1815; died Nov. 6th, 1867; = John Somerville, and had 7 children.

The following remarks written after her death will serve to illustrate the character of this most estimable matron:

"The good and great in heart and mind, wherever born or bred, are the true nobility of our race."

The extraordinary position which Mrs. Somerville filled in the community in which she lived, claims for her a record to which few of her sex, in this or any other country, were ever entitled. Possessing in an eminent degree those qualities and virtues which have ever been the distinguishing characteristics in the nobility of woman, she had an influence in society, which was known and felt by all save herself. Indeed, one of her most remarkable traits was a modesty and humility that caused her to be always undervaluing herself, for, though her judgment was of the best, and she had good experience of persons and things, yet she seemed to know nothing of it, and like a fair taper, while she shined to all the room, she cast a shadow and a cloud round her own actions. But the perfectness of her prudence and excellent parts could not be hid, and all her humility and acts of concealment but served to make her virtues more amiable and illustrious.

One of Mrs. Somerville's school teachers in a letter of condolence to her daughters, after paying their deceased mother many high compliments, concluded by saying that she had known her as a child, as a school girl, when she had grown up to womanhood, that she had afterwards been with her in her own home, when she was wife, mother, and mistress, and that she had never known her to do an imprudent act, or be guilty of an impropriety. This amiability and respectability entitle her to rank first among the female worthies of this or any other country.

Her house was a school of Christian goodness in which piety, virtue, and all the liberal offices of hospitality were studied by every individual of the family. No wrangling or intemperate language was ever heard there, each performed his duty with cheerfulness and alacrity. In short, the discipline of the whole household was courtesy and benevolence.

Mrs. Somerville died leaving seven children, six daughters and one son, all grown. In the family circle they form a delight and an ornament, and by universal consent they have been assigned a position in society never perhaps rivaled as an example of domestic harmony and love.

Mrs. Somerville possessed a command over her passions and a constant sweetness and serenity of temper which neither age nor misfortune could ruffle or sour. Her face, her actions, her gait, seemed somewhat more than mortal. She was full of graces, nothing was so soft as her look, so modest as her carriage, so touching as the sound of her voice. An air of tenderness and of gaiety breathed around her, but so pure, and so happily tempered, as to inspire every beholder with the sentiments of virtue. She was as chaste as the spangled dewdrop of the morn. From all malice and personal prejudices she was entirely free, and on all occasions expressed an aversion to satire. Indeed, it is very much to be doubted whether the oldest and most intimate of her friends ever knew her to make an envious or ill-natured reflection on any person upon earth. Detraction seemed to her an inhuman vice for which no wit could atone. She delighted in the praise of others, and took pleasure in doing justice to merit. If compelled to reprove, gentleness and delicacy softened her reprehension. She never dictated to others, or arrogated to her own sentiments any deference or respect.

Mrs. Somerville was a managing woman; a managing woman is a pearl among women. She was one of the prizes in the lottery of life, and the man who draws such a woman may rejoice the balance of his days. Better than riches, she is a fortune in herself; a gold mine never failing in its yield, a spring of pleasant waters whose banks are fringed with moss and flowers when all around is dry and sterile sand.

But that which we wish to notice more particularly in Mrs. Somerville, and in which she was an example to all women, is this. She had a love so great for her husband, and was entirely given up to a dear affection for him that she thought the same thing, loved the same thing, breathed in his soul, lived in his presence, and languished in his absence. All that she was or did was for him and to make him happy. He was the light of her eyes and the cordial of her spirits; the guide of all her actions and the measure of her affections, until her love for him rose and grew into a religion, and was confederate with those other duties which made it dear to her Maker, a rare combination of duty and religion, and we will express in the words of Solomon, "She forsook not the guide of her youth nor broke the covenant of her God."

As she was a rare wife, so also was she an excellent mother, for her spirit was so tender, her kindness to her children so great, that there hath seldom been seen a stricter and more evident care of their persons, their deportment, their nature, their disposition, their learning, and their customs. She had little of the form and outside of godliness, but she was greatly careful of the power of it, the moral, essential, and useful parts. Such made her be, not seem to be, religious.

Mrs. Somerville's munificence was not confined to the place in which she lived, or to any sect or party. She was most noble and charitable, a great lover of honorable actions, and a great despiser of base things; loving to oblige others, and always unwilling to be in the arrear as regards courtesy and liberality; so free in all her acts of favor that she would never stay to hear herself thanked, being unwilling that what good went from her to a needful or obliged person, should ever return to her again.

She was a true friend, and dear to many, especially to the best and deserving persons, to all that conversed with her and could understand her great worth, and the sweetness of her disposition.

If we look on her as a wife, she was discreet, loving, humble, pleasant and compliant, and wanted nothing to make her principal and precedent to the best wives of the world.

If we regard her as a mother, she was kind, careful and prudent, very tender, a greater lover of children's souls than of their bodies, and one who would value them more by the strict rules of honor and worth, than by their relations to herself.

Her servants found her wise and fit to govern, yet open-handed and apt to reward; a just exactor of duty, and a great rewarer of diligence.

She was in her house a comfort to her husband, a guide to her children, a rule to her servants, and an example to all.

Here in addition to what we have already said of Mrs. Somerville's great qualities in discharging all the domestic and social relations of life, we must be permitted to introduce the description of the character of a perfect woman, as delineated by the great Chinese philosopher:

"Who is she that winneth the heart of man, that subdueth to love, and reigneth in his breast."

"Lo, yonder she walketh in maiden sweetness, with innocence in her mind and modesty on her cheek. Her hand seeketh employment, her foot delighteth not in gadding abroad. She is clothed with neatness, she is fed with temperance, humility and meekness are as a crown circling her head. On her tongue dwelleth music, the sweetness of honor flows from her lips. Decency is in all her words, in her answers are mildness and truth. Submission and obedience are the lessons of her life, and peace and happiness are her reward. Before her step walketh Prudence, and Virtue attendeth at her right hand. Her eyes speaketh softness and love, but Discretion with a scepter sitteth on her brow. The tongue of the licentious is dumb in her presence, the awe of her virtue keepeth him silent. When scandal is busy, and the fame of her neighbor is tossed from tongue to tongue, charity and good nature open not her mouth, the finger of silence resteth on her lips. Her breast is the mansion of goodness, and therefore she suspecteth no evil in others. Happy the man that shall make her his wife, happy the child that shall call her mother. She presideth in the house, and there is peace; she commandeth with judgment, and is obeyed. She ariseth in the morning, she considereth her affairs, and appointeth unto every one his proper business. The care of her family is her whole delight; to that alone she applieth her study, and elegance and frugality are seen in her mansion. The prudence of her management is honor to her husband, and he heareth her praise with secret delight. She informeth the minds of her children with wisdom, she fashioneth their manners after the example of her own goodness. The word of her mouth is the law of their youth. The motion of her eye commandeth obedience. She speaketh and her servants fly, she pointeth and the thing is done; for the law of love is in their hearts, and her kindness addeth wings to their feet. In prosperity she is not puffed up, in adversity she healeth the wounds of fortune with patience. The troubles of her husband are alleviated by her counsels, and sweetened by her endearments; he putteth his heart in her bosom and receiveth comfort."

All who were acquainted with Mrs. Somerville must see the exact similarity between her character and that of the Philosopher's Perfect Woman. Then may it well be said, "Happy the man who made her wife, happy the child who called her mother."

To a spotless soul like hers, death is nothing more than deliverance, a passing sigh, a passage from one life to another. Her soul has returned to its native heaven.

To retrace the melancholy remembrance of such a loss was a task so overwhelming, it was truly difficult to accomplish. The writer is conscious that he was not equal to the undertaking, but this short and simple sketch, he dedicates to Mrs. Somerville's posterity with the hope that whenever any of the family may look on these pages they may be proud of a mother of qualities so exalted that she was an honor to her children, to her sex, to her country, and to the community in which she lived.

From the Records of the Green Family of Warren County, N. C.

The ancestors of Edward Green removed from Culpepper county and settled in Brunswick county, Va. Edward married a Miss Hough. She died leaving him 10 children. He then married a widow Turner, who had 10 children by her former marriage. Her maiden name was Henrietta Powell. Of her marriage with Edward Green, one child, William Green, Sr., was born before they left Virginia, and he had neither brother nor sister. The family settled one and a half miles northeast of the town of Warrenton. Edward Green died most probably about 1780.

We have the following:

William Green, born Nov. 26, 1739; married Sept. 25, 1760, to Mary Christmas, born July 14, 1745. Issue:

2. Mary Green, b. June 8, 1763, m. Gideon Hunt Macon, 1779.
5. Betsy Green, b. May 26, 1769, d. unm.
8. Sally Green, b. Sept. 26, 1774, m. Hugh Johnson.
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

9. John C. Green, b. Oct. 22, 1777,
   m. 1st. Parthenia Hawkins.  }  Sisters.
   2d. Delia Martin Hawkins.  }
11. Henrietta Green, b. May 24, 1784, m.
    Robert West Alston.

After the death of his wife, William Green again married on the 7th of June, 1790, to Ann Hunt Alston, nee Macon, who also died in April, 1798. He then married the 3d time to Mary —— (a widow) who survived him and died Feb., 1825. William Green died 1799.

Will of Gideon Macon.

(A Copy.)

In the name of God, Amen. I, Gideon Macon, of county of Granville, and province of North Carolina, being sick and weak, but of a sound and disposing mind and memory, thanks be to Almighty God for the same. Calling to mind the uncertain time of certain death, Do make this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following: That is to say, First, I bequeath my soul to God that gave it, trusting in the Advocacy and Mediatorship of my ever blessed Lord and Savior Christ for remission of all my past offenses, and my body I commit to the earth, to be decently interred at the direction of my Exo’s, hereinafter mentioned. And as to such worldly estate which hath pleased Almighty God to bestow on me, I give and dispose thereof as follows, to wit:

Imprimis. I give and bequeath to my Son, Harrison Macon, four hundred acres of land, lying and being on the North side of Tarr River, to him and his heirs forever.
Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, John Macon, all that part of my tract of land lying and being on both sides of Shocko Creek, below the Court house road, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, Nathaniel Macon, all the remainder part of the above said tract of land, lying and being on both sides of Shocko Creek and above the said Court House road. I likewise give to my said son five hundred acres of land, lying and being on both sides of Hobquarter Creek. I likewise give to my said Son my black smith's tools at the decease of my loving Wife, Priscilla Macon, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, Gideon Macon, all my land and plantation whereon I now dwell, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. My Will and desire is that in case either of my above mentioned sons, Harrison, John, Nathaniel, or Gideon, should die without issue, lawfully begotten of their bodies, that then my desire is that the afore mentioned tract or tracts of land shall be equally divided between my said sons that shall be then living.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Anne Allstone, the four Negroes that she has already in her possession, to wit: Will, Randle, Joe, Amey, and Frederick that now sucks Aggy, to her and her heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Sallie Macon, the following Negroes, to wit: Will, Ben and Dinah, to her and her heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Martha Macon, the three following Negroes, to wit: Jacob, Jemmy, and Tabb, to her and her heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Mary Macon, three Negroes, to wit: Harry, Roben and Darcus, to her and her heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, Harrison Macon, two negro boys, to wit: Stephen and Terry, and one Negro Wench named Cate, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, John Macon, two Negro boys, named Peter and Gloster, and one Negro girl named Lydea, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Son, Nathaniel Macon, two Negro boys named George and Bobb, and one Negro girl named Lucy, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son, Gideon Macon, two Negro boys named Sam and Toney, and one Negro girl named Phebe, to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my loving Wife, Priscilla Macon, during her natural life, the use of my Mannor plantation, with the following Negroes, to wit: Tom, Mingo, Bell, Jenney, Patt, and Aggey, and after her decease, the sd. Negroes to be equally divided in quantity and quality between my seven youngest children.

Item. My Will and desire is that each of my said seven Children, as fast as they shall arrive at lawful age, that then they receive the one eighth part of all my stock and household furniture, of what nature or kind soever.

Item. My Will and desire is that my loving Wife shall have and receive the profits of each of my said Children's Legacies, until they arrive at lawful age, to receive them towards the support and Maintainance of my said Children.

Item. I constitute and appoint my loving Wife, Priscilla Macon, Executrix, and my Son in Law John Allston, with my friend William Johnson Exor., this my last will and testament.
In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this twentieth day of December, One thousand seven hundred and Sixty one. GIDEON MACON. (Seal.)

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the sd. Gideon Macon to be his last will and testament, in presence of us the subscribers.

Warrenton, N. C.
As there have been conflicting opinions arising from there being 3 persons of the name of John Dawson in the Albermarle country from 1740 to 1760, I make the following statements, furnished by Mr. J. R. B. Hathaway, and extracted from Wheeler’s Reminiscences, Moore’s History, McRae’s Life of Iredell, and Colonial Records and Wills:

   3. George Phenny.
   4. Gov. Gabriel Johnson, in 1740, to whom she bore one dau., Penelope, who was about 10 or 12 years old at her father’s death. Gov. Johnson in his administration had a private secretary, John Dawson (son of Commissary William Dawson, of Virginia, who died 1752, and his wife Mary Stith.)

In 1758 this John Dawson and Penelope Johnson were married. She bore him 1 son, William Johnson Dawson, who represented Bertie in the Legislature in 1791, and d. unm., 1796. He had 2 sisters, Penelope, who m. in 1786 to Tristram Lowther, and bore 1 son and 1 dau., and Mary, who m. Col. Nathaniel Allen, in 1779, (his 1st wft.), and died without offspring.

John Dawson himself died in 1770, and Penelope his wife died 1797 (?)

There was a land grant of 150 acres in Isle of Wight county, Va., to William Dawson, Nov. 20th 1635.
Wm. and M. Quar, Vol. VII, No. 4, p. 284.

Capt. Anthony Dawson appears in Perquimans precinct in 1687 and 1693–1694 as Gr. Juror, also as Assistant Justice.
Col. Rec., Vol. 1, p. 396.
(Thomas Dawson appears Nov. 20, 1711. Col. Rec., Vol. 1, p. 820.)

There was also a John Dawson who died in Edgecomb, and whose will was proved in Court May, 1749. He bequeaths to wife Mary, children, Martha, Patience, John, Demsy and Solomon. We have no other record of this John Dawson or his family than the above will.

Then there was Col. John Dawson, of Northampton county, who 1st married Mary Thomas, and after her death Charity Alston, of whom we will now make special mention.

Will of John Dawson, of Northampton Co., N. C., 1762.

In the name of God, Amen. I, John Dawson, of the County of Northampton, in the Province of North Carolina, am in perfect health, and in sound and disposing mind and memory, and calling to mind the uncertainty of this transitory life, am willing to make my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say 1st, I bequeath my soul to Almighty God that gave it me, and my body to be buried at the discretion of my Executors, and after my just debts are paid, I give and bequeath the rest of my estate as followeth, viz.:

Item. First and foremost my will and desire is that out of my store of goods and debts due to me, and what gold and silver I have by me, and my stock of cattle at Tar River, my wife's and my marriage contract may be made good, and the surplusage, if any, to be equally divided between my three small children, Charity Dawson, Elisabeth Dawson and John Dawson.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my son, Henry Dawson, the plantation whereon I now live, and the land adjoining bounded thus. Beginning at the centre of the Crooked Meadow at Alexander Stevenson's line that divides his land and mine, so along the said Crooked Meadow round Mrs. Samonie's, otherwise William Burns, till it comes to the line that crosses the said meadow over in the Neck, called Braswell's Neck, the said land and plantation for three hundred acres, be it more or less, to him and his heirs forever. Also give to my said son, Henry Dawson, my land and plantation I bought of Maurice Moore, as by his deed to me will appear. Also my Island plantation and the land thereto belonging, for six hundred and forty acres, as by the West's deeds to me, and their patent will appear.

Also one hundred acres of land in Bertie County, which I bought of John Wilson. All my land on Tar River, near Conetoe, it being in three parcels and in the whole about seven hundred (700) acres, as by patent and two deed will appear. All the above said lands I give to my son, Henry Dawson, to him and his heirs forever. Also I give to my son, Henry, my young horse called Exum, and Maurice Moore's debt to me by bond.

Item. I give unto my son, John Dawson, my plantation whereon I now live, with all the land on the plantation side of the Crooked Meadow (viz.) that I bought of John Revitt and Richard Braswell; also one hundred and forty acres on the north side Bridges Creek, joining Mr. George Pollock's land, as per Earl of Granville deed will appear, and my land on Urahaw Swamp, as by Matthew Williams' deed to me will appear, and my land on Potecasi Creek, as per patent. All and every part of the aforesaid lands and all the appurtenances and improvements of any kind to the same or to any part thereof anywise belonging to him, the said John Dawson, and his heirs forever. Also my will and desire is that my loving Wife, Charity Dawson, live on my manor plantation during her natural life and keep the house and other valuable improvements in reasonable repair. Also I give to my son John, my Clock and Chest upon a Chest with drawers, and two oval tables, and one Chamber table which stands in the Room, called the Green Room, and my Cargo Looking Glass, which stands in the Hall.

Item. I give all my right, title and interest to a girl called Dinah, she and her increase forever to my daughter, Elisabeth Dawson.

Item. I give to my loving Wife, Charity Dawson, the negro wench, called Fanny, which was given to her by her deceased father. My Will and desire is that my said Wife have a negro boy, named Rumford, if she will accept of him in lieu of a negro fellow called Peter, belonging to her Estate, which she joined in the sale for forty-five pounds Virginia money. If she will not accept of the said boy for that fellow, my further Will and desire is, the said boy be sold to make out the sum of forty-five pounds Virginia money, for which the said fellow was sold for.

Item. I give to my son, Henry Dawson, the following negroes: Tim, York, Glasgow, and Sam, at Island, and Mingo, Jacob, George, Jim, Phillis, the daughter of Leah, Young Larry and Ben, to him, the said Henry, and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath all the rest of my negroes and their future increase, to my three young children, Charity Dawson, Elizabeth Dawson and John Dawson, to them and their heirs forever, to be equally divided when the first of the three said children shall arrive to lawful age or be married, and the profits of their labor, if any, to be equally divided likewise.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Grand-daughters, Martha Kinchen, Elizabeth Kinchen, Mary Kinchen and Temperance Kinchen, Thirty pounds Virginia money each, to be paid out of my Estate, when they shall arrive at lawful age or be married.

Item. I give and bequeath to my two Grand-sons, John Kinchen and William Kinchen, Ten shillings Virginia money each.

Item. I give all the residue of my Estate, after the legacies are paid, and my Wife's contract is complied with, to my three children, Charity Dawson, Elisabeth Dawson and John Dawson, to them and their heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath unto my loving Wife, Charity Dawson, my riding chair and harness, and also do nominate and appoint my said loving wife, Charity Dawson, Executrix of this my will, and this I own to be my last will and testament, revoking and disallowing all former or other will or wills by me made. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and fixed my seal this — day of Nov. One thousand and fifty (Error of date in copying).

JOHN DAWSON. [Seal.]

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of

SAMUEL COTTON,
WM. STEVENSON,
JAMES JOSEY.

Northampton County,
February Court, 1762.

The preceding will of Col. John Dawson, Deceased, was exhibited in open court and proved on the oath of James Josey, one of the Witnesses thereto subscribing. At the same time, Charity Dawson, the Executrix therein named, qualified lawfully to execute the same, which on motion was ordered to be certified and recorded.

Test. J. EDWARDS.
Clerk.

William Kinchen, Jr.'s, Will.

In the name of God, Amen. I, William Kinchen, Junr., of the County of Edgecombe and province of North Carolina, calling to mind the mortality of man and being at this present of sound and disposing mind & memory, do make and ordain this to be my last will and testament, hereby revoking and annulling all former Wills, &c.

Item. I give, Devise and Bequeath to my Son John Kinchen, all my land in Edgecombe County, above the Craighill's line, beginning on the River above the Plantation whereon I now live, at the said Craighill's line, Running thence by his line, &c., and also one half of my land in Northampton County, to be divided in the middle, beginning at the River and running a line through the middle so as to make both parts equal, the upper part thereof to my Son John, and also one Negro man named Sam, that is to say the upper part of my land on both sides Roanoke River (to be divided as afore said), and the said Negroe to my Son John And his Heirs forever.

Item. I give, Devise and Bequeath to my Son William Kinchen, all the residue of my land and plantation in Edgecombe County whereon I now live, and the lower half of my land in Northampton County, after my Son John's part on both sides of the River is laid off, I say to my Son William and his Heirs forever.

Item. My Will and Desire is that all the residue of my personal Estate, of what kind or nature soever it be (after my just Debts and all charges are paid), shall be equally divided amongst my Children, John, William, Martha, Elizabeth, Mary and Temperance, to them and their heirs forever, Separately. But my Will and desire further is, that there be no division made thereof untill one of my Children should arrive to the age of twenty-one years, or marrys, but the Negroes may be continued on the Lands or hired out, at the discretion of my Executors hereafter named, and the profits of their labor to be applied towards the support of the maintenance and schooling of my Children; and my further Will and desire is, that my two Sons, John and William, may be educated as my Exhrs. shall think proper, and that the expense thereof be paid out of the Profits of my estate or, otherwise as my executors shall think most proper. *

And I do hereby constitute and appoint my brothers Blake Baker and Henry Dawson, and my Son John, Executors of this my last Will and Testament. In Testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal, this sixth day of November in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and fifty eight.

W. KINCHEN, Junr. (Seal.)

The within Will was exhibited in open Court by the Exhrs., and proved by the Oaths of Peter Jones & Wm. Moore, Evidences thereto, and at the same time Blake Baker was qualified as Exhr., which on motion is ordered to be certified.

Copy of Last Will and Testament of Charity Dawson, Nee Alston.

"In the name of God, Amen. I, Charity Dawson, of the County of Northampton, in the province of North Carolina, do make and ordain this present writing my testament and last will, in manner and form following, that is to say:

First of all, it is my will and desire that all my just debts be paid and satisfied.

Secondly. I give and bequeath to my brother, Solomon Alston, one negro man slave named Harry, to him and his heirs forever."
Thirdly. I give and bequeath to my daughter, Charity Dawson, my plantation & tract of land lying on Tar River, near the falls of said river, in Edgecombe County. The said tract of land containing about five hundred (500) acres, be the same more or less, to her and her heirs and assigns forever.

Fourthly. I give and devise to my son, John Dawson, all my lands and tenements lying and being in Halifax County, in said Province of North Carolina, with five (5) plantations therein, to him and his heirs and assigns forever.

Fifthly. I give and bequeath and devise to my daughter, Charity Dawson, & my son, John Dawson, all the rest of my lands and tenements, goods and chattels, monies & other estate whatsoever, not hereinbefore mentioned, given, bequeathed or devised, to be equally divided in value between my said children, to hold the moiety or half thereof which to each of them shall be allotted to them and their heirs and assigns forever.

Sixthly. It is my will and desire that if both of my said children shall die before they become or arrive at the age of twenty-one years, and not married, that then all the personal estate herein & hereby to them given & bequeathed, should be equally divided between and among my kins folk and relations herein mentioned, that is to say, My deceased brother James Alston’s four children, to wit: John, James, Charity & Sarah and my sister, Elizabeth Williams, & my nephews Edward* Kearney, William Williams, Solomon Williams, & James Alston & William Alston, the sons of my brother Solomon Alston, and each of them to hold the part or share which to them shall be allotted, to them and their heirs and assigns forever.

Seventhly & Lastly. I do nominate and appoint my true and trusty friends, Thomas Kearney and William Williams, Executors of this my testament and last will. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal, this twenty-fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four (1764).

CHARITY DAWSON. (Seal)

Signed, sealed and published in the presence of John Jones, Mary Granbery and James Josey and Wm. Alston.

Codicil.

Lastly. I give and bequeath unto my negro, Cæsar, seven pounds, Virginia currency, yearly, & his wearing clothes. And he to continue at this plantation he now lives on."

Proven May Court, 1764, on the oath of Wm. Alston and John Jones. And Thomas Kearney and William Williams qualifies as Exrs.

It is not known certainly when JOHN DAWSON came to North Carolina. But we find in April, 1698, at Perquiman's Precinct, he proved his transportation to the Colony, and in the April Court, 1707, he makes an assignment deed to Frances Cambridge, with consent of his wife, Mary; and Dec. 11th, 1735, Barnaby Thomas, in his will refers to him as his brother-in-law. From these it seems evident that he married MARY, sister of Barnaby and Philip Thomas, who bore him children, viz.:

I. HENRY DAWSON, who represented Northampton county in the General Assembly in 1766, and died in 1770. His will mentions: Wife, Patience, and children, John Dawson, Henry Dawson, Stephen Dawson, Mary Dawson and Patty Dawson.

II. Daughter (Mary?) who married William Kinchen, Jr.* He was member of General Assembly at New Berne in December, 1754, and died 1758. Their children were, viz.: Martha, Elisabeth, Mary, Temperance, John Kinchen, and William Kinchen.

(Of these, Elisabeth married Philip Kearney (g. v.)

One daughter m. Blake Baker, and was the mother of Judge Blake Baker.

Another dau. m. — Campbell.

The remaining dau. m. — Lane.

John Kinchen was a member of the Provincial Council which first met at the court-house in Johnson county, 1775. Together with Abner Nash, in February, 1776, he was sent to Charleston to confer with the Committee of Safety for South Carolina. He was also a member of the Provincial Congress from Orange, that met at Halifax, 4th April, 1776. He died in 1793.

William Kinchen married Sarah ——.

We take the following from Caruther's History of North Carolina, p. 62 '3, etc.:

"David Fanning made a raid on Hillsboro and captured among others, Gov. Burke and William Kinchen, and took them to the prison ships at Charleston, by way of Wil-

* In Wm. & M. Quarterly, Vol. VII., No. 4, Page 268, W. Wm. Kinchen is mentioned as Vestryman in the Upper Parish, July 18th, 1724, Isle of Wight county, Va. Also Wm. Byrd, in surveying the boundary line in 1729, mentions Mr. Kinchen a worthy Magistrate in North Carolina, living in much affluence. Likewise, Wm. Kinchen was Sheriff of Northampton in 1745-8, and was in Edgecombe in 1751. The above mentioned parties were doubtless all the same individual, and the father of Wm. Kinchen, Jr., who died in 1758, besides other children.
mington. On his way home, Mr. Kinchen sickened and died. . . . After his death, Sarah his widow, married Col. James Mebane."

D After his wife's death JOHN DAWSON married CHARITY ALSTON (whose 1st child was born 1756, and who died in March, 1764, in Northampton).

In Chowan county, Sept. 25th, 1706, he purchased land on Stopping Creek. In March and August, 1732, he was a witness to sales of land in Gates county; also in 1733 he sold land in same county. In 1738 and '40 was a member of Assembly from Bertie, and in 1739 he was appointed Justice of the Peace for the county, and then Sheriff. In March, 1743, he proved rights in Northampton county (cut off from Bertie in 1741). In 1752, he and Thomas Kearney, both members of Assembly, were on a committee to examine and settle public accounts. His name continues with intervals as member of the Assembly until 1754, after which he became one of Gov. Dobbs' Council until April 22d, 1761, when it disappears from the records. His will, which had been written some years before, was proven in Court February, 1762, in Northampton county.

The children of JOHN DAWSON—CHARITY ALSTON were:

48 I. CHARITY ALSTON DAWSON, b. 1756; m. June 13th, 1770, to SAMUEL WILLIAMS, son of Col. William Williams and his wife, Elisabeth (Blount Pollock) Whitmel, and had large family, (q. v.)

II. Elisabeth Dawson, mentioned in will of father, but omitted in will of mother, March, 1764, (probably died in the interval.)

49 III. JOHN DAWSON, b. about 1759, and married ELISABETH DOROTHY ATHERTON, daughter of Col.
Jephtha Atherton and his 2d wife, Elisabeth. This John Dawson represented Northampton county in the Legislature in 1780–1782. He then removed to Halifax, and represented that county in the Legislature in 1787–1790. The following were their children:

I. John Dawson, who died in infancy.

II. Jesse Atherton Dawson = Temperance Williams Alston, (dau. of Philip Guston Alston = Mary Williams Harris). Was member of Legislature from Halifax county, 1816–1821. Issue:
   I. John Alston Dawson, who died early.
   II. Mary Dawson, of whom we have no further record.

III. John Henry Dawson, who married Harriet Jane Taylor, and had 2 daughters:
   1st. Eleanor Dawson, who married Lewis Alston Thompson, of Martin county, son of Thomas Bond Thompson = Tempie Maria Williams, (g. v.)
   2d. Jessie Atherton Dawson, who married Robert Randolph Burwell, of Granville. Issue:
      I. Walter Dawson Burwell, b. 1860.
      II. Lewis Dandridge Burwell, b. 1861.
      III. Jessie Atherton Burwell, b. 1864.
      IV. Robert Randolph Burwell, Jr., b. 1866.
AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

V. Elnora Spottswood Burwell, b. 1868.

VI. Dawson Alston Burwell, b. 1870.

VII. Tempie Williams Burwell, b. 1873.

VIII. Spottswood Burwell, b. 1875.

IX. John Henry Burwell, b. 1877.

X. William Pettigrew Burwell, b. 1880.

XI. Mary Eveline Burwell, b. 1883.

III. Sarah Dawson = Joshua Bell, and had 1 son, Jesse Atherton Bell, who died young.

IV. William Williams Dawson emigrated to Texas, s. p.

V. Alston Dawson died young.

VI. Henry Dawson = Sarah, dau. of Philip Guston Alston and sister of his brother Jesse’s wife, s. p.

VII. Charity Alston Dawson, unm.

VIII. John Dawson = Martha Green Hunter.

Daughter of Jacob Hunter = Patience Williamson.

The following account is copied from the Dawson family records, compiled by Chas. C. Dawson, of New York, and published 1874 by Joel Munsel, of Albany, N. Y. John Dawson was born in North Carolina, where he married Martha Green Hunter. They emigrated to Tennessee about 1822, where he died in Maury county, 1843. His widow is still living (1874) at Mt. Pleasant. They had 11 children:

I. John Dawson, unm.
II. Henry, unm., a physician.
III. William Leon, b. 1820 in Warren county N. C., and died 1844 in Maury county, Tenn. Married, (q. v.).
IV. Martha Green m. — Frierson, Columbia, Tenn.
V. Jesse Atherton, m. wf. unknown, Okolona, Miss.
VI. Temperance Alston m. — Barrow.
VII. Jacob Hunter m. and has family in Forest City, Ark.
VIII. Mary P. m. — Dobbins, Mt. Pleasant, Tenn.
IX. Elisabeth T. m. — Long, Mt. Pleasant, Tenn.
X. Charity Alston m. — Kittrell.
XI. Mann Dawson, unm., Mt. Pleasant, Tenn.

William Leon Dawson was educated at LaGrange College, Franklin county, Ala., and m. Jan., 1841, Ala. F. Winter, b. at Tuscumbia, Ala., 1825. They removed to Madison county, Miss., in 1843, where he engaged in business as a cotton planter. He d. in Oct., 1844, while on a visit to his parents in Maury county, Tenn. Mrs. Dawson res. (1873) at Canton, Miss. They had two sons, viz.:

I. John Dawson, b. in Maury county, Tenn., Dec., 1841. He entered the State University of Mississippi at 14, and after a year spent there went to the Jesuit College at Georgetown, D. C., where he remained a year. In Sept., 1859, he entered the Junior class at Princeton, N. J., where he was graduated in June, 1861; but left to join the Confederate army before his diploma was awarded. He entered what was called the Army of Tennessee as a private, and gradually rose in position to a captaincy, and though in many battles passed unhurt through the war, until near its close. In August, 1864, while sitting in the trenches, near Atlanta, he was struck by a fragment of shell, and received injuries which were supposed to be mortal, the lower part of his face being torn away and the chin and chest bones fractured. He, however, recovered sufficiently to return to Mississippi in 1865, and for a time he edited a country newspaper, until elected clerk of the Circuit Court. After serving one term in this office he was re-elected without an opposing vote. He was afterwards displaced to make room for an appointee of the military authority, and became associated with Oliver S. Luckett, Esq., in the practice of law. Failing health, however, constrained a cessation of all labor, and after an unavailing visit to the medicinal springs of northern Alabama he returned to Canton, where he d. in Oct., 1872, unm. He was talented and highly accomplished, brave, modest and refined in character. He d. in the faith of the Protestant Episcopal Church, to which he belonged.

II. William Leon Dawson, Jr., b. at Tuscumbia, Ala., Oct., 1842; entered the Jesuit College, at Georgetown, D. C., in 1858, and in 1860 removed to Princeton to receive private lessons and be near his brother, then a student at the University. After the commencement of the civil war he returned to Mississippi, and after the passage of the Confederate conscript law, compelling all youths of his age to enlist in the army, he chose the cavalry service, and during the siege of Vicksburg acted as the private secretary of Gen. Pemberton, for whom he entertained great affection. After the surrender of that city, and his exchange, he was attached to the brigade of Gen. Wirt Adams. In consequence of exposure during the war he contracted rheumatism, from which, after a lingering illness, he died in Yazoo county, Miss., in June, 1871, unm.

JEPHTHA ATHERTON came to North Carolina from Bermuda prior to 1735 and settled in Northampton county, where he died, 1787.

Copy of Will of Jeptha Atherton, Recorded in Will Book, 1760 to 1792, pages 2–3–4–5, and also on page 378–9, in Clerk's Office, Northampton County, N. C.
